INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Director of the Brooklyn Dodgers Baseball School

Bobby Shantz has proved that ability, not size, makes a major-league pitcher, but Bobby's ability is based on knowledge of all phases of the game. He might be described as "the complete player" because he can field his position, bat, bunt and run bases in addition to delivering the ball to the batter.

With adequate practice, every pitcher should become a good fielder. The ability to turn one possible hit into an out often means the difference between victory and defeat.

Pitchers generally detail their movements with the pitching arm pointed toward home plate. If the pitcher stays this way when the ball is hit, he will have the same footing to field his right; if he is a right-handed thrower and to his left if he is a left-handed thrower. By taking a quick step with the foot of his gloved hand, he can square around to face home plate.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How do you film the life story of a man who is scheduled to die July 30?

That is the problem facing Canadian-born producer Wallace MacDonald and his writer, Jack Dewitt, who are charged with putting on the screen the life of Caryl Chessman. They are filming the criminal's book, "Cell 2455, Death Row," which Columbia Pictures paid $15,000.

National attention has been brought to Chessman via his book, in which he details his life in crime. He has confessed to robberies charged to him, but not two others which brought him the death sentence for kidnapping. He has personally waged a long legal battle to escape the gas chamber, but now is slated to die July 30.

A committee that includes many writing people has been trying to get his sentence commuted, arguing that he is worth more to society alive than dead.

MULGRAVE, N.S., NATIVE

I talked about the film version of the story in the office of MacDonald, a stocky former actor of the silent days and native of Mulgrave, N.S. He introduced me to Dewitt, an Arkansan who has turned out 3,000 stories, including an expose of Devil's Island.

"This assignment is nothing new to me," said Dewitt. "I've witnessed seven hangings, two executions by gas, four or five electrocutions and several firing squads."

MacDonald emphasized that the film will take no sides in Chessman's fight for life.

"We will present the story in a documentary style, like a March of Time," the producer remarked. "We will be coldly objective, building no case for him or for Society."

SYMPATHIZES WITH HIM?

Ah yes, but doesn't the audience tend to sympathize with the leading player, even in a crime picture?

"Not necessarily in this case," remarked MacDonald. "Not if we tell the story as it was written in the book, and we are required to do so.

"There may be some sympathy evoked from his younger days. His family was very poor and he tells of how he was sick in bed and how his mother, who was prostrated, called to say something was wrong. The boy went in the kitchen and found his father lying on the floor with the gas on.

"The first step to steal came when he noticed other people's groceries were not the same as his family's, which came from relief. He began to steal food.

"But then he began to steal more than he needed. It became a matter of bravado with him. When others in his gang would say, 'let's steal a car', he'd say 'let's steal two cars.'"

The film makers hope to confer with Chessman on the script. The picture is a rush affair. The book was purchased only two weeks ago, and MacDonald hopes to be shooting early July. The picture may be completed before the month is over.

The ending? That may have to be written on or after July 30.

AT THE CAPITOL—"Our Big Holiday Show", Judy Holiday and Peter Lawford co-star in Columbia Pictures' "It Should Happen to You" the new comedy at the Capitol Theatre starting Thursday for its first showing, Broadway and TV star Jack Lemmon makes his film bow in the picture.

AT THE BELLE—Teresa Wright, Dana Andrews, cast as principals in a clouded romance, these two are co-starred with Myrna Loy, Frederic March and Virginia Mayo in Samuel Goldwyn's noted production "The Best Years of Our Lives." Again on the screen after several years absence, this record Academy Award winner is proving as popular as ever. The film is continuing until Thursday, at regular prices.

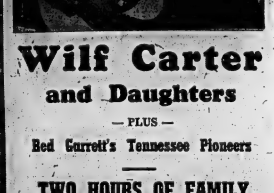
TERRORISTS KILL FOUR



TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—Four persons were killed and 46 least four seriously wounded Sunday by a quartet of terrorists who splattered the public square of the village of Djebel Abiod with gunfire when most of the inhabitants were gathered there for an election. The killers escaped on horses in the ensuing panic.

LONDON (Reuters)—Field Marshal Sir John Harding, chief of the Imperial general staff, said on returning today that the Washington five-power military talks on South-east Asia were "very valuable." The Kibitzer

Akoiap Oxpert is never satisfied. If he can see enough for a contract of four he bids five. If he can see five he goes for six. If six will make he stretches it to seven.

So it was in the deal shown here:

NORTH
♠A K 4 3 2
♥A K
♦Q 6 3
♣K 10 9
WEST	EAST
♠6	♠J 10 9 8 7 5

♣8 6 3	♣7
SOUTH
♥4 3 2
♣A Q J 5 4 2

Maybe I have forgotten some of the smaller spots. But the cards were practically as you now see them. And the bidding went like this:

South	North
1 C	2 S
3 C	4 NT
6 C	7 C

The immediate one-jump response by north guaranteed essential game in something. Specially it promised six tricks inclusive of two sure tricks and a

"I result that was at least biddable.

When south could clubs it was to show that was at least rebiddable. Having increased the last partnership number it showed one trick more than before; thus a total of six tricks.

From this north decided that clubs should be the trump. From the rest of the information he had there was evidence of 13 tricks in the pair if they could get that many in time.

However, the safety of slams will mostly depend on the number of aces and kings in the pair. Four no-trump is the aces and kings saker. Six clubs in reply show two aces and no kings.

North thus knew the opponents had one king and no aces. With a king missing, north should have been content with a small slam. But not this bird. He rammed it into grand slam. It put his partner on the spot to make it with clubs as trumps.

West led heart queen and south found a way of taking the 13 tricks. But I wonder how many others could.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars, for Tuesday, June 15, 1954.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — It may be necessary to wait matters out — and wait patiently. But keep studying. Think first, so you will not have to make those tries over again.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — You will have to double effort, watch answers and take criticisms in greenlight now. P.M. configurations are more suspicious. Wait matters out when necessary.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — This period is favorable to those who are sincere and honest but you will have to push your cause to get proper results. Discuss matters with associates, friends and loved ones, but do it calmly, tolerantly.

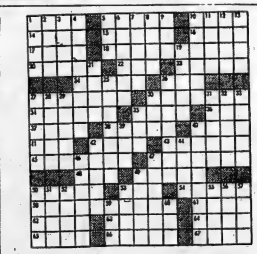
June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Opportunities look for some gains, improved objective. Study first, then act firmly. Observe with your keen, appraising eye; take advantage of modern devices — honestly of course.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — A friendly outlook. Sound judgment. Blue notes and your smiling disposition make a winning combination. You can straighten out problems admirably when you try. Check expenses; hold temper.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Approach this day with a critical eye, make headway astely by moving slowly — especially in money matters. Sentiment must be applied sensibly or you may rue your generosity. Take things in stride.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You may be questioned by friends, loved ones. Don't be hurt, but consult for your own good. You may find the key to more satisfying results by being a good listener.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — The position of Mars suggests careful calculations, economizing. We stress need for sound thinking and management if you would come "in the black". Have faith, be happy.



November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Advice to Scorpio also fits your sector today. Though you may have friendly Venus influences, nevertheless extra care and astute handling of affairs are urged. Watch trends.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Life's finer things — art, music, children's care, charity, teaching — seem to dominate now. But, then, there's no greater satisfaction than making others happy.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Encouraging rays; a generous day on the whole. Your planet is in excellent position to assist your best endeavors today. Stimulating for professional matters. Be on the job.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Self-restraint, obedience to the golden rule will bring great advantages for the future. Wait for the right time to move, then do it with confidence.

YOU BORN TODAY: have a keen, active mind but may be too hasty at times. You are highly successful if you keep learning, and cultivate your BEST assets DAILY. You often have glowing ideas, but don't always follow them through for successful conclusion. Alert in emergencies, and usually friendly, you can also be moody, indifferent. You are intellectual. Don't try too many endeavors at one time, and don't be too hasty in answering or judging others. You could be a capable partner, employe, or leader, if living on the higher plane. Birthdate of: Edward, the Black Prince, of Wales; Ernestine Schumann-Heink, opera singer.

Reid's Regents Edge Flyers In Close Tilt

Bryson Reid's Regents got off to a good start in the opening game of the Bay of Quinte Baseball League played at the Airport last evening when they came up with a close 5-2 win over the RCAF team.

Ted Stephens supplied the batting power for the win with an eighth inning single that plated Gerry Stephens and the winning run. It was also Stephens who, in the 3rd

Plan to Provide Death Benefits is Approved

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons Monday approved a plan to provide death benefits of a maximum of $5,000 for the civil service and the armed forces.

Legislation implementing this scheme was passed after the Progressive Conservative party first tried to eliminate compulsory features and then to kill the bill in its present form.

Both proposals were made by J. M. Macdonnell, Toronto Greenwood, on the ground that not enough time was given for consultation among those who will come under the plan and that many of the 230,000 civil servants, especially women and single men, objected to universal coverage.

SEVERAL VOTES

The attempt to give the bill a six months' health effect killing the measure — was defeated by a formal vote of 154 to 32, with two Quebec independents, Raoul Poulin, Beauce, and Fernand Gerard, Laval, supporting the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties. The division on third reading, asked by Finance Minister Abbott, resulted in a similar vote of 114 to 32.

During clause-by-clause study the Commons defeated by a standing vote of 64 to 20 an attempt to strike out the compulsory features.

The CCF party supported the Liberals on all votes.

Under the legislation, civil servants will contribute 40 cents a month per $1,000 of yearly salary to provide their estate with a year's salary, up to $5,000, as their death benefit. The maximum benefit for members of the armed forces will be $2,000.

CONTRIBUTIONS

The government will contribute two months' salary on death, the same as at present. For each year between 20 and 70, the maximum benefit will be reduced by 10 per cent, so that no benefit will be paid in the event of death after 70.

Mr. Abbott said the legislation will come into effect by proclamation as soon as possible. It now goes to the Senate for consideration.

Mr. Macdonnell said civil servants and the 112,000 members of the armed forces are being drafted into an insurance plan many of them do not want.

MUST BE COMPULSORY

Mr. Abbott said that after study with government insurance experts the conclusion was that no plan could be operated as cheaply if it was on an elective basis. It must be compulsory to be workable.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC—Esquimalt-Saanich), who questioned the way members of the armed forces were canvassed for approval of the plan, said it has the effect of forcing soldiers into an unwilling bet on the chances of dying.

W. J. Henderson (L—Kingston) said he discussed the legislation with civil servants last week-end and "received nothing but compliments."

CHARGE WITHDRAWN

TORONTO (CP)—A manslaughter charge against James Checkett, 36, has been withdrawn at the request of the Crown. Checkett was charged June 14 following the death of Ivan Markell, 60, who police said was found dead following a drinking party. An autopsy showed Markell died from natural causes.

ODDFELLOWS MEET

TORONTO (CP) — About 1,200 delegates from all parts of Ontario are expected at joint sessions of the centennial meeting, Independent Order of Oddfellows and the annual meeting of the Rebekah lodge, which begin here today.

Wellington on the Lake

THE LURE OF THE ROAD

Oh! the dear delights of a drive in June
Away o'er the countryside,
When heart with nature is all attune
And care for the time defied;
Oh! swiftly move the meeting miles
As each rural charm we greet,
And the heart is lured from its cares awhile
By the sights and sounds we meet.

The growing grain in the fields of green,
The clover, both white and red,
The wilding rose by the wayside seen
Move by as the miles are sped;
When June throws a glamor o'er hill and dale
And the lure of the road is strong,
Then speed away for a holiday
Ere June and its joys are gone.

— Helen B. Anderson

WELLINGTON — With the arrival of bright, sunny days after a long delay we can agree with the poet who wrote:

"What so rare as a day in June
Then if ever come perfect days."

And although the tulips are fading, we have the golden iris and the scarlet poppies to cheer us. The bright splash of scarlet poppies by the porch is very beautiful.

Mr. John Mowat and his mother attended the graduation of nurses in Hamilton when Miss Barbara Mowat was among the successful graduates.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ferguson of Grafton, spent a few days the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carley.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Yourt and David were week-end guests of friends near Bannister.

We regret to report the illness of Mrs. L. K. Leavens but are pleased to hear that her condition is improving. Mr. and Mrs. W. Henzey, Trenton, called on Mrs. Leavens last week and Mrs. W. V. Zufelt, Consecon, has visited Mrs. Leavens frequently.

Mrs. Thompson, of Port Hope (nee Roberta Cunningham) came down to Wellington on Tuesday for the celebration of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morton.

The members of the Masonic lodge held their parade followed by service in the United Church a week ago with Rev. A. Poulter in charge. Mr. Frank Brimley, Jr., Worshipful Master A.F. and A.M., conducted the responsive Psalm service and read the Scripture lesson. A full choir assisted and a male quartet gave an inspiring number.

Miss Marjorie Blakely, Miss Bessie Webster and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater motored to Belleville on Tuesday evening and enjoyed Shakespeare's play, Julius Caesar at the Capitol Theatre.

A pleasant time was spent when the C.G.I.T. members entertained several of the local W.M.S. in the Wellington school auditorium. Delicious refreshments were served by the young hostesses after which a program was presented with Mrs. Sarles leader, and Miss Marvin pianist; several of the girls taking part, assisted by Mrs. Arnold Vandewater. Following the program views were shown by Mrs. Gerald Stonburg of scenes in Florida and California. Thanks to the girls for the pictures for an interesting evening.

Mr. Will Huycke left last Monday for his home in Chatham after spending some time with friends and relatives in his native county.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mouck and family, of Tweed, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Morton.

The Misses Gillespie, Picton, called on Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater, Wednesday afternoon.

The June meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lewis, Lake Shore, with the president, Mrs. G. Stone in charge and Mrs. P. Jones, Picton, guest speaker.

Mrs. Ella Cook Murphy and Miss Martha Stewart spent several days holidaying in a cottage near Cobourg.

Police Called To Eject Hecklers Over Controls

TORONTO (CP) — Police were called Monday to eject hecklers from the public gallery of the Toronto city council chamber during a hot debate on rent controls.

About 40 persons had assembled to hear debate on a motion from controller Ford Hamilton to extend rent control from the present expiry date, Sept. 2, to May, 1955. They were ejected from the room before the vote, which defeated Mr. Brand's motion.

Mayor Allan Lamport asked police to remove spectators from the chamber after an outbreak of handclapping, feet-stomping and cheering that followed a plea by alderman Philip Givens to face up to the rent control issue.

Ben Nobleman, vice-president of the Tenant Ratepayers' Association, shouted from the gallery that Mayor Lamport was a "tinhorn dictator" denying spectators the right to follow a debate on extension of rent controls.

Mayor Lamport said later that police had forewarned him a group would attempt to disturb the meeting.

"There's no doubt that it was all incited," he said.

DUKE TO VISIT HQ

PARIS (Reuter)—The Duke of Edinburgh will spend two days visiting Allied supreme headquarters here during a visit June 21-24.

Every Effort Will Be Made Says Lamport

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Allan Lamport Monday assured city council that the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves will make every effort to bring about a federal-provincial conference on unemployment.

The mayor was replying to alderman Ross Lipsett who asked whether statements by Prime Minister St. Laurent against such a conference would be the end of the matter.

Mayor Lamport said no official reply has been received from the prime minister to requests for an unemployment conference and it might be that the association would "have to ask the province to request a conference."

CLIFF TAKES OVER

IN KOREA (CP)—Brig. Frederick A. Cliff, 46, of Melfort, Sask., has officially taken over as commander of Canada's 25th Infantry Brigade. He succeeds Brig. Jean Victor Allard of Montreal, who leaves here today for Japan en route to Canada.

MAN IS DROWNED

WELLAND (CP) — Omar McCreedy, 33, of nearby Fenwick, was drowned Monday when a boat upset in the Welland river about 19 miles from here. A companion, Fred Nickerson, 22, also of Fenwick, was rescued.

Judges' Salaries Due for Raise Says St. Laurent

OTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent indicated Monday night that the government will introduce a bill to increase judges' salaries. He said in the Commons he will give notice today of a resolution preliminary to introduction of amendments to the Judges' Act. A resolution always precedes a government bill to spend money.

Mr. St. Laurent did not say specifically that the amendments will provide increases in salaries for judges. He said Finance Minister Abbott also is preparing a statement concerning amendments to the Municipal Grants Act.

INCREASES EXPECTED

It is generally expected that the judges increases may run as high as 25 per cent.

Judges' salaries were increased by 33 1-3 per cent in 1946 and again in 1951. The salary of the chief justice of Canada now is expected to be increased to $31,250 from $25,000. The salaries of the eight other justices are expected to be boosted to $28,500 from $20,000.

Other salary increases anticipated:

Chief justice of provincial Supreme Courts, also called Superior Courts or Courts of Queen's Bench, to $20,000 from $16,000; puisne judges of provincial courts to $18,000 from $14,000; county and district court judges to $10,000 from $8,000.

Aerial view of first stage of aluminum smelter now nearing completion at Kitimat, B.C.

AGAIN the Royal heads north to new industrial frontiers

For over two years the Royal Bank has provided on-the-spot service for the men tunnelling and bulldozing, building dams and transmission lines for the gigantic "Alcan" project on B.C.'s rugged coast. At Kemano, 400 miles north of Vancouver, and at work sites back of the coastal mountain range, the Royal Bank has had its branches almost from the beginning.

Now, as the smelter and port are readied for operation, and the new "Aluminum City" of Kitimat emerges from the wilderness, the Royal Bank's Kitimat branch opens for business. So another page turns in the story of Canada's northward expansion, and in the pioneering record of The Royal Bank of Canada.

Elsewhere, too, the Royal has moved forward to new frontiers. Already two branches are operating in Alberta's important new Peace River oil field. And at Port Radium, on the fringe of the Arctic Circle, we maintain the "farthest north" branch bank in Canada.

United Asian Front Is Likely Result Of Coming Talks

Visit of Churchill Break In Favor of U.S. Policy

By FRAZER WIGHTON.

LONDON (Reuters) — Sir Winston Churchill today called in British military chiefs of staff and civilian heads of the three services for discussions of preliminary plans for his Washington meetings with President Eisenhower next week.

There is considerable speculation here over the principal purpose of the prime minister's trip to Washington. Foreign Secretary Eden and State Secretary Dulles will also participate in the meeting, designed mainly to hammer out a common Western policy following the failure of the Geneva conference.

Churchill's session with his military advisers gives weight to the belief that the prospects of Southeast Asian security will rank at the top of the agenda. Political circles are also rife that the prime minister will once again raise his proposal of a Big Three meeting with Russia's Premier Malenkov—and get a cold shoulder from the Americans.

HARDING LIKELY AIDE

Churchill and Eden will fly from London Thursday of next week and are expected to spend the week-end in Washington. It is expected that Field Marshal Sir John Harding, chief of the Imperial General Staff, will be with them.

Harding led Britain's delegation to last week's three-power military staff talks in Washington. Following his return he briefed a full cabinet meeting on the talks, which drew up a military assessment of the Southeast Asian situation.

Earl Alexander, minister of defence, declared in a soon meeting of Britain's Press Association today that "we owe it to our Asian friends no less than to ourselves to do all we can to bring about any means acceptable to them all, to maintain the integrity of Southeast Asia."

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eisenhower-Churchill talks scheduled to open here late next week seem likely to result in positive steps to form a united front against Communist advances in Southeast Asia.

Final decision of Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden to come here is regarded by United States officials as a decided break in favor of American efforts to get a Southeast Asia security pact as soon as possible.

President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles, officials said today, will urge the British leaders to agree to prompt consultation with about eight other powers having interests in the area.

That may mean the calling of a southeast security conference, whether it might lead also to eventual American intervention side by side with Western countries in the Indo-China war is not yet known.

PLAY DOWN MEET

The No. 2 item due to be examined is the organization of European defences in the light of the fact that the proposed European Defence Community is dead, primarily by French reluctance to ratify the West German pact.

What other problems will arise in the White House meetings of Eisenhower, Churchill, Eden and Dulles is not yet clear. Undoubtedly the Communist menace will be paid to improving British-American relations, which is the subject best discussed in connection with such specific problems as differing policies toward Red China.

The tendency here now is to play down the importance of the meeting.

One reason is that neither American nor British leaders wish to give other free governments the impression that Churchill and Eisenhower are going to make decisions which affect their interests.

That the talks will get the Southeast Asian situation the next effects of dead centre, however, seems beyond question at this time. Britain has been one of the keys to progress almost from the moment that Indo-China fighting broke out. A united action should be taken to stop the Communist tide.

The British government then decided to stake its interest on negotiations with Russia and Communist China at the Geneva conference. It is hope that the war in Indo-China could thereby be quickly stopped.

Appeal Dismissed

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Court of Appeal today dismissed the appeal of Roy Thibideau, 37, formerly of Brussels and Listowel, convicted last January of manslaughter in the knife-slaying of Constance Ann Lavigne, 19 last autumn.

Mr. Justice R. I. Ferguson of the Ontario Supreme Court sentenced Thibideau, originally charged with murder, to 12 years. The jury which found him guilty of manslaughter had recommended mercy.

The appeal was based on an alleged misdirection by the presiding judge in his charge to the jury.

Plenty of Gas To Feed Line From Alberta

OTTAWA (CP)—The board of transport commissioners was told Tuesday there is plenty of 800,000 gas to feed a proposed 2,000-mile natural gas pipeline to the East and that the line is a feasible engineering project. It also heard evidence that construction is expected to start early next year and to be completed to Montreal by late 1956.

The testimony came as the board opened hearings on an application by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., for permission to build the big pipe, one of the largest projects in Canadian history. The 2,300-mile line would run from border gas pipe in the world.

Dr. John Davis, associate director of economics in the federal trade department, told the board that over a period of years the income from the Minnesota market would result in appreciably lowering the cost of gas in eastern Canada.

He said the Canadian market will not be large enough to absorb all Alberta's available production. The country would have—maybe had now—a substantial exportable surplus.

In Poor Health

MAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The body of Mrs. Genevieve Amelia Wright, 63, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., was found Tuesday at the bottom of a period of rails. Husband, Joseph Ralph Wright, said the mother of three had been in poor health.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Easterly winds, brought a wedge of cool air from the Ottawa Valley westward ever most of southern Ontario Tuesday. The boundary between this wedge and the continuing warm humid weather in southern counties lies across southwestern Ontario, and little motion is forecast for this front today and Wednesday.

WHEAT HANDLING BY GOVERNMENT IS CRITICIZED

Minister Asked to Set Initial Price for Crop

OTTAWA (CP)—The three opposition parties in the Commons joined Tuesday in criticizing the government's method of handling Canada's wheat surplus.

Motions of non-confidence were proposed by the Progressive Conservative and CCF parties. Both demanded that Trade Minister Howe announce immediately the initial price the farmer here is to be given next crop year starting Aug. 1.

However, as the debate continued at length through the afternoon and evening sittings, Mr. Howe made no decision.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner participated in the debate, expressing confidence in Mr. Howe's policies, but made no direct reference to the Tuesday motions.

The PC non-confidence motion by Douglas Harkness, Calgary South, asked consideration to the regret that the government "failed to give early effect to the problem of marketing Canada's surplus wheat."

MOVES AMENDMENT

E. D. McCullough (CCF—Moose Mountain) moved an amendment censuring the government support wheat at least at $1.82½ a bushel basis 1 Northern, the same price before the wheat board cut by 10½ cents a bushel a week ago.

The PC's indicated they will not support the CCF proposal.

Donald Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) said that in addition to current stocks of 675,000,000 bushels now even a small crop of 325,000,000 bushels this year it would mean a cost of $100,000,000. If the price was larger and market prices fell further, then the cost would be considerably larger.

"No one could tell where it would lead," he added.

CUTS WORKERS

Mr. Harkness, a teacher and farmer, said last week's price drop of 10 cents means income by about $250,000,000, reducing many city workers' buying power. Trades and

He said Mr. Howe follows an "ostrich" policy on wheat, shutting his eyes and trying to get other Canadians to shut their eyes to the current situation. Farm income dropping steadily while Canadian surpluses increase.

Mr. McCullough said Saskatchewan farmers are still prosperous but that the province which elected Mr. Howe and Mr. Gardiner "cannot afford their economy to decline." It is going to affect every last home in Canada.

Mr. Gardiner replied that the CCF must be paying every night for their promises to the depression. They certainly talked that way.

He indicated farmers could not have high support prices without control of output. He said 1,000 certain farmers in Saskatchewan were "not even trying to get rid of weeds."

Walter Tucker (L — Rosthern) said the CCF is trying to promote strife in the country because that was popular. The CCF floor-price proposition was impossible to implement at this time and the CCF knew it.

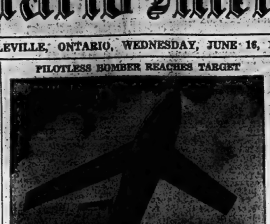
Arthur Quelch (SC—Acadia) said the government should be prepared to pay storage on the huge quantities of wheat and to support wheat at not less than the minimum agreed to in the International Wheat Agreement—$1.55 a bushel for No. 1 Northern.

H-Bomb Inventor Would Feel Safer If Oppenheimer Did Not Know Much

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man credited by many scientists with unlocking the door to the hydrogen bomb says he would feel safer if Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer did not hold custody of vital atomic secrets.

The scientist is Dr. Edward Teller, 46-year-old physicist at California professor, said by Oppenheimer himself to have been the "principal antagonist" in the 1949 H-bomb.

But even as Dr. Teller expressed some reservations about Oppenheimer's loyalty, he joined with many of the key men who worked shoulder-to-shoulder with him in top-secret projects rallied to Oppenheimer's defence, calling him a man of complete loyalty, integrity and devotion to his country.



On the other side of the picture, William L. Borden, former executive secretary of the congressional atomic committee, described Oppenheimer as "more probably than not an agent of the Soviet Union."

Teller gave his opinion of Oppenheimer as loyal, but said "I would like to see the vital interests of the country in which I understand better, and therefore trust more."

All this conflicting testimony was given in connection with the momentous, tortuous development of the H-bomb — was disclosed Tuesday in the 992-page text of the transcript of hearings before a three-man AEC board of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The board ruled on May 27 that Oppenheimer was a loyal American and a discreet one. But, in a 2-to-1 split, it found him a security risk — not entitled any more to access to the atomic information he helped store up for 10 years.

Oppenheimer has appealed to the full AEC to overturn the finding. The commission promised a decision this month.

PILOTLESS BOMBER REACHES TARGET

The U.S. air force's B-61 Matador takes off with a blast of flames, smoke, and dust from the "world's smallest-airport," a mobile launcher, over the Atlantic. The turbo-jet craft had hit a secret target at supersonic speed. The pilotless bomber, which is 39.5 feet long with a wingspread of 28.6 feet is now in service with NATO forces in Europe. Complete Reorganization Of Highways Dept. Announced

TORONTO (CP)—A complete reorganization of the provincial highways department, involving a breakdown of administration into five divisions and the resignation of contract engineer W. A. MacLachlan, has been announced by the Ontario government.

The reorganization moved several officials into higher positions and resulted in general salary increases which will be approved by the civil service commission. Only departmental personnel were involved; no new employees were taken on.

The revamping, already effective, was announced by deputy minister M. E. Bradley at a meeting of the legislature's highways committee before it left Tuesday night for a board of trade dinner and northwestern Ontario. It generally follows the recommendations in a report by J. D. Woods and Gordon Canada management consultants appointed last January to make a study of the department after irregularities were discovered.

Administration of the department will be headed by Mr. Elson and chief engineer W. A. Clarke.

New section chiefs are W. J. Fulton, director of planning; C. A. Robbins, services manager; J. L. Zoller, financial controller; and J. P. Hickie, registrar of motor vehicles. A director of personnel will be appointed later from outside the department.

Other appointments announced included those of J. Waller, construction engineer; H. N. Lamont, bridge engineer; C. Tuckaberry, maintenance engineer; and J. V. Lodgate, municipal engineer.

Eighteen division engineers will be in charge of the King's highways sections and 19 municipal engineers will head the department's municipal affairs.

Appointments of six new division engineers were announced. They are Ross Perrier, Hamilton; E. A. Cash, Fort William; B. R. Heavy-

Transportation Study Class Sees Freight Train Upset

TORONTO (CP) — A group of 73 school children watched fascinated from a railway station platform today as a 97-car Canadian Pacific Railway freight train left the rails before their eyes and seven cars overturned along the right of way.

No one was hurt but the wreck occurred at least 50 yards from the Islington station platform in West Toronto where the children were waiting to board a passenger train.

The children were from Queensway Junior High and had come from eight to 19 years. They were students in a social studies class going on a trip to study "methods of transportation."

The derailment tied up rail traffic at the station as the freight, bound from the city to Hamilton, left the rails. Seven of the cars overturned and spilled their contents along the roadbed. Some narrowly missed piling into a lumber yard where six men were working.

The wreck occurred a few minutes before the arrival of the Toronto-Detroit CPR passenger flier. The passenger train engineer spotted the accident and came to a halt outside the station.

An unidentified motorist, waiting at the Islington crossing, got out of the way in time, backing up his car as the freight cars bumped from the tracks and spilled their contents of coal, lime and mixed goods.

Railway officials said it was sheer luck the wreck did not occur while the train was at the platform. Many of the children might have been killed "buried under the overturned freight cars.

Wrecking equipment was sent to clear the line. Meanwhile traffic was being rerouted.

McCarthy Admits Signing Schine's Application Form

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy conceded on the senate floor today that he helped army hearings today that he had signed G. David Schine's application for an army commission despite his previous testimony he "never saw it" and knew nothing about it.

Joseph N. Welch, special army counsel, produced surprise photos of the application for Schine, a former McCarthy consultant and central figure in the exchange of "pressure" and "blackmail" charges between Secretary of the Army Stevens and the Wisconsin Republican.

Welch referred to sworn testimony by McCarthy on June 10 that he knew nothing about Schine's application for a commission, which the army turned down. Schine subsequently was drafted as a private.

NOT "DEVASTATING"

Welch said that he didn't think the conflict in McCarthy's statements was "a devastating thing" but that he believed it ought to be brought out.

"May I still say I don't know anything about it," McCarthy said.

Then examining the paper, he added, "I want to make it clear that it was notarized by Bob Stevens."

Stevens has accused McCarthy and Roy M. Cohn, chief counsel of the investigations sub-committee while exerting tremendous pressure in efforts to get favored army treatment for Schine.

CHURCHILL WAS DUMB, PARALYZED JUST A YEAR AGO

Now Revealed Stroke Postponed Conference

By JACK SMITH

LONDON (AP)—A great story of personal bravery lies behind Sir Winston Churchill's decision to go to Washington.

It is a story of an old man's fight against the advances of time—against a stroke that temporarily paralyzed part of his body, left him without the power of speech, and caused his wife and doctors to despair.

A friend of Churchill told this correspondent about it Tuesday a few hours before it was announced the 79-year-old prime minister is flying to Washington next week for talks with President Eisenhower.

Just a year ago the foreign office announced the postponement of the Bermuda conference planned by Churchill, Eisenhower and French Premier Joseph Laniel. The explanation: Churchill was tired and his doctors had ordered him to rest.

SUFFERED STROKE

Churchill's intimates saw him a day or two later. He says the fact was that the old war leader had suffered a stroke.

And, he says, it was Churchill's second.

The story as related by a man who for many years has been one intimate with the prime minister's friends:

Some days after the attack Churchill was being trundled about in a wheel chair on the lawns at his country home, Chartwell, 25 miles southeast of London.

Eden came to call. One side of his face was paralyzed. He looked pale and sad. Only his eyes showed the sparks of his inner energy.

BEGGED TO RETIRE

His wife, Clementine, was begging him to retire and conserve his failing strength so they could have "a year or two together."

The doctor, Lord Moran, was impressing him urgently to step down.

Lord Moran described it as a relatively mild stroke. But he told Churchill's friend that a man of his years and state of health did not regain the power of speech or the use of his limbed muscles after an attack of that kind.

The picture was thus made it known that he wanted work. State papers were sent to him. Officials called.

Slowly, his speech returned and that left arm and leg came back to life.

His friends said he got well because of his basically powerful constitution. His lust for activity and his great desire to lead the nation and the Conservative party and to play out his role in world affairs.

Expect to Suspend Indo-China Talks But Not End Them

Korean Parley Terminated As Agreement Is Impossible

By EDDY GILMORE

GENEVA (AP)—Western diplomats made plans today for a standby group to remain in Geneva during the expected suspension of the Indo-China peace talks.

An authoritative source said some sort of a wheel in the nine-power parley probably will be agreed on, but there is no thought now of a complete break-off of the talks.

France is reported opposed to any outright adjournment of the negotiations with the Communist delegations.

But just a year ago the foreign office announced the postponement of the Bermuda conference planned by Churchill, Eisenhower and French Premier Joseph Laniel. The explanation: Churchill was tired and his doctors had ordered him to rest.

STAND BY FRANCE

The United States and Britain are determined to make sure that France should not be deserted. They also feel the military talks here between the French premier Premier Mendes and the French must succeed.

Foreign Minister Bidault flew back from Paris today to discuss the situation with foreign secretary Eden and state undersecretary Walter Bedell Smith at dinner tonight.

Bidault and Eden also saw Jean Chauvel, French ambassador to Switzerland, on the situation this morning. Chauvel was to depart today with Communist China's premier-foreign minister, Chou En-lai.

COULD RE-OPEN TALKS

One plan reported being considered by the West would have each of the nine delegations leave in Geneva responsible—but not top level—representatives to serve as a stand-by group. This would permit quick resumption of the full conference should developments warrant it.

A high Western source said the Korean phase of the peace talks have made little progress so far on their task of defining certain issues. He said, however, that they have exchanged maps giving their main ideas of where the armies or forces should be assembled.

This source said that in the initial exchange both sides "claimed everything." He is not sure that this is not usual in the first stages of bargaining, but that in the case of Korea and Indo-China might be the deciding factor.

CONSIDER PROPOSAL

The Indo-China phase appears as hopelessly deadlocked as the Korean phase of the Geneva talks. It ended Tuesday night after seven fruitless weeks.

The foreign Indo-China conference was scheduled to meet in closed session this morning to consider a final try for agreement on getting Vietminh forces out of the states of Laos and Cambodia.

Britain's Foreign Secretary Eden had delegated Harold Caccia to sit in the talks should he suggested unless the Communists show a drastic change in their position.

Eden asked the other delegates to meet this morning in case he is ready to talk about it this afternoon.

The Communist delegates were expected to oppose the end of the conference. They have been tried to block adjournment of the Korean discussions Tuesday.

Fingerprints Tally With Man Held In Texas Wanted for Montreal Murder

MONTREAL (CP) — Telephoned fingerprint classifications of 32-year-old salesman in Austin, Texas, tally with those of Patrick Gerald McKuhen, wanted here on a murder charge, police said today.

The salesman, who gave his name as Patrick Ramsey, was picked up Tuesday by Austin police following a telephone call from detective squad. Officers here said full description has been sent to Austin.

McKuhen is wanted for the shotgun slaying of Montreal restaurateur and big-game hunter Bert J. McAbbie, who died Jan. 21, 1953, after being shot in his car and robbery in an apartment adjoining his restaurant. Three men and a woman have been charged with the murder. McKuhen is the only remaining suspect.

Austin police said Ramsey has been under police surveillance since arriving here in April, 1953. A German war-bride divorcee, identified as Ramsey's wife, was taken into custody with him.

Montreal police said they received the tip on Ramsey from a Toronto police detective.

In custody here for the murder are Jonathan Dawn, 32, a former private detective who was arrested in Salinas, Calif., Feb. 21; Roy Collipan, 40; Leo Sergant, 32; and Sergant's beautiful red-haired wife, Georgette, 25, described by police as a former sweetheart of McKuhen's.

Arthur Meighen, 80 Years Old, Still Active

TORONTO (CP)—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, twice prime minister of Canada and one of the country's most controversial figures during his long public career, today celebrates his 80th birthday, content to be a spectator of a scene in which he played a leading role.

Canada's only living former prime minister, Mr. Meighen, now chairman of the board of Canadian General Securities, says he has had his share of controversy.

Although subject to dizzy spells which started about a year ago, mentally he is almost as keen as in the days when he held the floor of the Commons without notes even when the subject was complex or riddled with statistics.

INTERESTS NOW

His interests are now his family, business affairs and golf.

There were few quiet moments during his 22 sessions in the House of Commons and he aroused many spirited debates through 13 years in the Senate, but now Mr. Meighen, "in all those years I was never once called to order."

He says he sees nothing on the Canadian economic scene to cause him to modify his long-held conviction that "the welfare state is the first stepping stone to socialism, a veritable jet engine of inflation, and won't work in a democracy."

Peterborough Child Is Fatally Injured

Council Appoints Members To Community Centre Body; Lengthy Industrial Discussion

TRENTON (Special)—The Mayor and council last night named a committee headed by councillor Harry MacDonald to represent the town on a Community Centre Committee sponsoring a drive for a building to house an artificial ice surface and an auditorium.

One of the instigators of the idea, Lyle Carr, President of the Trenton Retail Merchants, in presenting the idea said, "I think the thing has come when we should do something about a community centre. He noted that a group had been formed in Trenton have them. Jack Goldberg, President of the Chamber of Commerce group has the support of council.

Approved by the Chamber of Commerce, a move to place five experimental parking meters on the principal places in town was given the green light by council. It was suggested attaching the metal boxes to light standards for collecting refuge that Chamber of Commerce president, Don MacPherson, showing council the proposed container, explained that the main purpose of the containers might prompt merchants to have their cars out in front of their place of business at a cost of $10. Council approved the suggestion and recommended the Chamber of Commerce get permission from the Public Utilities to use downtown light standards.

WELCOMED SUGGESTION

Mayor Ross Burtt, representing the town in the case of Jack Zigman testing the Police Act, in which he was ordered council that Mr. Zigman had agreed not to operate a taxi cab in view of the proprietor of the hall formerly the headquarters of the Trenton Athletic Club. In a later communication Mr. Ward suggested that the licensing public dance halls be rescinded and a new one issued to the municipal police. Council welcomed Mr. Ward's suggestion.

Cecil Ellis, a member of the Trenton Fire Department, has a chance to acquire some out-of-town property and moving out of town would be to his advantage. He asked council for permission to go ahead with his plan. He figured he should have three years spent as a town employee. Council gave fireman Ellis permission to live outside the municipality but reminded him that they had no jurisdiction over the attitude he next year's council.

H. A. Young, Deputy to the Minister of Public Works, advised council that the department would not permit building the entrance to the dock area via Dundas Street at the western approach to the bridge. The letter explained the many hazards that would be involved if the laneway was again made a public thoroughfare. Council resigned to the decision of the Deputy Ministry's communication.

Council will adopt a new theme song. The name of it is: "Oh You Ali Cohen." The Chamber of Commerce criticized council for not inviting a representative to the prosperity Industrial Dinner here on Friday night, a number of new dwellings were made to the guest list.

Councillor Weaver came up with a suggestion to invite representatives from four service clubs. Mayor Burtt objected to this. Weaver claiming there were five service clubs and the Legion had not been mentioned. It was agreed upon to invite a Legion member.

Chamber of Commerce president, Jack Goldberg, pointed out to council that the reason he asked if a businessman's representative had been invited hinged on the fact, that in other communities the Chamber of Commerce takes a lead in industrial expansion. He said he felt council had been amiss in overlooking the chamber. "I feel if anything happens in that banquet you should know about it," he asserted. He maintained that the chamber represented the businessmen of the town and they should be included. Councillor Weaver the originator of the Industrial Dinner idea replied: "It made no difference to me if council wants to enlarge this thing." Councillor Bud Bowerman replied: "Are you going to have enough room at the hotel."

In the first place 17 people were invited, including ex-mayor C. Bruce Hubbs, and the town's industrial commissioner. Since then the committee has been having 16 names on the guest list. Councillor Claude Graham proposed throwing the dinner wide open to everyone.

Council approved payment of $1,150 to G. A. Lister, Toronto, appraising recommended settlement adjustments in cases that were settled by the town in May. His total bill amounted to $1,350 for the services he rendered the town and special counsel Alan Sprague, of Belleville, representing Trenton against the appellants.

Council agreed Mr. Rathbun of the Rathbun Steel Company, be requested to advise his drivers not to stop beside the fire hydrants on King Street as his busses letting off customers at that point created a traffic problem.

Mayor Ross Burtt suggested an Industrial Commission be appointed. He was concerned in the fact of a visit of government official to discuss industry, when town had no official Industrial representatives. He proposed councillors Robert Smithrim, James MacDonald and Gerald Weaver.

JOB GETTING INDUSTRIES

"It's not quite a matter of these industries", Mayor Burtt admitted. "Somebody has to learn. You are the young men." He remarked indicating that they would have powers to add other commissioners.

Councillor Smithrim wondered if it was necessary to designate a special industrial site. He thought Town Clerk O. Larry had more contacts than any of the people proposed for the Industrial Committee. He believes that Senator Fraser and Ken. J. Couch through not officially acting as Industrial Commissioners, have done a good job. Mayor Burtt noted that council has gone six months without anything to report to the Industrial Commissioner.

Councillor Weaver's opinion was that Senator Fraser and Mr. Couch had done a lot to bring industry to Trenton but they do not know what is going on. "I think it is up to us to have a commission of our own", he declared.

Councillor Claude Graham insisted that council should appoint Senator Fraser and Ken. J. Couch. "If you form a committee it's going to want to come up with them." he warned. He insisted he would vote against any motion to them while they were still working on locating new industry in Trenton. Mr. Weaver suggested putting Industrial matters into Clerk Larry's hands. Mr. Weaver felt that even with all the help from Senator Fraser and Mr. Couch there may be some approved procedure for enticing industry to situate in Trenton.

A point about Clerk Larry receiving three industrial inquiries referred to a secret meeting between Mr. Larry and Councillor Weaver. Mr. Larry, in fact, had no inquiries but was in communication with several people proposing industry should be transacted in utmost confidence. He told the executive (council) and the town clerk) could not keep secrets as necessary during the negotiating period.

TURN INQUIRIES OVER

Mr. Weaver declared that all councillors should be acquainted with the communications. Mayor Burtt replied that he was desirous to shoulder the responsibility because of the work and problems he had been placed in through the riff between council and former industrial commissioners. "Will you work with me?" asked Mayor Burtt. Certainly," answered Mr. Larry. "I am the clerk." Hereafter all inquiries will turn over the Industrial inquiries to Mayor Burtt who is at liberty to seek assistance from his council.

Councillor Weaver appreciated the beautified waterfront but thinks a lot more of it could be beautified. He would like to see a scenic drive starting from Wragge Street down to the Corporation Mill along the waterfront to Bayshore Park. He'd like to know how much such a driveway would cost and if the figure was not too high would recommend starting it. His recommendation is to have the road terminate on Sidney St. to Dundas St. East on the east side of the river and surveyed was approved. He wants to find out where the land is and if in the ownership of these lands.

Council decided to consult lawyer Alan Sprague regarding the appeals against assessment cuts by Gordon W. G. Fraser and O. G. "Buster" Alyea. Mayor Burtt wonders if the four ratepayers appellants themself, were approved Mr. Sprague's proposal of settling appeals are under any obligation.

Members Feel No Change Should Be Made in Age

The local apprenticeship committee for Hastings and Prince Edward dealing with the motor vehicle repair trade in a meeting held last night decided by a unanimous vote that no change in the present regulations setting the maximum age for apprentices at 21 years.

At a meeting held last night committee members discussed the proposed change in the maximum age for motor vehicle repair trade apprentices to 23 years instead of the present 21 and unanimously opposed a resolution proposing the change. The provincial garage operators association had approached the Department of Labor on the matter.

Members recommended that the present maximum age limit of 21 years be retained, noting that up to and including the present time garages in the district had been amply supplied with apprentice mechanics from the technical department at the Belleville Collegiate.

Chairman, the local committee is Ardel Wilson, assisted by C. M. Mercus, district inspector for the Department of Labor.

Committee members voting for retaining the present age limit for apprentices included Clare Boyle of Trenton, A. Grindrod of Picton, Thomas Hopkins, Foxboro; Robt. Wood, Tweed; Norman Manlis, Milton Burtt and Don Brown, all of Belleville; Walter Frost, Picton, and Walter Armstrong of Madoc.

P.U.C. Members Think Govt. Should Pay Costs for Plant

The province of Ontario should erect and install all machinery for sewage disposal plants which, according to an order from Ontario Health Minister Mackinnon Phillips, must be provided by municipalities.

This was the observation made by Belleville's Mayor John Bath at a public utilities meeting Tuesday when yesterday's order from the health minister came up for discussion.

"The way I look at it is that the responsibility of the provincial government is one thing and what they are doing about it is another," the mayor said.

He went on to point out that education was the responsibility of the Ontario government but they were not accepting their responsibility. He noted that Belleville received only 25 per cent toward the capital cost of a new school building.

"Now they want us to install a sewage disposal plant costing one-and-a-half or two millions," he said.

"I'll go further than that," replied utilities commissioner Harry Rollins took the broad view of the situation admitting that possibly the provision of sewage disposal facilities was the duty of the municipalities, but he agreed that education, hospitalization and unemployment was not the municipality's responsibility.

OPPOSED TO COSTS.

The mayor was strongly opposed to the government attitude toward educational costs.

"They direct us to prepare school plans to a certain standard and then pay subsidy on capital costs only on what they approve, not on what the school board says we must have."

Commissioner Lummiss agreed that taxes on real estate had reached a limit. "They cannot go higher. Either the system must be revamped or the government will have to come to our rescue."

The mayor spoke briefly of administration costs for the city of Belleville and compared the local situation with that of the city of Windsor. In the border city of 127,000 population the total administration costs were $34,000, while in Belleville a city of 40,000 administration costs totalled $50,000.

No action was taken by the commission, except to refer the health minister's order calling for a pro-

Public Schools' Band to Give Series of Concerts

The second in a series of five concerts by the Belleville Public Schools Band was scheduled to be held Wednesday afternoon on the lawn of King George school.

Remaining concerts for the month of June are: Friday, June 18, Queen Mary and Prince Charles schools; Wed., June 23, Queen Alexandra School; Fri., June 25th, Queen Elizabeth School.

The first concert of the year was held June 11th at Queen Victoria School with approximately 200 listeners.

The band, composed of more than 90 musicians from all Belleville's public schools, plays a conductor concert that includes marches, waltzes and popular music.

Teachers, pupils, parents and interested listeners sit on the school lawns or remain in their cars on the street.

Popularity of the concerts is increasing year by year.

Instrumental music, started in the public schools in 1938, was interrupted for four years during the war before being reopened in 1946. Beginners, most of whom buy their own instruments are taught in separate classes during their first year and are promoted to the regular band in May.

Any public members practise Tuesday evenings during the year and their study periods Friday evenings.

vince-wide cleanup of municipal sewage facilities. The order called for all municipalities of 2,000 or over having sewage systems to build proper sewage disposal units by July 1957.

Utilities commissioners felt that the city public works committee would have to take the first action with respect to a sewage disposal unit, although agreed they would "have to get their own house in order."

SEARCH FOR MOTHER

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Police have been asked to look for the mother of six children who disappeared from her home here May 28. Mrs. Audrey Ruth Fairbairn, 30, told her husband she was going to her sister's place. They never reached her sister's home and has been unreported since.

PUC to Publish Auditor's Report On Hydro Here

The city public utilities commission will publish the auditor's report for the electric utility for 1953.

This was agreed yesterday by members of the commission at their regular June meeting. With the verbatim report of the electric utility finances, however, will appear a note of explanation of the various figures which, it was felt, might otherwise be misconstrued by the reading public.

According to the report the utility had an operating surplus of approximately $78,000 last year.

Utilities manager O. H. Scott noted that against operating surplus must be charged capital costs for plant equipment which he said were paid out of revenue rather than by debenture.

Chairman Rollins said he had no objection to publishing the report but urged that a note of explanation accompany the auditor's statement.

It was pointed out that the auditor should point out specifics for only certain things and the manager also was also subject to approval of the H.E.P.C.

"All the more reason the report should be published," confided Commissioner Lummiss.

MAY REDUCE RATE

The possibility of reducing the consumer rate was suggested by Chairman Rollins who noted that this would serve to reduce the operating surplus. Manager Scott agreed the matter of rate reduction could be taken up with the provincial hydro.

The request would be analyzed taking into consideration all conditions and future requirements of the local utility.

Mr. Scott noted that a new sub-station costing approximately $100,000 would be required soon for the local utilities.

Members voted to pay employees every two weeks instead of on the present schedule of twice per month. This will mean 26 pays per year instead of 24.

Approval was given to the extension of the water service on Palmer Ave. in Sidney township. The utilities also have under consideration the installation of a larger main to serve the McFarlane Woodenware plant.

The bride's attendant was her sister, Ada Flindall. The groomsman was Austin Gunter, a nephew of the groom.

North America's favorite honeymoon route was the choice for their honeymoon. They went to Toronto by train first and then took a steamer to Niagara Falls.

The Gunter home presents a pretty rural picture. The oldest residents in the settlement, they have been fortunate to have a beautiful panoramic view of the Murray Hills at their southern entrance and a winding spring water creek crossing their farm behind the house.

Mrs. Gunter raised five of a family of seven under the busy roof of the time. Her husband found lots of work on the farm but managed an annual hunting trip to North Hastings in the fall. When Mr. Gunter was 70 he shot a black bear near a camp at Black Creek.

Mrs. Gunter notices many changes from the early days. "I well remember when father took the children to school by horse and cutter," she said. "Quite a contrast from the bus that picks them up at the door nowadays," she added.

Talking about the experiences of a lifetime, Mrs. Gunter recalled the day an airplane crashed on their farm and two airmen were killed. She was out dusting porches with her husband when suddenly she heard a terrific explosion right behind them. She said she'll always remember the excitement that followed.

Four of the Gunter children were at home with their mother and father for the celebration. They are: Mrs. Charles (Ethel) McColl, of Wooler; Mrs. Nix (Dorothy) Flindall, of Brighton; Angus Gunter, R.R. 3, Trenton and Kenneth Gunter, who lives at home. Another daughter, Mrs. Ralph (Hazel) Steenburg, resides at Vancouver, B.C.

Mrs. Gunter has two brothers and a sister. They are Percy Flindall, of Trenton; Arthur Flindall, Armstrong, B.C.; and Mrs. (Irene) Johnson, Saskatoon. Mr. Gunter's brother, Harry, lives here in Trenton and a sister, Mrs. Allie Seeley, lives in Weyburn, Sask.

GRADUATES FACE JOB-HUNTING TASK

Soon all Canadian schools will be closed for the long summer vacation.

Many of the students will face a task of a type which has been practically unknown in this country for the past fifteen years. They will be job-hunting.

In recent years "looking for a job" was not a very ardurous undertaking. In many cases, indeed, the jobs came looking for the students. Some of the more fortunate may find this condition still prevails. But many of the students will find work more difficult to get this summer than for years past, whether what is desired is a casual summer job to provide extra pocket money or whether a good start on the graduate's life-work is the aim.

It is easy—but not helpful—to adopt a Pollyanna attitude and to treat their problem as a minor one. Many of their elders have vivid memories of hunting jobs under conditions many times more trying. But that does not mean that the student—and particularly the graduate—who is anxious to work but cannot find a suitable job is not deserving of our sympathy and our help, if we can give it to him or her.

Perhaps the best advice is for the job hunter not to be too particular. The important thing is to start working; to get established any job is almost any pay, is better than no job. For one thing, there is no telling when a small job may suddenly develop into a big job, with big opportunities. For another, the habit of work, once acquired, is valuable in any position.

So do not wait for that ideal job to come along. Consider carefully the first job that is offered—it may turn out to be the right one after all, or it may lead to the right one.

And yet this attitude can be carried too far. The young job hunter, even at the risk of remaining idle, should not attempt a task which he knows will breed in him a hatred of his work. That is too big a price to pay, for just as the man who acquires a habit of working has a valuable asset which he can take with him to any new position, so the man who faces a day's work with distaste is burdening himself with a handicap which will retard his progress in any field of activity.

While the job-hunting graduate would do well to listen carefully to the advice of his or her parents, relatives and friends, the final decision whether or not to accept a proffered position will be on his or her shoulders. It will be the first opportunity—and the first necessity—of exercising judgment. The nature of this judgment may well do much to determine the job-hunter's whole working life.

THE FRENCH ELECTION SYSTEM

Since Confederation, 87 years ago, Canada has had twelve prime ministers.

When Joseph Laniel resigned as premier of France last week, President Rene Coty started to search for France's twentieth premier since the end of the Second Great War.

That comparison is not quite fair. There has been considerable duplication in the list of France's post-war premiers. But it is still true that there have been only 16 changes in the prime ministers job in Canada.

The chief underlying illustration of the impracticability under prevailing rules of the French system of electing members of the National Assembly, however praiseworthy in the abstract, lies in these facts.

The French adhere to the principle of proportional representation. The number of members which any party elects is in direct proportion to the number of votes it receives in the country.

That is not true in Canada. And because it is not true we have, on more than one occasion, seen a party obtain an overwhelming majority in the House of Commons without receiving anything like comparable support at the polls.

Neither system has one great advantage. It enables a party to obtain a workable majority in the House without receiving a majority of the votes cast—and obtaining a majority is practically an impossibility in a multi-party election.

But it is also possible for a party to achieve power without having a majority of the electorate behind it—a more support at the polls than that accorded any other party.

That is a defect in our system—and a serious one. But after looking at the plight of France most Canadians will feel that it is a risk well worth taking in order to safeguard ourselves against a much more serious situation. The average Canadian are not likely to take kindly to any change in their system.

The difficulty with this system is not that it is theoretically unsound but that it is incompatible in fact with another principle, that of ministerial responsibility.

In a house in which the government is, of necessity, a coalition of several parties, with differing viewpoints on a wide variety of subjects, it may be questioned whether it is necessary for a government to resign every time it is defeated. Few of these defeats are on matters of principle, because in such a coalition there will be so few policies on which all the co-operating political parties agree in principle.

As long as the French insist on clinging to their tradition of proportional representation, and at the same time adopt the principle of ministerial responsibility, just so long will their nation lack stable government.

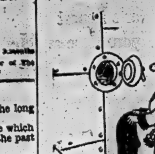
HOSPITAL THOUGHT



While in the hospital was I,
Just gazing at the ceiling
With nothing else around the eye,
Instructive or revealing,
A thought, since I was forced to stare
Upon that area spotless,
Not only there were pictures there
The pain might seem a lot less.

The while the nurses penned the chart
I thought about John Coppin—
A defeated man of art—
And wished that he would drop in
With brush and paint and smock and cap
And would climb upon a ladder
And on the ceiling sketch for me
Some scenes in blue and madder.

"Nice room," friends said who came to call
"The view outside is pleasant"
But bars are ceiling and the wall
For patients convalescent.
And oft I think what John could do,
And all his artist fellows,
To beautify the ceiling view
With sepias and yellows.

Little Miss Evelyn Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Reid, Cedar Street, entertained a number of her young friends on the occasion of her birthday at her home on Earl Street, on Wednesday afternoon.

An attempt to introduce electric lights here was not at first, successful according to the following item taken from our file copy at this time in 1884: "It is understood that Saturday night will be the last night on which the electric light for demonstration purposes will be used here, as an attempt to form a company in this city to introduce the light has not been successful."

The United Empire Loyalist Celebration was officially opened today by His Worship Mayor W. C. Mikel, the main move in bringing about the great gathering. Hundreds of spectators were present on the terraces in the court house. The grounds and buildings were gaily decorated and as the crowd was singing "God Save the King" Argyll Light Infantry played patriotic British and American airs. The Mayor made an excellent address in opening the proceedings; other speakers were Lieut.-Col. S. S. Lazier, Hardinge Cockburn representing the County of Hastings; Lieut.-Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, the Hon. Edmund Bristol, K.C., General Ryerson, W. S. Morden, president of the United Empire Loyalists Association in Canada; Brigadier General F. B. Wescott, Adjutant General of the State of New York, who represented Governor Smith for that state. The celebration of the 40th anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire Loyalists is now well underway and it is sure to be a happy and enjoyable affair.

Belleville's stock is looking up these days; new sidewalks are being laid in all parts of the town, the construction of the cement plant is nearing completion, and the rolling mills are about to commence rolling and the lock factory requires many more employees, which it seems difficult to obtain. From this it would appear that intelligent and brighter days are dawning for this good old city and district.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Based on estimates of the steamship and overseas air transport, Canada's tourist trade with Britain and Europe this summer. Each of these little holidays will cost a pretty penny, averaging perhaps $1,500, which estimate includes students going on a shoestring, and landed gentry, so to speak, doing it up brown. A good many of us are so infatuated with our motor cars that we would not dream of going on holiday other than by motoring. How much such a holiday costs is impossible to estimate. A friend of mine has just made a coast to coast trip with his wife, 7,000 miles from Montreal to Vancouver and back. Having kept careful accounts of his trip, he finds that for gas and oil, two new tires, minor repairs, parking, storage and ferry tolls, he spent $241.75 chargeable to his transportation alone. He drove hard, stayed mostly at motels, fed economically, and feels he had a wonderful experience of Canada.

Having just returned from a coast to coast trip by train, from Montreal to Vancouver and back; I would like to speak up on behalf of the bay window style of travel across our stupendous terrain. Bay windows mean compartment travel. Among the many things motor cars have done to us is to accustom us to privacy. The ordinary sleeper of the past with its upper and lower berths, offends our cultivated sense of privacy. For economical overnight travel, for business or domestic purposes, the old-fashioned sleeper has to be operated by the railways. But for holiday purposes, our trans-Canada trains carry extraordinary lengths of compartment and bedroom cars. And this is what we might call bay window travel. In lordly privacy, you gaze by the hour across the majesty of the Rockies, watch the stupendous prairies unfold before you, behold the rugged grandeur of Superior, see the cities and the unheeding villages of our vast possessions, and the lordly privacy costs you twenty-two bucks more than an upper and lower, from Montreal to Vancouver or vice versa. I popped into a streamlined drawing-room in one of the newer cars, one that costs $48 for two or more people for the same transcontinental journey. It had easy chairs in it, and you could put your feet up on the window sill for your bay window, real lordly.

Interesting Hangman

(By H. A. MacMillan, former editor of the Ontario Intelligencer, who is now with the Hamilton Spectator).

Quite a few people in Ottawa are queasy at the prospect of being confronted with the hangman. Having met the hangman (not the corpse) Mr. Ellis) it seems to me to be a very reasonable suggestion that a committee of Parliament studying capital punishment should meet one.

We were right at hand for the hanging of Steve Dwernychuk at the Fort Saskatchewan jail in Alberta in 1930, and had several hours to spend in the company of the then Mr. Ellis.

We had anticipated a man who would have some of the characteristics of Dracula, with cadaverous features, enveloped in a cloak which might have enshrouded Mr. Ryde.

Mr. Ellis was a disappointment —but only at the outset.

He was a small man of about five feet six in height, with an almost chrubbic countenance — slightly fat, with a pleasing, ringless, wearing spectacles with thick lenses. A man of mild manners and engaging conversationalists one could hope to meet in 40 days' time.

When would one encounter a more pleasant appointment than the role of the lord high executioner—outside of Gilbert and Sullivan or Ruritania?

This association with the hangman was contrived through a personal relationship with the warden, Mr. Ellis was not a hangman. It was not with the acquiescence of the hangman that he became the executioner and might, under dreadful circumstances, be required to do the actual work of execution himself.

Our interest was in the hours of the death watch. The bell tolled every hour to reassure the condemned man that the guardians of the jail, that the condemned man that the guardians of the jail, that the condemned man that the gallows.

Nothing long, quite taken aback at the appearance of this agent of irretrievable death we never did see anything of the hangman. Not intrepidly, about the mechanics of a hanging. We learned about the mechanics of a man who made a business of doing away with people, and thought that they were sent to their deaths in the prescribed way ruled by law.

We were to learn that our congenial friend had that morning lived in Montreal. He had a wife and children there, which we knew—but his children did not know—that he was a hangman.

He was reluctant to discuss his unhappy trade. He was eager to discuss the affairs of the day

Pakistan Beats Yanks?

(Ottawa Citizen)

A London newspaper, paraphrasing a journalistic turn, affancy of 50 years ago, published an obituary notice mourning the demise of English soccer. On the earlier occasion, the decreased was described as a sport which was deemed to have perished at the hands of the Australians, its remains cremated, and the ashes taken "down under" in the event it proved a fairly lively corpse, and at the moment, indeed, the "ashes" are in the hands of Hutton and Co.

So it may prove in the case of English soccer, which will probably survive the 7-1 trouncing administered to a representative team by Hungary the other day. It has been obvious for a long period that of recent years unchallenged English (or British) supremacy in the game has been that of the past. The only remarkable feature of the latest defeat is the size of the score.

Here is one more instance of a sporting activity at which a high state of excellence and skill was developed by other nations which in time have shown they could play it just as well as their originators. This is the story also of golf and tennis. The former game is now coming to the fore, and if it does, "world championships" will take on more significance than they do today. Hitherto, neither Canada nor hockey—Canada's national ball has had to meet a convincing test, and the assumption still is that the conceivable combination of foreigners could ever beat the cream of the North American crop at their own national games is pretty remote. Yet the Soviet is now challenging about cricket, and later about soccer.

Yet the foreshadowable has a habit of happening, and some day sports fans may find that the New York Yankees were whitewashed four games to zero, by a team say, from Pakistan.

Letter to the Editor

Urges Changes Needed Regarding Bus Stops

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

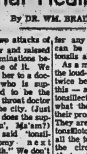
I was interested in the recent letter published in your paper relative to the bus service here in the local bus service, with which I heartily agree. But with regard to the local bus service there is certain point which definitely need looking into and clearing up.

First why are the buses allowed to park on Front Street in front of traffic lights? This procedure obscures the lights for pedestrians crossing over the road when proceeding south on Front Street to see the lights at the Bridge Street corner (when such a bus is parked there) until you are right on them. This is the worst kind. What chance does a stranger have?

Secondly, why are buses allowed to stop and pick up passengers in the centre of the road in the traffic lights? This is done at all the lights on Front Street.

The largest city in the world, London, England, with its huge traffic problems and its thousands of buses, will not allow any bus to pick up passengers until it has passed the traffic lights.

Finally who is responsible for allowing us to break the "No Left Turn" rule at the lights?



What a strange attitude of the police seems to be in this law-and then immediately allow us to break it. Only the other unfortunate motorist who inadvertently follows a bus on a no right-turn sign, or some other, is convicted would be squashed if he appealed to the police courts.

The argument is brought up that the buses must make the turns, the proper thing to do is to re-route them, or scrap the "No Left Turn" signs. You can't make laws for cars and not the other. Don't let the public hold up the City-Fathers to ridicule for making foolish laws.

Personal Health Talks

Dr. Brady

Daughter, 17, had two attacks of sore throat last winter and missed some of her final examinations because of it. We took her to a doctor who is supposed to be the best throat doctor in the city. (Just who does the supposin', Ma'am?) He said "tonsillectomy next spring." We don't want that. We are more interested in the good sense of your teaching and we would rather have tonsillotomy as you recommended. But how does one find a doctor who will perform tonsillotomy instead of tonsillectomy? (Mrs. R.L.C.)

Last casual readers be confused, tonsillectomy means complete removal of the obstructing portion of the tonsil.

I do NOT recommend tonsillotomy for infected tonsils, if that is what Mrs. C's daughter has.

If the best doctor in town or just an ordinary doctor has reason to believe there is an epidemic of sore throats in your town or district, or in the neighborhood, or even in the whole country, it is time to remove infected tonsils. Otherwise, the infected tonsils may become a breeding ground for infected tonsils is not "removal" of the tonsil—don't let any slicker confuse you about this.

Recommended tonsillectomy, instantaneous removal of the obstructing portion of tonsil — only for extremely severe hypertrophied tonsils when the enlargement blocks or obstructs breathing, dulls the voice or impairs hearing.

WRINKLES

As I shave in the morning I note these past few years that a few little lines start sprouting on the corners of my eyes and the area that is known as wrinkles. It don't mind. I shall not have my face lifted to make them disappear, or listen to the silent talk of those lazy wrinkles. They tell me where I have lived.

One of the most interesting faces in history was that of Abraham Lincoln. Deeply etched were his wrinkles, but they told a great story, the story of his entire life. Struggle, kindliness, suffering, humility and patience, are all shown in the wrinkles of his face, as depicted in the many fine photographs of him.

Even the well-known criminal lawyer, Clarence Darrow. With the late William Allen White we travelled all day out of Denver, after the last Bryan convention. The talk of life's awful friends was most interesting, but after my illness or handicap that can be ascribed to leaving their tonsils alone.

As a matter of fact — and I warn the loud-mouthed operators to think twice before they scoff at these words this — at least three-fourths of all tonsilectomies in America are not what the loudmouths would have their prospective customers believe. They are just inexcusably shocking tonsillotomies. They do not "get all the tonsils"; they get more than the circumstances warrant, but (fortunately for the victims) in most instances not quite so inexcusable tonsil tissue to the throat.

If Mrs. C's daughter has infected tonsils, the only treatment I would recommend is electro-coagulation (diathermy) — which will eradicate the septic focus with a minimum of danger, without hospitalization, without loss of time from work, play or study. This method is of benefit for infected tonsils is not "removal" of the tonsil—don't let any slicker confuse you about this.

Recommended tonsillectomy, instantaneous removal of the obstructing portion of tonsil — only for extremely severe hypertrophied tonsils when the enlargement blocks or obstructs breathing, dulls the voice or impairs hearing.

For hours I studied them as I once read a story that told of his having carried on conversations when the proofs came to him. he exclaimed: "Where are the lines that I left here? I don't want the picture without the lines. They cost 70 years of toil!"

My mother's most beautiful face was when the wrinkles of love lived and laughed, unselfish service to others, had put there. The faces of youth are unquestionably attractive, but there is nothing written in them. Life's experiences, defeats, suffering, disappointments, and sorrow to mark a face—and then to add laughter—that is life.

I would like to have seen the face of Count Ulysses de Grant Sheynson wrote so inspiringly. There must have been a face that was furrowed with wrinkles—a face that shone with use! Never try to cover up a wrinkle. You may need it as life's best testimonial!

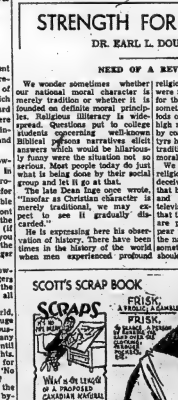
STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NEED OF A REVIVAL

We wonder sometimes whether our educational methods in schools are merely tradition or whether it is founded on definite moral principles. Religious illiteracy is widespread. Questions put to college students generally well-known Biblical persons narratives elicit answers which would be hilarious if funny were the situation not so serious. Most people today do just what is being done by the crowd group and let it go at that.

The Dean Inge once wrote, "Insofar as Christian character is merely traditional, we may expect to see it rapidly discarded."



It is expressing here his observation of history. There have been times in the history of the world when men experienced profound religious impulses so that they were ready to lay down their lives for their faith. These times have sometimes been followed by periods of indifference and even by the high moral standards established students questioned and many others have gradually become, first, traditional morality, and then no morality at all.

We are due in this country for a spiritual revival. We should not deceive ourselves into believing that because our churches are full and religious books, radio, and television programs are popular that the revival is already here. These are preliminary. They would appear to be only the indication that the nation would be receptive to something more soul-stirring if it should occur.

CMA Approves Fluoridation But Opposes Fee Splitting

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's medical profession was on record today as approving fluoridation and opposing fee splitting.

Definite stands on the two controversial subjects were taken here Tuesday at the 87th annual convention of the Canadian Medical Association.

The association approved a report by the public health committee under Dr. G. M. Little of Edmonton calling for unqualified approval of fluoridation, which is used to reduce dental decay.

ASKED MORE STUDY

The convention of 1,500 delegates by-passed a report on the same subject prepared by the committee on nutrition under Dr. E. H. Besley of Montreal. The nutrition committee had recommended fluoridation as a method of reducing tooth decay but suggested that full approval of the medical profession be withheld until further studies had been made on the subject."

The association's general council—parliament of Canadian medicine—termed the practice of fee splitting as "unethical and possibly illegal, dishonest." Fee splitting is an arrangement between two doctors in which a portion part of a fee paid to the other without the knowledge of the patient.

Dr. T. Clarence Routley of Toronto was named CMA president-elect.

Dr. Hill said his report on fluoridation was based on results of a five-year controlled experiment conducted jointly by federal and Ontario health authorities.

"NOT IMMUNE"

He said experiments in Ontario showed that the incidence of tooth decay among children at Sarnia, where no fluoridation exists, was up to 60 per cent higher than that among both Brantford and Stratford which has fluoridated water.

On fee splitting, the association approved the report of the ethics committee under Dr. Wallace Wilson of Vancouver which declared:

The only basis on which a fee may be charged, or on which money may be received by a medical practitioner, is that of work actually done for the patient, and such patient must receive a direct statement from the medical practitioner concerned.

CMA officials said there was no evidence of wide-spread fee splitting being practised in Canada but added that "we are not immune."

Recover Body

THOROLD (CP) — A Welland canal diver Tuesday recovered the body of a man reported drowned in the canal near Thorold. The victim was identified as Leslie Bell, 36, of London, Ont.

The drowning was reported about 3 a.m. when motorist Jim Richards of Owen Sound, heard screams for help. He saw Thomas Walton, a sailor on a freighter keep his head in water. Police say Walton caught hold of a struggling man but was unable to maintain his grip. Richards helped Walton ashore.

Miss Clarke is about their work, and come and see their old friends.—We are proud of you now; and hope you will do the things of which we can be proud of you, and that you will become good citizens of Canada."

Slowly the graduating class filed down the aisle two-by-two, led by the former superintendent, Mr. W. J. Morrison and Mr. Demeza: the girls' sweet and lovely dainty rose made dresses, and the young men, beside them, manly and purposeful. So ended another year of intensive and patient work at the O.S.D. full of happy memories, yet realizing there was a feel of poignancy at the leaving of friendships formed over the span of years.

Picture-taking was the order of the afternoon's last minutes.

Chicken For Your Hero

By Mary Moore

On Father's Day you can celebrate and put your heart into it. It always seems so silly to me when on my birthday or on Mother's Day, being the family cook, I used to have to make my own cake.

Those days are gone forever for my kids take over and whomp up some of the most dazzling messes —sometimes too dazzling for my simple tastes.

But Father's Day is another story. If your precious darling wants chicken fried, roasted or even raw you are the gal who can serve it up. He's in clover too if his favorite dessert is strawberry shortcake for on June 30th they're bursting their rosy little hearts to be perfect for him and his shortcake.

The reason I have chosen Fried Chicken Crunchy Style to pamper for Father's Day dinner is because, if you are the outdoor type and like weather-y fare, this is ideally adapted to eating out of doors as it should be eaten —in the fingers.

FRIED CHICKEN CRUNCHY STYLE

These amounts are for 1 3-lb. fryer or broiler, cut into quarters for four people. To 1-2 cup flour add 1 1-2 teaspoons paprika, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper and put this in a paper bag and shake the cut chicken pieces in it to dredge them. Beat 1 egg and to it add 2 tablespoons water and dip the chicken pieces in this to coat them. Now roll out cornflakes and measure 1 cup and to them add 1-2 cup flour. Roll the egg-coated chicken pieces in them. In large frying pan melt 1-2 cup butter or margarine and 1-2 butter and shortening and when hot cook the chicken pieces until golden, turning frequently. This takes at least 10 minutes and must be watched for you do not want one any suspicion of burning. Lower pip with your request.

QUESTION:

Some Russian woman whom I knew lightly used to like the hard wax that accumulates in the ear out with a ... Russian tailor. ... I would be indebted to you if you know where I can obtain it. Janet N.

ANSWER:

As you see I have shortened your letter, but read it at full length in the columns and two druggists. They all say they have never heard of Russian tailors using wax in Canada, and all strongly advise not using the instrument you mention, but go to your doctor to have the wax removed. By self treatment you could do irreparable damage. I am sorry that I could not comply with your request.

Blanket Tramping by The Spey

LONDON. — Lilianne Grant Rich, a Scottish housewife, talked in the BBC's "Woman's Hour" about her childhood memories of washing blankets in Strathspey in Scotland. The blanket washing was an exciting picnic from start to finish, for in spite of having running water in the house, they like so many other people in the Spey Valley, took their blankets to the River Spey. About ten miles downstream was an old mill where the owners maintained that the blankets they took there would remain soft and fleecy for three generations if they were washed in the pure water of river or burn. "They were right—for I still have in my possession a few blankets woven by them in my grandmother's time," she said, although I must confess that they have now become somewhat 'felted' with twenty years of London water."

Operation Blanket Washing was a job for late spring or early summer and was decided on only the day before. One evening her father would walk slowly backwards and forwards, scanning the sky where it met the mountains, for there was no radio weather forecast at that time and people had to use their own judgment. He would then say to her mother that it would be a grand day for the blankets on the morrow with the weather set fair and the wind in the right quarter, and he would go to get the things ready for it took time to get the two big tubs for tramping and the large galvanized bath for rinsing, and the tin of green soft soap down the brae to the waterside.

She was always too excited to sleep and was up at dawn next day and with the rest of the family set off for the river, everyone armed with what blankets they could carry. First the first had to be lit. This was father's job although everyone helped to gather firewood and kindling which was pale grey heather spikes, the remains of mass heather burning in previous years. Then came any sort of wood that would do for flood and afterwards peat. Above the blaze they hung a kettle, black from use and used for heating water and she felt that it must have held ten gallons. "When the water was ready, the honor of tramping the blankets clean fell to my small brother and to me," she said. "Yes, we did them with our bare feet, which fact gives you an indication of the correct water temperature for blankets. We were as proud as peacocks.

You have never tramped blankets by the river on a June day you have missed one of the pleasures of life. To me it was Paradise. There we were each in a tub with our clothes kilted up, the soft wind on our faces, the warm sun on our backs, and our little willing feet going left, right, left, right, in the luxurious soft tepid water, stopping out on to the baking grass from time to time so that mother could turn a blanket or change the water for us."

Their mother was always full of fun and chilly days in the dairy by the river she sang to her children as they tramped, while father was full of local history and would recount tales of long ago battles and the log floaters who, before the coming of the local railway in 1863, often floated logs past the very spot where she family was now so busily engaged. When the blankets had been washed and wrung they were spread to dry, first on a line put up for the purpose and then on the stiff big myrtle bushes. "The wonderful spicy smell of bruised bog myrtle clung to them for months and to me there is no scent so elating." And then came dinner, for while the water had been heating father had been busy with rod and line in the burn. They dined on fresh trout wrapped in greased paper and baked in the ashes of the fire. Floury potatoes baked in their jackets, new buttermilk and oatcakes, and it was a meal that would be hard to best. "There are still a few folk in the North who take their blankets to the Spey," said Mrs. Rich in conclusion. "They do. I would say, 'Happy tramping when the day comes'."

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE MARRIED HIM TO SOLVE A PROBLEM—NOW SHE WANTS TO LEAVE HIM

If people could only have the will power to avoid taking the first step in the wrong direction, most of the problems which come to my desk would never arise. The trouble is, that young people, and older ones, too, when they marry, they take that first step, where it will lead them. So, before they know it, they find themselves in a position from which it seems impossible to extricate themselves.

I have in mind a young woman of 25 who has been married eight years. The reason she married so young, she tells me, was because she had to give the baby she was expecting a name. Her confession was really in love. What she did, when the father of the baby refused to marry her, was to marry another man in frenzied haste because he loved her, was sorry for her in her predicament and willing to shoulder the responsibility of supporting this other man's child.

"While I know I shouldn't make excuses for myself," she writes, "I don't really think I would have got into such dreadful trouble if my home had been a happier place for a girl to grow up in. There were constantly quarreling and they never really gave us children any real sense of affection. I always felt in the way. So when someone came along who seemed to care about me, I did anything he wanted me to, so he wouldn't go, and leave me.

"Of course, in the end, he did leave me, after I was pregnant."

This young woman was far more fortunate than many other girls, for the man who married her really did love her and has always been good to her and her child. They have three other children of their own now, and until recently she felt content with her life. Yet now, because she married her husband, rect because she loved him, she finds herself really in love, this time, with another man.

"I simply haven't had the heart to tell my husband," she says, "because I know he loves me, and I fully realize, and am grateful for, all he has done for me. But life has suddenly become a blight again, living with a woman who is my husband's mistress, and I can't go on this way indefinitely.

"I know it would be very unfair to my husband and to my children, if I were to get a divorce, and I am sure if I did, my husband would refuse to allow me to take my children with me.

"Can you see any way out for me?"

I am not so hard-hearted as to wish to be deeply sympathetic with this girl in the dreadfully unhappy situation in which she finds herself. To love one man while being married to another, is indeed a desperate and highly perilous state.

At the same time, I think she will be able to get her problem more clearly if she tries to answer honestly the following questions: Whose future happiness is most important to her—her own or her children's? Can she honestly believe that she would find real happiness with this, or any other man if it meant giving them up? Could she face what those children would inevitably think of her if, when they grew older, they learned that she had deserted them?

Moreover, could she really live with herself if she tossed aside the duties she came to her rescue in her time of dire need, and who has faithfully and lovingly cared for her and the baby whose father ran away? Could she keep her self-respect in the years to come if she snatched the happiness for herself at the expense of his?

If she has the courage to give up the man she loves, she will, of course, go through a period of very intense suffering. But, in time, that suffering will cease, and she will find herself stronger and happier in the knowledge that she did not fail the children who love and trust her. Moreover, since she admits her husband has many admirable qualities, it is not at all impossible that she has more affection for him than she now realizes, and that, as time goes on, she will be glad and thankful that she did not make the mistake of leaving him.

On the other hand, if she does what she is so eager to do at this moment, and puts her own desires ahead of everything else, I feel sure the time will come when she will bitterly regret it.

GOOD MANNERS

THE ESCORT'S COURTLY ATTENTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a man and a woman enter a restaurant together, and the headwaiter leads them to a table and pulls out the woman's chair for her, is it the headwaiter or the woman's escort who should help her take off her coat and put it on the back of the chair? We have a bet on about this! My husband insists that it is the woman's escort who should do this attention, but my brother insists that this is the duty of the headwaiter. Who is right? — Ellen

Your husband is right. . .he has the proper, the courtly point of view. The host should be courtesy on the start to "stand by" at the back of the woman's chair, to help her with her coat and to see that she is comfortably seated. And you and I know. . .don't we? . . . how a woman loves this gallant "attention"!

THIS BRIDE WANTS AN ALL-INCLUSIVE BRIDAL PARTY!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My married sister is to be my matron of honor. My two younger sisters are to be bridesmaids. And I would like also to have my dearest friend, a life-long friend, in my bridal party. Would it be correct for me to have her as maid of honor, as well as my sister as matron of honor? I am also having a flower girl. Best man and ushers. What would be the order of the processional?

2. I would like to have a little girl and boy, two children to whom I'm very devoted, in the bridal party. Would it be correct to have them carry my long veil? —H.

1. Yes, it will be correct for you to have your sister as matron of honor, and your friend as maid of honor. The processional ushers the first, two by two. Bridesmaids next, together. Maid of honor next, alone. Matron of honor, alone. Flower girl, alone. Last you, on your father's right arm. (Note: Your sister, matron of honor, would walk after the maid of honor, since your sister will be the woman will have a prior train and veil.)

2. I don't advise your having this "royal" procedure. . .it's too problematic unless these children have such extraordinary poise that you are absolutely positive they will follow instructions. And even so, keep in mind that they would probably "steal the show" from you. . .children have a way of doing this in a wedding procession, and particularly when they carry the bride's train or veil. If you just must have them, I suggest you let them walk together in front of the matron of honor, so that she can keep an eye on them.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON

DON'T WORRY ABOUT FRECKLES

There are two kinds of freckles —those that come in childhood and take a life-time lease, and those that appear when the lilacs bloom, and remain only until the leaves begin to fall. About the permanent ones little can be done. The transients can be kept under control, however, and sometimes completely avoided. In either case they are terrible only if you think they are.

If you would prevent transient freckles, however, the skin should be well lubricated before exposure to sunlight. A heavy cream should be applied at bedtime, a lighter one used for the removal of make-up and for cleansing purposes. A powder with an oily base will serve as a protective agent.

Once a weak substitute a lotion made by combining equal portions of strained lemon juice and peroxide) for the nightly lubricant. Apply with a cotton ball and let it dry on. The peroxide should come from a freshly-opened bottle. Soap should not be used before going out of doors or immediately after exposure to the sun.

Young women who would have unblemished complexions must flirt with the idea of seeking professions) help and submit to the skin - peeling treatment. They should put that idea out of their minds. The outer skin can be removed, and successfully, but there is no guarantee that a new crop of freckles will not appear on the new skin surface.

Settled summer freckles often lend a saucy piquant loveliness to an otherwise colorless complexion, so why worry about them?

Pupils of Mrs. A. E. Baker Give Recital at St. Paul's

STIRLING — A large number of folk from various points attended the annual recital under auspices of the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's United Church, approximately 70 numbers were given and the program lasted two hours and a half and was well received by the enthusiastic audience. Mrs. Baker accompanied all of the vocal numbers, and also assisted with pianoforte duets. A number of the artists sang their lines from memory and several also had learned their notes.

The church platform was nicely decorated with baskets of red peonies from the garden of Mr. Arthur Morrison. The two pedestal stands were filled with pink blooms and the artists sang surrounded by flowers.

She spoke of Mrs. Baker's untiring efforts in assisting her pupils to master their selections and voiced sincere regret at her departure.

Miss Grace Heasman presented Mrs. Baker with a large bouquet of red roses on behalf of all the pupils and the bouquet was later placed on the piano for all to enjoy throughout the evening.

MARMORA

O.E.S. Holds Church Parade

MARMORA— Marmora Chapter No. 377 Order of the Eastern Star, held its first church parade on Sunday, the members in goodly number attending St. Andrew's United Church for the morning service at which Rev. K. J. Crawford, B.A., B.D. officiated.

The pastor addressed the members of the Order on behalf of himself and the official board.

His subject was "The Faith of Timothy." He pointed out the fact that St. Paul's young convert was the son of a mixed marriage being Jewish on the maternal side and Greek on the paternal side of the family. The young disciple had received his Christian teaching from his mother, Lois, and grandmother, Eunice, and so grippng it as to stand firm in the face of all opposition.

"We can measure the influence of a Christian home" the preacher asked. He said, "there are some things we cannot pass on to our children, but on the other hand, there are some things we can. We can pass on a Christian influence, and that was what Timothy received and thereby became steadfastly true to the Christian faith.

"He was established in it because he held on to the sound doctrine. Sound doctrine strengthens faith. Timothy's strength further lay in the recognition that there cannot be a distinction between the faith we to profess and the life we live, and so he fought the good fight of faith.

Mrs. P. K. Frost, the soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Clotte, Mrs. A. F. Fraser was the organist.

The communion table and choir stalls were beautifully adorned with an assortment of summer flowers.

Leafy Spurge Noxious Weed

Brought from Europe over 100 years ago and planted in many early graveyards as an ornamental, Leafy Spurge has long since escaped its confines and today is the scourge of many crop rotations, reports the Field Crops Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The seed is one of five classed as prohibited noxious. This means that seed containing even single seed of this weed cannot be used or sown.

For extensive infestations on arable land intensive cultivation will cut down but not eradicate this weed. On rough grassland repeated spraying with 2,4-D at 1 to 2 pounds of acid per acre ill reduce the stand. Small patches may best be cleaned out by the use of soil sterilants such as sodium chlorate or boron compounds at 3 to 6 pounds per square rod. This should be followed up by repeat applications to kill any survivors.

Leafy Spurge, growing 3 to 3 feet high with yellow stems from which the narrow bluish green leaves extend, flowers from June to September. It should be prevented under all circumstances from going to seed. The stems and rootstock have been traced 10 feet deep in the soil. With such a base it is easy to understand why once an area is infested farmers cannot hope to eradicate this weed in one or two seasons. Each piece of a root can send up a new shoot so spraying and pasturing with sheep permits the farmer to live with this refugee from the graveyard while he gradually weakens it by repeated attacks.

RAWDON

Wellman's W.A. Sponsors Successful 'Blossom Tea'

RAWDON — Wellman's Women's Association held a most successful "Blossom Tea", bazaar, and bake sale, at the home of Mrs. Burton Morton, sixth Concession, Rawdon, on Wednesday afternoon.

The day was ideal with enough sun to enjoy sitting beneath the shady trees. Over 125 women were in attendance, and they came from all near-by points with special guests from Belleville and Colborne.

Chairs were placed on the spacious lawn with its natural beauty of shrubs and flowers.

The guests were received by the hostess, Mrs. Morton, assisted by Mrs. George Watson, and Mrs. John Carlisle.

Mrs. Lorne Watson and Mrs. Frederick Beckett provided piano music as the guests were arriving.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with baskets and vases of seasonal blooms with Mrs. Winfred Sine in charge of floral decorations, and blossoms were in evidence everywhere.

DELECTABLE HOME-BAKING.

A long table was set up in the recreation room and had a large variety of delectable home-baking with country eggs and cream displayed for sale. Mrs. Carman Nix, Mrs. James Chumbley, Mrs. Percy Jackman, and Miss Margaret Dracup were busy parcelling up the sales.

Long tables on the spacious verandah held the large array of parcel post articles, which sold at 25 cents each and a variety of small potted plants, foliages, baby tears, lilies, and begonias. Mrs. Thomas Hinds and Mrs. John Rainie did a thriving business.

The aprons were displayed on a long clothesline and were made of attractive materials with a large assortment of pretty hand aprons as well as a few of the larger sizes.

The fancy work was laid out on a long table, and consisted of a print quilt, all ready for use at $10; cushions, embroidery and crochet work, also a selection of greeting cards. Mrs. Charles Dunham presided over this section.

ENJOYABLE PROGRAM.

The program was enjoyed under the trees as the birds sang and the sun shone, with a warm breeze in the air.

The president, Mrs. Clifford Clancy, presided and opened with the theme song and prayer followed by community singing. Mrs. John Carlisle voiced a gracious welcome to all.

Piano solos were given by Mrs. Ralph Wellman, Springbrook W.A., and Mrs. Harold Elliott, Bethel W.A.; Mrs. Joe Grills, Carmel W.A., read two delightful poems; Mrs. Oliver Willis and Mrs. Victor Jarvis of Burnbrae, sang a duet with Mrs. Ross Hart as accompanist; Mrs. George Sine and Miss Lois Broadworth, of Salem W.A., contributed a duet with Mrs. Vene Hagerman as accompanist.

Mrs. Ted Preston, of St. Thomas W.A., read a selection by Edna Jacques, entitled "The Patchwork Quilt."

TRADITIONS CARRIED ON

Mrs. Harold Martin, Stirling, a former Wellman's girl, voiced appreciation to the pioneers who founded Wellman's United Church and community. She gave a brief address on the traditions that have been carried on down through the years. She spoke of improvement in farm homes and surroundings, care of cemetery, pride in the church and closed with that well known poem, "My Native Land."

Mrs. James Hoard, Mount Pleasant, sang with Mrs. Ross Hoard as accompanist.

Mrs. Burton Morton spoke briefly and welcomed all the guests.

Mrs. Victor Graham was in charge of the luncheon fee of 25 cents.

Tea was poured in the dining room at a beautifully appointed table by Mrs. Edith Sager, of Belleville, and Mrs. R. R. Bonisteel.

All the members of Wellman's W.A. assisted with serving the delectable sandwiches and cookies which were in abundance. Several small tables were set up on the lawn and here people were grouped while others sat on benches.

Mrs. Russell Johnston and Mrs. Robert Wallace presided over the tea arrangements.

GUESTS

The guests included, Mrs. Edith Sager, Belleville, who is holidaying at the Morton home; Mrs. Russell Towle, of Colborne, sister of Mrs. Morton and Mrs. George Spencer, Mrs. Ross Teale, Mrs. Bruce Spencer and Mrs. W. Symonds all of Colborne, who motored down on this special occasion.

At the close of a delightful afternoon, Mrs. Arthur Pryar, newly elected president of Belleville Presbytery W.A.'s voiced thanks to the Wellman's group.

The event was a financial success and it was a most successful tea and nicely arranged.

TWEED

IOOF, Rebekah Decoration Day Service Is Held

TWEED — The annual church and decoration service of Tweed I.O.O.F. and Tweed Rebekah Lodges was held Sunday, at 11 a.m. The members met at the Oddfellows' hall, corner of Jameson and Colborne Streets, at 10.30 a.m. The formed up and paraded to St. John's United Church where they joined with the congregation in divine service.

Rev. Sidney E. Larman, pastor of Holloway Street United Church in Belleville, was the guest speaker for the occasion in an exchange of pulpits with the Rev. W. K. Pace for the day.

Immediately following the church service the lodges formed in two circles on the church lawn and flowers were placed to form a cross in memory of departed sisters and brothers of the order.

In the evening anniversary services were held in Actinolite United church with Rev. Sidney E. Larman of Belleville, as the guest preacher. The choir of St. John's United Church, Tweed, assisted at this service with the singing and rendered two anthems. Large crowds were in attendance at all these services on Sunday.

STIRLING

Village Council To Ask Extension Of Water Service

STIRLING. — At the recent meeting of the village council, it was decided after a lengthy discussion to ask the public utilities commission to extend water services south to the residents on the Frankford Road.

A communication was read from the Board of Centre Hastings High School area asking reduction in the water rate to King George High School. The letter pointed out that the rate was four times higher than that paid in Tweed. Council felt they had no control of the rate as that rested with the public utilities commission.

It was decided to purchase 400 feet of hose for the local fire department. The request came from Fire Chief R. R. Fox and the purchase will cost $1.60 per foot plus tax.

A letter from Clerk W. J. Barlow of Rawdon township asked for an arbitration board on the assessment for the Union School section. The Reeve recommended that the agreement of the assessors be considered final. Clerk Mallory stated that the rate for the High School area would be 12 mills on the equalized assessment. He also asked council for $4,500 for the local public school.

The council approved an expenditure of $1,200 to put a permanent surface on some of the streets in the village. Special tenders are up for construction of sidewalks.

ACCOUNTS ORDERED PAID

It was decided to purchase a new flag. Several letters were read and discussed and a number of accounts ordered paid, which included, Stirling Library $172; County of Hastings, $44.63; Harry Jones, $110.60; McIntosh and Wells, $32.80; Ken Belsour, $58.50; Workmen's Compensation $105.63; Hatton Hardware, 353.20; Public Utilities $277.55; H. C. Martin, $30.20; and several smaller accounts.

Break-Off May Mean Longer Stay for Troops

OTTAWA (CP)—Break-off of the Korean talks in Geneva may mean an even longer stay for Canadian troops in Korea, officials said today.

Then the conference opened, it was thought here that if some agreement could be reached with the Communists, it would speed return home of Canadian forces in Korea, or at least some of them.

External Affairs Minister Pearson has said that the government wants to withdraw the 25th Infantry Brigade and three destroyers from Korea as soon as possible.

Failure of the Korean talks does not rule out entirely withdrawal of Canadian forces but it probably makes the withdrawal date more distant. That date now will depend more on how quickly the South Korean Army can be trained to take over more of the truce patrol duties now performed by United Nations forces.

Mr. Pearson said in the Commons Friday that failure of the Geneva conference should not mean a resumption of fighting in Korea. Neither would failure immediately to clear any obligation, direct or indirect, to participate in any action to unify Korea by force.

The Canadian view is that it might be possible to resume the Korean talks after a break of several months or, failing that, the UN General Assembly might have a try at it.

Failure at Geneva rules out any chance that the government might consider recognition of Communist China in the near future.

Before the conference, Mr. Pearson indicated the government might consider recognition if the Reds showed a conciliatory attitude and backed it up with some agreement on Far East problems.

Break-up of the talks was accepted here Tuesday with sadness but no surprise.

Finale Is Near in McCarthy Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy was called back into the witness role today for probably the final scenes of the stormy and wide-ranging inquiry into his dispute with high army officials.

The Wisconsin Republican senator professed readiness for a quiet wind-up, but there was opposition questioning — which could lead to new disputes — over the origin and timing of 11 typed memoranda in support of his "black mail" charges against Army Secretary Robert Stevens and army counsel John G. Adams.

South Africa Seeks Increase In Gold Price

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

MONTREAL (CP)—South Africa, world's largest gold producer, is pressing for support for an increase in the price of gold, at the congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire.

A resolution, submitted by the Association of Chambers of Commerce of South Africa, says a substantial and uniform increase in the gold-price in terms of all currencies would represent a major contribution towards the economic welfare of the world.

Hill-Billies of Soviet Union Just Take Girl They Want

By RICHARD E. KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—See a gal that catches your fancy?

Well, don't go wastin' time a-courtin' and asking her consent. Just gallop on and carry her off.

If you need help, because she isn't alone, just whistle up a pack of your buddies.

That's the way the hill-billies of the Soviet Union (down thar in the Caucasus mountains) have been doin' it for generations.

But the Communist press in Moscow says it's got to stop—the gals should be courted right and given a chance to say yes or no.

KIDNAPPED SCHOOL MARM

Now take the case of Tamara, reports the newspaper Komsomol Pravda. Tamara was a teacher in the mountain village of Malka, in the Kabardinski Autonomous Republic. And a fine lookin' school marm she was, too.

So fine looking, in fact, that one of three "brave and bold" brothers of the village fancied her for a wife. So he called a family council at which it was decided his was a wise choice.

When Tamara took a walk along a mountain path with her sister, the brothers—with two pals—rode out in a coach and carried her off.

All this information came in Komsomol Pravda from Tamara's sister, who was left on the trail. Indignantly she wrote the paper, which prodded the local prosecutor's office into he sent a reprehensitive to find what was up.

INVESTIGATOR'S REPORT

According to this investigator, says Komsomol Pravda, Tamara's reply to his inquiries was: "Well, after I was kidnapped I agreed to marry him." The prosecutor decided to take her at her word.

But here's what really happened, the paper quotes the un-kidnapped sister: "After Tamara was kidnapped she became afraid for the future and agreed to marry him."

The paper cites the case of two other recently kidnapped brides, and says: "The girls in the mountain areas live in constant fear of being kidnapped. And once they are thus forced to marry the man their life is ruined."

Of the brothers who kidnapped Tamara, it says they committed "a hooligan deed typical of the feudal conception of life of pre-revolutionary Kabardinski."

Yugoslavia Puts Ban on Two British Films

By JOHN EARLE

BELGRADE (Reuters)—A Yugoslav ban on two British documentary films dealing with Commonwealth affairs has spotlighted the distaste felt by Yugoslavia for the western powers' "colonial" policies.

The Yugoslav film censorship board rejected applications in May for the British embassy to show to Yugoslav audiences the film "Burma Victory," about the liberation of Burma from the Japanese by British and Indian troops, and the film "Challenge in Nigeria," describing British attempts to develop Nigeria toward nationhood.

Although no official reasons were given for the ban, Yugoslav officials let it be known that they were rejected because their picture of the two colonies Burma had not, at the time of making the film, gained independence) differed from the official Yugoslav attitude.

THEORY OF OPPRESSION

The Yugoslav attitude is based on the Marxist view that a colonial power keeps it colonies under oppression, if not terrorist, subjection and thwarts any attempt at progress or raising the standard of living.

This does not prevent Yugoslavia from dealing with the western powers over European affairs or from giving a friendly welcome to visiting delegations.

But it does result in British, French and American being regarded with suspicion in all matters relating to Africa, Asia or the Pacific.

The Yugoslav press, which is all pro-government, frequently published attacks on the western powers over "colonialism."

Fluoridation Is Endorsed By Medical Council

TORONTO (CP)—Fluoridation of metropolitan Toronto's water supply as a possible aid in fighting tooth decay has been endorsed by the council of the Academy of Medicine in Toronto, Dr. L. A. Pequegnat, city medical health officer, said Tuesday.

Supporters of the plan said the academy's approval could do away with much of the opposition.

Dr. Pequegnat said that, of 75 medical centres in American universities queried, 63 were in favor of fluoridation. Some doctors have said the fluorine has a harmful effect on human beings.

A survey of the 13 municipalities in metropolitan Toronto showed that four of them are in favor of fluoridating the water supply. Two are hot in favor and seven are noncommittal.

The results were given to the Toronto board of health Tuesday. The board decided that before urging the Metro government to add sodium fluoride to the water supply, it would await the opinions of the Canadian Medical Association and the Ontario health department.

Fines Imposed

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Fines were imposed Tuesday on Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gulitovic who police said left their children, aged four and six, unattended in an automobile outside a hotel while they drank beer in the hotel's beverage room.

Magistrate William Davies told the couple:

"You are liable to penalties up to $200 and jail as well. The next time there'll be no alternative but to send you to jail."

He fined them each $25 and costs or one month for leaving the children unattended, plus $10 and costs or an additional 15 days on a charge of being drunk.

Going Has Been Rough for Small Car Companies

DETROIT (AP)—Where do the smaller auto companies go from here?

The question is heard with increasing frequency in automotive circles in the United States as the larger companies—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—continue to account for more than 95 per cent of the industry's output and a big share of its sales.

"Don't worry about the smaller companies," is the reply of some of their spokesmen. They maintain the smaller concerns will work out their own destiny.

But the going has been rough for little fellows. In 1953 the smaller concerns, sometimes called the "independents," built 542,068 cars. That was 8.8 per cent of the industry total. In the first quarter of this year's first five months they built 106,234 cars, or just a shade under 4.5 per cent of the industry total.

Mergers alone do not solve the problems of the smaller car companies, spokesmen say. They maintain that efficiency, both in the factory and on the sales front, provides the answer to their problems.

But some analysts say the Kaiser-Willys merger of last year and the more recent consolidation of Nash-Kelvinator with Hudson motors were just a beginning.

Most of these sources look upon as eventual joining of Packard and Studebaker as a certainty. Some go even further and predict that eventually there will be one big company, made up of all the smaller ones, offering competition to the "big three."

TCP gives up to 15% more power within 400 miles

Shell-discovered additive blended into Shell Premium Gasoline releases power formerly held captive by lead and carbon deposits.

TCP is the greatest gasoline development in 31 years.*

Acts so fast you'll think your engine's had a tune-up before you've finished your second tankful—within 400 miles

You can be almost certain that you are not getting the full power your car's engine was designed to deliver.

That's because lead and carbon deposits build up fast in the combustion chambers and on spark plugs. Power you should be getting is held captive in your engine.

No exceptions

This happens to all cars. In combustion chambers these deposits get red hot and pre-fire the fuel before the piston reaches its proper firing position. Power fights itself as a result of pre-ignition.

Power is also wasted when these deposits short-circuit spark plugs and cause misfiring. This misfiring and pre-ignition are the major cause of power loss in your car.

TCP Unleashes Captive Power

This Shell-discovered additive "fire-proofs" deposits in combustion chambers to stop pre-ignition. On spark plugs it makes the deposits non-conductive and prevents spark plug short-circuiting.

Up to 15% more engine power is released by Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP.

Less Than Two Tankfuls

So rapid is the action of Shell Premium with TCP that you'll feel your engine has had a tune-up before you've finished the second tankful.

TCP is a Shell-discovered additive carefully blended into Shell Premium Gasoline. Strike Running At Post-War Low In United States

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strikes are running at a post-war low in the United States, but things may not stay that way.

Major contract negotiations are getting under way in the steel, rubber, telephone, electrical manufacturing and maritime industries to make a few. Any of them could touch off a wave of strikes.

The coal industry is an example. With production dragging because of a loss of export markets and reduced fuel requirements in the depressed steel industry, the United Mine Workers union headed by John L. Lewis is letting months tick by without exercising an option to seek higher pay.

Behind the present relative labor peace is an awareness that nobody is really sure what is going to happen to business. Some of the steam is gone out of the drive that saw workers getting higher wages year after year in the post-war period.

WITHOUT RAISES

During the first three months of this year a great many contracts were settled without any pay raise at all, merely extending old agreements. Yet some employers shelled out heavily, wanting no labor troubles while business was good.

Many union and management men closely following the situation say that, next to the business lag, the prime reason for so few big strikes these days is that President Eisenhower is keeping aloof from labor disputes.

Under some former administrations, employers charged that unions often fomented strikes, or strike threats, to give the government an excuse to step in and help get them more than they'd normally expect in collective bargaining.

RELATIONS MATURING

Many students of the labor situation sincerely feel that labor-management relations are constantly maturing and that this, too, is an important reason for fewer labor troubles. Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said recently:

"Every year, about 100,000 collective bargaining agreements are peacefully negotiated or renewed in the United States. The few strikes make headlines, but the numerous peaceful settlements are not news. Hundreds of thousands of individual grievances are settled without a work stoppage every year."

Long-term contracts are paying off, too. The five-year agreements in the auto industry, for instance, have assured smooth labor relations. Those agreements expire next year.

SIGN CONTRACT

GUATEMALA (AP)—A government-negotiated contract has been signed between the United Fruit Co. and Communist-led striking banana workers. A vote by the workers to accept the contract may bring an end to the month-old walkout early next week.

LONG, LONG LETTER

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Pfc. Robert G. Hinkley of the United States army got a 112-foot letter from his girl Monday, but he wasn't really surprised. During the seven months he has been in Germany, he's received five other unusual letters from her, each 50 feet long. Besides, he gets one normal-size letter from her a day.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was walking along with Puds Simkins just walking along, and Puds said, Look, it's dead.

And I see a cricket laying on its back, and we leened over to look at it close, and it started to wave one leg, and I said, Hey, it aint all a ways ded, lets try to save the rest of its life.

Sure, crickits are useful, Puds said. The main way you can tell when you're in the country instead of the city is because there's so many more crickit noises, he said, and I said, Let's be 3 insect doctors and have a consultation.

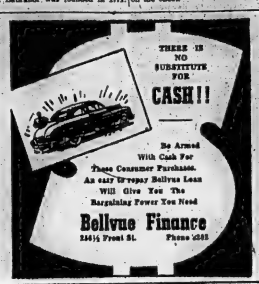
Okay, what do you think, dock? Puds said, and I said, I guess it's sick because it feels neglected. Let's find another crickit to keep it company. What do you say, dock? I said.

Heck, by the time we found another crickit, this one will be ded from loneliness, Puds said. Let's cheer it up by imitating crickits ourselfs, he said.

Which we did, both making crickit sounds neer the crickit's ear with no effect on the crickit, either proving they were bum imitations or elts it was the wrong treetment, and I said, How about running home and melting an aspertin and giving it to him a drop at a time?

Sure, people take asperins for everything, why cant crickits? Puds said, and I said, Let's make it more comfortable while we're going for the asperin.

And I termed it rite side up with my finger nails, and what did it do but quick run away as if it never knew it was sick.



Proving if you always knew what to do to help nature, people would never need a doctor.

Families Prepared to Honor Dads With Gifts, Dinners, Festivities

Every Dad Has His Day and this year it's Sunday, June 20th. Dad may be taken for granted 364 days of the year, but on the 365th Sunday of the month, now annually designated Father's Day, it's different.

This is the one occasion during the long year exclusively devoted to turning the tables on Dad. It is the occasion for letting him know in unmistakable terms how important he is aggr-ciated, how much what he stands for means to the family and the nation. It is the time when, instead of "taking" from Dad, Mom and the kids turn to "giving" to him.

Under the guidance of the National Father's Day Council, a watch has made the watchword of the day this year is "Dad's Doing Plenty for Us—Do Plenty for Him." tive event has become a new tradition.

It is a citizenship day, during which emphasis is placed on the ex-mple the good Canadian Dad sets for his youngsters, and the sacrifices he makes for them.

It is as a feast day when the family gathers much as they do at Thanksgiving time, but on this occasion the dinner is in his honcial honor.

And it is a gift day, when each member of the family presents a gaily wrapped token to father at the festive board.

Members of the family in search of appropriate gifts for Dad on his day have an exceptional opportunity this year to get more for the money they are going to spend to do him honor.

Selecting gifts that will make a hit with Dad can well start with a family survey of things everyone knows he would like to have but which he has denied himself up to this time in order to make sure mother or the youngsters got something they wanted or needed.

Start with a check of his wardrobe, his shirts, his slacks, his leisure shoes. Consider his hobbies and sports interests. Give a thought as well to some of the "luxury" items which Mom knows well he wouldn't buy for himself, but which he would like to have.

The possibilities for making him happy on his day and for a long time after are almost limitless. Start shopping early to make sure the gifts are thoughtfully chosen.

Gifts of Sportswear Will Add Pleasure to Father's Leisure

Most men's clothing purchases are largely for their business lives, which leaves the way wide open for their leisure hours.

A sports coat, some sport shirts, slacks or walking shorts make excellent choices. Add such items as sweaters, leisure jackets and beach togs and you have a wording life-up from which to choose Dad-pleasing gifts.

The sports coats this year are very versatile—can be worn for anything from luxurious loafing to informal summer entertaining. For instance, the crisp, rib-effect sports coats, newly introduced, have unusual coolness and wrinkle resistance, making them welcome wear in the afternoon, but dressy enough to be worn in the evening. They look especially handsome in the off-white shades, often shown with contrasting slubs of gray in the weave.

Sports shirts are always a welcome gift. Dad never thinks to buy them for himself. Look over the soft worsted jersey sports shirt. Paradoxical as it may seem, worsted jersey is an excellent fabric for summer wear; it acts as sort of an "insulator" to keep the heat out.

In the field of slacks, you can choose from a wide variety of gabardines, flannels, linen linens, sail cloths and the new "miracle" fabrics and blends.

If Dad is headed for the beach this summer, he'll welcome a gift of bathing trunks, a good beach robe or a rabana set and beach shoes.

Leather Lends a Touch Of Luxury to Dad's Day Gifts

This year, why not give father something in leather? He'll admire its luxurious appearance and feel, and relish its distinctive masculinity. Its beauty will be as enduring as the family love for him.

You'll find handsome leather gifts in the stores, ranging all the way from traveling cases, casual shoes and smart-looking billfolds to driving gloves and cuff-link and tie clip sets.

A leather wallet or pocket secretary is always a welcome Father's Day gift, and this year you can find them in colors and textures that go with his clothes.

Leather belts are another way to Pop's heart, especially if you remember to match them to his summer slacks. You can choose from a wide variety of good-looking belts, including the popular woven leather type.

If Dad does any traveling during the year, leather luggage will strike a responsive chord. A two-suiter, of rugged but lightweight mellow leather is sure to please him. Match with a weekend overnight bag in a traveler's twosome, if you really wish to gift him lavishly. A leather kit for his toiletries and a leather encased traveling clock are other "naturals."

For Dad's days at business, you can't do better than get him a distinguished looking leather brief case or attache case. The latter can double as an overnight bag on short trips.

For his evenings at home, consider a pair of comfortable slippers in the new lightweight leathers. They actually feel like a "second skin" on foot.

Leather footwear—from house slippers to newly styled loafers, also holds many attractive possibilities for Dad's day gifting. It's usually easy to know his size, or you can even take one of his old shoes to the store to make doubly sure. Or, if you want to play it absolutely safe, a gift certificate from the shoe store will do the trick.

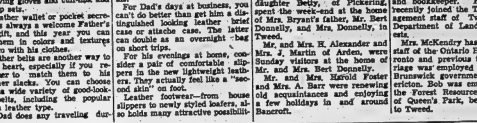
Mr. and Mrs. H. Alexander and Mrs. J. Martin of Arden, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Donnelly.



Mr. and Mrs. Harold Foster and Mrs. A. Barr were renewing old acquaintances and enjoying a few holidays in and around Bancroft.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham Dafoe, of Regina, were visitors last week at the home of Miss Edith and Miss Frances Graham, and Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Dafoe. The couple were married in Regina on May 29th and are in Eastern Canada on their honeymoon. The groom is a son of Mr. W. A. Dafoe and the late Mrs. Dafoe (Eva Graham) of Regina, and the bride is the former Miss Maxine Vance, of Regina.

Dad Will Ever Treasure A Gift of Jewelry

The jewelry stores are rich in gift inspirations for those who would make Father's Day long remembered as a long happy memory. There always is something special about a gift of jewelry that makes it particularly suitable for honoring that very special Dad to perfection.

The variety of gift selections in jewelry is almost unlimited. There are, for instance, cuff links in a wide array of designs, shapes and sizes and in prices ranges to suit all budgets. Then there are tie clips, collar pins or belt buckles to co-ordinate with the cuff links.

High on the list of gift possibilities is emblematic jewelry. Make sure to be spreadsated if Dad belongs in a fraternal organization.

Birthstone signet or initial rings also represent good gift choices.

Then there are pen and smoking accessories as lighters, cigarette cases, boxes and holders. Don't overlook the thoughtful gift is a travel clock in its own leather or metal carrying case.

Probably Dad already has a watch, but maybe he's due for a new one or an "extra" geared to his specia, interests. For instance, a water-resistant, shock resistant watch to wear when he golfs or goes fishing. Gifts of jewelry cost less now that the federal excise tax has been reduced.

EPICUREAN DADS.

If Dad is a gourmet, he will enjoy some of the more exotic foods that come so attractively packaged. If he is a cheese enthusiast, you can delight him with a gift-wrapped pound of one of his favorites or an assortment of different wedges brought together in an attractive tin.

If Dad just plain likes good food, a gift basket of fruits, jellies and other delicacies may hit the spot. If he fancies himself as an "amateur cook," an outdoor barbecue wagon will score a hit with him.

Gifting's Easy If Father's a Smoker

Most Fathers are confirmed smokers and there are smokers' gifts galore that are sure to please them. The cigar smoker will welcome a box of his favorite brand or enjoy the treat of a more luxurious blend than he usually smokes. A humidor to keep his cigars fresh or a case to keep them unbroken will also be high on his list.

The pipe smoker never seems to have enough pipes. Pipe racks, pipe tools and pouches are other happy gift suggestions. The cigarette smoker would like a carton of his usual brand. A good case makes an excellent gift, too, and this year cigarette holders are becoming more popular than ever which smokers, of course, can use lighters (both pocket and table variety) and there is a goodly assortment in a wide price range.

DAD'S FAVORITE

Is the Father in your family a sports enthusiast? Then you're lucky, because there is an almost endless selection of gifts to choose from.

Is golf his special dish? Then a set of matching wood or irons may hit the spot. Or if he's well equipped with clubs, a new lightweight golf bag or golf caddy for his old one may be the answer. And, of course, he can always use a dozen of his favorite brand of ball. A gift certificate for a new pair of golf shoes may also be right on the target.

Should Dad be a tennis fan, he may need a new racquet or a restringing job on his present one. A pair of new tennis shorts, a tennis sweater and some tee shirts will also help his court game.

Fishermen Dads can always use some new tackle. The sporting goods stores are well stocked with new equipment and replacements for the old. Many a book on mistakes and their field of work.

The July meeting is to be held at the church with Mrs. Harry Clarke, lunch convener and Mrs. Clarence Fitchett is to prepare the program.

W.A. MEETING

Mrs. Harry Clarke gave an interesting report of the recent W.A. convention held in Trenton.

Mr. Kenneth Stewart gave a short talk based on the thought "In the Beginning, God."

Mrs. Maurice Clancy and Mrs. C. Fichett contributed a vocal duet with the pianist, Mrs. Bruce Slagley, playing their accompaniment. Reading by Mrs. B. Slagley.

The president thanked Mrs. Harlow for opening her home, the program convener and all who had assisted on the program.

Rev. L. J. Hardy dismissed the meeting.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and all enjoyed a social half-hour.

Families Keeps Dad Up to Date With Gifts of New Apparel

Now is the time for the family to check Dad's wardrobe and take steps to fill in the gaps and bring it up to date with their Father's Day gifting.

You can put this down for sure: there never was a father who couldn't use a few more business shirts, sport shirts, ties, socks, sport jackets, slacks or some of the many other items of apparel now present in wide array in the men's wear stores and departments.

The infinite variety of men's wearables offered today makes the selection of this type gift much simpler than it has been in the past.

Take summer business shirts, for instance. Many of these are made with half sleeves and ventilating weaves for warm weather comfort.

Color, too, is important. More and more men are supplementing their white shirts with blues, grays, tans, pinks, yellows and stripes. Sports shirts, on the other hand, show a trend to simpler patterns and the traditional plaids and checks.

If Dad is an active sportsman, there are new knit shirts, constructed to hold their shape after many washings.

Slacks designed for dress-up, sports or just plain lounging are another favorite. Meeting with high favor is a new group of denim wearables designed for the "do-it-yourselfer."

Many of the whole family should get together on a new suit for Dad. The new contours are both narrower and more natural. Fabrics are no longer confined to solid colors, and the old monopoly of brown, blue and gray has been broken.

Most of the summer suitings have subtle, overall patterns, rather than being solid color in a plain weave.

TRAVELER'S SHIRT HOLDER

Dad's shirts will stay crisp, clean and visible for quick selection in a new travel case with a window made of bakelite vinyl film. Equally useful for travel or use in closet or chest storage. For a real "super" gift, present Dad with some new shirts in one of these holders.

"The Store That Quality Built"

Variety is the Spice of Tie Selections for Father's Day

Always a "natural" for Father's Day gifting, this year's crop of neckties offers an unusual variety of bright and beautiful designs, as different to the touch as they are to the eye.

Neckwear designers have placed heavy emphasis on the use of fabrics and the blending of fabrics with designs. Featured are the newest in horizontal stripes, contrasting colors, vertical designs and plaids in a wide array of fabrics that include nylon silks, shantungs, cottons, rayons and foulards.

Also popular are the overall pewits on light grounds, the newer designs on wovens and the embroidered under-the-knot treatments on all types of fabrics. The colorful regimental striped reps continue to rate high with men.

If Dad is a bow tie fancier, he'd like some of the new patterns and designs and fabrics. The one inch wide square end bow tie is now a best seller for all age groups.

In buying ties for Dad, it is a good idea to use his suit colors as a guide. They suit teams smartly with brown, blue and maroon. Brown will go well with every shade in the beige and green families. White suits, hues of blue and grey can be alternated with maroon shades.

Winning Tips on Dad's Day Gifting

Where size is a factor, as in suits, sports coats, shoes and hats, a gift certificate from Dad's favorite store is often the happiest solution.

Jeans of durable denim make an ideal gift for the handy-man-about the house.

For weather protection, give Dad a good lightweight raincoat, an umbrella or a waterproof active sports jacket.

For his "evenings at home," a luxurious lounging robe is in order.

Bring summer to his necktie wardrobe with a handful of cool looking white wrap reppe and new themed prints.

The smart new pajamas that double as loungers or sleepers will glamorize Dad's "night life."

What Dad ever has enough socks? You can choose from a wide variety of stylings, including argyles, stripes, novelty designs, plain ribs and knit-in checks.

Hamilton Club Takes Honors In Regatta

MONTREAL (CP) — A fresh-water yachting club from Canada's inland seas took top honors in the first day of the royal Canada bora Tuesday.

John Robertson of the Royal Hamilton Yacht Club—who sails Lake Ontario as a rule—was winning skipper in the first day of the three-day event over a five-mile triangular course off nearby Pointe Claire.

A crew of sailors from Halifax, representing the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht squadron, skippered by Alex D. Gillard, was second in points.

In third position after the day's racing was the English crew who came across with the royal yacht Bluebottle, owned by the Queen and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh.

Soccer Results

The Trenton Merchants and the RCAF United teams played to a scoreless tie in a Bay of Quinte soccer match played last night.

The game scheduled for Saturday in the Eastern Ontario League between Peterborough Merchants and Batawa has been changed to Sunday. The game will take place at 3.30 p.m. in Batawa.

Good Tools Sure to Please

Father's Day, 1954 will see more Dads than ever before repairing, remodeling, modernizing and redecorating their homes and making a wide variety of useful articles in their home workshops.

The burgeoning "do-it-yourself" movement finds many an executive, salesman, clerk and accountant discovering latent talents as a craftsman. He saves himself plenty of money on 'jobs-about-the-house' and gets a big bang out of it all in the bargain.

If you Dad is one of these "do-it-yourselfers" your gift problem practically solves itself. No Dad ever has all the new tools and gadgets he wants for his home workshop.

You can put a gleam of joy in Dad's eyes with one of the new power tools. These range from sizeable little portable drills with attachments for sanding and polishing to bench models to be installed in his basement or garage workshop. All are designed to reduce "muscle work" to a minimum and enable the amateur to achieve professional results.

Less expensive, but equally desirable are fine hand tools. These include planes, sets of wrenches, sets of screwdrivers, well balanced hammers, saws, miter boxes, squares, shovels and levels. Many complete kits of hand tools come in compact metal chests, and make ideal gifts.

For the Dad who likes to save important money by doing his own painting about the house, there are paint trunnes, paint rollers and pint, scrapers and trowels.

For the gardening Dad, there are new tools in wide array, ranging from small hand variety all the wa,y up to power mowers to make lawn care a breeze.

Olson Scores Easy Win Over Turner

HONOLULU, (AP)—Middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson scored a blood-spattered one-sided technical knockout over Cesar Turner of St. Louis in the eighth round of a scheduled ten-title go at Honolulu Stadium Tuesday night.

Olson weighed 6¼ pounds over the 160-pound limit. Turner weighed 161. There were no knockdowns.

Both of Turner's eyes were closed and he was bleeding from the nose and from cuts under each eye when the fight was stopped in one minute, nine seconds of the eighth. Olson was hardly panting at the end.

Northern Wins Seventh in Row Over Pt. Anne

(By GARRY ALEXANDER)

With big John Batchelor's bat smashing out a triple and single to drive in four runs, Northern Electric turned back the closest threat for supremacy of the softball league lead, Point Anne, by a convincing 9-2 score at the Alemite field last evening.

The Henn-coached crew came up with a five run explosion in the fifth frame after getting two in the first. They added a pair in the sixth while the Pointers notched all of their tallies in the seventh.

Lum Casson sweated on the hill for his team's seventh win scattering eight hits, turning back only one on strikes and walking only two. His infield came up with a pair of flashy double plays to shut down on any possible scoring danger from the Oz-pointers.

Batchelor Hunter, after throwing five innings the night before, relieved last evening but could not control Northern's batting power. He was hit freely eight times, six of them coming in the fifth and sixth frames to plate seven runs. Three went down on strikes with five drawing walks.

The undefeated nine got off to a fast start in this one with Soules and Carr walking only to score after on a sacrifice, error and fielder's choice. They threatened in the third but a great throw by Mallory from centre caught the runner on home.

Northern massed a walk to Carson, an error and successive singles by Carr and Locke to get their next pair in the fifth. Batchelor followed with a triple to deep left for another pair and an infield out scored him before the damage was over. Again in the sixth it was Batchelor who singled home Soules and Locke for a 9-0 lead after Soules' one-bagger and an error to put Locke on base.

Bob Strahan led off the seventh with a triple for the Pointers and brother Bill singled him home after Mallory filed out. John Green then met one of Carson's golfer balls, lifting it far and high over the left field fence for a 9-3 ball game. Carson promptly retired the last eight batters he faced.

Batchelor led the attack with his two important blows while Pete Jones and Don Locke bagged out a brace of singles each. Claude Carr and Doug Soules rounded out the eight hits with singles.

Roger Mallory and Bob Strahan shared batting honors with Strahan getting a triple and single while Mallory had a double and single. Green with a homer and base hits by Jack Wardman, Bob Hunter and Bill Strahan were the other safeties.

The line-ups:

Point Anne—Wardshaugh, Gilmore, Hull, Serra, Bob Strahan, Bill Strahan, Mallory, Elliott, J. Green, Hunter.

Northern—Soules, Carr, De Rushie, Locke, Batchelor, Whiting, Cousins, F. Jones, Culkin, Carson.

Rocky Will Win Within 15 Rounds, But Mr. Talbot Does Not Say When

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Rocky Marciano looks like a cinch to beat Ezzard Charles tomorrow night and keep his heavyweight title. There is no valid reason why a fighter who has won 48 times should stumble over No. 49.

As long as Rocky is going to be the winner, it has to be by a knockout somewhere inside the scheduled 15 rounds. As to the exact point where Rocky will explode one against Ez's chin it's hard to say, because the champion is somewhat unpredictable, except that he always wins.

The most widely accepted theory seems to be that it probably will be after a lot of rounds to tag Ezzard. We have heard several renowned experts predict it will not occur before the 14th or 15th round if Charles can't get it over and doesn't at some earlier stage take it into his head to slug with Rocky.

Joe Louis knocked out an early knockout of the challenger. He watched Charles' workout and commented that the man was practicing to commit suicide.

Ezzard, himself, says a trifle peevishly that it's nobody's business what he's been doing in training. He adds that he has known for a long time exactly how he will fight Marciano and that he has done nothing to tip his intentions. The only sensible guess has to be that the former champion will try to stick Rocky with his good left and stay out of harm's way as long as possible.

There's no doubt what Marciano will do. Rocky knows only one way to fight and so do the 18th Middleweight-point but frankly, he would be silly to try to change his style now in the very slightest respect. Rocky says he has worked only to improve his skills, which consist of an ability to keep on throwing his iron fists for round after round.

Rocky misses many a punch, many of his swings and hooks by the arms and shoulders, and every one of them hurts. After a time, the other man's arms and shoulders begin to feel as though they had been worked over with a tire. His defence lapses and he's a goner.

Our own strong feeling is that the body punishment will get Charles in the end, as it did Rocky LaStarza. It is doubtful he ever has been hit so low body as hard and often as he will be tomorrow night.

If it is necessary to name the round to hold the licence, we'll take a flier on the 13th. Wouldn't be much surprised if Ezzard is ahead on points when it happens, either.

Mills Brothers Tangle With Powerful Duo

That will be a powerful partnership throwing its might against the hated Mills Brothers, when the team of "Tex" McKenzie and Paul Ballargeon charges at the Murder Inc. brotherhood in the fracture wrestling bout at the Memorial Arena on Friday night.

Two of the strongest men in sport, McKenzie goes six-feet-nine, weighs 265 lbs. and handles big barrowweights like a medicine ball. Ballargeon, one of the famed family of muscular brothers from Quebec, lifts horses off the ground for pastime, consequently has no trouble tossing his rivals around with the greatest of ease. The prospect of the Mills being bounced about the ring like table-tennis balls is a delightful one.

Timothy Geoghegan, popular Irish wrestler, has just returned from a successful U.K. campaign, and will oppose Ray Villmer, the St. Louis bum-saw, in the semi-final.

Jolnard Barend, of Rochester, will meet Don Lewin, of Buffalo, in the first event. "Bunny" Dunlop is the referee.

HORSESHOES FOR DAD

If Dad is one who prefers to take his exercise in milder form, he will find hours of pleasure in a horseshoe pitching set for use in his own back yard.

Madoc Defeats Stewart Warner

Madoc's entry in the Belleville and District Softball League came up with a 23-7 win over the winless Stewart Warner nine played at Madoc last night. The win gave Madoc a 2-3 record while it was Stewart Warner's sixth straight loss without a victory.

Minor Baseball

Robb Rockets came up with a 15-2 win over Houston's behind Leo St. Denis' one-hit hurling effort in the opening games of the midget baseball league played last night.

Robb's pounded Joe Ryan and Gordie St. Louis for 14 hits including home runs by Ross Walmsley and Charles Kingston, while Houston's only hit was a bases empty homer by Jim Hannaford.

The winners started things off with a big six-run Walmsley cracked his circuit blast batting in leadoff position in the first inning. Four more runs crossed the plate in the frame with another pair in the second while adding four in the fourth and doubles in each of the fifth and sixth. Ryan took the loss while giving up nine hits and eleven runs in four frames.

The top hitters on the winning team were Kingston, Walmsley, St. Denis, McCann, and Cruji with two hits each.

Line score:	R	H	E

Tigers May Sign Cardinal Star

HAMILTON (CP) — Coach Carl Voyles of Hamilton Tiger-Cats said Tuesday night Ray Ramsey, halfback with Chicago Cardinals, for the last four years, may play with the Big Four club this year.

Voyles said he will phone Ramsey today to find out whether he will join the Ti-Cats. "I've been negotiating with Ray for some time but as far as I know he hasn't yet signed our contract," Voyles said.

Mounties Edge Hamilton 9-7

MIMICO, Ont. (CP) — Mimico Mounties won their first game in nine starts Tuesday, edging Hamilton Tigers 9-7 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association senior game.

Al Garbutt and Pop Chard paced the winners with two goals each. Jim McNulty tallied three times for Hamilton to take the lead in the league scoring race. Teammate Joe Scott scored twice.

Giants Take Over National Lead As Indians Widen Gap To Three Games

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARTER, Sports Editor

A THRILLER!

What more could you expect for your money. The Bains and Oshawa Transporters came up with an nifty a piece of baseballing seen here in a long while in that Violent League thriller last night. The game had about everything in the baseball calendar, including a near-Donnybrook and a smashing climax that saw our side snatch victory out of what seemed almost certain defeat.

It is not often baseball players indulge in fisticuffs, but when Oshawa's McArthur started to push big Vern Goyer around, something nearly popped off. Goyer was protesting the catcher's blocking of the plate when Fitz raced home with the tie-breaking run. However no harm was done other than the players being fined when the ole heave-ho.

The Bains seized a story-book finish after the Oshawans had grabbed a 5-4 lead with Varga's two-run homer. But they had not reckoned with Tony Fetilli's clutch clouting. Two runners were poised on the sacks when Tony shelled a blistering staple to right centre that scored the winning run and sent over 600 fans into a frenzy of cheering. The win gave the Bains a 4-3 record. They are tied for the loop lead with the Oshawa club.

WATCH THIS TEAM!

Let's hope the luck of the Reid's is better than that of the Carson's, as far as the weather is concerned.

* * *

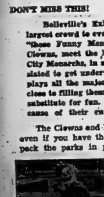
In case you haven't heard, Alderman Bryson Reid, more or less unheralded and unsung, has gathered unto his baseball fold another mighty intermediate club. In fact the newly-born intermediates, an entry in the Bay of Quinte Baseball League, opened the season very auspiciously on Monday night, edging the RCAF Trenton squad 3-2 in a closely-fought duel at Bains.

The Reid Regents looked exceptionally good in this fray. Young Harve Stollker, a graduate of Belleville minor baseball, let the air laddies down with three measly hits and gave promise of being a fine hurler. However that is beside the point for the moment.

Thursday night the Regents make their home-town debut, clashing with Johnny Mowat's Wellington Dukes at the Fair Grounds at 8.30.

And there is going to be a big parade with fun, bands, etc., which will begin at the Collegiate corner at 7.30; Jack Soule's cheery palamines, and flag-bearing Harry Abbott will lead the way with the Kinmen's Boys' band, the Hasty Pees band, the Kitties and the Municipal contributing their musical quotas. Belleville minor baseball players in uniform, sans, die, will round out the show.

* * *



Bryson has collected a smart, young club, which has been efficiently trained and coached by the veteran 'Chuck' Bassingn. If the sporting alderman has better luck than his senior Betas' counterpart, a good crowd should be on hand to cheer Belleville's second big brother baseball team to victory.

* * *

DON'T MISS THIS!

Belleville's Exhibition Park is expected to house the largest crowd to ever see a baseball game here tonight, when "Those Funny Men of Baseball," the Clowns, Indianapolis entry in the Negro American Champions, the Kansas City Monarchs, in an official Negro American League game, slated to get underway at 8.30 Here is an attraction which always all the major league parks and usually comes pretty close to filling them. They operate on the theory there is no substitute for fun. If they occasionally overdo it, it is because of their enthusiasm for the game.

The Clowns and Monarchs discovered a few years back that even if you have the world's finest players the fans will not pack the parks in paying numbers.

EDDIE HANMAN

First they hit on the idea of a clown show to augment the regular game. They hired the best circus clowns in America and as their games became more and more popular, they added better and more expensive acts. Last year a girl baseball player named Toni Stone walked into the Clown training camp and defied any of the Clown pitchers to fan her once. They tried and failed, whereupon the Clown management offered her a regular contract. She blossomed into a sensation, not only on the field but at the gate as well. The turnstiles clicked merrily. The Clown owner, Syd Pollock, tore up her first contract and gave her another in five figures.

Toni was sitting on top of the world, popular with fans and players alike. Five national magazines extolled her ability to play major league ball. Suddenly, like a bombshell exploding, Toni was sold to the Monarchs, for a sum said to be in excess of $20,000, her world collapsed around her — but not for long. She will start at second base for the Monarchs and handed her old number 4.

Toni will not be the only gal on the diamond. The Clowns have signed Connie Morgan, who is rated as good as Toni, and Mamie Johnson, a pitcher, who seems destined to achieve stardom. The Clowns have promised to start Mamie on the mound here. How far she goes will depend on her ability to cut the Monarchs down. This is a league game and neither club will take any unnecessary chances.

Fans are urged to be in the park by 8 o'clock, which is 30 minutes before game time. The Clown circus, featuring "Circus Eddie" Hamman, King Tut and Spec Bebop, precedes each game and continues throughout the battle. Circus Eddie and King Tut will perform in the stands as well as on the field. Gates open at 6.30.

Durocher Dans Edge Redlegs As Braves Blast Brooklyn; Tribe Trounces Senators 9-3

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

If Leo Durocher's bank balance holds out there's no telling what heights the New York Giants may reach this season.

Leo's personal investment mounted to $200 today as he handed out his checkbook and paid off Bill Taylor and Hank Thompson.

Taylor got his hundred for a home run in Milwaukee last Thursday, the only run in a 10-inning victory that moved the Giants into a first-place tie with Brooklyn.

Thompson got his the next Tuesday night with a three-run homer into the seats over in the stands that gave the Giants a 5-3 victory over Cincinnati and sole possession of first place.

DIDN'T TELL 'EM

In neither case did Durocher tell the hitters before they went to bat. At Milwaukee on the spur of the moment he told his bench: "If he hit like one of 'em I'll give him a hundred bucks."

The first Taylor heard about it was in the clubhouse where Leo hastily added: "I'll give it to him when we get home. He just wants it on the road."

The Giants knew from the seventh inning on that Brooklyn had lost to Milwaukee 7-6, meaning that first place was theirs if they could beat the Reds. Milwaukee took third place in the setback, Philadelphia bowed to St. Louis 3-1.

In the Series opener League Cleveland stretched its lead to three games over the Chicago White Sox by whipping them 9-3. The White Sox never quite found out what hit them as they fell to the Philadelphia Athletics 11-4. New York defeated Baltimore 6-4 and Detroit downed Boston 6-1.

THIRD STRAIGHT

The Dodgers, who lost only 17 games all in all last season, dropped No. 11 Tuesday night to the Braves, the third straight time Milwaukee has beaten them in Ebbets Field this year.

The Braves erased three Brooklyn pitchers for 14 hits and put together four singles in the eighth for the tying and winning runs.

Vic Raschi scattered six Philadelphia hits in winning his sixth game for the Cardinals.

Cleveland's sixth straight victory featured the return to limited action of Al Rosen. The heavy hitting first baseman limited slidded since June 4 with a fractured finger, appeared in two pinch hitting assignments Washington as a pinch hitter and unloaded a three-run double.

The suddenly-victorious Athletics won their fifth in a row, this time at the expense of Bob Porterfield, the American League's winningest pitcher. Porterfield was the lost victory 1 but against the Athletics he lasted only into the fifth inning. Jim Pridgan led the A's' relief assault with a double, a triple and a pair of singles.

The Yankees wrapped up their victory at Baltimore with four runs came on a homer by Joe Collins, his third of the season.

The Red Sox dropped their eighth straight as Steve Gromek beat them on seven hits. The victory was Gromek's eighth and his first since May 18.

Remember When

Jack Lovelock, slim New Zealander, defeated the cream of United States runners in the mile race at Princeton 18 years ago today. The former University runner easily defeated Bill Bonthron and Glen Cunningham. A year later Lovelock won the 1,500 metres at the Berlin Olympics in 3:47.8, a time that stood until Joseph Barthel of Luxembourg set a pace of 3:45.3 at Helsinki in 1952.

Ninth-Inning Two-Run Single Gives Batas 6-5 Victory Over Oshawa

Pettitt Drives Home Winner After Visitors Grab Lead; Teams Tied for Viaduct Top

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Tony Pettitt's stirring single to right centre field matched an eleventh-hour 6-5 victory for the Batas over the Oshawa supporters here last night and put the club on even terms with the Oshawans at the top of the Viaduct Ontario Baseball League.

Pettitt's drive came in the bottom of the ninth inning after Oshawa had pushed across a single run in the top of the frame to tie the count at 5-5 and deliver the ball into the hands of Pettitt, who had tucked the win away with a two-run homer in their half-of the inning for a 5-6 edge. Over 800 fans stood and cheered as Pettitt's screamer ripped through the Oshawa defence to score Doug Hull and Keith MacDonald.

The third-packed game was featured by a near-Donnybrook in the eighth when McArthur, Oshawa catcher, and pitcher Vern Goyer started to throw punches. A scrap was about to develop but the two principals being tossed out of the game.

CLAIMED INTERFERENCE

Coach Goyer protested that the Oshawa catcher had purposely interfered with Dick Fitzpatrick when he raced home in the eighth with the tie-breaking run. Words flew thick and fast and then the fun started.

The Batas had come from behind a two-run deficit to tie the count in the fifth innings. Both teams combed in the sixth and battled on even terms until the eighth when the Batas forged into a one-run lead.

Art Wright who won his third straight victory against no defeats recorded his fifth win of the year in the game in the top of the ninth. Two men were gone when pitcher Gerry Hall started a single, double to deep centre field. Frank Vargas, Oshawa shortstop who had fanned three times blasted out a towering home run that cleared the centre field fence to give the Oshawans the lead. Wright who had fed the next batter to retire the side.

Coach Goyer nd Eddie Wolleus took the last for Wright and the catcher got a life on Jeakocki's error. Doug Hull laid down a perfect bunt along the third base line and all hands were safe. Wolleus was forced at third on MacDonald's infield hit and Mouse Bush fled out to centre.

Dick Fitzpatrick then started a single through the hole sending the runners to second and third. Tony Pettitt caught one of Hall's fast ones and slashed it cleanly to right centre field for two runs and the victory.

Art Wright went the route for the Batas turning in another fine mound performance. His streak for out slants and walked but one. His only bad inning was the fateful ninth when the Oshawans drove out a double and a home run to score twice. He gave up eight hits.

Jack Durston a left-hander started for Oshawa and lasted four and one-third innings giving up three hits for two runs. Gerry Hall a righthander relieved him and was nicked for six hits good for four runs over the rest of the route. He was tabbed with the loss. Only one Bata batter struck out and he was Doug Hull who whiffed in the fifth.

SCORE IN SECOND

Oshawa took the lead in the second inning when Bill Gingerich scored after singling and being sacrificed to second. He raced home on Brabin's hit to left centre. They added another in the fourth on Gingerich's second hit and McArthur's triple down the first base line.

The Batas tied it up in the fifth when Pettitt led off with a ringing double. Peter Jones in his first appearance in a Bata uniform, lashed out a single sending Tony to third. Brother Davy drove out another single scoring both runners but went out trying to stretch the hit to a two-bagger. Gerry Goyer came up with the fourth hit of the innings and that was the end of Durston.

They pitched the Oshawa single run in the sixth after MacDonald popped out and Vern Goyer drew a stand-up double to centre field and scored on Dick Fitzpatrick's infield out. They took the lead in the eighth when with one out Fitzpatrick singled and went to third on Davy Jones' second hit of the pastime. The second baseman scored on an fielder's choice play racing home with the rhubarb-raising run.

Came the Transporters ninth inning two run-rally and the Bata's sensational last-minute effort that was that.

Pettitt with double and single and Peter Jones with a brace of single paced the Batas attack. Vargs was the temporary hero of the Transporters with his two-run homer with Bill Gingerich good for two singles.

In the other Viaduct League game played last night the Oakville Oaks swamped the Toronto Hookings 19-4.

9th-Inning Homer Gives Panthers Fifth in Row

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener Panthers, who have the longest losing streak in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League this season, now have piled up the longest winning string.

The Panthers, who dropped their first nine of the season, won their fifth in a row in Kitchener Tuesday night, edging Brantford Red Sox 6-5 on a two-run homer by playing manager Don Gallinger in the ninth inning.

The victory hoisted the Panthers to within 4½ games of the first-place Galt Terriers and 3½ games out of fourth place.

SNAP LOSING STRING

London Major snapped a four-game losing streak in London by handing the Terriers their fourth loss of the season—a 9-3 decision. John Andreone pitched a four-hitter to lead St. Thomas Elgins to a 2-0 shutout over Dunlop Windsor Royals in the league's only other game in Guelph.

Gerry Newfoundoula trounced the league-leading Creighton Indians 11-3 in Port Colborne. Bill Keeler gave st Garson, Sudbury Shamrocks whitewashed Frood Tigers 5-0 in Sudbury in the other Nickel Belt game.

In Toronto, where the only Viaduct Ontario Baseball League game was played, Oakville Oaks whipped Toronto Hookings 19-4.

HOMER IS CLIMAX

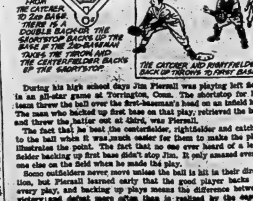
Gallinger's home run was the climax of the game which saw the lead change hands four times. It was his fifth circuit clout.

Trailing 4-3 going into the final inning the Panthers tied the score on a single by shortstop Ev Lee and Dick Curran. Gallinger then followed with his blast.

Veteran lefthander Cy Bricker, who faced only three batters as the third Kitchener pitcher, took the victory—his first of the season against no losses. Frank Parker who relieved starter Bob Goldbell in the eighth inning for Brantford, took the loss.

A walk to Jim St. Louis with the bases loaded in the third inning gave St. Thomas the winning run against Dunlop Royals. Don Berlan slammed a home run in the eighth inning to add the insurance run. It was the second consecutive shutout posted by the Elgins over the Royals.

The victory for Ambrose gave him a non-said record of 3-1. Ed Drapcho, who went the distance for the Majors, was first loser of the season. He has no victories.



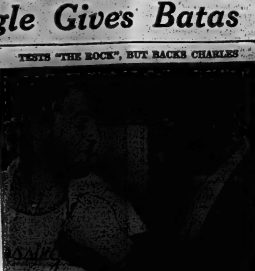
HELPED OWN CAUSE

Bob Brake, who won his third game of the season while defeating Galt, helped his own cause by driving in two hits in four trips to the plate, one a fifth-inning homer. He scored three runs. Playing coach Frank Colman, Jr., connected for a 400-foot circuit clout for the Majors in the first inning.

Mike Foniarelli hit the game's other four-bagger and pitched two wins for the Terriers. Bill Hanrahan, who has yet to post his first victory this season, took his second loss.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

BY MICKEY McCONNELL
Director of the Brooklyn Dodgers' Baseball School



During his high school days Jim Piersall was playing left field in an all-star game at Torrington, Conn. The shortstop for his team threw the ball over the first-baseman's head on an infield hit. The man who backed up first base on that play, retrieved the ball and threw the batter out at third, was Piersall.

The fact that he beat the centerfielder, rightfielder and catcher to the ball when it was much nearer for them to make the play illustrates the point. The fact that no one ever heard of a left-fielder backing up first base didn't stop Jim. It only amazed everyone else on the field when he made the play.

Some outfielders never move unless the ball is hit in their direction, but Piersall learned early that the good player backs up every play, and backing up plays means the difference between victory and defeat more often than is realized by the casual observer.

TESTS "THE ROCK", BUT RACKS CHARLES

Visiting Rocky Marciano's training camp at Grossinger, N.Y., Jersey Joe Walcott, the former champ, seems impressed by the titleholder's arm muscle, but in comment to newsmen later he said he was picking Ezzard Charles to dethrone Rocky in their June 17 bout. (Central Press Canadian).

Marciano, Charles Sweat Out 'Wait'; No Home Television of Big Fight

By MURRAY ROSE.

NEW YORK (AP) — The long, hard months of training are over. Now the hours grow longer for heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano and challenger Ezzard Charles as they sweat out the mental torture of waiting for the boxing bell of their title fight at Yankee Stadium tomorrow night.

While it is the biggest fight ever for most fighters. And most observers feel that it will affect the careers—Charles — more than the slugging Marciano.

It's the last mile to the stadium the night of the fight that gets the boxers," said Marshall Miles, who managed the great Joe Louis, and saw many of the Bomber's opponents before the battle. "They die on that ride."

PICKS ROCKY

Miles picked Rocky in 10 or less. "Charles probably will lead for eleven or eight rounds," said Miles, "and then Rocky will connect just like Joe used to do."

The odds are 2-1 that undefeated Rocky will make the former champion from Cincinnati his 41st knockout victim. On the fight itself,the29-year-old Brockton hurler is heavy favorite at 1-3½ choice. It was 2-1 against Charles scoring a knockout.

Both gladiators were due to leave their Catskill mountain training camps today. Rocky, Charles, who banged a final four rounds Tuesday, planned to leave Monticello by car at 1 p.m.

Rocky, who did some roadwork and calisthenics Tuesday, will take a helicopter ride from Grossinger, N.Y., to Newark, N.J., about 3:30 p.m. Then he will be driven into seclusion until the noon weigh-in Thursday.

POSSIBLE RAIN

Although there was a forecast of warm and humid weather and possible thundershowers for Thursday, promoter Jim Norris reported a brisk ticket sale.

He said there was $300,000 in the till and that he expected to go up to the stadium Thursday night with between $350,000 and $400,000. He held to his prediction of a $500,000 gate "or more" with a break in the weather.

The fighters will share in another $150,000 or so from the coast to coast home-television and $35,000 from the network radio broadcast. There will be no home television of the 10:30 p.m. (EDT) 15-rounder.

Marlene Shoots Record-Smashing 68 at Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — Marlene Stewart, who defends her British women's amateur golf title in two weeks, shot a record-shattering 68 at the Hamilton Golf and Country Club Tuesday in a ladies invitational tournament.

It was the greatest game the 20-year-old miss from Fonthill, Ont., has played. Riding on a hot putter, she scored 11 pars and seven birdies to break the women's course record of 74 set in 1939. Ladies' par is 75; men's 72.

It was four strokes off the all-time club record of 64 carded by Tommy Armour, one-time golf star, in the Canadian Open in 1926.

Second to Marlene was Mary Gay of Kitchener Westmount. She shot an 80.

Marlene leaves Friday to defend her British crown.

Del Flanagan Meets Gronik In Welter Bout

DETROIT (AP)—Del Flanagan of St. Paul risks his lofty welterweight ranking tonight when he meets Detroit's Allie Gronik, a hungry veteran getting his first chance at the big time after seven years of boxing.

The 10-rounder from Olympia Stadium will start at 10 p.m. EDT and will be televised from coast to coast (CBS).

Flanagan is rated behind only Carmen Basilio for Kid Gavilan's welterweight crown. His over-all mark is 65-2-1, with most of the victories compiled in a whirlwind start.

You can enjoy bridge without making squeezes. You can play a good enough game without knowing how they are made. But you may like to see how south makes a grand slam in clubs with these cards:

NORTH
♠A K 4 2
♥A K
♦Q 6 3
♣K 10 9

WEST
♠6
♥Q J 9 7 6
♦J 9 8 7 2
♣8 6 3

EAST
♠J 10 9 8 7 5
♥10 8 5
♦5 4
♣Q 5 4

♠Q
♥A 3 2
♣A Q J 5 4 2

West starts out with an opening lead of heart queen that must be won in dummy. A small spade goes to the south hoss queen. Dummy ruffs with a trump. A small spade is ruffed high by south.

Dummy gets in again with a trump return. Another small spade is ruffed high by south who does not care what west does about it. Dummy is now in to be cashed to set the stage for a Vienna coup.

A Vienna coup is where you use up a winning high card to set up opponent's winner (diamond king). Then you proceed to squeeze that winner out of him or give up some other suit instead.

A third trump enters dummy. On ace and king of spades there is a dump of the two south diamonds. Ten tricks are in. Dummy is on lead when he holds heart ace with queen and six of diamonds.

South has a trump and two small hearts. If each opponent holds one heart and two diamonds, dummy cashes heart ace and south ruffs a diamond to cash his small heart for the 13th trick.

Will east hold one heart and diamond king with small while west holds diamond jack and two hearts? Dummy leads diamond queen and the king cover is ruffed. Dummy gets heart ace and last diamond.

Will east hold two hearts and diamond king while west hangs onto a heart and two diamonds? Dummy leads small diamond and ruffs east king. Dummy gets heart ace and diamond on for the rest.

All this might not have happened if west had diamond king. So, you can sit there and say that declarer was lucky. But with the cards where they were you must admit he got it in a couple of days on location.

"I can walk without any limp now. My only problem was getting my balance. It's pretty hard after you've lost weight on one side."

Suzan returned to acting in television play, appearing with her husband, Richard Long. She said that has much to do with her present film role.

"The studio bosses saw me and figured I'd look good in a TV show I could walk in a picture," she reported. "So they called me the next day about doing the movie."

Bob Porterfield Burdette Top Major Pitchers

NEW YORK (AP)—Lew Burdette of Milwaukee and Bob Porterfield of Washington, a couple of righthanders the New York Yankees traded in 1951, are making a lot of headway in the major league earned run averages as the 1954 campaign streaks into its third month.

The 27-year-old Burdette, obtained from the Yankees in a trade section which sent Johnny Sain to New York, paces the National League with a 2.25 earned run mark. He has given up 21 earned runs in 84 innings, while posting a 6-5 won-lost record.

Porterfield's figures are even more impressive. Although he is runner-up to Detroit's Ned Garver in the American League competition, Porterfield has permitted only 34 earned runs in 105 frames for a 2.06 average.

Porterfield, 29, was acquired from the Yankees in a five-player deal on June 15, 1951. He has pitched 11 complete games in 12 starts this season, winning seven and losing three.

Garver, in 12 games, has yielded 22 runs in 86 innings, but only the runs were unearned. His earned run slate is a sizzling 1.43. Ned has four victories against two setbacks.

Hollywood (AP) —Suzan Ball leaves for South Dakota today by star in her first movie since being her leg because of cancer.

Suzan will appear opposite Victor Mature in "Chief Crazy Horse." her first movie role in a year and a half. Her last was in another western "War Arrow." During the filming of it, she suffered intense pains—the start of her battle with cancer. She lost her right leg by amputation above the knee, but her life was saved.

I visited Universal-International to see her on the first day of her return. Producer William Alland told me the role is a great opportunity for Suzan.

NO STUNTS

"She is the only woman in the cast," he said. "She plays the sweetheart, wife and then widow of Crazy Horse.

"She shouldn't have any trouble with the part. She doesn't have to do any stunts. She'll ride horses, except: pull a 'man out of the river. But we have a double for that, anyway."

Just then Suzan drove up in her sleek black convertible. With black braids and Indian make-up she was startlingly beautiful. She hopped gingerly from the car and walked on crutches to her dressing room.

"I'm getting used to crutches for the picture," she smiled, explaining why she used the crutches.

AT THE McCARTHY

The turbulent days of the Iron Horse provide a brawling Deadtown backdrop for "Ralls Into Laramie," the Universal-International Technicolor adventure which ends tonight at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre with John Payne, Mari Blanchard and Dan Duryea in co-starring roles. And the picture's strong element of conflict and powerful pattern of action along them match the vigor of the background.

Big, virile John Payne is a commanding figure in the story and in every scene in which he appears. As the often-in-trouble, trouble-shooting sergeant from Cheyenne, he is sent by the Army to help clean out a nest of desperate men who are trying, for their own gain, to prevent the railroad from getting beyond Laramie—and from taking the easily-spent payroll money with it.

Dan Duryea, gambler and saloon-keeper who is an old army-pal of Payne, is the ringleader of these parasites. As a result the plot of "Ralls Into Laramie" develops a strong character clash from the opening; more so, since Joyce MacKenzie, Duryea's fiancee, is Payne's sweetheart. And more immediately to the point, beautiful, blonde Mari Blanchard is now Duryea's partner and soon the object of Payne's amorous interest.

Developing through Payne's determination to clean up Laramie, his personal and official interest are the town meeting where Payne denounces the dishonest merchants who are obstructing his efforts, the trial scenes when Duryea is at first freed through intimidation and later convicted by an all-woman jury headed by Miss Blanchard, and finally the wild fight on top of a stolen freight train about to crash into an oncoming passenger train.

Duryea, characteristically full of humor and heartlessness and Miss Blanchard, as sure of herself as she is seductively beautiful, are perfect team-mates for Payne. Jesse Hibbs' direction is effective in building character as well as incident. Barton MacLane and Ralph Dumke are cast in important feature roles. Ted Richmond produced.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, June 16th, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—You will have to be practical and sound in all efforts and plans now. The day won't brook overconfidence, impatience or force. Smart management and co-operation needed.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—It will take more than your usual willingness to work to gain today; it will take keen analysis of subjects and problems, perhaps conferences and extra planning, but it will all be worthwhile.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Head advice to Aries and Taurus. Gains can be made by keeping on the right track and following the rules and methods you've found profitable in the past—honest ones, of course.

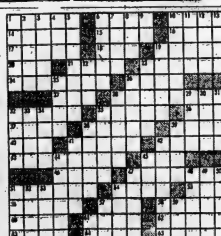
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Be sure you don't let first matters first; arrange day's program so that urgent tasks can be handled on time. No need to worry but do keep your mind on duties and avoid wrangling.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Brisk, quick-acting. You will have to stop, look and listen" if you would avoid needless errors, speaking out-of-turn— anything, in fact, that would interfere with normal, intelligent procedure. Poise!

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—A slower pace may solve some problems. Ground is newly laid by first looking over situations and then going ahead armed with proper knowledge and a definite plan of procedure. Make this day your own.

September 23 to October 22 (Libra)—Similar indications to Virgo can bring you profit today. You can achieve reasonable success if you don't fret, worry or grow impatient. Familiar matters should make new strides.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Good opportunities are all about if you look and work for them. Day mostly sponsors practical and useful matters. Activities that invite patience, steadiness. You can achieve.



November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Laborious work: mining, handling tools, machinery, precision instruments, surgery and dentistry highly favored by today's benefic Saturn rays. More can be urged in other interests.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — You steady industrious folks are more favored than many of us today with Saturn's fine position auguring well for personal benefits, occupational advancement. Do your best.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Industrial trades, work with skilled hands and unskilled but important tasks sponsored, along with farming, dealing in livestock, farm implements, machinery, tools in general.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces)—Experience, forethought and proper allocation of day's duties will be big helps now. Much good will result from alert and smart handling of your affairs, but taboo worry, anxiety.

You Born Today are an interesting, versatile yet occasionally provocative somebody; probably always in the go, ever ready for change and excitement. You should, however, settle down to life's occupation (profession or whatever) before brain and body are too tired or bored to achieve as you so well can. Keep improving your education by study, good reading, etc., and go deeper than the surface for more solid and lasting knowledge. God has blessed you with fine assets and talents; see that you make proper use of them. You can be an entertaining, delightful companion. Birthdate: Gustavus V, Swedish king.

First Research Conference On Cancer Meets

HONEY HARBOR, Ont. (CP)—Canada's cancer investigators are marking 10 years of organization by research into the disease with their first research conference.

About 175 scientists from universities and hospitals across the country met at this Georgian bay summer resort today to begin a four-day session sponsored by the National Cancer Institute of Canada.

The first session, presided over by Dr. G. L. Duff, dean of medicine at McGill University and NCI president, was devoted to a discussion of tumors in experimental animals.

Other sessions during the week will involve the mechanism of cancer's origin, what happens in tumor cells and the effects of radiation, a special session on lung cancer will be held Thursday.

RESEARCH EXPANDED

Cancer research in Canada has grown in the last 10 years from a handful of workers in scattered universities to the present point where nearly 200 are engaged in fundamental research. Relatively few who are directing research, however, are working in a full time capacity.

NCI officials say that while cancer research with the NCI is expanded in a decade, only about $500,000 is spent on it yearly.

This compares with the annual budget of $2,400,000 of one United States organization, New York's Sloan-Kettering Institute.

Purpose of the current conference is to bring together investigators in various fields because so much specialization is involved in ever-widening cancer research that investigators may lose touch with fields other than their own.

Jury Fails To Reach Verdict In Theft Charge

WELLAND (CP)—A jury hearing the cases of Gabriel Blair, 29, and Joseph Harbaway, 33, of Toronto, on three counts arising from theft of $20,000 worth of platinum metal concentrates last November, failed to reach a verdict Monday night after deliberating for five hours.

The charges arose from theft of two drums of platinum concentrate from an International Nickel Company shipment from an express office at Port Colborne last Nov. 3. The drums were found near Castorville. Blair's car was found overturned in the area.

The two men were charged with theft of the partly-refined platinum concentrate with having possession of it and with retaining stolen platinum concentrate.

A total of 37 exhibits were entered by the Crown. The defence called no witnesses.

Combined Estate Of $474,000 Left to Son

BRAMPTON (CP)—The bulk of the $474,000 combined estate of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Adamson has been left to their son, Christopher, 41½, it was made known Tuesday when their wills were filed for probate.

Mr. Adamson, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for York West, and his wife, Cynthia, were among 37 persons killed last April in a collision between a Trans-Canada Air Lines passenger plane and an RCAF trainer over Moose Jaw, Sask.

A son, Agar, 30, from Mr. Adamson's previous marriage, was not mentioned in the wills.

Mr. Adamson's estate was valued at $450,781, and Mrs. Adamson's at $24,781.

Both sons live with Mr. Adamson's brother, Brewer Adamson Adamson of Toronto township. Agar Adamson and Agar were not mentioned in the will because he stands to inherit money under the will of his great uncle, W. H. Cawthra, who died in 1936.

Immense Proportions Of Canada's Far North Will Be Driven Home to Edinburgh

By GRAHAM TROTTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FORT SIMPSON, N.W.T. (CP)—The immense proportions of Canada's far north with its barren-to-horizon grandeur of bush, rock, water and tundra will be driven home to the Duke of Edinburgh in a crowded 2½ days of flying over the Northwest Territories.

After opening his northern visit at Whitehorse, Y.T., the royal traveller flies next into the Territories Aug. 9 to the trading post of Fort Simpson, 200 miles to the southeast of Fort Radium and the Arctic Eskimo settlement of Coppermine and then to [illegible] south of Yellowknife [illegible] to Churchill, Man.

That involves almost 2,000 miles of flying for the busy duke. He will spend only a short time at Fort Simpson and Coppermine, stopping overnight at Fort Radium and Yellowknife.

TO SEE NATIVE LIFE

Visits to Indians at Fort Simpson and Eskimos at Coppermine are intended to give him an insight to their life in true native surroundings, while northern mineral development will be unfolded to him at Fort Radium and Yellowknife.

About 150 miles west of Fort Simpson, on his 450-mile hop from Whitehorse, the duke's C-5 aircraft will pass directly over 316-foot Virginia falls in the fabled Nahanni river and "Headman's valley" country. The wild but ruggedly-beautiful Nahanni has for years been a lure to adventurers and gold prospectors.

In Fort Simpson, 630 miles northwest of Edmonton, he will find one of the prettiest spots along the north country's mighty Mackenzie river. The village, named after an early fur trader is on a 3½-mile-long by one-mile-wide island built up from silt at the confluence of the Mackenzie and Laird rivers.

The C-5 is to land on an airstrip 12 miles south of the village. The party will reach the island community by boat.

The duke will step ashore at the south end of the island, where the Slave Indians live in tents, frame shacks and log cabins.

It is planned to have the Indians go through one of their drum dance rituals for the duke. They also will demonstrate craft work, which includes beads, moose hair, porcupine quills and skins.

NORTHERN FARM

At the north end of the island, the duke will inspect an experimental farm operated by the federal agriculture department. One of the northland's oldest, it grows wheat, corn and big tomatoes among other items.

Also on the island are a 40-bed Roman Catholic hospital, two federal day and separate schools, two Anglican and Roman Catholic churches, picturesque RCMP barracks, a Hudson's Bay Company trading post and a Catholic mission farm.

Fort Simpson has a permanent population of 200, about 80 per cent white, which is swelled by about 300 transients—the people live by fishing, trapping and oil development.

At Fort Simpson, the duke will transfer to an amphibious Canso aircraft for the 300-mile flight to Fort Radium, on the east shore of Great Bear Lake, 670 miles north of Edmonton.

The Canso will land on the lake beside the small, fairly isolated company town of 350 persons. All derive their livelihood from one of Canada's largest uranium-producing mines, operated by Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., a Crown corporation. Practically all residents work there.

Fort Radium is on a point of land at the edge of the lake. Most of the surrounding country is rugged, with 300-foot rocky bluffs dropping into the lake.

ICEBOUND IN WINTER

The community is icebound during the winter and the annual ice breakup will come little more than a month before the duke's arrival Aug. 8.

Operations at Port Radium see shrouded by security restrictions, and not much is known about the duke's itinerary there. However, he will visit the mine workings and possibly go on a lake fishing trip aboard a company yacht. He will stay overnight.

When the duke's Canso lands in Coronation gulf at Coppermine Aug. 10, after a 140-mile hop from Port Radium, it will mark the first arrival of British royalty on Canada's Arctic coast.

Coppermine, about 90 miles inside the Arctic Circle and 980 miles north of Edmonton, is chiefly a settlement centre for some 200 Eskimos. It has a white population of about a score, living and working in a similar number of red-and-white frame buildings.

When the duke arrives, the coast will be ablaze with colorful, pin-cushion-like wild flowers, but there will be no snow or Eskimo igloos. The natives will be in caribou-skin tents. They will be wearing fabric parkas, with the women favoring bright colors.

BIT TIME FOR ESKIMOS

The coming of important visitors or supply boats is a big event for the Eskimos, who drop what ever they are doing to be on hand. Last year the supply boat, which comes in twice annually, docked at Coppermine on the same date the duke is scheduled to arrive.

Beluga, white whales which form the summer staple diet of the Eskimos of the western Arctic, may be hunted before the duke appears and displayed on the beach for him.

Also planned is an open-air luncheon at which the duke's party likely will be treated to the delicious red meat of the Arctic char, a fish that averages five to six pounds. If weather is bad, the luncheon will be moved indoors, probably to the Hudson's Bay Company residence of the federal government's day school.

Coppermine has Roman Catholic and Anglican missions, a federal health department nursing station manned by one nurse, Hudson's Bay Company warehouse and store and small RCMP and transport department meteorological staffs.

After a stay of about two hours, the duke boards the Canso again to fly 370 miles south to Yellowknife.

Guatemalan Exiles Mass in Honduras For Drive on Reds

Honduras Minister Promises To 'Prevent Any Incidents'

By SAM SUMMERLIN

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) Guatemala has called on Honduras to stop anti-Red Guatemalan exiles who are reported massing on the border for an assault against President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman's Communist-influenced regime.

The appeal was made Wednesday night by Guatemalan ambassador Amadeo Chinchilla to the Honduran foreign minister, J. Edgardo Valenzuela, as reports here and in other Central American states indicated a showdown might be imminent between the Arbenz government and its anti-Communist opposition at home and abroad.

"We have reports that well-equipped soldiers carrying guns are being flown and driven by car to points near our border," Chinchilla told reporters. "They are being flown in scattered planes." The Guatemalan envoy said Valenzuela gave him assurances that Honduras "will prevent any incidents at the border and has given orders for seizure of any arms there."

PUSHING PREPARATIONS

Reports here and abroad indicate the anti-Arbenz forces are pushing their preparations for a try at unseating the Guatemalan regime, strongly backed by Communist parachute troops already have been dropped into Guatemala. The sources gave no details.

Reliable sources here say Guatemalan exiles are being airlifted to points near the border. Three planeloads of men dressed in khaki were reported flown out of Tegucigalpa Wednesday and an unknown number earlier.

A close aide to Carlos Castillo Armas, head of the Guatemalan exile movement, here, claims 5,000 anti-Arbenz men stand ready along the frontiers of El Salvador and Honduras and "at least 20,000" reporters inside Guatemala will rise up to fight against the present communist czars."

Castillo Armas, in a message to his Guatemalan "compatriots" said he would be with them "very shortly."

Chinchilla told reporters it was expected the Castillo Armas forces would "start fighting Friday."

Cmdr. Wilgress is the second Canadian to command air operations aboard the aircraft carrier Magnificent. The post, usually held by a Royal Navy officer, was filled by Capt. John C. Reed of Toronto for seven months in 1948.

Cmdr. Wilgress, who has been staff officer (air) to the naval member, Canadian joint staff, Washington, will succeed Cmdr. Arthur H. Abrams, DSC, of the Royal Navy, on loan to the Canadian navy for the last 2½ years.

HOUSE COMPLETES LONG DEBATE ON WHEAT MARKETING

Govt. Defeats Motions Of Non-Confidence

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons has completed a debate on wheat marketing problems but western wheat growers face a new problem in the form of rain-sodden fields.

Repeated heavy rains have hit the Prairies this spring and Wednesday the bureau of statistics reported that new storms last week swept through northwest Manitoba, northern Saskatchewan and west and north-central Alberta.

Because of this wheat acreage will decline in affected areas because of the delay in seeding. Experts say the rains have also hampered intended wheat planting by more than 1,000,000 acres.

The bureau estimated last month that farmers intended to cut wheat plantings this year by almost 5,000,000 acres to 24,587,100, lowest in 24 years.

NORMAL CROP

Canada has produced three successive normal crops in the last three years. Officials now guess this year will see no more than a 350,000,000 bushels.

The bureau's report Wednesday was released at about the same time as the Commons was defeating two opposition motions of non - confidence in government wheat marketing policy.

A Progressive Conservative motion, which said the government has "failed to deal effectively with the problem of marketing Canada's wheat crop" was defeated 137 to 58.

A CCF proposal for a floor price on wheat of at least $1.62½ was defeated 141 to 52. The price was the level prior to a recent 10-cent-a-bushel cut in export prices.

ON AGRICULTURE

All three opposition parties supported the CCF motion, but Conservatives sided with Liberals on the CCF price-floor motion. Liberals and Conservatives united in voting against both motions by two to one majorities. Speakers for Liberalism, Beauce, and Fernand Girard, Lapointe.

The wheat debate centered on two factors—10-cent price cuts by both Canada and the United States, and the existence of large wheat stocks in the face of a depressed world market.

It is estimated Canada will enter the new crop year starting Aug. 1 with one of the biggest wheat carryovers — at least 500,000,000 bushels or more.

Opposition Leader Drew, speaking Wednesday, renewed previous opposition calls for an immediate announcement of the initial payment to be paid for the coming crop by the Canadian wheat board. The current price is $1.40 a bushel.

SAYS UNREALISTIC

He described the floor price proposed by the CCF as unrealistic under present conditions.

Stanley Nicholson (CCF—Macken zie) said a floor price is necessary to stabilize the Canadian economy in a falling market. Wheat growers should not be left holding the bag.

With the completion of the wheat debate, the Commons turned to the study of government estimates of expenditures totalling $554.52 million next year.

The House completed consideration of transport department estimates begun some time ago and then adjourned until Monday at 3 p.m. E.S.T.

600 Britons Hear 12-Year-Old Girl Tell How She Got Rich in Canada

LONDON (CP) — Six hundred Britons — 3 pitiful emigrants crowded into a downtown hall Wednesday night to listen respectfully while a 12-year-old girl told them how she has become a successful business woman in Canada.

The speaker was trim little Valerie Sampson, who already has become something of a tycoon since she left Britain to live in Wexford, Ont. She arrived in Britain last month — paying her own cost of her trip with money saved by baby-sitting and delivering newspapers.

Valerie—12 years old Monday—showed remarkable self-possession as she stood on a platform and told of her "adventure-and-success" routine arranged by a travel agency. Asked whether she preferred Canada or Britain, she came back like a flash:

"Canada—of course."

Her precocity has won her headlines in the British press—they call her the "Gee Whizz kid"—but Valerie takes it calmly.

"I'm not a public speaking," she said in an interview. "There were lots of nice things I couldn't back home in Wexford."

CMA to Establish College To Aid General Practitioners

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A college for Canada's 8,000 family doctors was launched today by the Canadian Medical Association.

The college, which will have its headquarters in Toronto, is designed to aid general practitioners in keeping abreast of rapid developments in the medical field and to assist study, encourage maintenance of a high standard of general practice.

Patterned after the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, it will be known as the College of General Practice.

Official inauguration of the college took place today, following announcement of its establishment a year ago.

In a formal inauguration ceremony Wednesday night attended by Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace of British Columbia and leading dignitaries of the Canadian medical profession, Dr. G.F. Strong of Vancouver was installed as CMA president. He succeeds Dr. C.W. Burns of Winnipeg.

During the tradition - steeped meeting, attended by close to 1,500 convention delegates in the ballroom of Vancouver's Hotel Georgia, Dr. Strong was presented with a sterling silver tea service in recognition of 25 years as secretary of the association.

The presentation to Dr. Routley, who was named president-elect of the association Tuesday after his retirement as secretary had been announced, was made by Dr. Strong and Dr. Norman E. Gosse of Halifax, chairman of the CMA executive council.

Wednesday delegates also heard Sir Howard Florey, Oxford pathologist and medical researcher, outline experiments in the fight to eradicate tuberculosis.

Establishment of the new college will be Dr. Murray Stalker, prominent rural practitioner from Cowansville, Que. Dr. Victor Johnston of Toronto and Lockeport, Ont., is executive director.

The college will have no classrooms and no instructional staff, but will arrange for both undergraduate and post-graduate instruction for general practitioners at universities, hospitals and medical schools.

Dr. Johnston said in order to maintain membership in the college, family doctors would be required to complete 100 hours of refresher study every five years.

To assist doctors to attend courses, the college will compile a roster of refresher courses to take effect on receipt of doctors on course.

Wednesday, Sir Howard Florey told delegates there is a "good solution in sight for the eradication of tuberculosis."

He said the key to successful eradication lay in discovery of a method of early TB detection.

RAIN INCREASES PROSPECT OF HEAVY FLOODING

Incalculable Damage To Seeded Crops

REGINA (AP)—Prairie farmers and townsfolk could expect little relief from widespread flooding today as cold rains continued to pelt southern Saskatchewan.

More rain was predicted in most districts, with thunderstowers in southern and eastern Saskatchewan where heavy downpours and overflowing rivers have caused incalculable damage to seeded wheat crops.

Rural districts have reported heaviest flooding, with some crops ruined, side roads turned into swimming holes, stranded cars, livestock moved to high ground and several families forced from homes in eastern Saskatchewan.

The rain, began about three weeks ago in northwestern Alberta, spreading in torrential spurts to southwestern Manitoba. With the exception of Yorkton, Sask., almost isolated Monday night when rains washed out railway tracks, topped highways, the cities have reported little serious damage.

TEMPERATURES DROP

Temperatures in Alberta and Saskatchewan, which Wednesday from the 70s to 45 to 50, Winnipeg, 110 miles northwest of Edmonton, reported a low Monday of snow.

Flooding now is most severe in the Kamsack district, 150 miles northeast of Regina and near the Saskatchewan - Manitoba border, where the Assiniboine river flood has caused thousands of dollars and families after passing through Kamsack where similar damage was done.

Farmers living along the Assiniboine and Whitesand river valleys are reported flooded out—as they were last year—and were threatening to reach the level of the disastrous 1948 flood.

ROAD DIFFICULT

Roads are almost impassable in the district. A cement bridge on the western edge of Kamsack was covered by five inches of water Wednesday. Impact of troops and road blocks to keep traffic off the highway leading south which was under 10 inches of water. The main municipal road north was impassable.

Federal agriculturists estimate the flood will account for a 4-to-5 000,000-acre reduction in wheat planting. Some farmers kept off their land altogether now to seeding coarse grains, but the summer-fallow acreage is expected to be greater than usual.

Churchill Visit May Include Address to U.S. Congress

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill may address the American public for closer United States-British teamwork, possibly in an address before congress, during his visit in Washington for talks with President Eisenhower.

U.S. officials have raised the possibility of a congressional address and also the alternative that Churchill, a master orator and longtime advocate of British-American solidarity, might make a major new speech before an unofficial body such as a press group. Churchill has spoken before congress several times in the course of eight visits he has made to the U.S. since the beginning of the Second World War. However, "they said no invitation for a congressional appearance has yet been issued for the visit which begins a week from Friday.

The other possibility was suggested by President Eisenhower at his press conference Wednesday. He recalled that on a visit to Washington, Churchill was always a lunchtime guest at the National Press Club. Distinguished visitors often speak there.

Plans for the visit, announced simultaneously in London and Washington Thursday, Foreign Secretary Eden to leave at once due to fly from London Thursday and arrive in Washington Friday. Churchill will follow by plane. He state will begin Friday, informants said, and will go on at least through June 28 and 27. Churchill and Eden are expected to remain at White House guests through Sunday. If there is then reason for a longer visit, he will go privately to Eden and State Secretary Dulles and their advisers.

Diplomatic informants said Churchill's interest in coming here apparently is to have a series of private conversations with Eisenhower, Dulles and Eden aimed at reaching common understanding on world problems to be done, one informant suggested that Churchill, who is a strong supporter of the United Nations, would be willing to address the world organization.

Eisenhower told his press conference that he has in mind a informal meeting with Churchill will be to strengthen the bridge of understanding with Britain on the fixed agenda, he said, but the talks will deal with virtually every urgent world problem, including the Southeast Asia crisis.

Mendes-France Offers Peace Or His Resignation by July 20

PARIS (AP) — Pierre Mendes-France told the French National Assembly today that if he is voted in as Ramoe's new premier, he will resign Tuesday if he has not achieved peace in Indo-China by July 20.

Mendes-France offered this program for orienting France along a new national policy:

1. Before July 20, to try with all effort to obtain a settlement of the conflict in Indo-China.

2. By this time to submit a "coherent plan to give the country for economic recovery." He said he would ask special powers to make it possible to put the program into effect.

3. Before the parliamentary vacation, to submit propositions which will give the Assembly a chance to take a decision, without further delay, on France's policy concerning the European army.

Mendes-France said he would continue his talk of "urgent measures necessary in Indo-China.

"France will not accept any conditions of settlement in Indo-China which are incompatible with her vital interests," he said, adding:

"If the Indo-China conflict is not settled very quickly, we have to face the risk that it will develop into an international conflict, perhaps an atomic war."

After Mendes-France finished his speech, a number of deputies were expected to ask specific questions on his proposed policies.

After these questions have been asked, Mendes-France will ask for a recess until tomorrow when he will give his answer. The vote is not expected before late tomorrow night.

Pleads Guilty to Charge

QUEBEC (CP)—Gaston Morin, 20, of Montreal, Wednesday pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted robbery June 3 at nearby Cowansville.

An alleged accomplice, 18-year-old Maurice Fredette of Montreal, was also charged with attempted robbery.

Morin, arrested Saturday at Stratford, Ont., was arraigned Monday and Wednesday and twice ordered by jury. Preliminary inquiry was set for June 25. Later, however, he re-appeared in court and pleaded guilty. Sentencing was set for July 9.

By despite the fact that he said he did not want it.

The Reds and their supporters got 141 votes to 625 assembly votes. It takes 314 for confirmation, and the Communist bloc would fall the difference between victory and defeat.

The premier-designate said earlier that he would not take the premiership unless he felt he could work out the Communists. A later statement indicated he might have changed his mind.

New Chinese Plan And French Effort Keep Talks Alive

New Communist Proposals Warrant Further Study

By MAX HARRELSON

GENEVA (AP) — British-American plans for suspending the Indo-China peace talks were shelved to a day while the Western powers pored over a new Communist ceasefire proposal.

As a result of the Communist move and because of French opposition to suspension of the talks, it now appears unlikely that the parley will be recessed this week as had been expected earlier.

Red China's premier — foreign minister ChouEn-lai submitted the new armistice proposal to the plenary conference just as Foreign Minister Bidault returned from Paris to try to prevent the pre-recess.

Bidault entertained Foreign Secretary Eden and state undersecretary Walter Bedell Smith at dinner Wednesday night. The principal subject of discussion with the British and American officials obviously was the future of the conference.

SAY BIDAULT SUCCESSFUL

French sources said after the dinner that they believed Bidault had succeeded in preventing a "premature break-up" of the parley.

The talks will continue on the foreign ministers' level for the time being, they said, but will be turned over to deputies later.

Bidault arranged to see Premier and Foreign Minister Molotov today before he flew to Paris for a premier-ministers' meeting Monday. France's policy speech to the National Assembly starts this afternoon.

Details of the Chinese cease-fire proposal were not divulged by delegates who attended Wednesday's closed session. They were understood to cover three main points:

(1) a simultaneous cease - fire, (2) negotiations of the opposing military commands both here and in Indo-China, and (3) a proposed ban on the import of troops or arms into Indo-China.

A British spokesman said it appeared that definite progress had been made to justify continuing the conference. He also was reported to have said the Red proposals warranted study.

Air Vice-Marshal Dunlap Named To Air Staff

OTTAWA (CP)—Air Vice-Marshal C. R. Dunlap, 46, of Sydney Mines, N.S., has been appointed vice-chief of the air staff of the RCAF announced Wednesday.

He succeeds Air Vice-Marshal Frank R. Miller, named last week as chief of staff to Gen. Lauris Norstad, Supreme Commander Allied Powers in Europe.

Air Vice-Marshal Dunlap's appointment will take effect in early August.

Dunlap, who will hold the No. 2 post in the air force, has been commandant of the National Defence College at Kingston for the last three years.

Alice in Wonderland Drug Makes Adults Think They Are Children

LONDON (Reuters)—An "Alice in Wonderland" drug which makes adults feel they have shrunk back into childhood has been given to patients at a British mental hospital. It was a success today in the ordinary clarity," the British Journal of Psychiatry reports.

"The drug, an extract of the ergot fungus which attacks grain, is expected to have valuable uses in the diagnosis and relief of mental illnesses, which often have their origin in forgotten childhood experiences.

A married woman who was given the drug said she felt as if she had been shut up like a telescope.

"I wondered if I had gone small and was not the least surprised to find myself in a room quite little, the size of that of a child of seven or eight," she said. "I don't remember feeling a different size, ...nunuy peq i paqoq i uaqa ing ...ndon. Another woman said she had become a child of a few years old after taking the drug. Her clothes seemed huge and draped loosely about her. The doctor's hand seemed adult-size and she did not appear to a child.

The report said the drug, known as LSD-25, was discovered by Swiss scientists in 1938 and introduced in the Swedish mental hospital, Worcester, by the deputy medical superintendent, Dr. R. G. Sandison.

One woman to whom the drug was given at home apparently remained at the age of eight for two weeks, the hospital reported. Other occupants of the house, however, were bigger than she. Her own children became her former

22-Month-Old Did Good Job On Baby Sister

TORONTO (CP)—At 22 months, Dianne Keats wasn't old enough to paint the town red.

But with her grandfather's paint brush and a large pot of glossy white paint, found on the Keats verandah, she did a very good job on Ada, her seven-month-old baby sister.

First she painted the body, then the hair, and finished with a flourish. Then Dianne started on herself but was interrupted before achieving a complete result.

At the Hospital for Sick Children, vaseline removed paint from around the children's eyes and today the baby was removed from their hair by grandfather with a mixture of vaseline and alcohol.

But grandpa's buying another can of paint—for the verandah only.

FAULTY OPERATION

PARIS (AP) — A Paris court heard a surgeon guilty Wednesday of leaving a piece of his knife in a patient during an operation. It was in the Hospital for Sick Children, vaseline removed paint from around the children's eyes and today the baby was removed from their hair by grandfather with a mixture of vaseline and alcohol.

But grandpa's buying another can of paint—for the verandah only.

Police Blotter

Reports of pilfering from places of business were the major items on the city police blotter today.

Greatest loss was by contractors at the site of the new Quinte Secondary School on College St., where tools valued at approximately $25 were taken from The Tatham Company, and piping and bathroom fixtures from Kelly and Cracknell.

A break-in occurred some time during the night at the Lee Grille Dairy on Coleman Street, where entry was gained through a window. Silver amounting to less than $2 was taken.

The home of Earl Aitlin, 102 Pine Street, was entered during the absence of the owners and piggy banks were smashed with $2 or $3 being taken. Burned papers were found on the bed at the home.

Brighton Club Wins Top Honors At Campbellford

Brighton Bowling Club added another trophy to their large collection at Campbellford on Wednesday when they defeated McConnell and George Colling won the prize event at the tournament. A Campbellford rink or Archie Myers and his partner was second high and a Belleville rink of Wilfred Price and A. E. Wonsacott was third. Campbellford rinks won the two-game and one-game high to take most of the honors at their own tournament.

Other Belleville rinks to participate in the bowling were Cleo Colling and Gordon Edwards and Harold Parker and George Fauley. The greens were a little heavy but some excellent bowling was witnessed.

Dick Edney and William Duncan of Kingston, who represent Dominion Locks at the playoff for the British Empire Games in Vancouver at Winnipeg later this month were on hand to tune up their games but found the going a little tough and dropped both only one game. They were beaten twice by Belleville rinks.

There were 28 double combinations represented at the tourney including every club in the district. All report a most enjoyable time. The next tournament will be the doubles at Kingston on Saturday and a number of Belleville rinks will be on hand.

Minor Baseball

Schwab's Little Giants, last year's bantam entry in the O.B.A. playoffs, opened their opening game of the season last night to Vaughan's by a 5-3 score at the Alemite field.

Gord Vaughan hurled good ball for the winners, getting 14 of the Giants on third strikes in the seven inning contest while allowing four hits, all singles. Jack Elliott for Schwab's gave up only one more hit than Vaughan in the pitchers' duel.

Roger Walters two-run single in the second sent Schwab's out front but not for long as the visitors tied it in the third. They made it 5-2 in the sixth with the losers getting their final run in their half.

Some heads-up ball kept the score low as Schwab's came up with a neat double play in the first and later on, Jack O'Neil retired a base runner on the identical kind of theft, all the hidden ball.

Schwab's started a triple, Vaughan and Kerrulsh had doubles while Bellinger and Plane banged out singles for the visitors' big knocks. Jack O'Neil met Vaughan for a battle of singles while Dick Hurst and Roger Walters had one each in defeat.

Cowboy-Songster Gives Fine Show For Kiwanis Club

This city heard some of the sweetest music this side of Nashville, Tennessee, last night, when the Wilf Carter Show, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, played a cowpoke and to a enthusiastic audience of more than 1,500 in Memorial Arena.

Numerically, this show doesn't pack a large cast, but each member of it is a separate personality, so the pace throughout doesn't flag.

Cowboy-songster Carter, big wheel of western music in the entertainment world, steers the show through a slickly paced presentation of yodelling, guitar music and cow-punch ballads.

Helping to keep the family end up are Carter's two young daughters, Margaret Carol and Sheila, 11, who turn in some smooth guitar accompaniment.

Guitar-playing master of ceremonies Red Garrett led his "Pals" through numbers in a stream of well received hill-billy hits.

The Pioneers, Lloyd Ward Allen, 1953 Canadian Champion Old-Time Fiddler, who strings a violin to a lively tune incidentally, after winning the championship last year at Belleville, Ont., played a request, and recorded a medley of winning selections for Queen Elizabeth's coronation performance.

Comic Shorty Ladd, a fiddling Georgia Cracker from North Carolina, raised some king-sized laughs for his antics on the violin. He played "Listen to the Mockingbird," a story that he has to play the fiddle backwards, and "Sweet Adeline" at his act last night, would justify Meredith Willson's inclusion of the latter in his "Music Man."

Followed by a sanchez were pushed back and the evening finished with dance.

Although the applause last night was all for the boys on-stage, a big hand should go to the Kiwanis for sponsoring the round-up of western music, wouldn't be amiss.

China Will Send Envoy to Britain

LONDON (AP)—Red China has decided to send a chargé d'affaires to Britain to work for the establishment of full diplomatic relations between the two countries, Peiping Radio announced today.

The radio quoted a Peiping dispatch of the New China news agency, said the charge d'affaires in London would have the same duties as the British charge d'affaires in Peiping.

The envoy in charge of Britain's mission in Peiping is Sir Humphrey Trevelyan. He has been trying to arrange for the establishment of full diplomatic relations between Britain and Communist China since he took the post last year.

RECOGNIZED IN 1950

Britain recognized the regime of Mao Tse-tung at the beginning of 1950. She sent out a diplomatic mission at that time but the Chinese Communists have not accorded it full recognition.

Wartime Rubble Nearly All Cleaned Up in Hamburg

HAMBURG (Reuters) — This city, hardest hit of all German cities by Allied bombers during the Second World War, is expected to be the first to complete its clean-up of wartime rubble.

Hamburg's tidying — up plan, which has cost an estimated $200,000,000, should be finished by the end of this year.

North Rhine-Westphalia, around the Ruhr, was the worst bombed of West Germany's nine states. This state includes cities such as Cologne, Duesseldorf, Duisburg, Dortmund and Essen. In Essen nearly five years' work is still needed to clear the rubble.

In Frankfurt, 350 workers have converted enough rubble into tiles, slabs, cement and other materials to build 35,000 homes.

The group's experience is highly valued. Last year several Greek fishermen came to West Germany to seek advice on reconstruction after an earthquake disaster. A major worry has been the sorting out of the bombs and other ammunition left among the ruins. In Hamburg, armaments retrieved include 2,232 big bombs, 6,932 incendiary bombs, 115,148 grenades and more than 660,000 pounds of small arms ammunition.

Gleason Offers 15 P.C. of Salary As Alimony

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedian Jackie Gleason is reported ready to give his wife a separation and 15 per cent of his salary as alimony—or about $50,000 a year.

Mrs. Genevieve Gleason also would get custody of their two daughters, Geraldine, 15, and Linda, 12. But the roly-poly television star retains visiting rights.

She filed suit for separation April 9, two months after she walked in on a hospital room tete-a-tete between Jackie and Marilyn Taylor, a shapely dancer—on his Saturday night TV show. Gleason was recovering from a broken leg at the time.

Gleason was quoted as saying he'd like to marry Miss Taylor, a Roman Catholic, could not divorce his wife. The separation reportedly agreed on is to serve as a divorce and neither Jackie nor his wife can remarry.

SAT. SUCCESS HIT JACKIE

Mrs. Gleason charged abandonment and non-support. She said Jackie's tremendous success went to his head.

Mrs. Gleason asked a record $5,000 a month alimony. She will get almost that if she collects 15 per cent of his salary. She said Jackie earned $336,000 last year.

The Gleasons were married in 1936 but Jackie moved out about three years ago.

Jackie's lawyer, Richard G. Green, said no agreement has been signed but added there is "a proposed agreement which we hope to have signed."

French Forces Raid Vietminh Base Near China

HANOI (AP)—The French high command today reported at least 39 Vietminh troops killed and 30 captured in a flare-up of small clashes in the Red River Delta.

The high command said the actions Wednesday occurred mostly in the northeast and south of this major city of north Indo-China.

One action, however, was reported from Viet Nam's far northeastern coast, only a few miles from the Red River border. In a hit-and-run attack on rebel bases northeast of Yen Yen, French Union commandos killed 16 Vietminh and took 19 prisoners.

French planes continued bombing and strafing of guerrilla bases, some only 10 to 15 miles northeast of here. Fighters and B-26 bombers plastered upwards of 50 tons of high explosives and napalm on Vietminh concentrations and bases in the Hai Duong area, a half-way point on the vital highway and rail route from the port of Haiphong to Hanoi.

Other planes bombed and strafed rebel ammunition and supply convoys moving over routes leading from fallen Dien Bien Phu toward the delta.

Cancer Victim Withdraws Suit Over Cigarets

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A lung cancer victim Wednesday withdrew his $250,000 damage suit against four tobacco companies and a food store chain.

The withdrawal petition by Ira C. Lowe of nearby Festus, Mo., gave no reason for the action and Lowe's lawyer, Donald Siegel, said he could not discuss the move which was taken without prejudice, meaning Lowe may sue again if he brought again.

Lowe, 32, whose right lung was removed in 1952 after cancer was discovered, filed the suit last March, blaming the cancer on cigaret-smoking.

The defendants were the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, P. Lorillard Company, American Tobacco Company, Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corporation, and the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company.

The last named defendant had been included, Lowe said, as the operator of the store where Lowe bought his cigarets.

Grow Tumor Cells To Find Nature, Cause of Cancer

By JOHN TRACY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HONEY HARBOR, Ont. (CP)—Scientists are trying to find the nature and cause of cancer by growing tumors in laboratory bottles and in in-bred strains of mice.

Three authorities on experimental tumors Wednesday told of these new research tools in papers delivered before 175 experts at tending the Canadian Cancer Research Conference at this Georgian Bay summer resort.

Dr. H. B. Anderbont, biology chief at the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Maryland, one of the United States' top cancer research centres, uses mice in which susceptibility to cancer may be controlled.

IN FLACKS

Dr. R. C. Parker, a graduate of Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S., and a world authority in his field, is growing cancer tissue in flasks of chemicals at Toronto's Connaught Laboratories.

Dr. Margaret Armstrong has been growing cancer tissue in developing chick embryos at University of Toronto.

Experimental tumors form one segment of the vast field of cancer research. To determine the nature of cancer and eventually its cause and cure scientists must know what factors enter into the disease.

To study it in the human body alone involves confusing influences of heredity, the body's resistance or susceptibility to disease and scores of other factors.

West Berlin Reds, Attacking Rally, Beaten by Crowd

By GARY LEVY

BERLIN (Reuters) — An angry West Berlin crowd today beat up a gang of Communists trying to upset a mass rally outside West Berlin city hall in memory of last year's revolt against the East German regime.

Police riot squads fought to rescue the Communists from the flailing fists of angered West Berliners.

SCATTERED BEFORE RESCUE

It took nearly 40 minutes for police to rescue the demonstrators, badly bruised and blood-spattered.

The West German vice-chancellor, Franz Bluecher, and Erich Ollenhauer, leader of the Social Democratic opposition, were the main speakers at the rally. Both appealed to the Communists over loudspeakers blaring into the Eastern zone to free East Germany from its hated regime."

All public buildings in the three Western sectors were besieged. Shops, offices and factories were closed. Radio stations devoted all their programs to the commemoration.

It was a normal work day just a step across the East-West boundary. There were no flags. But reinforced "people's policemen" guarded the boundary, supported in some places by Soviet-style police in olive drab instead of blue uniforms, and armed with machine-guns.

Had Muskellunge Out of Season

LINDSAY (CP) — Two fishermen one, Frank Tomolo, the other an American, were fined in magistrate's court Wednesday on charges of having muskellunge out of season. The season opens July 1.)

Leonard Fletcher of Toronto was fined $20 and $2.50 costs on a charge of having in his possession a 27-inch muskie caught in Dalrymple lake on May 16.

Joseph Chebra of Kingsville, Ohio, was fined the same amount for having a 25-inch fish out of season. The muskie was caught in Sturgeon lake.

U.S. Editors Get Napanee Cheese

KINGSTON (CP)—Thirty United States newspaper editors lived for an afternoon Wednesday in the stirring times of 1860 when they visited historic old Fort Henry here on the 94th day of their annual Ontario - government sponsored tour.

The visitors arrived by bus from Cornwall and had luncheon in the Fort Henry mess which was given a five-pound cheddar cheese by Charles D. Sills, Napanee Chamber of Commerce president, as a souvenir.

Short addresses of welcome were made by Mayor George Wright, Charles Orenstein, president of Kingston Chamber of Commerce, Arthur L. Davies, publisher of the Whig-Standard and others.

Later the group left for Cobourg.

Commute Sentence Of Young B.C. Slayer

OTTAWA (CP) — The justice department announced Wednesday that the death sentence of William Wakefield Gash, 19-year-old New Westminster, B. C., youth scheduled to be hanged June 22, has been commuted to life imprisonment.

Gash was convicted of the bludgeon slaying of Frank Pitch last Dec. 10.

At Vancouver, Gash shed tears of joy when told of the commutation. With Gash at the time was his 17-year-old wife, Marilyn. They have a baby son and are expecting another child within weeks.

Judge Anderson Sets Aside Tweed Beverage Room Vote

In a 13-page judgment given today with respect to a hearing on the validity of a beverage room vote taken at Tweed last November 18th, Hastings county Judge J. C. Anderson has ordered the vote set aside on all three questions.

In the vote all three questions—men's beverage rooms, men's and women's beverage rooms, and the sale of liquor under a dining room licence with meals, failed by a narrow margin to receive the required 60 per cent vote.

However, certain irregularities in the voting were charged by the wets' interests who made application to have the vote set aside.

The hearing was held before Judge Anderson on three different dates — January 19th, March 26-27 and May 10-11. Judgment was reserved at the conclusion of the hearing.

Irregularities charged included failure of certain election workers to be sworn properly and voting taking place at booths which did not meet with election secrecy requirements.

STATEMENT OF JUDGE.

In his judgment Judge Anderson ruled that the vote "so far departed from the requirements and principals of the election act that it must be set aside."

Judge Anderson said he found no evidence of dishonesty or bribery or other similar charges on the part of any official or the scrutineers. He noted that this had not been alleged.

He noted that the vote was actually taken and that it was important that the exact wishes of the people should be reflected by the question and especially when the vote is close that there is at least a compliance with the principals and requirements of the election act.

SLIM MARGINS.

The three questions placed before the electors at Tweed were defeated by comparatively slim margins, in each case the affirmative receiving the most votes.

The vote on the three questions was: men's and women's beverage rooms, 497 affirmative and 418 negative; men's beverage rooms, 509 affirmative and 404 negative, and on the sale of liquor under a dining room licence 536 affirmative against 379 for the negative.

At the hearing Richard D. Arndt, Q.C., acted for the negative voters; Kenneth G. M. Ross of Ross, Cass and Graham, for the affirmative, with Garrett D. C. Morton, appearing for himself as returning officer.

McCarthy-Army Probe Now In Final Throes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator McCarthy appeared today to be priming fresh ammunition to fire at Democrats in what may be the final hours of the televised chapter of his turbulent dispute with army officials.

The Wisconsin Republican was due to return to the witness stand for what was billed as the last public session of the Senate investigations sub - committee's inquiry into the controversy.

Joseph N. Welch, the usually soft-spoken army special counsel who clashed angrily with McCarthy Wednesday, said he might be able to end his cross-examination today. Senatorial questions appeared about exhausted, barring some new flare-up.

Acting chairman Karl Mundt (Rep. S.D.) said he will call the sub-committee into a closed session Friday to sound out members on the possibility of agreeing on a single report on the charges aired in the public hearings which opened eight weeks ago today.

ARID COUNTRY

Saudi-Arabia, covering most of the Arabian peninsula, has no lakes or rivers.

Your Move, George . . .

It's amazing what machines can do:

There's one machine, an electronic brain called George, who can even play checkers. We say "who" because George is almost human : : : but not quite. George can't think. All he can do is process information and use his "memory" to solve intricate problems in the bat of an eye.

One day George's scientist companion decided he needed someone to play checkers with, so he taught George to play. But the scientist knew that if he taught George to "think" an infinite number of moves ahead George would always win. So to bolster his ego and maintain "man's superiority over the machine" the scientist taught him to calculate : : : not think, but calculate : : : only five moves ahead. And since theoretically a man can think an infinite number of moves ahead he should always win, whether at checkers or at other things : : : the trouble is he doesn't. .

In this business of investing there is no "George" into which you can put a set of facts and get back infallible answers. It doesn't work that way.

Here at Ames we haven't any "Georges" : : : just people. People who don't profess to be able to think an infinite number of moves ahead, but people with the experience and the training to note signs of strength here or weakness there. People who can draw up "personalized" investment programmes. People who can listen sympathetically and help you plan intelligently : : : the kind of people we believe you'll like to do business with:

SEWAGE DISPOSAL ORDER IS SWEEPING

Saturday, The Ontario Intelligencer warned editorially that the time may not be distant when they (other Ontario municipalities), like the Grand River communities, will receive orders from the provincial government to proceed with plans for the construction of (sewage disposal) plants to end pollution of public waters.

Tuesday, Hon. Mackinnon Phillips announced that the order issued last week to twelve Grand River valley municipalities was being extended to cover all Ontario municipalities with a population of 2,000 or over which possess sewer systems.

All these municipalities have until July 1, 1957, to take action.

Frankly, this action by the Ontario Department of Health has come quicker, and covers much more territory, than any person in close touch with the problem would have anticipated.

First press announcement of the order was worded in such a manner as to suggest that July 1, 1957, was the deadline for the construction of these sewage disposal plants. But that would probably be a physical impossibility. And, in any case, the original order specifies no deadline. It merely states that plans for these plants must be prepared by that date.

Even planning all the necessary plants by this date will prove difficult. It is surprising to find that the order applies to communities with populations as small as 2,000. This problem of pollution of public waters has been a long-standing game. Suddenly, at one fell swoop, the government orders action by municipalities. It would have appeared more logical if the order had applied only to larger communities, discharging large quantities of raw sewage into rivers and lakes, and left such smaller communities which faced a particularly acute pollution problem, because of the nature of the waters into which waste was discharged. Or, if the department wished to impress on all municipalities the fact that action was imperative, then one might have expected that smaller centres would have had a later deadline fixed for them.

Assistance in the construction of sewage disposal plants in every municipality in the province is impractical, it is no more an impossibility than expecting all these municipalities to be able to finance hydro works.

One of two things must happen—either the provincial government or the federal government or both will have to subsidize the construction of these plants or else these governments will have to assume the full cost of many services legitimately their responsibility, but which municipalities are now required to assist in financing.

Payment of the cost of sewage disposal plants through "sewer rental plans," as suggested by Dr. A. E. Berry, head of the department's sanitary engineering division, while desirable, is no solution to the financial problem. Largely the cost of these works will fall on the same shoulders, whether they are met through taxes on real estate or through sewer rental charges.

The latter plan does have the advantage of equating the cost of sewage disposal facilities more closely to the use made of them by individual consumers of this plan, however, will make it necessary in most cases for public utilities commissions to expend large sums in the purchase of water meters. The general opinion is that the only method of fairly assessing sewer rental charges is by metering all water consumption and then fixing water rates at such a level that they will pay for the cost of providing the water plus the expenses of installing water meters and of building and operating the facilities by means of which users dispose of this water after it has served its purpose.

Two points immediately suggest themselves. Firstly, in many communities the water rate structure is sadly in need of adjustment. Some classes of users are not paying the true cost of the cost of providing water. In some instances industries have been paying less than the cost of the water itself, even without any provision for any of the overhead. Such a situation cannot be tolerated; it would be many times worse if the cost of sewage disposal plants were included in water rates.

Secondly there are the users of water who do not use the sewers to dispose of the water when it has served its purpose. In Belleville an example which immediately comes to mind is the use of water by the railways for steam locomotives. Some adjustment in rates would have to be made so that the railroads, and similar users, were not paying for disposal facilities which they did not need.

OURS OR THEIRS?

J. V. McAree, writing in the "Circle-Bar Fourth Column," passes on the suggestion he has heard that one reason why Canadians do not go constructively in the city parks is that they do not think of them as ours. They think of them as theirs and theirs may be parents, elder-men or other elders against whom they naturally rebel.

Mr. McAree adds that, "If this is true, the remedy would be to make these youngsters understand that the parks are theirs."

Such a program would almost certainly reduce vandalism in parks, and for this reason would be desirable. But it would leave untouched the main problem, applicable to conduct in many of these places in parks, and to many people who are not youngsters. That problem is to gain acceptance of the principle that anything which is theirs should be accorded as careful treatment as it would receive if it were ours.

NO PAINTER, I

That "Do it yourself" is a phrase

So I purchased two gallons of

But, I learned that Tom Sawyer showed much better sense.
By getting his comrades to

I boasted at painting I'd set a

"When I finish the ceiling you

I climbed up the ladder, with courage to spare,
And got paint in my eyes and my

I got paint on my shoes, and my

And how that occurred to my last

Two gallons of paint for the Ex-deputy reeve of Thurlow township, Eric Stuart Denyes has been elected by a large majority of the votes of the members of the county council in the office of clerk for the County of Hastings to succeed the late William D. Nugent. He will assume his duties immediately. There were ten other applicants for the position. Mr. Denyes is a son of Mr. H. J. Denyes, ex-M.P.P. for East Hastings, who now resides in the old homestead in the 8th concession of Thurlow township which was cleared by the Denyes. Eric Denyes is a member of one of the oldest families in the records of Hastings County. His grandfather, the late Nathan Denyes settled in Thurlow township over one hundred years ago. During the First Great War Eric Denyes served overseas for four years. In France when serving with an artillery unit, he was badly gassed in a German drive at Thelus Wood. He was educated at the local public schools and a graduate of Albert College. He is married and has two sons.

Yesterday there was a large turnout of the militia at the Driving Park when the 15th Battalion, Argyll Light Infantry, received new colors which were obtained after years of endeavors of the Soldiers' Wives' League. The presentation, which was most impressive, was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators from the city and vicinity. The Rev. C. B. Besmith, M.A., rector of St. Thomas' Church, acting chaplain of the regiment, performed the office of dedicating the colors. Following the dedication, Capt. Hoyle Bargar advanced and received the King's Color from Mrs. J. E. Bullivant and Capt. Hayes received the Regimental Color from Mrs. W. T. Porter. At this point Lieut.-Col. W. N. Ponton, speaking for the ladies gave an interesting and fascinating address, in which, Lieut.-Col. J. Earl Hayes) made a gracious reply. There were 548 men on parade for inspection followed the presentation of the colors. The proceedings of the Battalion's close with a sham battle.

Files Claim To Moon Acres

(Edmonton Journal).

There is a fellow down in Arizona who has filed a claim for 100,000 acres of land. It may be worthless, it may be valuable bits of property, but though there is plenty of similar land to be had all around the claim, it is unlikely a rush will develop, because most people are too busy laughing up their sleeves to snap it up.

Actually, it is no wonder people are laughing, for a land claim'ed is on the moon. But is this claim as ridiculous? On the basis of recent scientific developments, it is reasonable to assume that man will reach the moon in within fifty years, perhaps even sooner, and it is also the possibility that some tycoon will be tickled by the idea of owning property on the satellite, build himself a suitable means of transport and go there himself or an empire in the sky.

Then will come the millinery and the scientists—certain and shamefaced that someone had been there before—requesting alms for their installations. Think of the rents that could be demanded.

Why, the real estate men could charge the moon.

As for the rest of us who were too timid, too fearful of scorn to file the claim, we will be "Cruise Kings" early enough, nothing will remain but to bay with the dogs every time the moon rises to remind us of our shortsightedness.

Pony Is Born Aboard Liner

(New York Herald Tribune)

The pony is not generally regarded as a seagoing animal, and very few of them are born in mid-ocean. This distinction, however, belongs to a certain tentatively named Parthia Lad, born aboard the Cunard liner Parthia. The colt arrived, somewhat earlier than expected, while his spother was making a crossing from Liverpool to New York preparatory to taking up life on a farm in Pennsylvania. Since ocean liners, though they generally anticipate every need of their passengers, do not carry midwives for horses, the delivery was assisted also by the ship's lamp-trimmer, a gentleman named George Aldridge.

Lamp-trimmer, it may be mentioned parenthetically, constitute another distinction, as Mr. Aldridge said wistfully that he got most of the odd jobs on the ship since he hadn't had any lamps to trim for many a year. Supervising the birth of a colt certainly comes under the heading of odd jobs, but it probably was a little more than Mr. Aldridge bargained for while he was trimming his last lamp years ago. All in, a day's work, he might well have relished as he helped to bring a new life into the world And Parthia Lad, once he got his sea-legs, never knew the difference.

Jesus Only Practical Man

(Birmingham, Eng., Post).

"Practical men" inside and outside politics have come, or soon must come, however reluctantly, to the realization that Jesus Christ was, after all, the only really "practical man." Unless man will "love their neighbors as themselves" (and by "neighbor" is meant not only "our own kind") there is no future for them, for mankind's quarrellings and hatreds can now lead to the destruction of all mankind — and indeed all life on this planet.

How has this predicament come about? As the Archbishop of York said yesterday, it cannot be the will of God. No, it is something that we ourselves have found as human pride than God's "punishment" for it" cause and effect.

Terms that have been well-nigh laughed out of court as primitive, mankind has an instinctive need to create idols. Almost anything can be erected into an idol, and often it is something that is worthy of its proper place. Can there be any doubt as to the idol, perhaps the greatest ever known, which is being set up and is drawing numbers of worshippers for three centuries?

For three centuries now Western man has been unconsciously enough, to obtain the benefits conferred by scientific knowledge. But he has not been content with that. He has thronged to His Altar. Science, here, he tells, was Truth—the only truth. The worship of false gods has always brought disastrous consequences and now mankind stares appalled into the face of a false god that can destroy it utterly. That is a theological statement of the situation. The scientist will state it in his own terms (getting the same answer) noting the appalling legacy left to the post-glacial times the age of the reptiles came to an end because there was not enough strength were not to inherit the earth. Man; neglecting the spiritual side of his nature, has appeared to suppose that brain would inherit the earth. Now, intelligence, divorced from its true purpose of serving God, can bring about utter ruin. If, as is reliably stated, man may soon be able to destroy all living creatures and all vegetation on the planet, the geologist, at any rate, can visualize that the earth would appear as it was in the Carboniferous Age, a vast steaming bare and lifeless continents.

Need this be the end of the "human experiment"? The answer is a firm No. But it cannot be averted in any easy way by the abandonment of the international level, by signing petitions against the hydrogen bomb and the cobalt bomb. Greed and hatred at the international level will not be cured of many lesser greeds and hatreds at the personal level and the group level within a nation. Neither will right conduct toward one's neighbor be induced by the consequences to oneself. There has only been one completely "practical Man"—on this planet and there is no way but His.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SLEEP REMEDIES

The most precious moments of each day may be those that gather about you as you put yourself away in your bed for your daily rest. Unless I am mistaken, the troublesome events of the day, Cocoanutre upon the many blessings that you count them one by one. They are sure to drive away the unpleasant things thinking of them.

Just to be living is a free counter by a sense that millions dream about. If you have health, food and clothing, and a home, no matter how humble, think of those who would be glad to have even these blessings. And if you have friends, who love and believe in you, you have a wealth beyond price.

You are the inheritor of every star in the sky, of its beauty and its mystery. All nature is yours to enjoy. You have a mortgage on the blue sky with its floating, ever changing cloud formations.

Every tree, rock formation, waterfall, lake or ocean coast, these are yours for the asking and I could go on. Every bird-call is a note from Heaven, and the song of the lark is in your bed wondering why you can't sleep!

Then there are the counting sheep, count your blessings. They are bound to be more numerous than the number herd of any animals. Give thanks to God for them. Think of them as you lay your rest for the night with gratitude for all that you are and have. Think of those who are far more unfortunate than you imagine yourself to be. Think of the possibilities and opportunities that are open to you always.

Forget the past hours of your day. Think of the many ways in which you could have been better one, and then resolve to start the new one clean. Crowd out the worries with cheerful thoughts. Relax both mind and body. Breathe happily. Good Night!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Shore Canadians who are fretting over the slow development of the fine arts in this country, who want to promote ballet, opera and other forms of aesthetic expression might care to reflect on how they got started in other countries. Art, politically, socially, to need art as a means of expression! It is an old familiar speculation that the greatest art appears in places and at times when political and social oppression obliged the dynamic energies of the arts. Forced to express themselves in other ways than socially or politically, art became a fierce subterranean river. Greece was a slave state in her great days, and one man knows what slaves had a hand in those classic productions. The great orchestras of England date from long after a foreign conqueror had driven Saxon nobility scattered to every shire, as the undisputed and masterful ruler of the realm. Russia and south Germany, whose people have been under the great art.

Vigorous muscle action before one has recovered any ruptures or "breaks" cells or fibres of muscle or tendon causes extravasation of blood and lymph at the point of injury, soreness and swelling. The lump may be felt and sometimes seen. It persists for weeks or until the tear or rupture or "break" of muscle or other soft part heals. Scar is left in such cases at least likely to occur if one is in good condition from physical training. Elimination or removal of the waste products (through the circulation) is hastened (1) by massage and (2) by keeping the muscle artificially warm and (3) by resumption of gentle or moderate exercise for short periods after the injury has occurred. Hence we "glass arm" of baseball pitchers, tennis or golf players is usually a subdeltoid bursitis that rarely requires needling or other surgery.

Coaches, writers, trainers, promotors and managers in professional and amateur fields overstep or unconsciously regard all this soreness and lameness and muscle as "taking cold," and this accounts for the pains taken to "warm up" pitchers before needing them in a pitch, and the total disregard of proper massage and proper sudatives (a dime a dozen) into the football game right off the bench.

Letter to the Editor

Impressed by McCarthy As Seen on Television

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

SENATOR McCARTHY.

For a long time, I held the popular view about the Communist infiltration of the U.S. government was nothing but a political myth — a red herring, the same once given by President Truman at the time of the Hiss trials. Recently, I have read in Reader's Digest a condensation of the book "The Web of Subversion" and if one can believe the fantastic stories of infiltration there recently, I think it is time to be alarmist. In fact if it half of the book can be verified, the government has been lax in failing to respond to McCarthy investigations more strongly.

The McCarthy methods are open to question and many newspapers for the past half year inclined me to believe that McCarthy was nothing but a politician rather excited to fame on the publicity which this fervour produced. Such may be the case, but I was impressed by a television review of the recent Army hearings. The manner of McCarthy is the dogmant personality of the straight thinker, who remains full control of the situation.

Whatever the outcome, don't write off Senator McCarthy.

Farewell Little Man!

(New York Times)

Charlie Chaplin has just accepted the "peace prize" of the Communist - sponsored World Peace Council. The cash prize was $14,000 which he did not need. Moreover, he did not need, which he less than needed. If he knew more about Russia, or if he were perhaps less bitter, he would be well aware that the "peace prize" is not a peace prize at all, but a prize offered to those in Russia or outside of Russia who serve the purposes of a brutal and tyrannical imperialism. Charlie Chaplin once stated that his ideology was a sympathy for "the little man — the right to have a home, his bed and to work and raise a family." Nothing could be further from what does not, that the little man who moves so touchingly, so humorously, with such pure genius, through most of the Chaplin films would not approve and prosper in today's Russia.

We turn from the sad figure Lausanne, Switzerland, to the earlier figure, the classical Chaplin, for whom we have had such affection and admiration and in whom in years gone by we found nothing but delight. We turn to the Chaplin who appeared suddenly forty years or so ago in a queer costume at the automobile races in Venice, Calif.; the Chaplin of "The Kid"; the Chaplin of "The Vagabond"; the Chaplin of "The Gold Rush," which was a contribution to American victory in the First World War; the Chaplin of "The Circus"; the Chaplin of "The Gold Rush", relishing unfortunate circumstances the nails in the sole of a boiled shoe. This man was genius, and for the pleasure he gave, the release from the daily cares of life, the humorous relief he gave our society, many of us will forever thank him from the bottom of our hearts.

Now he has allowed himself to be used by a sinister conspiracy of which the little man he so touchingly represented is the victim. The little man he once portrayed and with whom he has lived content company will some day be at home in the world and untroubled. Perhaps the mem-

At First Glance Karachi Looks Like Men's World

By EUGENE LEVIN

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—At first glance, Karachi looks like a men's world. The streets are crowded with men. The few women who can be seen hide their faces behind veils or "burkas," hoods with eye slits.

Purdah—the seclusion of women practised by many Moslems—still is alive in Pakistan despite the growing influence of modern ideas.

Young Pakistanis are anxious to modernize their customs, to bring women out into the open and to give them a place in business and society. But the new ideas are taking hold slowly.

Although the concept of Purdah is not backed by any specific authority in the Koran, tradition and customs over hundreds of years have given the practice a sanctioned place in most Moslem communities on the sub-continent.

The custom is a hard one to change, even for a modern young Moslem girl like Zohra Hamid.

Zohra (that is not her real name since she asked to remain unidentified) attended school in the United States and now is one of the few women working in the government offices here.

"Few women, no matter how modern they might be in outlook, are ready to accept work," she says. "Even if they wanted to work, their husbands or families might object.

"When I marry I fully expect to have to quit work. Most young men probably would object to my being in Purdah, but they still would want me to stay home as much as possible.

"Here in Karachi I never go shopping alone, or to a restaurant or movie alone. The men just wouldn't understand it. They would point at me, perhaps question my morals and possibly insult me."

SPECIAL TICKET WINDOWS

The clinging to the past keeps Moslem women from working in stores and offices, from appearing in large numbers in restaurants and from shopping by themselves.

Each theatre has a special ticket window marked "women." The managers explain the special window means unescorted women do not stand in line with men and risk being insulted.

Purdah has at least one benefit for the woman.

"Husbands are afraid their wives will be abused and trampled in the bazaars and market places," says Zohra. "Therefore, they rarely let their wives shop. In Karachi it's the men that hunt the bargains and buy the groceries."

Ontario Gives Blind Institute Grant of $54,500

TORONTO (CP) — Payment of $54,500 to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind as a contribution to three service centres in Ontario, has been approved by the Ontario government.

Welfare Minister Goodfellow said Wednesday the government is making the following payments to the Institute: $22,000 as final payment on a total bed capacity of 43 at the London and district residence and service centres; $18,000,—representing 50 per cent of an amount calculated on a total bed capacity of 52 at the Kingston and district service centre and $16,500, based on a 33-bed capacity, to the Port Arthur and district service centre.

Field Bindweed Seeds Can Live 30 Years in Soil

Five weed seeds in Canada are classified as "prohibited noxious" and Field Bindweed is one of these five. The Field Crops Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, warns that seeds of this weed can stay in soil not five but six times five years. Also called Wild Morning Glory, this pest sends roots 4 feet or more into the soil. Even small pieces of this root system when cut off will send up shoots and grow again. Slender twining stems and narrow arrow shaped leaves feature its growth. White or pink trumpet shaped flowers in June to September sound a call to beetles to the alert farmer.

Intensive cultivation and smother crops weaken the stand. Cultivation should be at least 4 inches deep and repeated 1 to 2 weeks later.

Repeated applications of up to 1 pound or more of a 2-4-D acid per acre in June and in late fall will kill most plants. Soil sterilants such as sodium chlorate at 5 pounds per square rod, or borax at 10 to 11 pounds per acre, can be used on small patches. CMU at about one-half pound in three gallons of water per square rod has also given good results. Regardless of the treatment remember the seeds can live 30 years in the soil so retreat the area whenever new plants emerge.

India at Last Free from Spectre Recurrent Famine

By ADRIENNE FARRELL

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India at last is free from the spectre of recurrent famine.

Rice production has risen by 22 per cent since last year. Wheat production is up by eight per cent. Stocks of wheat in the country total 350,000 tons, considered sufficient to meet any immediate emergency, and wheat imports this year will be the lowest since India became independent.

Rationing of rice and wheat has been abolished. Self-sufficiency in food no longer is a dream but a practical possibility despite the growing population problem which means feeding 4,000,000 extra mouths each year.

Wheat imports have been steadily decreasing since the peak year of famine in 1951 when 3,000,000 tons of wheat had to be imported. So far, only nominal quantities of wheat have been received from abroad this year, totalling about 8,250 tons.

Although India has ratified the second International Wheat Agreement, which came into force for three years on Aug. 1, 1953, she may not purchase any large quantities unless prices reach the minimum specified in the agreement, in view of her improved internal supply position.

The improved food position in India is due to a number of factors.

The heavy wheat and rice imports during the famine of 1951 left the government with a substantial reserve in hand, which helped to lower prices and bring out hoarded stocks.

At the same time, local production has been increased by the reclamation of land, by improved irrigation, and by the use of intensified cultivation, particularly the Japanese method of growing rice.

The Japanese method involves careful selection of plants and individual attention to their growth. In 1953-54, the area put under this system was nearly 200,000 acres. It now is proposed to intensify the campaign and raise the acreage last-fold so as to reach the figure of 2,000,000 acres under the Japanese system this year.

MAN BEHIND IMPROVEMENT

The man behind this improvement in India's food situation is the food minister, Rafi Ahmed Kidwai, one of the two Moslem ministers in Prime Minister Nehru's cabinet.

A silent man, with a passion for organization and detail, the 59-year-old food minister has brought a prosperous horizon to the Indian food scene by a series of drastic measures which caused loud opposition at the time.

Taking over the portfolio shortly after the famine of 1951, he began by abolishing rationing in Madras state and incurred critics by thereby bringing down rice prices and forcing into the open hoarded stocks of food. Since then he has progressively abolished rationing and control of grains all over the country.

Plan to Spend Many Millions On Highway Work

By WALTER GRAY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

BISMARCK, N.D. (CP)—The Ontario government is expected to announce within a week a multi-million-dollar highway construction program, it was learned here Wednesday night.

Members of the Ontario legislature's highways investigation committee, who arrived here Wednesday on the first leg of a 4,000-mile fact-finding tour of North Dakota and northwestern Ontario, said they had been informed of the government's plans.

It was indicated that among the contracts to be let was the Burlington beach bridge across the entrance to Hamilton harbor, replacing the lift bridge damaged two years ago by a passing ship.

Keiso Roberts (PC—Toronto St. Patrick), chairman of the highways committee, said in an interview he had been informed of the program.

Clare Mapledoram (PC — Fort William) said he understood the construction would be general throughout the province.

NO ESTIMATE GIVEN

No estimate of the cost of the program could be learned although it was agreed that it would be in the "millions."

The highways committee, arrived in Bismarck Wednesday and met with highway commissioner S. W. Thompson and members of his staff for a two-hour session.

The members heard from the North Dakota experts their endorsation of pre-qualification of highway engineers, a state practice for 20 years.

Pre - qualification was recommended for Ontario in the report of J. D. Woods and Gordon Ltd., Toronto management consultants, who last month submitted a report to the highways department.

Gene Tuskind, chief of the plans and specifications department, outlined the division's practice of detailed pre-engineering work of highway projects, extending a year in advance, before tenders are called for.

Rush Protests Delay in Change Of Grants Act

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Mayor Allan Rush, recently-elected president of the Ontario Mayors' and Reeves' Association, Wednesday sent a telegram to Prime Minister St. Laurent protesting detainment of the Municipal Grants Act amendment.

The telegram read:

"Since the Municipal Grants Act amendment in the speech from the throne, the municipalities affected have definitely planned their borrowing and major outlays in the next few months on this basis. Greatly disturbed at press statements that you are deferring this legislation. Urge enactment before Parliament prorogues."

Mayor Rush said copies of the telegram are being forwarded to all Ontario mayors and reeves.

Disabled Persons Will Not Have Pensions Reduced

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's Disabled Persons' Allowances Act has been amended so that those also receiving allowances under the Workmen's Compensation Act will not have their pensions reduced, Welfare Minister Goodfellow said Wednesday.

The change was made after consultation with the federal government which recently introduced a Disabled Persons' Allowances Act based almost entirely on the Ontario act.

As a result of the amendment, disabled persons will continue to draw the full pension of $40 monthly and anything they receive as compensation will be considered as income.

Weddings

MILLARD—HAWLEY

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, June 16, at the parsonage of the Alliance Tabernacle, Midland, Ontario, by the Rev. Mr. Freeman, pastor of the church, former pastor of the Alliance Tabernacle, Belleville, when Edith Merrile Hawley, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. I. Hawley, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Hawley, became the bride of George Alvin Millard, of Campbellton, Ontario.

The bride was attired in a street-length dress of blue crepe with pink accessories.

Mrs. Clifford Millard, of Oshawa, sister-in-law of the bride-groom, attended the bride, and Mr. Clifford Millard, brother of the bridegroom, acted as groomsman.

Following the ceremony, they left for a wedding trip through Northern Ontario. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Millard will reside in Canniton.

BOWLEY—WATSON

Standards of blue and pink lupins, iris and ferns formed an attractive background, on Saturday, June 12, at 2.30 p.m., in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc, Ont., for the marriage of Helena Moira Watson, of Madoc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Watson, to Keith Bernard Bowley, of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy C. Bowley, of Johannesburg, South Africa. The Rev. Mr. Riddle, assisted by the Rev. John W. Poole, officiated.

Miss Marion Hawkins, church organist, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Jack Taylor, Madoc, who sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony, and during the signing of the register, "Entreat Me Not." Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her wedding gown of white embroidered lace and tulle, fashioned with a fitted bodice having a rounded neckline outlined with lace appliqué on pleated tulle, and sprinkled with seed pearls. The ballerina-length skirt was of pleated tulle. She wore a beaded bonnet with double illusion scalloped veil and carried a bouquet of white orchids.

Mrs. Alexander Watson, of Toronto, was matron of honor. Mrs. James Watson, of Chapleau, and Miss Eunice Bowley, of Johannesburg, South Africa, were bridesmaids. All were gowned alike in ballerina-length, white organdy printed in gold and green leaf design, and trimmed with gathered white flowers studded with rhinestones. Ivy strands formed their headdresses and they carried nosegays of heliotrope and blue cornflowers.

Mr. Gervin C. Windeler, of Montreal, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Alexander Watson, and Mr. James Watson, of Madoc, brothers of the bride; Mr. Hugh Watson, of St. Thomas, and Mr. Robert M. Harry, of Montreal, were ushers.

The bride's home was most attractively adorned with spring flowers for the reception, where the bride's mother, attired in champagne lace toned well with natural straw picture hat, tan accessories and toast colored corsage, received the guests.

For the wedding trip to Rochester and the New England States, the bride wore a leaf-green suit dress of Shantung in natural linen accessories and toast orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Bowley will reside in Montreal.

Guests were present from Brampton, Lakefield, Cobourg, Peterborough, Trenton, Walkerville, Willowdale, St. Thomas, Moncton, N.B., Thamesville, Niagara Falls, N.Y., Ottawa, Toronto, Belleville, Stonegrove, St. Catharines and Marmora.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SUE WANTS TO GET MARRIED —BUT NO ONE ASKS HER!

A 30-year-old unmarried woman, living over the Initials S.S., "comes out fairly and honestly—and more cruelly is the case with her particular gripe against life:

"Frankly," she writes, "I want to get married to a decent, respectable man and have a home of my own, but I have never been asked, except, by a man I couldn't stand.

"Altogether," she adds, "I am up against a blank wall in my life, as I don't even have a job, I get very nervous for fear I can't hold it.

"What would you advise me to do?"

Well, Miss S.S.! let me say first that you are no different from any other woman in the world in wanting to get married and have a home of your own. This is the most fundamental thing in female creature's mind from earliest childhood.

But I doubt if any woman does achieve this great feminine ambition by concentrating on it too much. For if she keeps thinking about marriage all the time, this is very apt to show in her manner whenever she meets an eligible man, even if she doesn't like him over. And men flee a husband-hunter as they would flee the plague.

What men will never flee from, though, is a woman who is attractive because she has made such an interesting life for herself that she has many things to think about and enjoy entirely outside the thought of matrimony. Such a woman radiates happiness, zest and friendliness, qualities that, added together, make up practically irresistible charm.

So what you are making a mistake not to have a job, and 7 on some could find one you would have no fears about holding if you would put a little research into your abilities and then match your abilities to a job. I suggest that you talk to someone

A good employment agency about this, or to the personnel director of some large business firm. Or see someone at the YWCA in your city, where I am sure there is a department that helps people with job problems. Also, as an interesting job will, by a large forward spark ing your personality, try to make a fine way to meet people.

Then in addition to getting yourself a job, you should also associate yourself with some organizations which have a lively program of activity. You might start by joining a club which does community work of some kind, for in that sort of group you will find very worthwhile friends. Then, see what hobby clubs are available in your locality which are purely for recreation. You can get a lot of information about these from the YWCA. You might also specialize in some subject under the Adult Education program in your city. Every such program offers a wide variety of fascinating projects from which to choose —and congenial people to share them with.

If you will do some of these things, they're bound to lead you to either one of two results. First, you will make a great many new friends, among both men and women and may eventually meet a man with whom you will fall in love and be with you. Or, second, you will have so many friends and be so happily busy, that even though you don't eventually get a husband, you'll enjoy yourself anyhow.

Never forget that there is such a thing as compensation in life, which only means that if you don't get what you most want, there's something else you can have instead. I'm not saying that, if you don't eventually marry, you won't be going to have a certain regret. That's only natural. But I am saying that the regret needn't keep you from being a healthy, happy woman whose life is full and rich.

How to Freeze Meat

By Mary Moore

LETTER:

Other folks' problems seem to have been mine also and I have greatly benefited by your replies to them. Today a trivial problem came up . . . in making an orange ice. I boiled the rind for 1 quart of water and when measured proved to be five and three-quarter cups or more. Instead of the four cups supposedly in 1 quart (I used a milk bottle for measuring) . . . it is necessary to use 1 tablespoon gelatin all lose and shredded . . . possibly you have some recipes for frozen desserts not calling for whipped cream . . . If the time ever comes when you have no readers with problems to solve would you please write a page about cooking and freezing meats? I made the mushroom meat loaf of yours (simply delicious—approved all others after trying this) and used the method of freezing described. . . . Should hamburg patties be just shaped or may I add an egg and seasoning first . . . I find I can't cook soup in and have a cup of coffee and a slice of sunshine cake. . . . I love hearing about your family.—Helen P.

ANSWER:

I hated to shorten such a kind and precious letter, . . . I have left out all too many of the warm parts.

Now to get down to this freezing of meat.

First—do not salt or add seasoning your ground meat patties. Do not cook them, but wrap them in single layers of double freezer paper so they may be readily unwrapped.

Two things that I have discovered that inexperienced freezer-owners might do are: (1) freeze beef that has not been hung for at least 10 days—but preferably 14 to 17 days; (2) freeze meat with bones in—Do not do this before the bones take up precious freezer space.

PACKAGING

Roasts should be boned and rolled (after the carcass has been well-hung, and packaged individually in freezer paper or bags. If ground meat is frozen it should be packaged in amounts suitable for a meat loaf or enough to make meat patties for the family. Steaks, chops or ground meat patties could be packaged together in freezer wrappings but when they come to cook it the pieces will be more easily separated if double-layer of moisture-vapor-proof material is placed between each one.

LABELLING

After the meat is packaged, label it. Use heavy marking pencil and give type of meat, weight, number of pounds serving and other words all data that will help you to locate exactly what will suit your purpose when you even mouth later.

Then fast freeze at once. But if readers who do not have home freezers have to take their wrapped meat to lockers, the wrapped meat should be kept in the refrigerator until all is ready to be delivered—the same day of course, and as early as possible.

The freezing of cooked meats and of seasoned meats is a controversial subject and I must not advise one way or another here—except to say the safe way—freezing your meat raw and uncanned—has been found successful—some of the other methods have not.

Wrapping and packaging is the problem for all meat, except that it is recommended that cuts of pork be dipped for 5 seconds in high quality Lux flakes or 200 deg. Fahr. before wrapping—but cooked first. Then label and freeze for marketing) . . . It is necessary to use 1 tablespoon gelatin all

You were probably using American recipes, Canadian Imperial measure and hence, American wine quart 4 cups. Gelatin in sherbets makes the finished product smoother and slightly firmer. I have made a note to write a column giving you frozen desserts without whipped cream.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

THIN GIRLS SHOULD "STROKE UP"

Just as the top-plump girls love their cream puffs, so do the thin ones have a yen for the kind of food that will never help them to gain an ounce in weight. The young lady in the picture illustrates 'a usually the one who sticks to a balanced diet—one which supplies the necessary calorie-ments in proper proportions—protein, fat, carbohydrate, vitamins and minerals.

While the plump one's wails are heard, we hold the girl who is all bones and no curves also does considerable bitching. For what value is the neat small waist if she has no pleasing curves? Her clothes cannot be set right, her frocks are just so much dry goods—without line or distinction. Something should be done! And the first step for the underweight girl is a visit to the office of the family doctor. If he gives her a clean bill of health, and if she will make her appetite do a turn-about, she can put on anywhere up to two or two without half trying.

Almost invariably she belongs in the no breakfast group, contenting herself with a cup of coffee and a nibble of toast. But she must have fruit, a beverage, an egg, bacon or ham or, some other form of protein. If she will include a hot cereal with sugar and cream she will make a wonderful start toward normal dimensions.

One p-reirement that must not be neglected is a quart of rich milk a day. Milk is not just a beverage; it is a food, containing many elements necessary for nutrition. A glass of milk with each meal and one at bedtime will measure up to a quart.

Eating between meals is usually over-active, using up nerve forces unnecessarily. Instead of being undernourished she is likely to be jittery, eager to be on the move, because she realizes that she can't keep her motors working without fuel.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

A PATTERN OF GRACE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to be married soon, and about a week before the wedding date I plan to give a reception for her. She is an only child, of course, receiving together. And I a'n wondering if it is absolutely necessary that I invite the mother of her fiancee to receive with us. Although we have never met, we know her only slightly, and she isn't very sociable-minded, due probably to her deafness. However, I have followed your helpful advice many times, and if you say I should invite her to the tea, I promise you I will follow this advice, too. — Mother of the Bride-to-be.

I do hope, dear lady, that you will follow my advice, my very earnest plea, and invite the mother of your daughter's fiance not only to the tea, but also invite her to receive with you and your daughter. This is her rightful place, and if you don't make every effort to give her this honor, I don't believe that you should sit over your head. you would like yourself or admire yourself.

Surely you and your daughter can summon the grace to make her feel at home comfortably surrounded by your kind thoughtfulness. And today, with so many people struggling with the hardship and inconvenience of deafness and with the not - always - easy adaptation to hearing aids, we should all study the gracious procedure of making a deaf person as comfortable and happy as possible, and this gives the person the assurance of being an active part of the group. If you and your daughter follow this pattern-of-kindness you will be contributing enormously to the making of a fine relationship between the two families. And that is a mighty important thing to plan to do, and to do! And a mighty important lesson-in-humanity for you to teach your daughter.

WHO PAYS RENTAL-CHARGE FOR WEDDING ATTIRE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our wedding is to be an evening wedding in church. It is to be in midsummer, and the groom, best man, ring sir ushers are to wear white dinner jackets and black tuxedo trousers. Three of the ushers do not own tuxedos, do not particularly want to buy them, and are planning to follow your suggestion (which I read to my fiance from your recent column) and rent them. (There is a very good local rental place, we have found out.) Now my fiance and I are wondering if this means that he is supposed to pay for the rental of this attire, too?—Miss Jean W.

No. It is the responsibility of each gentleman to provide his own attire for the wedding. . . and if he hasn't the attire described by the groom-to-be, he the usher, either buys the attire or pays the rental charge.

CONCERNING THE BEST MAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The youngest of three brothers is to be married, and he wants one of his brothers to be best man and the other to be an usher. (Neither brother is married.) We would like to know what is proper about this. This is should the oldest brother necessarily be best man . . . would it look odd if he weren't . . .or does it matter? The groom-to-be stated that he has no preference in the matter. J.H.

According to custom and tradition, it is the oldest brother whom the groom-to-be chooses as his best man. Since the position of best man carries with it more importance and honor than being an usher, it is natural that this position should be given to the oldest brother. And apparently there is no reason for not giving this honor to the oldest brother.

INVITATIONS TO A SMALL-TOWN WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When the family of the bride-to-be is very well-known in the small town where they live, should they not draw the line in sending the invitations to the wedding and reception? — A.E.

No one but the bride-to-be and her family, who are the hosts and planners of the wedding, could possibly answer this question. It would, naturally, depend on the inclination of the bride's family, their convenience and budget, as to how many guests can be accommodated. This can be a very knotty problem, and must be handled with extremely delicate tact. Very often it has been found much easier and simpler to give a rather small wedding.

OPEN FRIDAY EVENINGS

Nurses End Convention At Banff, Alta.

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — A total registry of 1,323 delegates to the Canadian Nurses' Association convention took a last look at the regal Rockies Saturday and headed for homes from Vancouver Island to Newfoundland.

During their five-day meeting they heard a speech prepared by Health Minister Martin, who was unable to attend in person announcing Canada's readiness to plan a mass vaccination program if the new Salk polio vaccine is proved a success;

Welcomed Newfoundland to association membership;

Decided to move CNA headquarters to Ottawa from Montreal;

Approved a record $150,000 budget and re-organized the association's internal structure;

Pondered a nursing shortage in mental hospitals and heard of a crisis resulting from hospital care plans.

PAID IN ADVANCE

Malcolm G. Taylor, assistant professor of political science at the University of Toronto, said in an address Friday that many patients choose hospital care over available alternative treatments because they pay for it in advance through an insurance plan.

He said this means hospitals are "called upon to assume responsibilities for a range of in-patient care far in excess of what it should be handling."

If health officials aimed to provide all the services a patient needed through voluntary or government health insurance, the patient should get only what he needs and no more.

CUTS COMMITTEES

In business sessions Friday, delegates approved cutting the number of national committees to five: nursing service; nursing education; publicity and public relations; legislation; by-laws and finance.

The convention ended Friday night with the installation of president Gladys Sharpe of Toronto and other new officers and a lecture on nursing in the past and future by Prof. F. M. Salter of the University of Alberta.

Wife Preservers

Plastic swimming or wading pools are available in the department stores. They come in small, shallow sizes for the little children; in larger, deeper sizes for older youngsters.

TWO-PIECE OUTFIT

This skirt and blouse outfit is suitable for wear from early morning to late at night. The full-corded skirt is supported in its swinging fullness by a daffy-cut black wool jersey blouse. (CP Photo).

Crinolines Back Into Wardrobes Of Women

MONTREAL (CP) — Crinolines will fit once back into the wardrobes of Canada's fashion-minded women this year, if a preview of fall and winter styles here Monday is any indication.

The fabric, which first appeared on the modern fashion scene a few seasons ago and then faded into the background, was a predominant feature of the preview, held by the Canadian Fashion Association.

Most of the skirts on display were full and when combined with crinolines were worn with multi-layers of petticoats in varied colors.

Trend in really full skirts was toward a shorter length. Longer skirts were also puffed out with many-colored flounces.

The importance of fabric to the fashion scene was a central point of the show. Garments came in such fabrics as frosted fleece, cotton flannel, quilted wool and iridescent felt. There were also some unusual color combinations such as taupe and khaki.

The traditional lure of Scottish tartans, however, proved the hit of the parade. They were seen in a full-skirted style with a tightly-wrapped "sporran belt" and a little stand-up Chinese collar.

GAVE WINE TO CHILD

TORONTO (CP) — Terrence Groom, 38, of Toronto, was convicted Tuesday on one of three charges of supplying wine to three young children until they were drunk and sick. He was remanded to June 17 on the charge of supplying the wine to three-year-old Warren Nicholson. Hearing of charges of supplying liquor to two other Nicholson children, aged 18 months and five years, was set for June 17.

Keen to Study Similar Camps In N. America

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Viscountess Allenby of Meggido and Felixstowe has one aim firmly in mind for her visit to Canada this summer.

"I want to make a good impression," she said in an interview. "I'd like to leave behind at least a trace of my will."

The viscountess, who is making her first trip to Canada, is vice-president of the 3,000-strong Kent St. John Ambulance Association Cadets. She heads a committee planning the first post-war youth camp for Kent, and she is keen to study similar camps in North America.

WANTS TO LEARN

"I think Canada and the United States can teach us so much in this line," she said. "And I want our Kent youngsters to have the best." She will visit Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto.

Her original plans were to "live rough" in North American camps to get to know the youngsters enjoying camp facilities. However, she decided to leave her program in the hands of W. J. Bennett and C. A. Gray of Ottawa's St. John Ambulance group.

"So I told them to do as they liked with me."

Lady Allenby will land in Montreal July 1, leave Canada July 31, and fly home July 27—"in time to pick my son up at Eton for his summer vacation."

Her chief regret throughout the trip will be that she has not the time to cross Canada to the west coast.

Lady Allenby, whose husband is the nephew of the late Field Marshal Viscount Allenby of First World War fame, will be on radio and television in the Voice of St. John. The Order of St. John is the oldest order of chivalry in Britain and the sovereign is always at the head. Princess Margaret takes a personal interest in the society and Countess Mountbatten is an active member.

Mrs. Simmons read a paper on the "Mission of Billy Graham in England and Europe." Mrs. Clifford Ray gave a reading on "Dr. Cromly Hunter." The Scripture reading was given by Mrs. Earle Ray. The devotional, explaining the Scripture reading was given by Mrs. Harry Ketcheson. The Stewardship leader, Mrs. Clarence Ketcheson, gave a reading "If Christ Should Come Tonight."

Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson was in charge of the study book, assisted by Mrs. Gordon Foster, Mrs. Clifford Ray, Mrs. Earle Ray, Mrs. A. Ray and Mrs. Simmons.

Mr., Mrs. W. Davidson Celebrate 55 Years Of Married Life

On Sunday afternoon, June 6, about 35 members of the family of Mr. and Mrs. William Davidson, Sr., Marmora, gathered at their home in honor of their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidson were married in the old Methodist parsonage in Marmora, on June 7, 1899, by Rev. Robert McKitrick.

Mr. Davidson is the son of the late George Davidson and Isabel Dixon, who came to this country from New Castle, England, where Mr. Davidson was born. Mrs. Davidson is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Lee, of Madoc township, who came to Canada from West Bromwich, England, with her parents seventy years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Davidson are both members of the United Church.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Davidson are George, of Marmora township, William, who operates a service station on No. 7 highway, at the eastern end of Marmora township, (Martha), Mrs. Henry Willman, of Rawdon township and John, who lives with his parents.

There are 16 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren. The afternoon was spent in social get-together. Refreshments were served.

The table was pretty with a lace cloth, centred with the anniversary cake and bouquets of Lily-of-the-valley. A large wedding bell hung directly above with pink and white streamers, from the bell to the four corners of the table and fastened in bows.

Rev. K. J. Crawford, B.A., B.D., proposed a toast to the bride and groom on fifty-five years.

Mr. Davidson ably responded.

Miss Avis Turner, great granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Davidson presented them with a number of gifts.

Upon the request of Mr. Davidson, Mr. Crawford closed the gathering with prayer.

CAMPBELLFORD

Truck Purchase Causes Rift In Commission

CAMPBELLFORD— The Public Utilities Commission of Campbellford met recently with all members present with the exception of Mayor Locke.

Messrs. James Parcels, James Heathcote, Redenty Glenn and Don Lloyd presented petitions to the Board. James Parcels stated that he has had his water pipes frozen consistently and asked the commission to take action to deepen the ditch in which they were laid. He said they had been laid according to Mr. Redden's instructions. The board named Commissioners McGregor and Newman to investigate.

Messrs. Heathcote and Glenn asked for water service, stating that council would co-operate in giving sewer service if the commission board would extend water mains to their property. This was granted with the provision that the customer do the required digging and back-filling in a manner satisfactory to the board Mr. Don Lloyd asked for power for his farm buildings. This, too, was granted on condition that he reimburse the farmers who own the line and pay 20 per cent of the cost of providing his line each year for the next five years.

Commissioner Newman presented his pension plan by-law which was given two readings.

Considerable discussion arose regarding the purchase of a new truck. The old truck used for small hauling and other purposes at the power plant was said to be obsolete and claimed by Mr. Archer to be inadequate. Commissioners McGregor and Newman opposed the purchase of any more trucks this year. Chairman Meyers and Commissioner Withun favored the purchase. Commissioners Newman and McGregor said the old truck is adequate for all the purpose it has to serve.

It was claimed that the repairing of the truck in question would be quite expensive. No action was taken.

The manager of the Water Works, Mr. Arthur Redden, was on motion asked to prepare a complete plan of the town, showing the water works system, including the location of fire hydrants, valves and hydrants.

A letter from the H.E.P.C. indicated that they are prepared to purchase excess power at 3 mills per K.W.H., when they can find a market for it. A motion was carried to the effect that the superintendent of each department should have work sheets for each meeting of the board.

Regarding the small building adjacent to the power house, and the picnic tables at the same place, it was decided to put these in repair for the use of the touring public.

It was decided to repair the roof of the house occupied by Mr. John Thompson and owned by the commission at Crow Bay.

RAWDON

River Valley WI Donates $100 To Hospital

RAWDON—About 30 members and visitors of River Valley Women's Institute attended the June meeting on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Thomas Hanna.

Mrs. Jean Bush presided. Mrs. J. L. Donohoe read a report. Thank-you letters were read for fruit boxes received.

SPECIAL HISTORY

Earl A. Morrow of Stirling, sent a letter containing some very interesting material.

In 1894 River Valley public school won its first Union Jack in a parade competition in Stirling. On that particular day it is thought that Bessie Hatfield, Ethel Bedford and Reginald Bolton rode in a decorated, pony-drawn cart loaned by the late James Baldrick, Edward Palmer and George Morrow led the pony.

The late Charles Morrow took his grey team of horses and lumber wagon and journeyed to the big swamp this side of Marmora to procure the first 60-foot flag pole. Mr. Morrow was accompanied on this trip by William Hanna Sr., and John Sager, Sr., both deceased.

Richard Chard and John Chard have received their B.A. degrees.

SUCCESSFUL EVENTS

During the years River Valley Institute has staged many successful events and, it was the wish of the writer (a former citizen of the Valley), that several folk in the community be asked to prepare special items of historic interest that could be filed in the Tweedsmuir Book.

Mrs. Don Donohoe gave a comprehensive account of the recent district annual held at White's Church, Bayside.

Members decided to complete their share of the district project for the Belleville General Hospital and $100 will be forwarded at once. This will make a total contribution of $150 for River Valley branch.

The next meeting will be held at the schoolhouse on Thursday, July 1st, at 2 p.m.

INVITE INSTITUTES

It was decided to invite Pine Grove W.I., and Chatterton W.I., to the next meeting and to have the district president, Mrs. John Reid, Trenton, as guest speaker. The August meeting will be Children's Day.

Mrs. Harry Vandervoort arranged a short program and conducted an interesting balloon contest with Mrs. Philip Conley winning the prize.

Mrs. Fred McDonell read "The Countrywoman at Home" from the A.C.W.W. leaflet. Miss Elaine Vandervoort sang a solo.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen read a humorous reading.

Mrs. Roy Bush announced that Mrs. Percy MacMullen, press secretary of Rive River Valley Institute, had recently won second place in the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association competition for her column in News-Argus. Mrs. MacMullen was given an ovation.

The hostess and lunch committee served refreshments and Mrs. Jack Sager proposed the thanks of the members for the hospitality and program.

Madoc Masonic Lodge Celebrates 100th Anniversary

Madoc Masonic Lodge celebrated its 100th anniversary on Thursday, June 10th, when the ladies of the Eastern Star served a turkey dinner to a capacity crowd of over 300 in the new Masonic banquet hall.

The Lodge was opened with Wor. Bro. James Keller, the Master, presiding. Rt. Wor. Bro. J. R. Rumball, of Toronto, representing the Grand Master and several Grand Lodge officers, including Rt. Wor. Bro. H. B. Neal, D.D., Grand Chaplain; Rt. Wor. Bro. Ray Cumsbia, Grand Senior Warden; Rt. Wor. Bro. H. W. Sabine, D.D.G.M., Prince Edward district; and Rt. Wor. Bro. T. Arlo, Grand Registrar, were given grand honours.

Wor. Bro. Everett Wood, of Belleville, president of the Past Masters' Association, was admitted along with the representatives of the other 19 lodges in the district, who presented each officer with a gift and the new regalia marking the fact that Madoc Lodge is now 100 years old. Appreciation was expressed by Very Wor. Bro. E. T. Naylor, Rt. Wor. Bro. Raymond Gaebel Jr., a former Madocer, then presented the Lodge with three new lamps for columns on the pedestals of the Wor. Master, the Senior and Junior Wardens. These were graciously accepted by the Sr. Warden, Bro. Charles Johnston.

MASTER PRESIDES

Wor. Bro. James Keller, the Master of Madoc Lodge, acted as toastmaster at the banquet, which followed the closing of the lodge. The toast to the King was given by Rt. Wor. Bro. Neal, D.D., Grand Chaplain, and the toast, Grand Lodge, by Very Wor. Bro. E. T. Naylor, then read several letters and telegrams of congratulation.

One of the most interesting items on the program was the history of Madoc Lodge, from the time of its inception in 1854, up to the present. This was presented by Rt. Wor. Bro. George Wegg, who along with Very Wor. Bro. E. Connor, spent a good deal of time and effort examining the old records.

Toast to Grand Lodge was proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. R. V. Gaebel and responded to by Rt. Wor. Bro. J. R. Rumball, who spoke on Masonry, as it was practised 100 years ago and as it should be practised today. A silver water pitcher, suitably inscribed, was then presented to him on behalf of the Lodge, by Bro. Kel Kincaid.

Rt. Wor. Bro. Gunsolus proposed the toast to Madoc Lodge with a timely address, and was replied to by Very Wor. Bro. W. E. Connor, one of the oldest members.

Toast to visiting brethren was given by Very Wor. Bro. P. H. Naylor, being replied to by Very Wor. Bro. Wally Embury of Belleville.

The ladies of the Eastern Star were thanked by Bro. Gordon Johnston and this was responded to by Mrs. Mabel Lloyd, Worthy Matron of the Star.

Miss Marion Robertson rendered piano selections during the banquet.

The large number of visiting brethren included Rt. Wor. Bro. Pringle, P.D.D.G.M., Deseronto; Rt. Wor. Bro. Newman, P.D.D.G.M., Trenton. Rt. Wor. Bro. Anderson, P.D.D.G.M., Belleville; Rt. Wor. Bro. McCarley, P.D.D.G.M., Tweed; Rt. Wor. Bro. Thompson, D.D.G.M., Arden; Rt. Wor. Bro. Illingsworth, D.D.G.M., Carleton Place, and also several Past Grand Lodge officers.

It was the opinion of everyone present that this was one of the largest and best fraternal gatherings that has ever been held in this district.

History Of Madoc Lodge For 100 Years

Late in the year 1853 or early 1854 Masonic brethren in this district evidently decided to form a lodge as evidenced by a dispensation, dated Jan. 25, 1854, to Wor. Bro. Neplier McNabb, Grand Master for Deseronto, Daniel Campbell, etc., sends greetings, etc.: Whereas a humble petition has been presented to us by Wor. Bro. James Bradshaw, Cyrus Riggs, John Bradshaw, Andrew Rikely, John Nixon, Martin Bradshaw and David Campbell praying for a warrant of constitution, etc., to be called "The Madoc Lodge," etc., to be opened at the Canada Jephtha Bradshaw to be Wor. February 3, 1855, lodge met at Bro. Cyrus Riggs' house, three miles north of Madoc (the building unpainted, is still in existence) day of September, 1857.

An emergent meeting was called for the purpose of settling a difference between the gullby brother received a three months' suspension. Disputes between Masonic brethren were usually brought before the lodge for settlement during the early years of Masonry in this district.

April 22, 1855, Wor. Bro. Jeptha Bradshaw, was the first R. W. M. appointed to attend Grand Lodge, at London, Ont., an amount of $10.00 being allowed for expenses.

During many years Madoc Lodge requested representatives attending from other lodges to represent Madoc Lodge at Grand Lodge. Officers during early years were elected by motion in open lodge and installed on St. John's night. Candidates were balloted upon for each degree to be conferred. Motion was adopted at a regular meeting October 8th, 1857, to act under dispensation of the Ancient Grand Lodge of Canada as Madoc Lodge, No. 42, G.L. of Canada, dated 10th three years. In 1863 the village Bro. A. Gunsolus, a relative of the present brother Wor. Bro. Gunsolus, was a member of Madoc Lodge at this time.

During the early sixties, a D.D.G.M., on his official visit, after lodge had closed, occupied the W.M. chair and conferred the E.A., F.C. and M.M. degrees. Some of the present members remember former members Jas. O'Hara, Thomas Cronk, Charles O'Hara, R. T. Gray and A. F. Wood. Dues of $1.50 per year were difficult to collect and in many cases promissory notes were received for initiation and dues. First Masonic funeral held in 1865 and also in this year promissory notes were discontinued.

Gillespie about the year 1870 presented a burial plot in Lakeview cemetery, to Madoc Lodge for emergency burial.

Madoc Lodge gave permission to Tweed to form a Masonic lodge.

March, 1870, Madoc brethren decided to build a home, 80 x 36 feet, on Durham St. This was financed by selling 200 $5.00 shares to be paid in quarterly installments. The building was completed and occupied as a lodge room about 1880. Construction was by voluntary labor.

Bibles were bought for $66.00. These were destroyed by fire in 1900. In 1885 five applications were accepted and balloted on within two weeks. This was unprecedented and that year was a record for applications. First life membership was granted to Bro. R. L. Hutton, 1885, and capitation tax of 50 cents annually to Madoc Lodge. Contribution to district for D.D.G.M. regalia was $2.50. Regalia to be the property of the district.

E. W. Connor, father of one of Madoc's oldest members, was initiated in 1887, his application having been accepted by Moira Lodge, Belleville. Wor. Bro. A. H. Wasson, 1891, was elected D.D.G.M. In 1917, A number of chairs loaned by Anglican church in 1877, was ordered paid in 1892. First written summons sent out in 1893 and only when candidates were to be balloted on. In 1891 Wor. Bro. John Nixon having been accepted by Moira Lodge and gave an address on "Masonry in Canada for the Last 100 Years." First Masonic at-home held in lower hall, 1893. In 1896 Wor. Bro. R. Orr was delegate to Grand Lodge at Belleville.

During 1896 motion passed to send printed notices to all brethren for the Wednesday night. Congratulatory letter from the lodge was taken by a delegation to Wor. Bro. A. F. Wood and Mrs. Wood on their 50th wedding anniversary, he being a very active P.M. of the lodge. Electric lights installed in 1901. Wor. Bro. W. Tumelty was elected D.D.G.M. the first from Madoc lodge. Bro. R. T. Gray, retiring secretary, was presented with a gold-headed cane, 1902 first Past Master's night. 1905, Bancroft brethren petitioned Madoc Lodge for permission to approach Grand Lodge to form a lodge at Bancroft. Granted. In 1907 permission had granted Madoc Chapter use of lodge rooms. 1928 Wor. Bro. C. West elected D.D.G.M. Sept. 1929, Wor. Bro. G. Eckbert and 40 members of Quinte Lodge, Deseronto, were entertained. All the above were former residents of this district. After the banquet a procession was formed and marched up Durham St. Visitors bidding a fond farewell to the silent policeman on the corner) before entering the hall. During year 1927 a record was established of 16 candidates, age of 34.

1930, Wor. Bro. W. E. Connor appointed a Grand Lodge Steward. August 2, 1931, over 40 brethren (many former Madocers) who were attending Old Boys Reunion attended divine service at United Church and afterwards deposited a wreath at the Cenotaph in memory of Masonic brethren who had made the supreme sacrifice in the War.

October, 1931, date of installation was changed to first Wednesday in January. 1933, Wor. Master's apron presented to lodge by Very Wor. Bro. W. E. Connor, whose son, Wor. Bro. E. Connor, was presiding master. At this time a Master's collar was given to Senior Lodge by Wor. Bro. O. P. McGregor, of Georgina Lodge, Toronto. 1934, this present Bible markers were presented by Wor. Bro. W. Embury, of The Belleville Lodge, No. 125, who with his officers visited Madoc Lodge and conferred the E.A. degree.

In 1939, forty-four members of Eureka Lodge visited Madoc and conferred the E.A. degree, presenting the candidate with a Masonic emblem. Wor. Bro. L. C. Blue presented a silver salver to the lodge. On 17th January, 1940, the Masonic hall was destroyed by fire. Building was a complete loss but all records were saved. Letters from many lodges expressing their regret at the loss were received. Arrangements were made with Madoc Chapter Eastern Star to hold meetings in their room. A committee of seven members was authorized to procure rooms and the present building was purchased and refurnished. Federals and altar were made by Wor. Bros. P. H. Naylor, L. C. Blue, F. Gunn and D. Kernohan. Secretary's desk was presented by Wor. Bro. E. T. Naylor. Several members donated the sum of $25.00 each towards the purchase of two pillars.

1941, Madoc Lodge was requested by Moira Lodge to present a Veteran's Jewel to Bro. W. R. Kelly. On 21st September, 1942, the present lodge room was dedicated with Most Wor. Bro. J. A. McRae, assisted by Grand Secretary Rt. Wor. Bro. Dixon, Rt. Wor. Bro. Kidd, Grand Chaplain; Most Wor. Bro. Herrington, Past Grand Master; Wor. Bro. Geo. Little, D.D.G.M.; Rt. Wor.- Bro. Herity, Rt. Wor. Bro. Ed. Brown, Rt. Wor. Bro. O. West, Very Wor. Bro. W. E. Connor, Wor. Bro. S. Eagleson and Wor. Bro. C. Wright. About 200 brethren from the other lodges in the district attended.

After the ceremony a banquet was held in the armouries served by members of the Red Cross Society.

September 1943, at this date, with over 500 lodges in the Grand Lodge of Canada in the Province of Ontario, Madoc Lodge, No. 42, was the 60th oldest lodge. 1945, night of meeting was changed from Tuesday, on or before the full moon, to third Monday in each month. In December, Bro. Alex Cochran, secretary for many years resigned and Wor. Bro. E. T. Naylor was elected to that position.

In 1948, Rt. Wor. Bro. Gunsolus, the present Grand Senior Warden, who was Wor. Master of The Belleville Lodge, visited Madoc and conferred the E.A. on Mr. Joe Miles. V. Wor. Bro. W. E. Connor was presented with a veteran's jewel, and in 1950 he also received a 40-year Past Master's jewel.

1950, Wor. Bro. A. V. Gaebel elected D.D.G.M. and Wor. Bro. E. T. Naylor appointed a Grand Lodge Steward. In 1952, Wor. Bro. P. E. Naylor appointed Grand Lodge Standard Bearer. 1953, Wor. Bro. S. Eagleson and Bro. Fred Curry received veteran's jewels, 50 years a Mason.

At this time Madoc Lodge had paid off all indebtedness on the property and it was decided to make a banquet hall on the second floor and modernize the store fronts. This is in progress at present and when completed will greatly improve the value of the building as well as the appearance. Madoc Chapter, Eastern Star was granted the use of banquet hall for a chapter room.

May the second hundred years see an even greater progress in the lodge and may the benefits and influence of "Masonry" be increased in the community as time passes on.

Belleville May Be Included As Stopping Point

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier said Wednesday that TCA would like to inaugurate a cross-country run between Montreal and Windsor with stops at six Ontario points.

He made the statement in the Commons after stating the government must concentrate in the immediate future on the development of Canada's major airports. Plans for expenditures this year at the London, Ont., airport were dropped because of this policy.

"We have got to give attention to the major transcontinental airports," he said. "I know that TCA would like to have a cross-country run between Montreal and Windsor with stops at Cornwall, Kingston, Belleville, Oshawa, Toronto and London."

Gordon K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough) suggested that Peterborough should be one of the points on the run.

"I do not think Peterborough is in that line of operation," Mr. Chevrier said. "Perhaps we should reserve that for CPA."

Fight to Control Waterfront In Toronto Seen

TORONTO (CP)—A fight to control Toronto's waterfront appears in the making between John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers of America (CIO) and the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks (AFL-CLC).

A. A. McKay, UMW representative, said Wednesday all organized Toronto stevedores have resigned from the Brotherhood and joined the Mine Workers.

The UMW has applied to the Ontario labor relations board for certification to represent the longshoremen, employed by the Eastern Stevedoring Company.

The working force, numbering about 130 men, had been represented by the Brotherhood since 1951.

Entry of the Mine Workers into the Toronto waterfront came as a surprise to local labor observers. They speculated it might be the start of a campaign by Lewis to control the ports because of the growth in business anticipated when the St. Lawrence seaway opens.

F. H. Mead, Brotherhood representative, said: "What is Lewis afraid the coal business is also? Is he afraid he'll have to go into other lines to keep his banking business going?"

Urges Penalties If Plants Misuse Sewer Systems

GUELPH (CP)—A sanitation engineer says municipalities should charge a maximum penalty of $200 for the misuse of sewage collection and disposal.

E. G. Hackborn of Kitchener told 150 industrial and municipal engineers at the Industrial Waste Conference Wednesday that wasted, discharged by industries into sewers, have deteriorated systems so that municipalities are faced with increased costs.

Proper enforcement of municipal ordinances is necessary to combat indifference to the limitations and capabilities of sewage collection and treatment plants, he said.

DOUBTS ENFORCEMENT

However, he doubted whether municipalities had adequate regulations on such points as collection methods, segregation of unwanted wastes and wastes causing structural damage. He also said municipal authorities do not enforce existing standards.

The session, sponsored by the pollution control board of Ontario, also considered waste disposal problems in oil refining, mining and smelting.

Prime Ministers May Be Called To London Parley

LONDON (AP)—Britain plans to call Commonwealth prime ministers to a London parley this year on the critical Asian situation, diplomatic officials said Wednesday.

Prime Minister Churchill was reported wanting Commonwealth backing for a policy that would aim to:

1. Keep the door open for a settlement with the Communists in Indo-China.

2. Define clearly the sphere of the free world's influence and interest in Southeast Asia and the Pacific.

3. Unite with like-minded powers including the United States and France, in a regional defence organization binding its members to resist Communist aggression in that sphere.

Two Oil Firms Reduce Wholesale Gas Price

TORONTO (CP)—Two big oil companies announced wholesale gasoline price reductions Wednesday but said whether the motorist will get the benefit is up to retail dealers.

British American Oil Company Ltd., announced a 4-cent cut in the wholesale price of its regular grade. Just a few hours later Sun Oil Company announced a similar reduction on its single "premium grade."

(At Windsor, Dick Lampkin, a service station operator and president of the Ontario gasoline industry, said the cut will be retained by service station operators to meet increased costs.)

For Sun it was the second cut since May when it announced a two-cent wholesale reduction.

May Develop Airport Near Peterborough

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier said Wednesday there is a possibility of developing an airport in the Peterborough, Ont., area but the government requires a firm offer of local financial assistance if one is to be built.

He was replying to a question by Gordon K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough) during Commons study of transport department estimates.

Mr. Fraser said the department has been making surveys in the Peterborough area.

Mr. Chevrier said there are no present plans for an airport there. Government policy was that there should be a financial contribution by either the city or some other organization.

Moved to Prevent McCarthy Probe Of Oppenheimer

By RUSSELL BRINES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional sources today said one reason the United States administration decided to conduct a security review of atomic scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer was to head off a possible congressional investigation.

William L. Borden wrote to the FBI Nov. 7, 1953, after resigning as executive director of the Senate-House atomic energy committee, that his study convinced him Oppenheimer "more probably than not . . . is an agent of the Soviet Union."

The letter was made public Tuesday night in the transcript of the Oppenheimer hearings before a special three-man review board. Many scientists who testified called Oppenheimer, a principal developer of the atomic bomb, both loyal and an excellent security risk.

McCARTHY WAS SUSPICIOUS

Informed congressional sources who declined to be quoted by name said copies of Borden's letter came into possession of investigating committees headed by Senator McCarthy and Senator William E. Jenner (Rep., Ind.).

Alexander Warns Allies Cannot Desert S. E. Asia

LONDON (Reuters) — Defence Minister Earl Alexander said Wednesday "we owe it to our Asian friends no less than to ourselves to do all we can to help them, by any means acceptable to them all, to maintain the integrity of South east Asia."

Speaking at the annual dinner of the Press Association, the former governor-general of Canada also urged that West Germany be brought into the European Army without delay.

Alexander said Britain has a role to play in the development of thermonuclear weapons, a "terrifying deterrent" to world war.

The defence minister said the Berlin and Geneva conferences have produced "very little indication" of any change in the Communists' basic objectives. They were still seeking to extend their world-wide influence by any means short of world war.

Deny Report Dewey Will Succeed Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House Wednesday labelled as "absolutely untrue" a published report that Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York State might succeed John Foster Dulles as U.S. state secretary.

Commenting on the report, James C. Hagarty, president Eisenhower's press secretary, told reporters:

I have talked to the president (about the report) and he told me he hadn't even heard anyone mention such a thing."

The report was published Wednesday in the Buffalo (N.Y.) Evening News in an Albany dispatch.

Dewey has declined to comment on the report.

INDIAN COUPLE

This Indian couple with their child at Fort Radium in the Northwest Territories are typical of the natives the Duke of Edinburgh will see when he makes an air tour of Canada's far north in August. (CP from National Film Board).

Whitehorse in Fabled Land Of Sourdough Will Be First Place Visited by Duke

BY GRAHAM TROTTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—This crossroads of the north in the fabled land of the sourdough will be the first point visited by the Duke of Edinburgh during his three-day, five-stop tour of Canada's far north in August.

From this capital of the Yukon he will go on to four centres in the Northwest Territories, travelling as far as the Arctic coast, before returning east for the windup of his Canadian visit. The duke will arrive in Canada at Goose Bay, Labrador, July 29, and his trip ends there on Aug. 17.

The duke, who will travel the far north solely by air, will arrive at Whitehorse about mid-day Aug. 8 after a 900-mile flight from Vancouver and the British Empire games there. He will come aboard the fast, four-motored C-5 aircraft which carried Prime Minister St. Laurent around the globe earlier this year.

ROUTE TO KLONDIKE

Approaching Whitehorse by air from the south, the duke will pass over snow-capped mountains jutting their peaks 6,000 to 10,000 feet above the northern wilderness.

In the vicinity of the British Columbia-Yukon border he likely will pass over the Chilkoot and White passes and Lake Bennett, overland route of more than 25,000 persons who stampeded to the Klondike gold rush of 1898.

He will see, pointing toward Whitehorse from the east, a long, twisting ribbon cutting through the wilderness of mountain, bush, muskeg and lakes. This will be the 1,523-mile Alaska highway, built by an army of some 40,000 American soldiers in less than a year at a cost of $138,000,000 as a wartime defence link with Alaska.

The duke's aircraft will land on a hard-surfaced strip of the Whitehorse airport, site of a frontier golf course 34 years ago. Carved out by bush pilots and barnstorming aviators, it was developed as a major field during the Second World War and now is a key base for joint Canadian-American defence of the continent.

Across the airport from the RCAF station the duke will be lodged for his overnight stay in a modern, two-storey house complete with wood-panelled living room and big stone fireplace. From these luxurious quarters, at the edge of a plateau on which the air base is situated, the duke will have a sweeping view of Whitehorse 300 feet below.

DISTRIBUTING CENTRE

Much of the duke's time will be spent in the town, distributing and transportation centre of the north at the meeting of river, highway and rail.

The duke's motorcade will travel a short stretch along the Alaska highway before entering the town from the northwest along the sloping, winding "two-mile hill." At the foot of it remain a few globular tanks on the abandoned site of the Canol oil refinery, another phase of Whitehorse's wartime boom.

Just north of town is an Indian burial ground where huts built over graves are complete to dishes and tobacco supplies in anticipation of the return of spirits of the departed. This curious spot intrigued Vincount Alexander on his visit here some years ago as Canada's governor-general.

The Canadian Army's northwest highway system, which controls and maintains the Alaska highway, is located along the west and south sides of the town and the duke's route takes him past some of the American Quonset huts erected during the highway's construction.

Much of Whitehorse's 2,500 civilian population draw their livelihood from the highway, being employed in maintenance work. The air force and army camps swell the area's population to 5,000.

Turning east down Main street, the duke's party will come to the spanking-new, block-long federal government building. Three blocks further, at the end of Main street, the duke will visit the depot and dock yards of the White Pass and Yukon Railway and the British Navigation Co., steamboat division of the railway.

YEAR-ROUND OPERATION

The narrow 36-inch gauge railroad, pushed east through the Rocky Mountains to Whitehorse at the height of the gold rush, operates year-round. Its miniature cars travel 110 miles between Whitehorse and the Pacific coast port of Skagway, Alaska, jumping-off point of the old gold-seekers.

Of special interest to the royal sailor will be the remains of the sternwheeler fleet. Completion last year of a road from here to Dawson City, 434 miles north, practically sounded the death knell of the boats, which plied the 2,000-mile Yukon river from headwaters here.

Rotting on their ways are the legendary Yukoner and Bonanza King, giant remnants of some 100 river steamers built all along the Pacific coast to carry thousands up the Yukon river to the gold-rich creek beds around Dawson City.

TO SEE MUSEUM

Across the street from the railway, the duke will visit the White-horse museum, a log cabin which was the first government telegraph office in the Yukon. Prominently displayed are poems by Robert W. Service, the Yukon's gold-rush bard. Mounted on a wall is the world's second largest moose head, 75½ inches separating its antler tips.

Another stop on the itinerary is Sam McGee's cabin. Service won fame with his ballad, "The Cremation of Sam McGee." On the grounds outside are one of the old stage coaches used on the Overland trail to Dawson City in the gold-rush era and an Indian war canoe.

Across the street is the Anglican log church, built in 1900. Service's ballads, "Songs of a Sourdough," were penned in the study of the church, of which he was a warden.

After his tour of the town, air base and northwest highway system, the duke leaves the following morning aboard the C-5 for the Northwest Territories.

Immigration Best Thing Says Thatcher

OTTAWA (CP)—Ross Thatcher, outspoken CCF member for Moose Jaw - Lake Centre maintains that the government should use its immigration policy in attacking the problem of Canada's wheat surplus.

Mr. Thatcher, a Saskatchewan hardware merchant, made the proposal in the Commons as one of several suggestions for selling wheat.

He said he realizes there has been agitation against recent levels of immigration. Unions were worried about the effect. But immigration was the best thing in the world for farmers.

Mr. Thatcher said he hopes the government does not yield to pressure for reducing immigration quotas. The government should bring people into Canada to consume food surpluses.

Port Colborne Public School Is Blacklisted

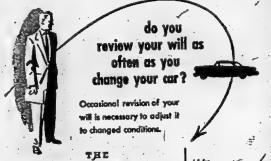
PORT COLBORNE, Ont. (CP)—The federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario has announced that any of its members who accept a position in a Port Colborne public school "will not receive any aid in professional difficulty" from the federation.

The announcement, made in a form of a notice to the members of the federation, was brought to the attention of the Port Colborne council by councillor Leonard W. Hardy. It followed the dismissal of Mrs. Melissa Pietz, a member of the federation, as principal of Vimy school.

The notice also said that "in the opinion of the federation . . . this action of the board (of education) is deemed a discrimination against woman teachers. . . ."

Mr. Hardy told the council that this is the first time in Ontario that has been taken against any public school board. He said he feels the people of Port Colborne are going to suffer unless the restriction is lifted.

Federal Grants To Corporations Will Be Delayed



OTTAWA (CP) — The government has decided to delay until the next session of Parliament proposed legislation increasing grants to municipalities in which federal property is located, it has been learned.

The government also has decided to give further study to the question of increasing salaries for judges with a view to presenting legislation on enabling legislation also at the next session which may open in November.

Under current policy, the administration does not pay taxes on its property across the country, but makes a grant to the municipalities equivalent to about 75 per cent of normal taxes on that portion of federal property which exceeds four per cent of total local assessments.

There has been speculation the government planned to increase the grants to make them equivalent to 100 per cent of taxes on federal property in excess of two per cent of local assessments.

Classroom Section of New High School Ready in Sept.

There is every prospect that the classroom section of the new wing of Quinte District High School will be ready for occupancy for the opening of school in September.

Harold Seldon, chairman of the sites and accommodations committee of the Bay of Quinte district high school board, made this statement in reporting that excellent progress was being made on the new school.

In expressing his pleasure at the progress to date, Mr. Seldon added that it would appear that there would be no necessity for staggered classes this fall. Staff for the school is complete and with many of the teachers expected to arrive a few days early in September prospects for a normal school opening are bright.

Some rooms are in the process of final plastering. Because outside walls are largely complete of windows and glass brick there is little finishing work needed on them. Windows on the north side of the school are almost completely installed now.

Mr. Seldon also pointed out that the heating and ventilating system is nearly complete; that corridor walls have some work still to be done but that inset lockers reduces the amount of finishing necessary, and that the roof is on and finished over the classroom section.

The classroom section of the new L-shaped high school is two stories in height and forms the long bar of the L.

WOMAN SENATOR

Senator Muriel Fergusson, 55, of Fredericton, is a quiet-spoken crusader for women's participation in public life. The first woman senator from New Brunswick, she previously was the first woman judge of a probate court in the province and the first woman Canadian enforcement counsel for the wartime prices and trade board. She has seen the realization of a principle she long has advocated—the right of women to serve on New Brunswick juries. (CP Photo).

Senator Sees Realization Of Principle Advocated

BY JOHN MOSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FREDERICTON (CP) — Senator Muriel McQuen Fergusson, quiet-spoken crusader for women's participation in public life, has seen the realization of a principle she long advocated — the right of women to serve on New Brunswick juries.

This was enacted at the last legislative session. Mrs. Fergusson said in an interview she would have preferred that women be called for jury service in the same way as men but with the privilege of refusing. Under the act, any woman wishing to serve must register and then, if she changes her mind, may given written notice and become exempt.

"Now we are not considered too unintelligent for jury duty," commented New Brunswick's outstanding representative of her sex in public affairs. The subject recalled her interest in the historic struggle of 1929 to get women classified as "persons" under the British North America Act so that they could be appointed to the Senate.

HELD MANY POSTS

The next thing she would like to see in the way of legislation on behalf of women is "equal pay for equal value."

Still dark-haired and attractive at 55, the energetic, blue-eyed senator is a woman of "firsts"—the first woman senator from New Brunswick, first woman member of the Fredericton city council, first woman to have been judge of probate in this province and first woman in Canada to have been appointed enforcement counsel for a province under the wartime prices board.

From 1947 until her Senate appointment a year ago she was regional welfare administrator for the federal health department.

She has found the Senate "extremely interesting and the associations stimulating." While some members were well along in years "their brains are not gone. They are still brilliant and outstanding and it is a privilege to know them.

ACTIVE IN SENATE

"People don't realize how much work the Senate does. Most is in committee and not speeches that reach the public."

Member of a joint Senate-Commons committee on criminal law, capital and corporal punishment and lotteries, Senator Fergusson recently visited the Maritimes penitentiary at Dorchester, N.B. She considered it "run in a very modern manner" and was "impressed with the warden and administration."

She thinks the Senate isn't a place for glamor, so she dresses conservatively there and doesn't wear a hat at the sittings because it's no place for that, either."

Mrs. Fergusson hasn't seen any prejudice against women in Canadian public life, but believes it is "up to the women themselves to make their mark." Municipal and civic governments were a good place to start.

WORKED ON COUNCIL

Elected to the Fredericton city council in 1951, she was re-elected in 1952 and became deputy mayor. Her term ended in December and, with numerous other activities in New Brunswick and Ottawa, she doesn't plan to reoffer for another. Senator Fergusson shares an Ottawa apartment with two other women and during the Senate session returns here every two weeks for city council meetings and to see her aged mother.

The New Brunswick senator now hasn't time for former hobbies. During early married life at Grand Falls, N.B., she grew flowers, enjoyed fishing and "loved to cook." She was born at Shediac and in 1926 married Aubrey S. Fergusson, also a barrister, who died in 1942. There were no children.

"About my only hobby now is racing around making speeches to women," Mrs. Fergusson said, with a laugh. Admittedly nervous before public speeches, she nevertheless likes it and "once I get going everything is all right."

She was admitted to the New Brunswick bar in 1925, practised law at Shediac and Grand Falls and, among other positions, was solicitor for the latter town and clerk of the Victoria county and circuit courts.

OLD SETTLEMENT

The village of New Germany in Lunenburg county, N.S., was so named by German settlers in 1783.

Note Book Little Benny's

Today in school Miss Kitty was writing on the blackboard with her back turned, and all of a sudden she turned around saying, I want that whispering to stop immediatly. And whoever was gilty of it needn't think they are excused because I didn't happen to catch them at it. Whether we are caught or not, we all get our just dessarts in the end as we go through life. Who can give me an example of the meaning of getting your just dizzerts? Yes, Charles? she said.

Meaning Pods Simkins waving his hand, and Pods said, Dont stuff yourself before the dizzert is served, because it's liked to be just the dizert you like best, and you wont hardly have any room for make dizert one helping.

That is a very good principle, but it hardly explains that we reap the results that our actions deserve, depending on whether they are good or bad, Miss Kitty said. Now there is a famous fable about a certain vain little creature that tried to blow itself up as big as a certain big creature, and it blew and blew until it burst. Who can name the creatures in the famous fable? she said.

Which Dopey Shorty Judge waved, saying, They were a little bit of a bubble and a grate big bubble, and the little bubble got jellis and tried to blow itself bigger than the big bubble, but it didn't have enough soap and it exploded and disappered forever, and that was its just dizzerts.

(The cryetures in the fable were a frog and a bull, Miss Kitty said. Oh dear sutch a class. I think it would be a good time for a little history review she said.

Her being the only one thought so.

ALASKA'S GIANT Kodiac bear plays rough. But the people who run the Bronx Zoo have found the perfect toy for him. Having soon barrels (filled) being tossed around trucks, we can understand why breweries have turned to these rugged, attractive containers. Another reason, of course, is that aluminum is an excellent protector for food and drink, preserving their purity and flavour indefinitely. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

BASEBALL PARADE!

Tonight Bryson Reid's Regents take on Johnny Mowat's Wellington Dukes in the opening game of the Bay of Quinte Baseball League at the Exhibition Park. The Regents won their first start and feel confident they can take the measure of the Dukes for their second victory. The game will be preceded by a big parade with bands, cars, the teams and minor baseball players in uniform. The parade will leave the Collegiate campus at 7.30 with the game getting under way an hour later. The Kinsmen Boys' Band, the Municipal Band, Hasty Pees and the 9th Anti-Tank Bands will take part in the festivities as will the prancing policemines of the Jack Dash stable. Minor baseball team managers are asked to have their

TOUGH, EH!

"I have handled tougher, much tougher babies than those Mills Brothers," carried "Sunny Bebop" Dunlop, who will be the extra man in the ring when the drape-haired toughies tangle with Texas Mackenzie, 6' 9" giant, and Paul Baltzgerson here Friday night at 8.30. Sporty officials were not fooling. "They had better not pull any of their funny shenanigans with me around, because it will be just too bad. I can be tough, too." The big, good-natured cuf can put on a one-man show himself if the going gets rough. He knows all the answers and is one of the most popular officials around these parts that ever hopped a vitalia.

The semi-final between popular Timmy Geohagen and Ray Villmar threatens to steal the show in this department's opinion. This should be a real thriller as both boys are fast, clever and clean.

WE SHALL SEE!

Exuberant Jake Minix (no relation to After-Dinner Pepper) ca-brains-trust with Tommy Tammas in guiding the destinies of the Kessel Chatterbox, will attempt to add the nogring carrying the world heavyweight crown off the shoulders of one Rocky Marciano come this evening, was in rare form the other night.

Says Ole Life-Saver Minix, who rates second to Harry Balleagh in abundancy of redundancy, "This is a wunnerful age. It is the area of the impossible an' you can take that for granite." We've had the four-minute mile, the weightlift at Mount Everest, we have Ezzard Charles as the foist heavyweight champ ever to regain his title."

Jake, who doesn't Minix words, was talking to the press gang down Monticello, N.Y., way. In fact Jake generally does all the talking for Ezzard the Wizard is a quiet, reserved and usually unsmiling chap, in direct contrast to the boyish exuberant friendliness of the champion.

The scribes were of the opinion that Charles is not an embittered young man because of the strange cards boxing fate has dealt him, although he could scarcely be blamed for "getting that way."

He easily outpointed Jersey Joe Walcott to gain Louis' vacated heavyweight championship, then thrashed Louis and beat Walcott again. In his third fight with Jersey Joe the venerable Camden carpenter tagged him for Ez's only clean knockout. In his fourth fight with Walcott, Charles appeared to have won the bout by three city blocks. So he got cautious in the last few rounds and missed by a whisker the chance to become the first heavyweight champion to regain the throne.

Later he was beaten by two comparative unknowns—made a spectacular comeback—and you know where he stands today.

Charles thinks Jersey Joe carries the hardest punch of all the fighters he has met. "He knocked me out, didn't he," he said. "Surely that is convincing evidence."

The Maritime followers boast that Socky is a one-punch killer and with decision in the Charles camp, Jimmy Brown. Charles' trainer, curled his nose, "Let me tell you this. He has knocked out ten men with one punch." And he read off the list.

Charles admitted he has seen Marciano in action against Louis and twice against Walcott. "There are ways to get at him, but I'd rather not say what they are," he commented.

Be that as it may. Joe Louis, who saw Charles in camp the other day, remarked he is training for the wrong kind of fight and that Rocky Marciano and Joe should know whereof he speaks. Walcott thinks Charles will win —and "do it easy." That is understandable.

It looks from here as though the big battle will develop into a brawl between a fine boxer and a killer-slugger. The fine boxer type has not held the title since the hey-dey of Gene Tunney. Dempsey could scarcely be called that type. Louis was definitely in the killer class with his stalking short-punch, savage attacks.

Marciano may not have the polish and finish of either a Louis or a Dempsey, yet, but he is developing along these lines. Besides he has been training faithfully since his last fight, and should be a vastly improved fighter over the one that whipped Jersey Joe with that terrific right.

Records don't mean a thing. Charles could have knocked out 100 men with one punch in his former days. It is worth just the paper it is written on. If he is the puncher he is claimed to be by his management, he will never get a better chance to prove it than tonight.

Nope, we'll go along with Rocky to retain the title. And the shorter the fight, the better. For didn't we draw "Marciano in the First" in the sweepstake pool.

Tribe Trounces Senators 5-1 As Avila, Rosen See Action; Flatbushers Hit Five Homers

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rarely has the future looked so rosy for the Cleveland Indians.

The cripples are coming back with a bang. The club has a three-game hold on first place. And the next eight games are against second-division teams.

The Indians ran their current winning streak to seven Wednesday night with a 5-1 victory over Washington that marked the return to partial action of Bobby Avila, the league's leading hitter.

Al Rosen made his first appearance in almost two weeks the night before. He's last year's most valuable player in the American League and is running second to Avila in hitting.

ONE CHANCE, ONE HIT

Avila, on the bench with a chipped thumb, batted for an a relief pitcher and stayed around to bat once. He delivered a two-run single.

Rosen, batting for catcher as a pinch hitter Tuesday night and singled once in two tries Wednesday night.

The other two teams in the three-team American League race also won Wednesday. Second-place Chicago beat Philadelphia 11-6 and the New York Yankees edged Baltimore 3-2. Boston Boston handed us eight-game losing streak with a 3-2 victory at Detroit.

The Yankees' win kept them stayed atop the National League with a 4-0 verdict over Cincinnati. Brooklyn remained a game behind the Giants by whipping Milwaukee 8-4. St. Louis defeated Chicago 11-6 and Chicago at Pittsburgh were rained out.

HOMER HELP

Home runs by Lou Limmer and Bill Renna helped the Athletics build a 6-4 lead in Chicago but the White Sox wiped it out with a seven-run seventh as Ferris Fain hit an inside-the-park home run with the bases loaded.

Hits were scarce in Baltimore with each getting only three. But the Yankees bunched theirs in the fifth inning for the only runs. Mickey Mantle hit a string of scoreless innings to 20 in winning pitcher Ed Lopat.

Three errors contributed to the Tigers' disgruntal against the Red Sox. Willard Nixon picked up his fifth victory.

The winning spirit of the Giants seems to be infectious. Jim Hearn, who hadn't pitched a complete game since last August, stopped the Redlegs on four hits — all singles. Ray Katt, who added an earlier run with a sacrifice fly, homered in the fifth.

The Dodgers beat the Braves into submission with seven runs. They hit five, equalling the club's all - time high for one game. Homers were by Duke Snider, Gil Hodges, Don Hoak, Pee Wee Reese and Roy Campanella.

Toronto Leafs, Wings Win; Royals Get Two

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If St. Louis Cardinals are searching for pitching help they won't need to look far. Righthander Larry Jackson of the International League Rochester Red Wings appears to be their man.

The 24-year-old rookie brought up from Houston of the Texas League three weeks ago gained his fifth victory Wednesday night as the Red Wings checked Buffalo Bisons 9-1.

Toronto's league-leading Maple Leafs nipped Syracuse Chiefs for the third straight time, 3-2. In the only other game played, Montreal Royals smashed seven runs in double loss Tuesday night, downing Ottawa Athletics 6-3 and 7-3.

FLY AND HOMER

Archie Wilson's sacrifice fly in the eighth inning scored Hector Rodriguez and gave the Leafs their eighth consecutive victory this year over the Chiefs and the 14th straight on the latter part of last season. Wilson hit his sixth home run in the fourth inning.

Bobby Wilson homered in the first Ottawa-Montreal game, a two-run blast in the seventh inning as the Royals came up with five runs. Rocky Nelson also collected a home run in the second inning.

In the second game Dick Young tripled in the tying run in the eighth inning and scored a moment later on Clarence Thompson's double for the winning run. In the ninth Montreal added an insurance marker.

Marciano Is 5-18 Favorite; 'Now or Never for Charles'

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Ezzard Charles bucks the explosive power of heavyweight king Rocky Marciano and a 34-year-old tradition of the ring tonight in a final try to become the first ex-champion to regain boxing's most prized crown. The odds are 5-to-18 that he fails.

"It's now or never for Ezzard," said co-manager Tom Tannas. "He knows it and his last chance and he's never been so determined before. He's right on edge. I hope we don't get any rain to spoil it."

The forecast is for fair and warmer although an earlier prediction by the weatherman called for a threat of late evening thundershowers. But possible postponement which could force a week's setback of the 15-round title fight in Yankee Stadium was uppermost in the minds of the principals and promoters as they anxiously peered at the sky. A canopy was placed above the ring to keep the canvas dry.

After months of hard training, the gladiators were ready for boxdom's richest prize. Charles is the underdog by 3-to-1 odds but could put a big dent in the receipts, anyway. Postponements bring cancellations.

GOOD GATE

The promoting International Boxing Club said it was up to the box park this evening with $400,000 in the till. Promoter Jim Norris is looking for a 40,000 crowd and $500,000 at the gate with a break from the weather man.

In addition to the gate receipts the fighters will share (Marciano 40 per cent, Charles 20) in close to $200,000 from the coast-to-coast theater-television. $25,000 from the network (ABC) radio broadcast, and a possible bonanza from the movies if the fight is broadcast.

There will be no home television of the undefeated Marciano's third title defense. The bout will start at 10.30 p.m. EDST.

While the 32-year-old Charles will be seeking to accomplish what eight former champions failed in doing himself, have failed to do, the 29-year-old Marciano will be facing a less potent heavyweight jinx. Only 5 of 17 heavyweight rulers have been able to get by a third defence. This is No. 3 for the Brockton bruiser.

Hogan, Snead Firm Favorites In U.S. Open

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (AP)—The 54th national golf championship—the "aching back Open"—tees off today with the big finger pointing at a pair of ailing old pros.

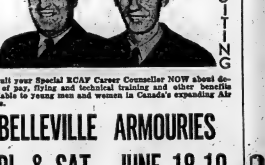
Ben Hogan and Sam Snead, both 42, are firm co-favorites in the blue ribbon field of 162 which starts rolling over Baltusrol's fairways at 8 a.m. EDT.

Hogan, seeking to become the first man to win five U.S. Opens, is fighting the after-effects of a virus attack which bedded him two weeks ago. He's still under a doctor's care.

Snead, whose previous Opens have been marked by near-misses and frustration, is troubled with a sore muscle in his neck which hampers his swing.

Low Graham of Pittsburgh, who hit the $25,000 wedge shot last summer which won him the so-called Tam O'Shanter world's championship, stretched as a torn cartilage in his right knee.

Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., turned up with bursitis in his right shoulder. Both said they'd try to play.



"I feel wonderful, I'm in the best of health, so I don't have a chance," quipped Jimmy Demaret.

Monarchs Trim Indianapolis Team As Funny Men Nearly Steal Show

By GEO. E. CARVER
Sports Editor.

Brilliant defensive plays, heavy clouting, mass pilfering of baseballs and a screamingly funny trio of clowns featured the Kansas City Monarchs-Indianapolis Clowns Negro American Baseball League game at the Exhibition Grounds last night.

The Monarchs with some of the busiest shortstop ever seen here scored a 14-10 victory over the clowns, six of the tallies coming in the eighth inning off a homer and five singles.

Five home runs cleared the fences during the game, one a three-run clout. The Monarchs claimed four of the circuit clips, two of them coming consecutively in the first innings. Some sensational defence work was apparent especially by the outfielders. Miss Toni Stone, lady second sacker, who played three innings for the Monarchs was brilliant, fielding her position flawlessly and smacking out a clean single to deep centre field.

Both pitchers, Amaro for the Clowns and Bob Mitchell of the Monarchs worked at times, Mitchell giving up thirteen bases on balls and Amaro, nine. Both batters went the route. The Monarchs rapped out fourteen hits, four homers, a double and nine singles, while the Clowns clamsed out 10 hits, a homer and nine singles.

Ball-pilfering moppets had another field day, or should we say, the ageless of the visiting clubs' youngsters, some of them not so young, lined the foul lines and behind the snow defence, and won betide any erring baseball that fell out of centre, pitcher or batboy. At least 27 balls were missing when the roll was called.

CLOWNS WERE GOOD.

Over eight hundred fans were almost cross-eyed at times trying to watch the hilarious antics of the funny men, and the action taking place in the diamond, at the same time.

Circus Eddie Hamman, lived up to all advance notices as being one of the funniest men in baseball. Teaming with Al Pinto, the lad gangling "Step-N-Fetchit" type of comedian and Satchel, midget clown, Hamman had the fans holding their sides throughout most of the game with his hilarious high jinks.

His line of humorous patter while selling his baseball books not only had the crowd in stitches but resulted in a heavy sale.

Quoth Eddie, "I am not working my way through college selling these books. All I need is beer money. Please learn them in the stands. After the game I pick 'em up and sell them again . . . and I'll give you a book to remember me—I take your fifteen cents so I can think of you."

Hamman is not only a clown but his antics with a baseball wire almost uncanny at times. In a popper game you could not tell where the ball was nor where it came from. He tossed it behind his back in between throws from first to third base.

The trio of clowns aided by three clowns players staged a "fan game" after the first half of the seventh innings. Playing with an imaginary ball, they went through a stiff infield workout that was an eye pleaser.

GLOVE LIKE A BATH TUB

King Tut who had a glove like the family bath tub and a bat the size of a twenty-year-old maple tree, pulled off many amusing antics using a couple of local youngsters as stooges. He was well assisted by Satchel Hamman team mate of Eddie and the curtomers to good advantages. He escorted various ladies to their seats creating many amusing situations. Wyah, hurly! The pair in baldish elderly fan, planting a "painted" kiss on the hairless brow.

Back to baseball, the home runs were the longest ever seen in the Exhibition Park for some time. Mobley of the Monarchs hit a four-bagger in the first inning that cleared the centre field fence by forty feet. Horn, of the same team blasted one in the fifth which was a good thirty feet over the centre fielder and he was backed to the fence. A clown batter lofted a high fly to the air at one time and pulled down the ball with his gloved hand that would have gone for a homer had it been an inch higher.

The team play in Oshawa tonight and in Peterborough tomorrow night.

The first industrial exhibition held in Canada was a display of the products of New France in Quebec in 1737.

Quinte Golfers Defend Trophy For Second Time

Bay of Quinte golfers successfully thrust off the second challenge for the Branscombe Cup at the club links yesterday when they defeated a duo from the Port Hope Golf and Country Club one up on the twentieth hole.

Murray McIntosh and T. A. Carruthers represented the Quinte club matching mashies with Hank Haines and Bryan Sherry of Hope links aces.

McIntosh was the hero of the piece from a Quinte standpoint. The challengers were one up at the eighteenth hole when Murray sank an eight foot putt to square the match. The next hole was halved and on the twentieth McIntosh came through with another eight-foot putt to win the match, one up.

It is expected the Trenton and Napanee golf clubs will challenge the Quinte experts for the trophy within the next few days.

On Sunday district golfers will battle for the Quinte Trophy on the Napanee links. Quinte, Trenton, Picton and Napanee will field nine-man teams in the competition. Morning rounds will see elimination matches with the winners playing off in the afternoon. There will be a consolation flight for the losers.

Game Postponed

The Belleville and District Softball League game which was billed Saturday evening between Madoc and the league leading Northern Electric team, has been definitely postponed.

The game, called for an-under-the-lights battle at the Alemite Field starting at 8.00 p.m., will not be played as the Madoc team meets the V.O.B.L. game here between Oakville and the Sales.

HOW HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION, CHALLENGER COMPARE

Here is the tape record of challenger Ezzard Charles (left), former heavyweight champion from Cincinnati, Ohio, and Rocky Marciano, current holder of the heavyweight sceptre, from Brockton, Mass., who will battle for the heavyweight title at Yankee Stadium, New York, tonight, June 17th. Marciano has won all of his 45 professional fights, 40 by the knockout route. Still another hazard for Charles is that no ex-champion of the heavies has ever regained the title. (Central Press Canadian).

Pat Maracle Fashions 1st No-Hitter As Point Anne Blanks Madoc 15-0

(By GARRY ALEXANDER).

Pat Maracle, veteran right-hander of the Point Anne Cementmen, came up with every point on the game last night as he hurled his team to a no-hit, no-run victory over the Madoc nine, 15-0.

Maracle, a standout softball pitcher with the Point for many years, threw masterful ball all the way and to make his feat more triumphant he fanned sixteen with his variety of twisting curves, tantalizing baseballs and a fast one.

Although close on many occasions with one and two hitters, it was the Point Anne boys game in the pitcher's career.

Meanwhile his mates gave him plenty of ground to work on as they slammed Ken Pipden, Madoc hurler for 10 hits including a homer, two triples and three doubles.

The Quinte boys got no time in building a lead with six runs in the initial frame, three in the second, two in the third and their final four in the fourth.

Singles by Lou Genereaux, Doug Hull, Bill Strahan and Roger Mallory combined with back to back doubles by John Green and Bob Strahan accounted for the first six tallies. In the second, one bagger by Hull and Jack Wardhaugh, a walk to Gilmour and Roger Mallory's two-run homer upped the score to 9-0. Genereaux led off the third with a two-bagger and Doug Hull lifted a triple over the Point fielder's head. He also scored when the catcher let the throw-to-get away. Errors played a large part in the fourth as Madoc miscued four times while Wardhaugh dropped a single and Maracle banged a triple to round out the fifteen runs. They were held to a pair of singles during the last four innings.

Seven of the Madoc boys reached base, three on walks, another three were hit by pitches and one was safe on a throwing error. Five never allowed two runners in the same inning as no man reached third base. Two innings had one twin-killing, that coming in the fourth when Genereaux grabbed a line drive to cut down Burnside going from first to second.

Harry Brown, husky first baseman for Madoc, was tossed out of the game in the first inning for using profane language, and Sherry, unfamiliar to the positions, had trouble handling low throws and hard-hit grounders. Ernie Carswell gallantly good defensive ball at short stop and Semmelhack made several good backhand stops at third base in a lasting cause.

Doug Hull and Art Genereaux paced Point Anne at bat with Hull claiming a triple and two singles while Art socked a double to match his brace of one-baggers. Mallory chipped in a homer and single, while Jack Wardhaugh touched the ball for a pair of singles. Other hits were Maracle's triple, Burnside and Bob Strahan and John Green with singles for Pat Gilmour and Bill Strahan.

The line ups:

Two No-Hitters In One Night

No-hit no-run softball games came in a pair last night as two city and district hurlers came through with a "dream" effort.

Pat Maracle, veteran hurler, turned in a fine mound performance against Madoc in his zero effort, striking out sixteen batters.

In Trenton Bobby Green, pinch-pitching for a Trenton League team, also flung a no-hitter, setting twelve of the side position down via the whiff route.

B.E.G. SALES

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ticket sales for the British Empire Games beginning here July 30 now total $62,000. Sales director Sam Rosen said Tuesday the figure represents 24 per cent of the $385,000 objective. More than half the sales have been for track and field seats.

SCOTS SCORE

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — Scotland opened up strongly against Pakistan in an international cricket match here Wednesday, scoring 69 for five wickets by the close of play. The day's top scorer was Michael, still playing with 70 runs to his credit. He teamed up with Aitchison to get 80 points in a fast hour shortly towards the end of the day.

Brantford Sox Terriers Split; Panthers Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two pitchers who have yet to lose a game this season posted their fifth victories in the senior Intercounty Baseball League Wednesday night.

Leep Jessup, Galt's ace, held Brantford Red Sox to seven hits to lead his Terriers to an 11-3 victory in the seven-inning first game of a doubleheader.

In the nine - inning nightcap Brantford's top hurler, Harry Fisher, won his fifth of the season, striking out nine Terriers and sparking the Sox to an 8-3 decision.

Johnny Maldovan pitched a five-hitter as Kitchener Panthers won their sixth consecutive game—a 6-0 shutout over the Guelph-Waterloo Royals Monday. It was Maldovan's second victory against no losses.

FIRST LOSS

In the short game at Brantford the Terriers jumped on Red Sox pitcher Wilmer Fields for 10 runs and a like number in two innings in the sixth inning. It was Wilmer's first loss of the season after three straight wins.

There were no home runs, but Ed Skead had a field day with three singles in four trips to the plate.

In the second game Brantford was behind once more, but scored one run in the first inning before the Sox tied the score in the same frame. Three runs in the second started Brantford on the way.

Galt's Jessup, Jerry Lee Karpuk, who also saw mound duty, hit the only homer of the game—a four-bagger that gave the Terriers their run in the first.

John Lockington Red Sox centrefielder, led the victory, slamming a triple, a double, a single and a walk in four times at bat. Fisher helped his victory with two hits in three trips. The Brantford lads took the loss to even his record at 1-1.

THIRD SHUTOUT

Kitchener's sixth win of the year was also their third shutout of the opposition. They have blanked London Majors twice.

All three Guelph errors counted in Kitchener scoring.

Charlie Wolf, rapidly turning into one of the outstanding sluggers in the Intercounty League, again paced the Panthers with two hits in three times at bat. He sent home two runs.

Maldovan gave up only one extra - base hit—a double—and struck out seven to earn the victory. Gord Arlas, Guelph starter, took his third loss. He has no victories.

The Panthers play at London tonight while Brantford meets the Eagles in St. Thomas.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Director of the Brooklyn Dodgers Baseball School

Uncle Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Dodgers during their dizziest days, once observed that a certain player looked as if he was batting in a telephone booth. This player had his arms so close to his sides that he couldn't take a good swing at the ball.

Some batters like to hold the bat farther away from their bodies than do others, but all successful hitters have the bat far enough away to permit a complete free swing at any pitch that comes into the strike zone.

Great hitters hold the bat so that it is easy to swing. They are relaxed but alert as they face the pitcher.

Kocsis Sets Golf Record

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Chuck Kocsis of Detroit's River Run Golf Club who played with the American Walker Cup team in 1949 set a competitive record for 18 holes in the invitation golf tournament at the London Hunt and Country Club here Wednesday.

Kocsis shot a five-under-par 65 in the second round of the 36-hole event to create the record. His one-under-par 69 in the first round brought his total to 134. The Detroit golfer shot five birdies and 13 pars to set the record-making score.

Nearest competitors towards the end of play were Nick Weslock of Windsor and John Nash of London Hunt each with 143. Moe Norman of Kitchener shot 146 while Don Varey, Brantford, Gil Walker, London Hunt and Toru Draper, Detroit carded 149 apiece. Bruce Castator of Toronto shot 151.

Grant Shirk, Kitchener, Ken Jacobs, Toronto-Scarboro and Jerry Magee of Toronto Lambton each scored 152.

Syracuse Out Of A.H.L.; Springfield In

NEW YORK (CP)—Springfield, Mass., Wednesday was granted a franchise in the American Hockey League after AHL owners cancelled the Syracuse, N.Y., franchise because of an inadequate schedule for next season.

Springfield Indians, now a member of the Quebec Hockey League, have made an application to the AHL for withdrawal.

The AHL owners were reported working on a playing schedule for the 1954-55 season that they hope will be ready today.

The Syracuse franchise is owned by Eddie Shore, who once operated in Springfield and who has had his club in Syracuse for the last three seasons.

Shore also operated the Springfield QH Lchib last season.

Other cities in the AHL are Buffalo, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Providence and Hershey, Pa..

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Nibliser

Some bridge players fling bids around like the infield handles a baseball. Over somebody's head it goes now and then, too. Sit in the bleachers and watch what happened in this rubber deal:

♥J 10 4 2
♦K 5 4
♣K J 9 3 2

WEST
♠7 4
♥9-8 7 6 5 3

♦Q J 10 9 8 2

SOUTH
♠Q 6 3
♥A K Q
♦A J 6 3
♣A Q 4

The bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 C	2 S
4 NT	Pass	5 S	5 D
Dbl	6 S	Dbl	Pass
6 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass
7 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Not enough space is there to take each bid and describe what is wrong with it or what part of it is right. As you can see, most of it was jockeying for the most profitable position.

It was soon obvious that east was determined to take a loss, if necessary; a sacrifice, however, big, commensurate with opponents' slam.

South and north almost permitted it by doubling.

It was also evident that east had a freak. When south finally came to this conclusion he decided to take matters into his own hand. There was always the chance that he could make seven no-trump.

South was a little hasty in assuming there was a slam. Nothing in the first response by north promised enough for slam. Therefore, south was a bit premature in using Blackwood aces and kings asker.

However, the five spades response by north is signal for one ace and two kings. So, whether or not the information was asked for soon, south is now anxious to reach a slam.

Small slam is probably where south would have landed if east had not made it a shove. Having gone that far, he let the east push persuade him to try the limit. The opening west lead was a spade seven.

It looked tough at first, but he made it. Decide how.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Saturday night Alan Young launches yet another chapter in his amazing up-and-down career in show business.

The bright, youthful Canadian comic will be the guest star on NBC-TV's Saturday Night Review, and he'll appear eight times on the show this summer. He'll be doing what he does best—sprightly sketches of a well-meaning man caught in a web of circumstance.

NEVER OUT OF WORK

This fall he may be back with a regular show, for which NBC has high hopes. It's tentatively called "That's Life," and the former comedian plays a bumbling Mr. Flair. He also has plans for his own show, in which he and a stock company would play comedy sketches.

And so the star is again in the ascendancy. He has been in Hollywood exactly 10 years this month and now can view his heroic career with some candor.

"I've never been out of work since 1938," he reflected, "but my career has certainly had its highs and lows."

Born in England, he started out in show business as a monologist in Canada when he was 13. He became a top radio comedian on the Canadian network, then was lured by offers from the United States.

AMERICANS LAUGH HIM

"I came to New York and nobody knew me," he recalled. "I remember sitting at a little orange juice stand and listening to a broken-down radio while Eddie Cantor announced that next week the great Canadian comedian, Alan Young, would be on the show."

Young caught on with American radio audiences and came to Hollywood. He landed a contract with 20th Century-Fox and scored a success in "Margie." But after a couple of so-so films he was dropped by the studio. He also went off the air.

"So I worked up an act to play theatres," he said. "That was fine, except that I played four and that's all there were. I was very discouraged when I was playing Detroit, and I went up to Canada to explore possibilities of going back there. I had decided to return when I got a call from my agent that CBS was interested in having me for a TV show. He talked me out of going back to Canada."

CHANGE YOUR ACT

The CBS deal jelled, and Young had one more date to play in New York. The action on the bill was poor. Young got second billing to a child pianist and audiences were restless. A comedian had stolen Young's gags in Detroit and used them in the same New York house on the previous bill. "Change your act!" the manager demanded.

"But these things didn't bother me," said Young. "I had high hopes for the CBS deal."

His hopes were justified. The TV show was a smash from the start. Again the movie offers poured in. He was signed by both RKO and Paramount. He was riding the crest.

MADE A "SCHNOOK"

Oops, it happened again! His TV show, a variety format, ran dry of material. "You just can't sustain a vaudeville show every week."

He came back with a situation comedy — TV series, but it went awry. The reason: He allowed himself to be made a "schnook." This is a Yiddish term for a harmless dope.

"You can't win an audience that way," he commented. "You can play a poor fellow who is plagued by circumstances, but you can't be ineffectual. The greatness of Charlie was that he'd threaten to kick the villain. He might not do it, but the threat was there."

NHL ALL STAR

NEW YORK (AP) — Governors of the National Hockey League voted Wednesday to hold the annual all-star game in Detroit, opening the Stanley Cup champions, early in October.

Picking the site was the only announced accomplishment at the annual schedule - making meeting Wednesday.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, for Thursday, June 17, 1954.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — High noon should find you well on your way toward a successful day's endeavors, putting finishing touches, adding to past laurels — all modestly, of course. Be circumspect.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Sturdy, proper preparations, and readiness for necessarily quick changes, will make this period an easier one. A day for aptness, not a casual attitude.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You can always do better when you aim to—as we all can. Gemini has many gifts both mental and physical. Using them well is the answer. Sincerity, cooperation with right sources urged.

July 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Heart interests, particularly marriage favored now; also business and community matters in turn. Go after things determinedly but sanely.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Today's aspects should give further impetus to your clever thinking, your adaptability and general attitude of cooperation now. Disposition a big factor.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — So much depends upon individual attitudes — particularly on days such as this one. Getting upset won't help. On the whole, individuality and good will should prove potent.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — The key to success, whether in immediate matters or in plans for the future, lies in careful, conscientious decisions, persistent "follow through" and firm principles.

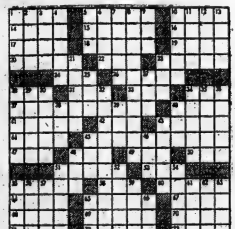
October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Trades, small businesses, personal affairs favored today. Improve your status; study, and don't let anyone influence you unwisely in. Conscientious endeavors always win.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Today's outlook suggests greater effort, more consistency. Exhibit your best qualities, your true, straightforward disposition. And have faith.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — You can do a-fine job despite some contention and the laziness and confusion of others. Keep good humor strong; have forbearance. Avoid overstimulating activities.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — You may be asked to hold off in certain matters, to curtail some desires, and you definitely will need to be agreeable in discussion, alterations in plans if you would benefit.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Control emotions, strengthen poise; respect the dignity of man and have faith in God's goodness. Thereby you can hasten success.

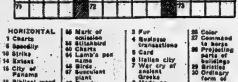


YOU BORN TODAY like to be useful, cheerful, ambitious, active and progressive. You are fond of good living, of people, scenery. You love to acquire knowledge, to observe. Carefully direct your enthusiasms, use well your versatility; control impatience, sensitiveness. Pray for God's guidance. Birthplace of: Charles Gounod, famous Fr. music composer; Sir Wm. Crookes, chemist, physicist.

HIGHLAND GAMES

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP) — Dr. F. F. MacNeil of New York, native of Cape Breton, will open the Highland Games here July 3. The author and lecturer formerly was on the staff of the New York Times.

MARRIED 69 YEARS



WALKERTON, Ont. (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kerney celebrated their 69th wedding anniversary here. Mr. Kerney at 90 is the oldest native of this Bruce county centre.

WINDSOR (CP)—A Michigan official told a Windsor service club Wednesday night this city can increase its shipping trade by $5,000,000 to $14,000,000 if it acts quickly to capture St. Lawrence seaway trade. Commander Bert Robb, director of Michigan state waterways commission, said Windsor could become one of the world's great international ports.

Defer Decision On $750,000 To Reopen College

OTTAWA (CP)—After heated discussion the annual assembly of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec Wednesday deferred decision until next year on a motion to raise $750,000 to reopen Moulton College in Toronto.

Rev. Evelyn 'Davis of Toronto moved that the convention subscribe a campaign at once, but an amendment to defer it proposed by Rev. Harold Sibbard of Welland, Ont., was carried. In the interim the executive of the convention is to investigate the possibilities for such a drive.

Walter Shell of Selkirk, Ont., said the convention should keep a sense of proportion and not be swept off its feet by sentiment. The school had served a small number of girls.

Board members elected during the session included: board of evangelism and social service Rev. Ian G. Reid, Brockville; Rev. Smith, St. Catharines; and Rev. Cyril Squires, Hamilton; board of religious education, Rev. Harold J. Belsdon, Kitchener; Miss Doona Robinson, Oshawa, and Miss Gwenyth Shaw, New Liskeard, Ont.

Place Restriction On Number Of Live Minnows

TORONTO. —Restriction of the number of live minnows an angler may have in his possession is contained in the 1954 Ontario Fisheries Regulations. From April 1 to October 31, "no person shall have in his possession bait in excess of fifty fish" except under a commercial dip net licence for bait, a commercial seine net licence for bait or a commercial minnow trap licence.

Previously, there was no limit to this respect. officials of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests point out, "with the result that some persons would take large quantities of minnows, far in excess of their requirements, which occasionally resulted in great wastage of these fish."

Regulations also provide that young carp and some undesirable species may be used only in waters from which they are taken. This prohibits persons transporting minnows of undesirable species from one body of water to another, thus avoiding the possibility of introducing carp into waters which they do not now inhabit and, where they are not wanted.

It is illegal also to sell or offer for sale any minnows for bait unless the seller holds a commercial minnow licence. Provision is made in the regulations whereby anglers may, without a licence, use a dip net not more than three feet in diameter or a minnow trap not more than twenty inches to take minnows as bait for their personal use.

In Northumberland county early potatoes were looking well. Rye was in head and fall wheat was just coming into head. Tomato plants look bad and considerable re-setting will be necessary.

In Prince Edward county, however, tomato setting was about completed with the plants having become well established. Most of the pea acreage is thin on the ground and gives indication of a poor yield, reports Prince Edward county corn and soybean acreage still remaining to be seeded.

Vietminh Kidnaps 5 U.S. Technicians In Indo-China

Missing Air Force Experts Seen in Group of Captives

SAIGON (CP)—The Communist Vietminh rebels are believed to have kidnapped five Americans and two technicians in Indo-China, the United States embassy announced here today.

Gen. John O'Daniels, chief of the U. S. military aid mission to Indo-China, flew to Tourane in central Viet Nam today to investigate the men's disappearance.

The U. S. air force sent 200 volunteer technicians to help the French maintain a c-m-b-t seat transport planes in Indo-China for a duty tour of 120 days. The tour ends this month, but the air force will replace the men with other volunteers. Sunday periods until the program ends Sept. 15.

SEEN BY PEASANT

The U. S. embassy said a Viet Namese peasant had reported seeing five American airmen and a group of Senegalese war prisoners 30 miles south of Tourane.

The missing Americans left the big Tourane air base Monday afternoon and were cut off in a French vehicle to a beach three miles away. Officials said they were not authorized to go ashore.

Their absence was discovered when they failed to report for roll call Tuesday morning. The vehicle the men used was also missing.

Lieut. Joseph Byrne, vice squad chief, said he acted on complaints there were male women in some of the acts. "We found them," he said.

Police used a patrol-wagon shuttle service to haul an estimated 200 persons to central police station.

As chief inmate was Wanda, 300-pound blonde entertainer said in a complaining voice: "Why it was just a little ole girl doing a little ole dance."

Blames Cancer On Air Pollution, Not Cigarets

By JOHN TRACY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SYDNEY HARBOR, Ont. (CP)—A United States scientist said Thursday there is no basis for any claim that cigaret smoking is the main cause of lung cancer. He linked the increasing frequency of the disease with air pollution.

Dr. W. C. Hueper of the National Cancer Institute at Bethesda, Md., said the "pattern exhibited by lung cancer for different regions and population groups conforms more closely with that shown by industrial development than with one which might be expected as the result of carcinogenic (causing) action of a single environmental factor, such as cigaret smoking."

TOTAL EVIDENCE"

He delivered a paper on environmental aspects of lung cancer at the Canadian Cancer Research Conference. During a discussion period he said:

"I think the evidence about cigaret smoking and lung cancer does not exclude the possibility of a relation between smoking and lung cancer. But, if you take the total evidence, I don't think there is any basis for the claim that cigaret smoking is the main cause of lung cancer. That would be stretching the evidence to the breaking point."

No Decision Yet On Churchill Visit to Ottawa

LONDON (CP) — Plans for Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden to visit Canada during their Washington talks with President Eisenhower next week-end are still pending, a spokesman at 10 Downing street said today.

"No decision has yet been taken," the informant said. "It may be that detailed arrangements will have to wait until Mr. Eden returns from the Geneva conference early next week."

Prime Minister St. Laurent said in Ottawa yesterday that British leaders had been invited to visit the Canadian capital June 29.

BIGGER VETERANS' PENSIONS ASKED BY OPPOSITION

Govt. Rejects Requests Due to High Cost

OTTAWA (CP)—Pleas for more and bigger allowances to Old Vets of the 1914-18 war were adamantly aged by combat duty have been made by members of all parties in the Commons. The government has rejected the requests.

Opposition members and some Liberal back-benchers Thursday urged the improvements in war veterans allowances paid to so-called "burned-out" veterans more than 60.

They urged the government to accept the request of the Canadian Legion to increase the allowances to $60 a month from $50 for single veterans and to $120 from $90 for married veterans.

A second legion request received equal support—to boost the ceiling on permissible income to $1,200 from $720 for single and to $2,000 from $1,200 for married veterans. The present ceiling allows only an additional income of $120 a year without a reduction in the allowance.

SOME 40,000

Allowances now are paid to some 40,000 veterans or their widows.

Col. A. J. Brooks (P C— Royal) when that additional $18,000 to $19,000 a year above the $27,715,000 now paid in allowances.

Other requests that allowances be paid to First World War veterans who served in England would cost another $5,670,000.

BIG INCREASE

Granting all demands would increase the outlay on allowances 36 per cent.

Youths Held, Shots Fired As Orgies Of Drunkenness, Misconduct Quelled

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Shots were fired here and nine youths engaged in a general riot with provincial police early this morning before the orgies of drunkenness and general misconduct were brought to an end.

Provincial police said the disturbances began at Clair beach and Emery beach, Ontario provincial police declined today.

Five have been charged with illegal consumption of liquor and one youth with assaulting an officer and resisting arrest.

One youngster was arrested at the height of the riot when he broke about 20 youths joined. After being placed upper arrest, the youngster kicked a window out of the police car and fought the two arresting officers all the way into Windsor, biting, scratching and gouging whenever he got a chance.

Police reported finding girls of 14 to 16 in various stages of intoxication at St. Clair beach and Emery beach.

Every person apprehended, dozens got away.

Sub-Committee Starts Arguing Over Who Lied as Hearing Ends

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shots of its television trimmings, the Senate investigations sub - committee today started its private what promises to become a bristling argument over who lied in the Mac Carthy-army controversy.

Senator Charles Potter (Rep, Mich.) and other members on edge by asserting that both sides had convicted the other of "perjurer" and "blackmail" charges and declaring that a perjury case should be made against some of the 30 witnesses heard in the 36 days of public hearings.

"He did not name anyone, but proposed that some of the "employees who have played major roles on both sides" be dismissed from their jobs. His use of the word "employees" indicated he was including Roy M. Cohn, fellow the rank of Senator McCarthy and probably Army Secretary Robert Stevens.

Other members of the sub-committee refused to comment on the statement, which overshadowed the traditional ceremonies ushered at the wind-up of the hearings late Thursday. "Absolutely no comment," said McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican senator who precipitated the row with his allegations directly involved.

Stevens, looking fresh on the last of the days of the dispute, voiced confidence that the "integrity of the army will be kept at stake," and made it plain he intended to keep his schedule of a farewell cocktail party to be given Monday by Senator Karl Mundt (R-SD) for the partisans on both sides. And he expects no army personnel will attend.

Stevens also told reporters:

1. "I am absolutely confident that there will be no abuse of army personnel, in or out of uniform," who appear from now on before McCarthy's Communists hunting sub-committee. One of the bruising issues in the row with the senator was Stevens' contention that general who appeared before McCarthy had been abused.

2. He has no intention "whatsoever" of changing his purposes to serve as long as he is of "service to the country."

3. "I feel that the integrity of the army was at stake. We've been through that now. It must be abundantly clear to everyone that the army is just as interested and active in ridding itself of subversives as anyone else in the United States."

Did he think the army-McCarthy row had affected morale of the army? He said he thinks the "troops, not only of the army but of the navy and air force and the fighting clarines, are all appreciative of the steps we have taken in behalf of the army."

Stevens summed up the testimony at the inquiry into charges that he and Roy M. Cohn, his chief counsel, had conducted a concerted improper pressure in efforts to get preferential army treatment for Pte. G. David Schine, a former sub-committee consultant.

McCarthy and Cohn counter-charged that Stevens and army officials had, until quickly, if is the risk of war, pf an international war and perhaps an atomic war, that should be avoided."

He did not outline precise plans for achieving peace beyond continuation of the Geneva talks on Indo-China, but said America will be neglected that shows itself neglectful of peace. They implied direct negotiations with Ho Chi Minh, Moscow-trained leader of the Vietminh rebels in Indo - China. Mendes - France has consistently opposed such negotiations.

The new premier declared, however, that a diplomatic initiative is taken to safeguard France's forces in Indo-China. He also declared that he does not envisage a surrender.

Mendes-France Organizing Cabinet Without Bidault

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP) — Premier Mendes-France today set about organizing a new French government to replace the one ousted by the Assembly and promised within a month, but his cabinet apparently will not include Foreign Minister Bidault, France's negotiator at the Geneva conference.

The National Assembly approved Mendes-France's investiture speech today after the 47-year-old Radical Socialist (moderate) outlined a three-point program, including a promise that he will reach an Indo-China settlement "or will resign" 20 or resign. The vote was 419 to 47, with 31 deputies abstaining.

The new premier offered his program as a three-stage project, leading at the end of a month to peace. With that achieved, he said, he would:

1. Submit a "coherent and detailed program for economic recovery."

2. Attempt to reconcile the divisions within France on the European Defence Community treaty to rearm West Germany and create a European army. Of the six countries involved, France and Italy still must ratify it.

Bidault's absence from the new government appeared certain after his party, Mouvement Republican Populaire, announced it would not take part in Mendes-France's cabinet. He and the rest of the foreign ministry almost continuously since the ousted Robert Schuman, like Bidault a sparkplug of the fight to get EDC ratified, has been mentioned as foreign minister.

In announcing his primary aim, Mendes-France told the Assembly:

"If the conflict in Indo-China is not settled, and settled quickly, it is the risk of war, pf an international war and perhaps an atomic war, that should be avoided."

He did not outline precise plans for achieving peace beyond continuation of the Geneva talks on Indo-China, but said America will be neglected that shows itself neglectful of peace. They implied direct negotiations with Ho Chi Minh, Moscow-trained leader of the Vietminh rebels in Indo - China. Mendes - France has consistently opposed such negotiations.

The new premier declared, however, that a diplomatic initiative is taken to safeguard France's forces in Indo-China. He also declared that he does not envisage a surrender.

British Paper Opposes U.S. Searching Ships

LONDON (Reuters)—The Manchester Guardian today said "in its eyes" at reports that the United States has asked permission to search foreign vessels suspected of carrying Communist arms to Guatemala.

"This is carrying things too far," said the Guardian, adding that the reported proposal would amount to giving the U. S. "police powers over the Atlantic."

"There is a limit United States, the great spostle of freedom of the seas, entire lake and the Caribbean maritime nations to allow American warships to stop their ships on the high seas."

"The British answer should be in no doubt. The British government should be polite to Mr. (state secretary) Dulles but tell him that we do not agree that it is necessary to whether a state is untouchable or not until it has been proved either the Atlantic or the Caribbean to become his private preserve."

D-DAY FOR REVOLT IN GUATEMALA BELIEVED NEAR

Armed Exiles Openly On Move in Honduras

By SAM SUMMERLIN

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) Armed Guatemalan exiles were reported massing for action in their military homeland's frontier with Honduras amid indications that this may be D-day for a revolt against President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman's regime.

The belief stemmed in part from Guatemalan Ambassador Amadeo Chinchilla, who said he had received reports that resistance forces would launch a revolt today or tomorrow.

Reports from censorship-blasted Guatemala said authorities there were preparing a massive public demonstration today. Observers here interpreted it as a possible move to mobilize pro-government forces to crush a revolt.

Core in the Honduran capital, armed khaki-clad men, apparently recruits for the exile resistance movement, reported here by Carlos Castillo Armas, continued to move into the city, presumably for the border.

MEN AIRLIFTED

A two-engined transport plane with drawn curtains airlifted a dozen men out of Tegucigalpa Thursday night. The group carried side-arms and lugged a radio and several machine guns aboard.

Earlier reports said an armed band had crossed the Honduran part of La Ceiba and headed for Guatemala. Informants said it was moving into position for a strike against the major Guatemala port of Puerto Barrios.

Col. Rodolfo Mendoza, former chief of the Guatemalan Air Force who fled here last week to take part in Castillo Armas' movement, was interviewed over the exiles' secret radio Thursday night. This indicated he might already be near the border.

STILL AT HEADQUARTERS

In Puerto Armas, however, was still at his headquarters in Tegucigalpa Thursday night. In a rallying call broadcast by the exile radio, he said: "We will not cease our victorious fight until we eradicate communism and expel Arbenz and his followers from the sacred soil of Guatemala."

Reports spread that the Nicaragua movement, but Castillo Armas said the operation "is directed exclusively by patriotic Guatemalans."

There is no accurate estimate of the number under Castillo Armas' command.

July 13 Date Set For Compensation Plan for Seaway

TORONTO (CP)—Experts from Ontario Hydro and the New York state power authority agreed Thursday set July 13 as the date for agreement on what should be done to relocate and compensate owners of nine Ontario communities that will be flooded by the new St. Lawrence Seaway power project.

The target date was set at a conference here by general rehabilitation problems and engineers from the two public bodies following agreement Ontario Hydro and New York state power officials and planning consultants from the communities involved.

The Ontario engineers were headed by Col. William S. Chapin, chief engineer of the New York utility. They conferred with Ontario Hydro Chairman Robert H. Saunders and other officials.

First tenders for the $600,000,000 power phase of the development are expected to be called Monday. Major construction work is expected to start within a few weeks.

Frost Promises To Speed Reform Of Women's Jails

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario said delegation from the Penal Reform for Women Joint Committee Thursday that "we will do all in accelerate" a policy of reform and rehabilitation of women prisoners.

The group was promised appointment of a female magistrate to preside at parades from the Mercer reformatory here and the reorganization of the jail farm at Langstaff "as soon as possible."

Attorney-General Porte said a new institution for women will soon be erected even if the plan it would include a court so that women prisoners could be sent there for trial.

INTERIOR MINISTER

Mrs. Robert Dale-Harris and Mrs. C. L. Dubin, co-chairmen of the committee, presented a brief outlining the "needs" of various organizations representing women prisoners.

The brief also recommended the appointment of women probation officers at Hull, Fort Erie, Sudbury, London and Ottawa.

Rail and Union Officials Silent After Parley

MONTREAL (CP) — A two-hour conference of railway officials and representatives of 135,000 non-operating railway employees ended Thursday but neither side would comment on the state of the talks.

It was the first conference between officials of the 11 unions, representing the workers and the railways since the board of conciliation failed last month in efforts to settle a dispute over "fringe" benefits. Negotiations will be continued Tuesday.

Girls So Pretty Judges Refuse To Eliminate Any

TIMMINS (CP)—The girls are all so pretty here judges can't find anyone to judge Miss Timmins 1954.

For two nights now beauty pageant judges have found it impossible to eliminate any of the 11 girls trying for the title. The girls are judged on a point system and must score a certain number to stay in the contest. To date none scored less than the minimum.

Judges here are sportsmen Allan Stanley, former captain of the New York Rangers and Jim Thomson, northern Ontario stock car enthusiast.

Low-Hanging Wire Nearly Decapitates Queen at Ascot

Astride Horse, Queen Ducks As Husband Shouts Warning

ASCOT, England (AP) — Queen Elizabeth, riding a swiftly galloping horse on the Ascot race track, just missed becoming involved in an accident this morning when she ducked at the last moment to avoid a low-hanging wire.

A telephone wire across the track had blown down to head level but was unnoticed when the Queen and other members of her party went for a ride before the start of today's races at Ascot.

The Duke of Edinburgh, riding ahead, saw the wire just in time and shouted to the Queen.

She said later she saw the duke duck and did the same, drawing her horse's reins and dropping low to pass safely under the wire.

"We were nearly all decapitated," the Queen laughed.

DUKE CONCERNED

The duke, more concerned about his wife, asked her:

"Did you see me shout when I saw that wire?"

She smiled and said, "I saw you duck and did the same."

The wire was a cable connecting the telephone pole with a telephone van. It had sagged overnight.

The Queen laughed and made light of the incident.

Lord Porchester, riding behind the Queen, was quoted as saying: "What a tangle that could have been."

The riding party included the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester and the Duke and Duchess of Beaufort. They were guests of the Queen at Windsor Castle.

WORKMEN WATCHED

Only a few workmen saw the Queen's close call.

P. C. Perkins, who was working on the tote board, gave this version of the incident:

"When the party was cantering back after the first gallop, someone said 'good morning' and smiled up to us and we suddenly realized it was the Queen.

"We raised our hats and said good morning and watched.

"As the party was galloping past us a second time the duke nodded, looked up, and looked back to the Queen.

"She turned flat on her horse—as did the other riders who were galloping.

"IT'S LOW

"Had the duke not shouted his warning there might have been a serious accident, because when the Duke of Gloucester, who was only testing, ducked, he had to duck to raise the wire with his hand to ride under it.

The Queen—gaily dressed in a yellow silk scarf and tweed riding habit—laughed later the Duchess of Gloucester, who was only testing, ducked, he had to duck to raise the wire with his hand to ride under it.

Sir Gordon Richards rode London to the Ascot race for the Queen's stable in the Royal Ascot week.

The Queen, wearing a frock of cream silk with a small matching hat, drove in the first carriage afterwards to congratulate her trainer, Noel Murless, and was claimed excitedly "that was very nice."

Housing Project Delayed 25 Days By Sitting Duck

SEAFORD, N. Y. (AP)—Homebuilder Louis Hirsch passed out cigars today to celebrate the hatching of five little ducklings—an event which means he now can get back to work.

He said he plans to have a bulldozer and crew back on the job Monday, resuming a ground-clearing job that for 25 days has been held up to permit a nesting wild mallard duck to hatch her brood.

Hirsch said he figures the delay in the construction job, involving the erection of 49 new homes, has cost about $6,000.

"It was worth it, though," he said.

Hamilton Baby in Carriage Trapped Beneath Car As It Jumps Over Curb

HAMILTON (CP) — A car that careened out of control and struck three persons Thursday night was halted by three men to rescue an eight-month-old baby trapped in her carriage underneath the vehicle.

The car jumped the curb and struck down the carriage after one riding with a gasoline truck at an intersection.

Most severely injured was Leon Kolkin, 3, hit while riding his tricycle along the sidewalk. He was taken to hospital with possible head injuries, cuts and bruises. The baby, Olga Kolkin, suffered minor cuts. The children's grandmother, Mrs. Magda Lubina, received a cut foot and bruises.

Four persons were riding in the car and were treated for cuts and abrasions.

Indo-China Talks Are Resumed Amid Optimism

By STANLEY FRIDDLE
GENEVA (AP) — Indo-China peace talks resumed in private here today with hopes of success boosted by the election of a new French government.

The parliamentary vote in Paris Thursday night installing Pierre Mendes-France followed apparent concessions here by Communist China.

Georges Bidault, French foreign minister who flew back here for urgent talks when it appeared the conference might seek to suspend the conference, now is likely to remain in office.

FRENCH OPTIMISTIC

French observers here believe Mendes-France himself will come here as his own foreign minister. French sources today said they were more optimistic than at any time since the conference opened. But the American and British groups point out the need for finding out whether the hints of concessions given by Chou En-lai, Chinese Communist prime minister, really imply any definite offers.

Swimming Pool In Readiness For Opening

Saturday at 1 p.m., the Kinsmen Swimming Pool will once again be in readiness for the citizens of Belleville and district.

The biggest event of the season for the younger generation will be a reality. Free swimming for all from one until ten. The pool is in readiness for a busy season as the result of hard work by the members of the Kinsmen Club under the able chairmanship of Kin Art Bridges.

The community pool was opened in 1953 after a lot of spade work and many ventures planned and executed by the members of the Kinsmen club and the generous support of the citizens of Belleville and district. Several public spirited citizens, local organizations and firms contributed generously to the project in order to make this, the largest venture ever attempted by a service club a reality.

The pool was built and equipped at a cost of $68,000 a portion of which was borrowed in order to supply the citizens and kiddies with this necessity at the earliest time. The Kinsmen are still obligated to 1967 an indebtedness of $20,800 over a period of thirteen years on the order that this venture may be debt-free. Every effort and expenditure is considered in order to provide the kiddies wading pool as well as the finest purification plant that is available in Canada regarding water that is guaranteed to be more pure than the water you drink from your faucets at home. The purification system completely changes the water in the pool every eight and recirculates it every eight hours killing every form of bacteria known to science. It is equipped with two diving boards, one of which is one metre high and the other mounted on a tower which is three metres in height. There is a slide for the kiddies erected at the shallow end of the pool. Last year the pool installed in the operation provided 15,000 free swims for the kiddies of Belleville and district.

MAKE DAILY CHECKS

The Department of Health make daily checks and tests of the water in order to ensure the safety of the swimmers at all times, in regards to the sanitation and prevention of disease at any time. Any chance of the contraction of disease is further safeguarded by the chlorination of the water, the hair and lint rule of every swimmer taking a shower and compulsory foot baths taken before entering the pool.

The pool is operated by a very competent staff consisting of: Mr. E. H. Tindale as supervisor and Mr. Don Pringle as his assistant.

The lifeguards on duty at all times during the operation of the pool consist of Miss Beth Wilbur, Misses Barbara and Ann Bennett and Miss Barbara Charles. The office and checking duties will be carried out by Misses Caroline Adams and Pauline Hall. The canteen operated under the chairmanship of Kin Don Boyce will be staffed by Miss Carol Pringle and Diana Mansfield.

The facilities of the park and those provided for the wee tots in the form of slides, swings, and sand-boxes are available for all at any time they see fit to use them.

Chairman Kin Art. Bridge has expressed the intention of his committee to provide further canteen changes and sun-bathing facilities, which will be in readiness later in this summer season.

The hours of operation of the pool and the privileges to be obtained are explained more fully in another place in this issue.

Let's make this a banner year of healthy and recreational life for all this summer.

Police Report Three Mishaps, Little Damage

15-year-old boy suffered a shaking up late yesterday afternoon when he rode his bicycle into the rear of a car and was thrown to the pavement.

With another bicyclist, Robert Cronk, 15, he was riding east on Catherine street, when they were passed by an auto. The car stopped at the next intersection and the lad ran into the rear bumper and was thrown off his bike.

The Regent Ball Club parade from the collegiate to the fair grounds was indirectly the cause of a three-car mishap causing over $200 property damage. Douglas Moxam, 36 Ritchie street, and Thomas Langmaid, 300½ Front street had stopped behind the parade on Bridge street near the lower bridge, when a third car driven by Peter D. Vos, R.R. 4, Belleville, swung right off Front street and into the rear of the Langmaid auto.

Still a third mishap saw a CNR train and an auto driven by Jean Crook, 84 Albert Street, brake together on Pinnacle street near the police station. Both the train and Crook auto were travelling the same direction when the left rear fender of the car came into contact with the train causing about $50 damage.

Police Court

Appearing on a charge of theft, Floyd Wood, Belleville, was sentenced to two months in the county jail by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in city magistrate's court this morning. The charge was in connection with the theft of groceries from an auto.

An assault charge against William Allen Hall, Bridge Street, was dismissed on the evidence Hall was charged with assaulting his father-in-law, W. Crawford, last May 29th.

Appearing in magistrate's court on Thursday, Robert Jones, of Belleville, was given a month on a drunk and disorderly, was fined $23 and $3.50 costs for driving while his license was suspended and an additional $10 fine and $3 costs for having liquor. In default of which he will spend an additional ten days on each of the two latter charges.

Desmond Behan, charged with theft of an auto from the Trenton Fair Grounds on June 7th, was remanded to June 24th for sentence, while a companion, Robert Worthington, charged with theft of goods from the auto, was also remanded to the same date for sentence. An auto theft charge against Worthington was withdrawn. The two youths were arrested in Barrie, where the stolen car was abandoned.

Glen Maybee, Shannonville, was remanded to June 24th for sentence on a "joyriding" charge.

Passing Out Parade Held On BCI Campus

One of the smartest military bands in eastern Ontario delighted several hundred Belleville listeners last evening as the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers (RCEME) school of Kingston held a passing out parade on the collegiate campus.

The band provided a musical background for the passing out parade of a platoon of men, who were completing 12 weeks of recruit training.

The recruits and the band, stationed at RCEME school, Barriefield, Kingston, came to Belleville by bus to hold the parade as part of a new policy to acquaint civilians with the RCEME corps.

Col. C. W. Jones, C.D., commander of RCEME school, took the salute as the platoon, 60 inspecting party. He was accompanied by Col. R. C. Rivers, adjutant of RCEME and Lt. Swansbury, platoon commander of the parading platoon. Sergeant-Major Durr was parade platoon commander.

Personnel of the platoon will proceed to driving instruction school and then will be posted to trades training companies, where they will be qualified in trades peculiar to RCEME.

The platoon, after saluting the inspecting officer, marched past the platform at North Park and in the slow march, then marched past in column of route by quick time; performed double sentry drill — a form of precision drill, and presented a sentry box guard. Two officers below field rank and presented arms as they would to an officer of field rank.

Craftsman J. D. Allen, Fort William, N.B., was awarded the cup and so engraved cigaret lighter as the best recruit in the platoon during the parade on the occasion.

The 40 piece RCEME all volunteer band, in addition to providing parade music, played the Cavalier Overture under the baton of their W.O. 1 Warren, who with Staff Sgt. Henden, trains the band. During the parade on the occasion cars and a street parade along Church St. to Foundry St., along Foundry to Station, along Station St. to Front and thence up Bridge St. to the Armouries the band was under the direction of Cpl. Kidd.

Many Old Coins Being Uncovered In City Gardens

There is an old saying that "money doesn't grow on trees." But a lot of people would like to believe it if the number of coins being found in gardens in Belleville and district gardens this year can be taken as an indication.

Early this week Mrs. E. DeMille, of Hillcrest, uncovered on 1816 Wallington half penny, while hoeing in her vegetable garden.

Mrs. DeMille is a collector, so can go Mrs. DeMille one better. He has a half penny dated 1815, which he dug from his garden last year. Mr. White's half penny has the figure of a lady carrying a torch and spear and accompanied by a dog, inscribed on one side with the legend Commercial change. On the other side is likewise of ship with the legend. Half Penny Token Upper Canada.

This year he dug up an 1861 Queen Victoria penny.

All this buried treasure is not limited it seems, because Mrs. Ron Ellis, 74 Burton Street, unearthed an 1853 United States half dime, recently. Half dime is what we said and half dime is what we meant.

The silver coin, about the size of current dimes, is clearly labelled Half Dime on one side. The human figure on the other side of the coin is almost obliterated.

Mrs. Ellis also has an 1889 Indian head one cent piece.

CARDS OF THANKS

Mrs. F. W. Marner wishes to thank her many friends and neighbors for the beautiful flower baskets and cards received during her recent stay in hospital. Thanks also to Dr. Laynes and Dr. Gibson, the nurses on Post East for their kind and careful attention. 218

Also for the flowers, cards and cars loaned. Special thanks to the Rev. and Mrs. Chase and Mr. Hagler for their comforting words and song. Also many thanks for floral contributions, loan of cars and to the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home for their kindness and courtesy.

ASHBURY. — In loving memory of our dear husband, father, James Russell Ashbury, who passed away June 19th, 1952.
Time is an open side
Through which each must go alone;
And God alone can understand
His memory is as dear today.
As in the years that passed away,
We often sit and think of him
When days are dull and drear;
For memory is the only thing
That death can't take away.
—Sadly missed by mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. James Ashbury. 218

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Some western oil stocks plunged suddenly in forenoon trading today but the rest of the market was relatively steady.

Pacific Pete and Peace River Gas were cancelled by reports from Washington that the United States Federal Power Commission will probably approve a natural gas pipeline to the U. S. Pacific northwest from New Mexico rather than from the Canadian prairies.

Pacific Petroleum dropped to $9.10 in the first hour but soon climbed to $9.50. Peace River plunged to $6.10.

Industrials moved narrowly ahead with strength in papers, consumer stocks, liquors, financial institutions and motors. Utilities and refining oils were weak.

Base metals were steady in seniors but juniors were off. Golds were strong in seniors but weak in other groups. Uraniums were strong and Bathurst issues steady.

People Should Live Instead Of Taking Life for Granted Ladies' Night Banquet Told

TRENTON (Special) — Advocating that people should learn to live instead of taking life for granted and assuming living an automatic affair, Rev. W. C. Young, chaplain of the Ontario Agricultural College, and the Ontario Veterinary College, cited the late Sir William Mulock's last speech as a shining example, at his belief. Mr. Young addressed twenty couples on the occasion of the annual Ladies' Night and banquet of the Quinte District Veterinary Association held at the Trenton Country Club here last night.

The Chief Justice for Ontario was at the age of 92 when he arose before a public gathering to make it clear that the young in heart cannot retire, Mr. Young pointed out. Quoting Sir William, he said: "I am still at work with my hand to the plough and my face to the future. The shadows of evening lengthen about me, but morning is in my heart. I have lived from the forties of one century to the thirties of the next. I have had rustled fields of labor, and full contact with men and things and I have revelled both hands before the fire of life.

"The testimony I bear is this: that the Castle of Enchantment is not yet behind me. It is before me still, and daily I catch glimpses of its battlements and towers. The rich spoils of memory are mine. Mine, too, are the precious things of today — books, pictures, nature and sport. The first of May is still an enchanted date. The best thing of all is friends. The best life is always farther on. Its real lure is hidden from our eyes, somewhere beyond the hills of time."

Mr. Young mentioned that he was acquainted with Sir William Mulock and admired him and his philosophy.

RECALLS INCIDENT

He noted that there was a tremendous difference between existing and making the most of life. He recalled an incident while riding in a horse and buggy with his father. There was a stone along the way, which bore the inscription: "Millions now living will never die." His father read the piece and then remarked: "Millions living are half dead already." He indicated that his father's remarks were true of the conditions existing today.

Boredom is the cause of young people's fed up attitude these days according to Mr. Young. "Have you ever gone into a house where the people have lots of money?" he asked. The kids have lots of toys and they are not happy. They are not happy because they don't enjoy the toys. They have too much. You are pretty nearly be sure wilful folks are bored today.

Grown-ups who are dull and have lost their zest, were compared to spoiled children, Mr. Young suggested that if people intended to really live they had to accept a different pattern of life. "Life is not all happiness," he observed. All sunshine makes the desert."

The speaker was critical of people who have the idea they can get things for nothing. There is no Santa Claus. Whatever we get we'll have to pay for it.

The chaplain touched the monetary side of everyday life. "Money is important," he insisted. "Anybody who says it isn't is either a liar or a fool. I can speak from experience because for a good many years I have been suffering from the lack of it," he assured his listeners. While money can bring a good many things it can't bring the satisfaction we need. However there is no happiness in poverty.

CALLS OF NEW PLAN

Happiness lies between too little and too much. If you can find that point you'll be the luckiest person in the world."

The speaker called for a new plan of action — "Let's fight fair. Let's step out and take a few risks. Life was meant to be enjoyed. We were meant to have a good time and not take life so seriously."

In closing the speaker from Guelph offered a thought-worthy piece of advice: "May you live all your life."

Mr. Young's address spiced by classic humor, had the "Vets" and their wives rocking in their seats one minute, then tentatively grasping for every word to be voiced as opinion on the veterinary profession. "I don't know of any other profession that has grown more amazingly in prestige than the veterinary profession," he said. "I feel that the credit is due not to a few leaders but to each and every veterinarian. Everyone of them has the welfare and reputation of the profession in his hands." He commended them on the fine work they were doing.

That Mr. Young's message was appreciated was evidenced by the continuing round of hand clapping that followed his final remarks. Dr. T. Hawk, of Cobourg, addressed him on behalf of the association. He was introduced to the gathering by Dr. R. B. Murray, of Stirling.

The toast to the ladies brought deserved praise to the "Vets" wives from Dr. C. Goodwin, of Picton, Mrs. Glynne Jones, of Trenton, made the response.

Before the couples sat down to eat Dr. Max McLean, of Belleville, said "Grace."

Dr. H. W. Burns, of Belleville, presided as chairman.

Will Call Tenders For Three New Roads in Heights

Tenders will be called for the construction of three new roads in the Parkwood Heights district, according to a recommendation from the Public Works committee at their regular committee meeting this week.

As part of the development program for the Parkwood Heights area immediately north of the present built-up district, it is proposed to build Southview Ave. from Goldale to Humewood, and Purdue and Hyde Park Avenues from Bertram to Humewood. The city comptroller was authorized to call for tenders for the work.

The committee also recommended that the contract for the construction of curbs in Bayview Heights be awarded to Hugh Murray Ltd. at the sum of $14,740 and also approved the contract for the construction of various sidewalks be awarded to The Tatham Company Ltd.

Tenders for the above two projects were opened at the last council meeting with the above two lowest tenders being referred to the public works committee

Britain Rejects Requests by U.S. To Search Ships

LONDON (CP) — British disclosed today she has rejected an American request for powers to search British vessels which may be carrying arms to Guatemala.

But she promised at the same time to undertake police action on the high seas herself to stop any British ships bound with arms for Guatemalan ports.

British naval vessels in the West Indies have received orders to take "appropriate action" if British ships are suspected of carrying arms to Guatemala, the foreign office said.

The action will be taken under a section of Britain's defence regulations permitting the seizure of British ships and their contents in cases where the shipment is considered likely to endanger peace or security.

But the foreign office spokesman said Britain does not intend to search the ships of any other nation and does not recognize the right of any nation's navy to stop and search British vessels on the high seas in time of peace.

Toronto Baby's Body Is Found In Incinerator

TORONTO (CP) — The body of a baby boy was found Thursday in a city incinerator department dump truck. Police said they believe the child was killed and dropped into a garbage can within a few hours of its birth.

Police said there is little hope of tracing the person responsible. The incinerator serves the northwestern section of the city and a dozen trucks bring refuse to it.

PIPE THIS

Police in Vancouver are currently seeking a man who gave Mrs. R. Jure a ten dollar down payment on a set of bagpipes and has not been heard of since.

The news report conveying this information did not state whether the police were more concerned with recovering the lost bagpipe or making sure that Mrs. Jure was well rid of it.

However, the minor problem confronting Vancouver's finest, is nought compared with the weighty speculations confronting those of us who are always at somewhat of a loss to understand why anyone would voluntarily make love to, or with, bagpipes.

It has been said that the Irish gave the bagpipes to the Scots as a joke and that the Scots still have not caught on. Be that as it may, there is something in the asthmatic wheezings of the bagpipes that sets a Scot's heart singing and most of the rest of the world's head aching.

We look with delight, however, on the canny move of the Vancouver man who could stand it no longer. Since the man Has not been heard of since taking possession of the bagpipes it is obvious that he was not a lover of bagpipes as bagpipe music, because one of the distinguishing characteristics of bagpipe lovers is that they are heard from and heard from.

A ten dollar payment for a set of bagpipes could be interpreted as a rather subtle estimate of the instrument's true worth but we hesitate to suggest such a thing having just recalled that Scandinavian bagpipe and kilted Scots wear daggers in their leggings.

We do not wish Mrs. Jure any financial embarrassment in the loss of her bagpipes, but we have the feeling that her interest in locating the man who made off with her set of bagpipes is possibly scientific rather than financial. No piper wedded to pipe music would sell his pipes short of penury and it may be that Mrs. Jure is interested in properly appraising the hardiness of one who would voluntarily assume the discomforts of living so close to such an instrument.

In all events a happy ending would seem to be in order and we recommend that the Vancouver police look for Mrs. Jure's bagpipes with a Nelson eye.

NOBODY OWNS THE EARTH

The dust bowl is threatening to play a return engagement in the United States mid-west.

Experts from six states, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas, met to discuss ways of solving the problem posed by "blow land."

One factor in the situation is said to be the "suitcase farmer," the man who over cultivates his land, pockets his profits, packs his suitcase and moves on to another farm, to repeat the process.

The United States and Canada are free countries. But nobody really owns the land. The so-called "purchase" price is but the payment for a life-time lease. The good earth belongs as much to those yet unborn as it does to the living inhabitants of the world. The future generations will depend on how we treat the earth while we live on it and use it. Action to prevent misuse of its resources is not an unwarranted invasion of property rights, but a reasoned duty to our children's children. The "suitcase farmer" must go—off the land, permanently.

THE BASIC CAUSE OF MISTRUST

Complete honesty, particularly with oneself, seems to be one of the requisites of genius.

Consider the statement made by Dr. Edward Teller, father of the H-bomb, regarding Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, whose brain-child is the A-bomb.

Teller says he regards Oppenheimer as loyal to the United States. But, he adds, "I would like to see the vital interests of this country in hands which I understand better, and therefore trust more."

How many of us will make such a frank statement, with its recognition of the fact that what we do not understand we do not trust?

RECESSION—SO STRIKES ARE FEW

A dispatch from Washington says that strikes are running at a low level in the labor field.

That ought not to surprise anybody who knows anything about the history of industrial disputes.

Strikes are always more numerous in prosperous times. The United States is now having something of a recession. So workers are reluctant to become idle by choice when many of their fellow-workers are idle by necessity.

"Approximately four-fifths of the nation's supply of sulphur comes from Texas," says a news dispatch. Now if Texans could only mix it with molasses and take in appropriate doses.

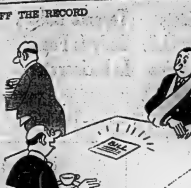
LITTLE GIRL WITH A BLACK EYE

In those lost boyhood days of mine
The girls had waist-long tresses
And little maids of eight and nine
Were pretty frocks and dresses.
They'd dolls and toys and games for toys
And many dainty graces.
None threw a baseball like the boys
Or..like them, ran the bases.



The sexes then need not be guessed,
All knew the one from t'other,
In blouse and skirt the girl was dressed;
In knickers was her brother.
The small boy's hands were sad to see,
Displaying many a blister,
But soft and white as hands can be
Were those of little sister.

As shortstop, just the other day,
Jane tried to stop a liner.
She got her right eye in the way
And came home with
A shiner.
Her troubled mother, terrified,
Thought Janie's eye was done for.
She shouted to someone outside:
"Please, please, a doctor run for!"

The doctor said: "Oh me! Oh my!
This case will long discussed be.
A little girl with such an eye!
I thought a boy it must be.
A little female Harvey Kunnel
Belief it can be, lack I.
A little girl! The first I've seen
With such a gorgeous black eye."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

JUNE 18, 1924

The Belleville Centennial and United Empire Loyalist Celebration was officially opened this morning shortly after ten o'clock by His Honor Major William Stewart, of Toronto. A squadron of Royal Canadian Air Force planes roared and zoomed overhead and hundreds of citizens assembled on the court house lawn to witness the opening ceremonies. Mayor Geo. O. Tice, accompanied by members of the city council, Mr. Donald Marden, warden of the County of Hastings, members of the Hastings County Council, Mr. W. H. Ireland, city and county officials, representatives of various organizations, fraternal societies, the schools and others, were present. Mayor Stewart, accompanied by committee chairman, Mr. W. C. Leaver, was late in arriving, and while waiting, Magistrate W. C. Mikel, K.C., as president of the Celebration Association in charge of the Centennial, made a brief address and welcomed all who had turned out to honor the occasion. Mr. Mikel explained that the celebration is for the express purpose of honoring the occasion of the completion of a century of progress of this city which commenced as a hamlet in 1834 and now in this year 1924 it is a fine city. The event is also to do honor to the hardy pioneers that known today as United Empire Loyalists, who 150 years ago this month came to the Bay of Quinte district and settled on the eastern end of the Bay of Quinte and gradually spread along the shores of the bay until all about the year 1789 a number of families reached the mouth of the river now known as the Moira River. Upon the arrival of Mayor Stewart and Commissioner of Welfare A. W. Laver, Mayor Geo. O. Tice introduced the visitor and escorted the visitors from the Pinnacle entrance up the steps of the court house building.

Mr. Mikel after greeting the visitors, introduced Mayor Tice, as a descendant of Col. Tice, a United Empire Loyalist, who had settled in this country when it was still a wilderness and who had carried on the work in true British fashion. Mayor Tice graciously acknowledged the introduction and extended a hearty welcome and invitation to the city to the visitors. Mayor Stewart gave a very interesting historical narrative address and was given a great ovation. Brief addresses were made by Mr. J. Ponton, Mr. W. H. Ireland and the Rev. E. H. Baker. Following the addresses Mayor Tice called Mayor Stewart and Commissioner Laver to the centre of the steps and in a brief ceremony presented them with Centennial medals. The principal address of the morning was made by Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C., the president of the Celebration Association. It was a fine address and gave much interesting information about this district and the people in the early days to whom we owe much for the development of the district. The municipal band was present on the lawn at the court house and added much to the enjoyment of the opening. Although this was the official opening, the Centennial programme commenced on June 16th, and will last until June 22nd. All kinds of entertainment have been arranged for each day and evening including a midway on Victoria Park, parades, sports, boat races, swimming races, and a magnificent pageant illustrating the early settlement of Belleville, coupled with artistic dances, drills, and beautiful scenic effects.

30 YEARS AGO

JUNE 18th, 1924

Two hundred people left Belleville this morning on the steamer Brockville to visit the old homestead and see the places of interest relating to the Loyalists. More than three hundred other people arrived at the village by motor cars. The old Methodist church, the U.E.L. burying grounds and the landing place of the Loyalists were visited. At the latter place there used to be a rock which has now disappeared, being entirely dried up. Speeches were made by Mayor W. C. Mikel of Belleville, ex-Mayor Newman, of Picton; Mayor McGregor of Napanee; Mayor Hamby, M.P.P., Napanee; Mr. C. Black, M.P.P.; J. Sexsmith, M.P., Bath; W. S. Herrington, K.C., Napanee; Rev. E. H. Ponton, Napanee, and Warden Milling of Lennox and Addington County. The centennial anniversary of the Loyalists is proving to be a successful and enjoyable event.

Mr. J. Percival Harle, of this city, has passed the first year examinations in law at Osgoode Hall, Toronto.

40 YEARS AGO

JUNE 18th, 1914

At a meeting of the Liberal Association of West Hastings, which was held on Saturday the following officers were elected: Hon. president, Benny Frind; hon. vice-presidents, F. E. O'Flynn, Belleville; vice-presidents, Dr. F. A. Farley, Tweed; Dr. J. W. Simmons, Sidney township; and Dr. E. J. Price, Belleville; secretary, John Carr, Belleville; treasurer, E. J. Butler, Belleville, executive com, J. O. Herity, W. S. Smith and D. J. M. Wilson, Belleville; E. T. Marsh, A. Ireland and C. E. Fortune, Trenton; W. J. Vandervoort, Windover and M. Bird, Sidney township; auditors, Joseph Frederick and G. A. Ketcheson, Belleville. It was decided that as the temporary offices of both parties in the west riding have nominated Dr. F. A. Clair of Belleville, as their candidate in the election on June 25th, not to put up a candidate in the field and the meeting endorsed Mr. Sinclair and the temperance movement to banish the bar.

50 YEARS AGO

JUNE 18th, 1904

Mr. Frank Scott, of New York City, formerly of Belleville, is here on a short visit. Mr. Scott was a well known resident during his residence here.

Mr. F. E. Ellis, Toronto and wife of this city, are visiting friends in Brighton.

Mr. E. J. Hanley is home from Toronto to spend a few days.

"Sandy" McMillan, who was a star hockey player here last winter, is now playing lacrosse in Cornwall, his native town.

In a baseball match between the West Belleville Boarders and Marsh and Henthorn Boiler Makers, the former team won, the score being 18 to 10. The following composed the teams: Boarders—W. Bawden, Sprague, Reeves, E. Young, Sprague, Cornell, Page, Page, Gerow, Cornell, Page and McGuire. Boiler Makers: Henthorn, Hunter, Quinney, Turner, Cook, Muir, Connell, Harps and Bowden. The referee was J. Carter, and he handled the game satisfactorily.

Jobless Fluoride

(Toronto Star).

If sodium fluoride were personified it would probably take the form of a young man, personable, likeable, eager to work, bearing excellent recommendations from nearly everybody of any consequence, yet who can find scarcely anybody willing to give him a job. Here is a deeper mystery than those cases of personal unacceptability which the ads used to blame on halitosis, since this young man is in the business of stopping tooth decay.

Story of an Exile

(New York Times).

The earth's most abundant chemical element was identified less than two centuries ago, and the person who were jointly responsible for finding it were severely persecuted by bigots and tyrants. One tries for political heresy; one by death on the guillotine, the other by exile to the United States. The exile made several important contributions to science as a theological leader, a debater and writer, and also laid the foundation for chemical study and research in this country, even though he lived only ten years after his arrival. New York City had him as its distinguished guest for only a fortnight, but it is probable that Joseph Priestley enjoyed few happier or more productive fortnights in his life. It is appropriate to remember the occasion of his arrival at the Battery 150 years ago, one of the great moments in his stormy career as a theologian, philosopher, chemist and "honest heretic," as Benjamin Franklin called him.

Driven from his home in Birmingham, England, after angry mobs had destroyed several churches in which he had preached, and burned his house with all his books and scientific equipment, Priestley and his wife had had the misfortune to arrive in New York by their son Joseph, Jr., on the Sabbath. They had been seasick for parts of the eight-week voyage, the scholarly United Irishman, remembering his diary records considerable reading done by the ship's crew also, as well as the taking of observations to ascertain the temperature of the sea and its depths.

New York officers and delegations waited upon Dr. Priestley from most of the organizations in the city. Among them were the Society, the Democratic Society, the Medical Society and the New York, the Medical Society and many groups of business men. During receptions and dinners tendered him visited by representatives of the "Republican Natives of Great Britain and Ireland" resident in the United States. This was, of course the 1794 equivalent of a modern ticker-tape parade, taking place just where ticker-tape parades begin today.

Looking back over sixteen decades we find that Priestley was the inventor of soda-water, who had also discovered oxygen but had not understood the significance in combustion and called it "dephlogisticated air," the man whose life had been threatened by his neighbors back home largely because he was a pro-democratic citizenship by the French revolutionists and who had comments on the downfall of the monarchy. And irony lies in the fact that while Priestley was on the way to New York the people of Paris were celebrating the fall of Robespierre during the Reign of Terror because he was a tax collector, ignoring the humanity of the man who had recognized the true meaning of oxygen, had investigated it and given the whole science of modern chemistry its first impetus.

The Priestleys left New York for Philadelphia on June 4, 1794, and thenceforth divided their time between that city and Northumberland, Pa. New books and apparatus accumulated to replace what had been destroyed, and Priestley carried on active controversies on learned topics with men of science and of philosophy. He organized and preached in the First Unitarian Church of Philadelphia, and found time to diagnose the bite from which play around red hot coals and first explain the nature of carbon monoxide. Meanwhile, books continued to flow from his pen until he produced twenty-five volumes. Joseph Priestley came to America many years ago to escape from death and exile which are still shared in the world, harassing men who seek diligently for truth and speak fearlessly of what they find. It is a satisfaction to record that Britain's Party now has a gateway to that freedom men still seek here with us.

Magic Window

Of all my pleasant windows
The one I like the best
Is a magic window in the kitchen
Facing the golden west;
For, through this magic window,
I have a broader view
Of field and country roadside
And flaming sunset too.

And from this magic window
I see the little birds,
Their presence gives me courage
As low deep worries recede;
For they have been my comrades
And shared my troubled mood.
When all the world was dreary
And the way of life seemed long

And when the winter cometh
And gives a broader view,
With nothing but a bleak expanse
Of ancient kick reaction to tapping
Of the tapestried hills
Fresh and fragrant through the year.

We need a magic window
That gives a broader view,
The mind needs wide expansion,
Too heart and spirit too;
For with a broader vision
The soul itself takes wings
And bread are softly fetters
And scars aloft and sings.

Silent Piano Is New Boon

(Minneapolis Tribune)

The electronic age has now produced the unexpected boon for parents and neighbors of little boys (or girls, as the case may be) who have an absorbing culture via the piano lesson route.

The Wurlitzer people are coming out with an electronic piano of which the silent model is the one venturesome enough to don earphones. Johnny can put on the headset and hear every note he plays sound. Johnny's teacher can listen in if she wants to; the same goes for mama and papa.

But no one has to listen. Even Johnny can turn off the sound by phones, when the noise he produces becomes too much for him. Scales and practice with silent keyboard is a Schweitzer. Electronics, as has often been noted, is wonderful.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FRIENDS LIKE THESE

I could not stay in one place for long without the presence of books, those silent, faithful, comforting friends. I have a fascination who drops in at my home frequently and we talk books a great deal. One day he handed me these lines by Author Unknown:

Thou fool! to see companions in a crowd;
Into the house, and there upon thy knees
Before thy bookshelves, humbly thank thy God
That thou hast friends like these.

Nowhere in all the world are to be found friends equal to books, ready and true to you night and day, ask for them. You accept them as they are. They expect a respectful welcome. They debate in silence. They never get angry. They stimulate liberally. They offer comfort and relaxation. They keep enriching the mind. Books—where are you to find friends like these?

Books are the greatest as cheap as books, nor one so lasting in its influence, for once initiated, it continues through a few years to reach boys the great books of all time. What a blessing is offered in the neat paper packs, and the second-hand book shops! There is a different atmosphere in a library or book shop. It is intimate and inviting. And it is so easy to get lost in one!

A friend of mine once made up what he called his "Ten-cent Book shelf". He had browsed about many second hand book shops and picked up many famous classic, well bound books, for comfort, paying no more than ten cents for any of them! A sense of discrimination and a little bit of time and its forms, are all that are necessary to put thrills into the class.

The friends that you make of books in your youth are apt to remain your friends throughout life. And often they become more precious with the increasing knowledge of the years. We see a book in a different light when read at different times in one's life. Sir W. Robertson Nicoll, the famous editor-in-chief of the British Weekly, said this: "The boy who reads Don Quixote at twelve laughs over it, but at fifty sees he is reading the greatest book in the world."

But For The British

(London New Statesman).

Lady Astor's jokes are of the bit me variety, but her latest, made at the annual conference of the British Commonwealth League, is certainly plumb on the "target." "Once I was 'talkin' to Mrs. Pandit, and she was goin' on and on about British oppression. So I said to her—let me remind you, Mrs. Pandit, that if it wasn't for the British you'd have been burned as a widow long ago."

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

TRY THESE ON FOR B DEFICIENCY

Anyone who has followed this column for more than a few years must know that I tend as far backward as any of my dieting colleagues in the health column racket to avoid suggesting specific symptoms or diseases for people to worry about.

Dr. Brady

As a quack, accustomed to dealing with morbid subjects, I can stomach a good deal, but sometimes I wonder how people without such training and experience take the clinical lectures delivered by "medical" column conductors.

Happily, if you should decide that any of the symptoms I offer today fit your case you won't get the willies, because right along with the symptoms I supply free of extra cost the test with which you can determine for yourself whether you have North American beriberi.

Here we go.

Early manifestations of occidental beriberi are dyspepsia "pins and needles" in the extremities, fatigue, insomnia, nervousness, constipation, palpitation, slight swelling around the ankles, calf muscles painful when squeezed, skin sensitive to pinpricks or some of the legs, feeble knee jerk reaction to tapping of tendon below knee cap, squatting on heels painful and patient may be unable to rise by leg power alone. Later on hands lose strength and sometimes cramp in the legs, legs tend to give out on walking a mile or more, burning sensation around the soles, numbness over top of foot and around the ankle, in some instances burning, tender and (weakened grip).

In any case it can do no harm to try the therapeutic test and find out whether these manifestations are beriberi. The test consists in eating an optimal daily portion of vitamin B complex as a supplement to your diet for not less than six weeks.

Optimal daily rations means two or three times as much as nutrition authorities consider essential to maintain good nutrition.

If you notice unmistakable improvement toward the termination of the test, keep on supplementing your diet for a year or more.

Meanwhile get the lead out—beef yourself to improve your everyday diet. Particularly take whatever steps may be necessary to restore the staff of life to your dietary menu whether, or if possible all the refined white flour in your diet with whole wheat bread and cereals.

This. Refined white flour is practically devoid of vitamins and adding a dash of this or that synthetic vitamin doesn't take away the curse of refinement. Wheat is the richest food source of vitamin B.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A KING'S GREETING

Every year there is a meeting of the General Assembly of the Scotch Presbyterian Church, and the King of England sends greetings to this church meeting to represent him. The representative always brings greeting and a message from His Majesty.

The shortest message ever sent by any English monarch was sent by King George V, grandfather of the present sovereign. His message to the assembled commissioners was: "Speak a good word for Jesus Christ."

At first this seems trifling and almost irreverent. How can a sinful little people, say a good word for Jesus Christ. He does not need our support.

But as a matter of fact He does. In our social life we encounter contempt for the name of Christ, but we remain silent. In office matters we remain silent. In political matters and sometimes over religion, and we stand on the side lines. On the college campus someone is always ready to poke fun at the Bible and we laugh and look at the girl who will not go the full length of boldness.

Why do we be silent, so reticent? Partly because we are afraid to take a forward step in behalf of what we believe. We think we will just go on believing the right thing, and remain silent. But pretty soon we discover that we are not only believing the right thing, much less standing for it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A very ancient signal, dating perhaps half as long as time or even more ancient time, is that if the hand is held up in front of oncoming vasts to speak to you. In a remote section of the Great Lakes, the power boat that was speeding up southward suddenly slackened speed. The driver, a middle-aged man native of the region, steered the boat cautiously to the shore on which the surf was breaking.

"What's the matter?" I asked.

"Man waving," replied the driver.

In the thirty miles we had come, half a dozen people had waved to us, and I remarked it. Second time was dirty-looking water ahead.

"Waving his hat," said the driver.

We got inside the reefs and I saw the man on the shore watching us approach. Then I noted a small cabin cruiser up in a rocky inlet. It had developed engine trouble the evening before and had drifted down through the reefs without damage. Our driver helped the cruiser owner with the necessary repairs, and we were on our way half an hour.

"He said the man was waving his hat." I said to our driver. "Does that mean something special?"

"It means he wants to speak," he explained, "It's a pretty widely accepted signal. If you turned on the power boat and headed to you, you'd never get very far. Many times I've used it myself, saving. Even people who are merely waving for fun often look at you and are looking at you. And often when they are beckoning you, they look to be only waving. Just as the fun is waved, it means come in. They want to speak to you. In all the countries. A priest in Italy, at whose house I lived for a while, told me it was a signal used by Romans soldiers thousands of years ago. Funny: it's been a well-known system up here in the bush for as long as my people have been here."

In a country like Canada, with its distances and its cheerful wilders, it might be a good idea to have a few accepted signals.

New NRU Atomic Reactor to Cost Near $40,000,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe disclosed Thursday that Canada's new NRU atomic energy reactor at Chalk River, Ont., will cost from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 more than the original estimate of $30,000,000.

He also said in the Commons that the reactor won't be in operation until early in 1956. Officials of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., which operates the Chalk River project, had estimated previously that it would be completed by the middle of 1955.

Mr. Howe did not elaborate on the reasons why the expected cost of the reactor would be between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000. However, officials here said it was due to rising costs of materials and changes in the design of the reactor resulting from new advances in the atomic energy field.

SIMILAR TO NRX

NRU will be similar in design to the NRX reactor which went back into operation early this year after being damaged late in 1952, but will be more powerful. It will be used for many types of atomic experiments, including those associated with harnessing the atom for production of electrical energy.

The new reactor will be housed adjacent to the NRX reactor and the "Zeep" experimental reactor. Work on the building itself now is nearing completion.

Mr. Howe said that NRU is designed to produce plutonium, used in the manufacture of atomic bombs and various types of isotopes. The most important isotope produced by Canada is Cobalt 60, the energy source of the cobalt bomb therapy unit used in the treatment of cancer.

POWER LATER

Mr. Howe said that any reactor to produce electrical energy would not be built until some time after NRU went into operation. No power pile would be built until scientists and engineers they had designed a reactor which would produce electricity at an economical cost.

Feasibility studies now arebin enduct by the Lecrarrandfluvet scientists in co-operation with the Ontario hydro-electric power commission to determine the right kind of reactor to build for Canadian conditions. A decision is not expected for some months.

Mr. Howe also said a bill now before the United States Congress may result in an easier exchange of atomic information between the U.S. and Canada.

Magistrate Flown In by 'Copter To Try Case

KAPUSKASING, Ont. (CP)—Magistrate Marcel Leger was flown into bushland in a helicopter by lands and forests officials to try Noel Zesolnie and Pete Legacl, two Sault Ste. Marie prospectors on charges of failing to extinguish lighted matter in the bush.

With blackened land and charred stubbs as a grim backdrop, court was set up in a tent surrounded by 30 smoke stained and weary fire fighters.

Lands and forests tower men picked up and reported smoke from Minnipuka township many miles from road or rail. Fire fighters were flown into a nearby lake immediately where they said they found Zesolnie and Legacl who were at once drafted as extra fire fighters.

Hard on the heels of the crews came the Ontario provincial police flown in by helicopter and whilst the fire was still blazing an investigation was underway. The two men were charged. Within 24 hours Magistrate Leger was flown in.

After the hearing the judge remanded the two men until they could obtain counsel. The case will be continued at Hornepayne June 25.

Lands and forests officials told the court that only the efficient work of the crews working all through the night held the fire down to about 200 acres but because of the location and timber types it could have assumed catastrophic proportions.

Highways Rating Interests Members Of Committee

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BISMARCK, N.D. (CP)—North Dakota's sufficiency rating of highways, a method which eliminates pressure groups seeking priority construction or repair of roads, Thursday interested the Ontario legislature's highway investigation committee.

C. J. Crawford, state manager of highways, said the rating is a "tool" to be used by the legislature in determining work of first importance.

The rating is established by a roads inspector who makes a study of state highways each spring and judges the priority on physical conditions, safety and service.

The system was introduced two years ago.

CHECKED ON SPOT

Chief engineer M. F. Wynkoop, in discussing contract changes, said any alterations over $1,500 are checked on the spot by the division engineer and central office before final authority is given.

Duncan Gordon of J. D. Woods and Gordon, Toronto management consultants, who is travelling with the committee, said this system may not be adaptable in Ontario owing to the larger organization and distances to be covered.

"We have to delegate a certain amount of authority to the district engineers," he said.

Following a two-hour morning session at the state capitol the committee left on a 400-mile bus hop to Benuldi, Minn., where it stayed overnight before re-entering Canada at Rainy River today.

Light Aircraft Crash Kills Man

CHATHAM (CP)—Richard Lorne Ogletree, 21, was killed Thursday night and his passenger was injured when a light Piper Cub aircraft he bought four months ago crashed into a field near here.

William Burrell, 36, the passenger, suffered a fractured wrist and other undetermined injuries. Hospital officials said he was in fair condition.

Ogletree had been visiting the Burrell farm and was taking Burrell for a flight over the district when the craft crashed. Gordon Burrell, 21, a brother of William, said the craft had just taken off when residents of the farm house heard the crash.

The pilot was found pinned in his seat. Burrell was thrown from the craft.

Ogletree is survived by his widow and a seven-months-old daughter.

Lester Dudley, supervisor of the RCAF ground observer corps at Alvinston, said the department of transport will investigate the crash.

A Toronto section of the group already has 150 members studying French conversation and planning tours in Quebec this summer.

Chief Justice Post May Go To Roy L. Kellock

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Justice Roy L. Kellock may become Canada's next chief justice.

Sources close to the cabinet say Prime Minister St. Laurent is considering the 66-year-old Supreme Court justice as successor to Hon. Thibaudeau Rinfret. The chief justice retires Monday on reaching the age of 75.

The $23,000-a-year job usually goes to the next senior Supreme Court member. Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin, 64, is senior to Mr. Justice Kellock by nine years.

However, the sources say it would be difficult to overlook Mr. Justice Kellock's achievement. In addition, appointment of Mr. Justice Kerwin might mean a break with tradition. He is a Roman Catholic, like the present chief justice, and governments don't normally appoint two chief justices of the same religion in a row. Mr. Justice Kellock, native of Perth, Ont., is a Baptist.

LEAVES OPENING

Retirement of Chief Justice Rinfret will leave an opening for a junior justice on the nine-member bench. The post carries a $20,000-a-year salary. Traditionally the bench holds three French-language members from Quebec. Besides the present chief justice the others are Hon. Gerald Fauteaux and Hon. Robert Taschereau.

Among those rumored for the vacancy is Gustave Monette, 67, a native of St. Philippe de Laprairie, Que., and a distinguished Montreal lawyer. A Conservative in politics, he was defeated as a candidate in the 1911 federal election in Laprairie.

There had been speculation that Finance Minister Abbott would receive this post. However, gossip around Parliament Hill now has it that he will exchange portfolios with Justice Minister Garson shortly after Parliament prorogues next week.

J. Gleason Will Pay $50,000 in Alimony

NEW YORK (AP) — Television star Jackie Gleason Thursday signed an agreement giving his wife a separation and 14½ per cent of his gross salary in alimony and child support.

Based on Jackie's earnings of $356,000 last year, this figure out to nearly $50,000 a year. Actually, Jackie claims he had only $63,000 left after taxes in 1953.

By-Pass Will Be Laid Between Belleville and Trenton Says Official of Highways Dept.

TORONTO (CP) — A highway building program of between 90,000,000 and 910,000,000 including a new Burlington bridge was announced Thursday by Premier Frost and Highways Minister Doucett.

It is estimated the Burlington bridge will cost $16,000,000 altogether, but the province will pay only part of that amount. Work is expected to start by fall.

The causeway approaches will be close to three miles in length. The approaches, on both sides of the canal, will be built from steel and concrete work can be undertaken on the bridge itself. It is estimated that these approaches will cost $3,000,000.

Arthur Sedgwick, former chief bridge engineer to the department, now retired, is returning in a consultant and will devote his time exclusively to the Burlington project.

The highways minister reported that highways construction now under way or about to start totals $60,000,000, roughly about 910,000,000 more than at the same time in 1953.

A total of $33,000,000 represents work carried over from contracts awarded in 1953; $16,000,000 for contracts already awarded this year and $10,000,000 is earmarked for new construction work.

In addition, $35,000,000 worth of contracts will be let out for maintenance work.

The report shows the department undertaking construction of 57 new bridges, 196 miles of clearing, 201 miles of grading and culverts work, 191 of new surfacing, 205 of re-surfacing, 126 miles of patching, 448 of surface treatment and 1,221 of dustlaying.

The minister announced that work is going ahead to complete the building of the by-pass from Highway 27 in metropolitan Toronto to the Rouge river.

A by-pass will be laid between Trenton and Belleville running north of both communities. At Kingston the department is going to build a high level road bridge over the Cataraqui river.

Tenders will be called for the repaving of 24 miles of Highway 401, a four-lane highway from near Tilbury to just south of Windsor city limits.

From highway 4, north of St. Thomas to Eastwood, east of Woodstock, they will build a 32-mile long by-pass section of the same highway. This work will involve the construction of two river bridges in that area.

It is planned to continue Highway 401 from Highway 27, which runs north from Toronto, so that it will extend east as far as between Kitchener and Galt. This will eventually link in with the highway at London and Woodstock.

The Orillia by-pass is expected to open on July 1.

Women's Activities

ZION W. A.

MARMORA — The monthly meeting of Zion W.A. preceded by the regular potluck dinner, was held at the church in North Marmora on Wednesday of this week. This organization has been holding the potluck dinners in the church shed in the summer months and in members' homes in the winter months regularly for over 17 years.

The June dinner is generally (as was the case on Wednesday) attended by a good sprinkling of men, who while the ladies are in session in the afternoon, hold a bee in the adjoining cemetery grounds for the cutting of grass and general tidying up of the property.

This year a number of power mowers used for demonstration purposes greatly expedited the cutting of the grass.

At the appointed time the president, Mrs. George Fox, called the ladies to order for the monthly meeting of the W.A.

Mrs. K. J. Crawford read the 23rd Psalm and Mrs. Burness Johnson offered prayer. Ten members responded to the roll call besides which there were four visitors.

The financial statement was adopted.

Chapter 6 of the study book, "Whosoever" was taken by Mrs. Gordon Moffatt. Mrs. Burness Johnson, as convener of the literature committee, reported the sending out of five cards in the month.

Mrs. Ed. Post read a poem, "The Little Country Church."

SEIZE OPIUM CACHE

NEW YORK (AP)—Police early today announced the seizure of 60 pounds of pure opium, worth about $300,000 in the illicit market, on a ship moored in Brooklyn. Six men, including five Pakistani seamen, were taken into custody. Police said the Pakistanis offered to sell the opium to detectives aboard the S. Martyland, an 8,000-ton freighter listed as British-owned.

These ladies were, Mrs. Alice Hobbs, Mrs. May Grandame, Mrs. Edna Hobbs, Mrs. Edith Sylvester, Mrs. Grace Reynolds, Mrs. Ethel Kellar, Mrs. Nora Baverstock and Mrs. Olga Sherry, of Foxboro.

A report was read by Mrs. Richards of the annual meeting held in Toronto on June 11.

FIRST AID-HOME NURSING AWARDS

This report stated that 16,337 people in Ontario had gained St. John Ambulance awards during the past year in first aid and home nursing and that St. John Ambulance training was available to all schools that were interested.

The highway system with which St. John Ambulance and the Ontario Motor League are partners had sixty-five first aid posts throughout Ontario, with a large number of trained attendants.

Over 800 accidents were attended by the personnel during the past year.

"Save a Life Week" was inaugurated this year prior to the summer holiday season, during the week of May 31 to June 6. It is hoped to be an annual fixture of the future.

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION

"Save a Life Week" in Belleville was a tremendous success with over 500 adults in Belleville, and surrounding districts receiving instruction in artificial respiration, by five specially trained teams, under the supervision of Mrs. R. J. McLuskie, superintendent of Belleville division.

Over 700 public school children in the city, were given artificial respiration instruction by Mrs. C. Ashley, superintendent of the Cadet Division assisted by St. John Ambulance Cadets in each school.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By SEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE'S SEPARATED FROM A SELFISH, IRRESPONSIBLE HUSBAND

Miss Fairfax:

I am 18 years old, have a small baby, and am now living with my husband, who is four years older than I am. I have to work to support myself and the baby because my husband will not do it. Instead, he spends most of his time dating other girls and having himself a swell time.

A lot of people tell me just to forget my husband, but I can't, and I need help, especially for the baby's sake. — Sad.

Dear Mrs. T.L.:

The trouble here is probably that you and this boy married far too young, before either of you was really ready to take on the responsibility of married life. It seems very possible, also, that you did not really know what sort of character this boy really had.

When you say you need help, are you speaking of money alone, or would you welcome back, or ask him? I imagine the latter is what you want.

However, if your husband is, as he seems to be, selfish and irresponsible, I can't think there is no suggestion that can guarantee your getting him back to take care of his family as the proper kind of husband would do. You are not going to be able to make him over into another type of man begging him to be that, by trying to get anyone to force him to return to you and assume his rightful responsibilities.

Altogether, I think your best course at the moment would be to take your problem to the family welfare agency in your town and let them help you map out a program for you to follow in taking care of yourself and your baby. I can't see that, even if you were to get your husband back at this time, he would be much use to you, but if he were you tackling your own problem and handling it capably yourself in an independent way, he may eventually become ashamed of himself and come back of his own accord, prepared to do better by you.

DON'T CARRY TOMBOY ANTICS TO EXTREMES

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a 16-year-old girl and like to play football, baseball and run races.

My sister and her friends don't like me, because they say I act like a tomboy. My sister thinks I don't wear the right clothes. What I wear suits me and dungarees.

I try to be friendly with my sister's friends and they just avoid me, especially the boys.

What do you think I should do? — A.R.

Dear A.R.:

It's perfectly true that lots of girls your age still have tomboy tendencies and like to play boys' games, but perhaps you are carrying all this to extremes. After all, you are going on 17, which is a little old to tear around like a boy.

I can't see anything wrong with shorts and dungarees if you wear them only at appropriate times and places, changing to dresses and grooming yourself neatly at other times. Plenty of girls, even much older than you, wear shorts and dungarees to work and play around in.

Next time your sister is having friends at the house, though, why don't you give them a surprise and appear suitably dressed and groomed up? Let them see that you do know what's right to wear when, and they'll probably change their attitude. Naturally, you and your sister want you to make the best possible impression on her friends, and it's only fair that you should.

Readers' Friday Column

QUESTION:

. . . trouble is I don't clip the recipes until I am sure the family has read the paper. . . .

was a recipe for a good genuine mayonnaise. . . . published about a year ago in a column on salad making. . . there was a wonderful potato salad in it. I have it but not the mayonnaise. . . . We have a family picnic each Father's Day. . . . my three sisters and parents all living in different cities are all together then to compare tables etc. There will be ten adults and twelve children from six months to twelve years. . . . I am to take the Potato Salad.— Nora R.

ANSWER:

I shortened your letter slightly but you gave me a delightful picture of your plans.

GENUINE MAYONNAISE

All ingredients and the bowl should be cold. Into a cold bowl put 2 cold egg yolks, 1 tablespoon each sugar, mustard and salt and 1 tablespoon vinegar. Beat with rotary or electric beater until thick. Have ready and measured 5 tablespoons lemon juice (may be part vinegar) and 2 cups cold salad oil. While beating begin adding oil 1 tablespoon at a time until you have added 4 tablespoons then add 1 tablespoon lemon juice, beating until oil, and lemon juice are incorporated before making another addition. Continue in this way until all oil and lemon juice are used and mayonnaise is very thick. During time when last cup of oil is being added it is even 2 tablespoons oil may be added at once. If desired and if mayonnaise is very thick 1 or 2 tablespoons additional lemon juice or vinegar may be added. If desired pepper and paprika may be added too. Mayonnaise should be kept carefully covered in refrigerator. Happy Day.

LETTER:

Sometime ago you received a request for a tart recipe making a kind of tarts that are purchased in bakery shops. I have such a recipe that my grandmother used and one we think is even better.

SPICED CAKE TARTLETS

(Courtesy Mrs. John H. Smith)

One recipe for plain pastry, currant jelly; 2-3 cup shortening, 2-4 cup brown sugar, 2 eggs well beaten, 2-3 cup molasses, 2 cups flour, 3-4 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-3 teaspoon cloves, 1-4 cup raisins, 2-3 cup milk. Line individual muffin pans with pastry and put 1 teaspoon of jelly in each. Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs and molasses. Add the dry ingredients, which have been sifted together, alternately with the milk. Add raisins. Fill tart shells 3-4 full and bake in a hot oven of 400 deg. Fahr. about 25 minutes. Cool and ice with maple butter glaze.

ANSWER:

Thank you for taking the time to send this recipe. Such recipes are a rare find. I also hope the lady who was seeking the bakery shop tart recipe sees it.

QUESTION:

. . . perhaps you could tell me what I am doing wrong in plain cakes. I use an institutional size electric mixing mixer, but my cakes are always heavy, and sometimes have heavy streaks through them. I allow 40 minutes at 350 deg. F. but this sometimes results in a dark crisp crust. Often my shortening, sugar and egg mixture appears very curdled after beating at medium speed for five minutes, and not giving the volume it should. I add the dry ingredients alternately with the liquid at low speed and mix only until well mixed. I often have large holes in my finished product.—V. M. B.

ANSWER:

In the first place I will have to have your formula—for it must be not of balance. Secondly dry mix and milk should not be mixed in the mixer. Cream the shortening and sugar and salt are mixed they will cream up fine and maybe the last 2 yolks, but more may cause curdling because emulsification has broken down and no amount of beating will bring it back. Once it is curdled there's no hope, and that is what caused heavy streaks and crust. Send me your formula and I will adjust it and return it corrected to you promptly.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON

LEG SNOW

Considering that women seldom walk if they can ride it is not surprising that fatted calves are also a beauty problem. Fat calls do not collect on strong muscles. The woman who leads a sedentary life may have a torso of normal proportions and still have legs which have followed a policy of expansion. Dieting will be no help to her. Corrective exercises, however, will eventually tone the slack fibres that have lost tone because of lack of activity.

Should bulky legs and ankles be your lot, do not despair. Make up your mind that you will do what is necessary to normalize them. Walking on your toes is a good way to slim down thick ankles as well as large legs—even if they are built on a sturdy framework. Ten minutes of tip-toe walking in your stocking or bare feet every night will show fairly quick results in leg reform.

Ankle bending is a good way to work off edipose tissue. Sit down with your knees crossed, move the upper foot up and down, pulling hard on the fibers. You may have a feeling of soreness for a time, so limit the movements to fifteen or twenty at first, increasing the number of bends each day.

Rotate your ankles in half circles, first to the right, then to the left if you would keep them neat trim and flexible.

The darker the color of the stocking, the slimmer the legs will appear to be because dark colors are slenderizing. Wearing hosiery and footwear in the same color tones will make for a better appearance if one has large ankles. Then there is no contrast to distract the eye of the observer as it travels up and down the length of the figure.

With nylons sheer as cobwebs, it is important to see that the unsightly flesh is free of fuzz. This can be removed with a depilatory. If the skin reveals purple-splotched veins, they can be camouflaged by cover-up preparations, liquid powders or foundation cosmetics.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

ASK PERMISSION FIRST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

This month I am graduating from college, and am planning to apply for a position in my line in several places I've heard about. Last week-end, when I was talking over with my mother and father the writing of my applications and mentioned several people whose names I would use for reference (one of my college teachers whom I know very well, the minister of our church, the head of a camp where I was counsellor for several summers, and so forth), they both said they were horrified that I would "presume" to mention the name of someone for reference without first asking that person's permission. I maintain that it will be all right if I tell them afterward that I gave their name as reference, because I am absolutely positive that in every case they will not mind my taking their recommendation for granted. What is your advice about this? — Claire W.

My advice is that you do precisely as your mother and father advise. . . that is, before you give the name of a friend or use anyone else's name for a reference or recommendation, get that person's permission. It is indeed a "presumption," as your parents say, and bad manners, to take this privilege and important privilege for granted. And this is a mighty poor way to begin your business or professional life. Undoubtedly, as you say, your teachers, or others whose names you would like to give as references, will be completely willing and cooperative; but, believe me (for I were you, too often been put in this position myself), they will resent not being consulted first.

And also, do remember that after you have obtained their permission and have used their names, you should thank each one, either personally or, better, by note, for his or her courtesy; and if this courtesy includes writing a note of reference or recommendation, thank most particularly for this special favor.

Canadian Airman Has Helped To Mastermind Building Of Giant Alarm System in West

FONTAINEBLEAU, France (CP) — A square-jawed Canadian airman born Saskatchewan has helped mastermind the building of a giant alarm system to protect Western Europe against aggression.

He's 40-year-old Staple, Ldr. R.C. (Cliff) Staple of Scepter, Sask., and his job has been the planning of a $9,000,000 mobile radio system fanning over most of central Europe.

The recently-completed microwave network, spanning about 680 miles without wires or poles, is destined to play a big part in the air defence of free Europe. Its nerve centre is here in the headquarters of NATO's mightiest air arm, Allied Air Forces Central Europe (AIRCENT), and its perimeter lies along the ring of radar units watching the Iron Curtain.

FAST DEFENCE GROUPS

AIRCENT's strength is concentrated in two groups, the Fourth Allied Tactical Air Force, comprising United States, French and Canadian units, and the Second Allied Tactical Air Force, made up of British, Belgian and Dutch wings.

Most of the aircraft in these two groups are either jet interceptors—such as the RCAF's F-86 Sabres—or fighter bombers. Their job is mainly a defensive one: to cut off enemy aircraft before they can attack.

The task set to Staple and his colleagues in the radio-telecommunications division was to provide a safe, dependable communications system capable of split-second relay of radar information across Europe.

The answer was the microwave network, which provides both telephone and teletype hookups.

"Substituted for the wires of a conventional telephone system," Staple explained, "are sharply beamed radio signals transmitted across line-of-sight distances to the next relay point.

"Since microwaves travel through the air, technicians are freed of the job of line maintenance. Another good feature from the military point of view is that the system is almost impervious to weather. You can't blow down a radio beam and ice won't form on it."

Also, because the signal is beamed precisely from point to point by bowl-shaped antennae, the system offers security. Messages can be intercepted only along the path of the narrow beam and any interference or jamming must be accurately directed to do any damage.

But there was another problem: How to make the system safe against attacking forces which might overrun and capture relay stations.

The solution was to make moving stations. All relay points have been designed to operate out of trucks, complete with towers and antennae, cables, receiving and transmitting equipment, generators and personnel.

"Four men can set up or dismantle a station in less than five hours," Staple said, "so, should any ground prove untenable, or should redeployment be required, the networks can be shifted at short notice, leaving no equipment behind."

In addition, the system provides multiple transmission from single beam circuits. Each terminal point has 24 channels and each channel can carry a telephone conversation or 66 teleway teletype circuits. Both types of communication can be operated simultaneously.

Staple's biggest job prior to the NATO assignment was as ground signals officer with the army's "Exercise Muskox" in the Canadian Arctic. On that operation, he supervised communication installations at Churchill, Man., and at Yellowknife and Norman Wells in the Northwest Territories.

In Europe with him are his wife, the former Margery Andrews of Kingston, his small son, Stanley, and an adopted year-old daughter, Patricia.

PLANS DEFENCE

Egds. Ldr. R. C. (Cliff) Staple, 40, of Scepter, Sask., of RCAF has helped mastermind the building of a giant alarm system to protect Western Europe. Attached to Allied Air Forces Central Europe at Fontainebleau, France, his job has been the planning of a $9,000,000 mobile radio system fanning over most of Central Europe. BIGGER VETERANS'

Mr. Lapointe, a lieutenant-colonel in the Second World War, said there seems to be some confusion concerning the "burned out" allowances.

They were, in effect, old age pensions paid at 60 years of age—10 years before universal old age pensions came into effect. They were based on the principle that veterans were prematurely aged by war service.

"LACK OF UNDERSTANDING"

Words such as callousness, indifference and stupidity aimed at the government indicated a lack of understanding of the situation.

Total expenditures of the veterans affairs department were just more than five per cent of the national budget. It was "a small price to pay to veterans of three wars whose sacrifices made it possible for Canadians to enjoy their present standards of living."

Howard Green (PC—Vancouver Quadra) said government policy is to treat recipients of the allowances on the same basis as civilian welfare cases. The veteran had risked his life for his country and should have a greater claim.

At the night sitting, Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford), Rev. Dan McIvor (L—Fort William) and H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) added their voices in support of the legion's request.

Mr. Nesbitt said the cost would be about $3,000,000 and he is sure there isn't a Canadian who would object to keeping a tax on sports equipment to raise that sum. He noted that sports equipment and other goods were among those on which taxes were reduced to a total of about $36,000,000 in Finance Minister Abbott's budget.

SUPPORTS INCREASES

Mr. McIvor said he heartily supports increases for veterans and he also believes that veterans should be able to obtain pensions at the age of 60 without a means test.

Miss Sybil Bennett (PC—Halton) pleaded the case of parents of war dead who receive war pensions. She said the pensions should not be discontinued when these persons reach the age of 70 and become eligible for the universal $40-a-month old age pension.

Henry Hosking (L — Wellington South) asked that property qualifications for veterans re-established credits be reviewed. Some bachelor veterans could not meet the qualifications and thus lose claims to the credits.

Eldorado

ELDORADO — John Thompson, Clayton and Gerald Blackburn travelled to the United States on Thursday.

Miss Marlene Johnson of Peterborough spent the week-end at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug. Graham and children of Toronto were guests for the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George McCann.

Mrs. and Mrs. Weart has returned home after spending the past week with friends in Toronto.

Guests for tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. McCann on Saturday evening were: Rev. and Mrs. McEwen, Barabara and Carol, of Bannockburn; Charlie and Murrie Bean of Napanee; Mrs. Doug Graham of Toronto, and Miss Grace McCann of Peterborough.

Don Fox and Harry Deleves of Toronto were guests for the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Fox.

Many Eldorado residents attended the funeral of Andrew Wilson at Bannockburn on Sunday.

Freezing Foods

Last week If you remember, the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture sent us special questions and answers on freezing foods and today we plan to continue them. We want to emphasize again, however, that we feel the consumer section booklet "Freezing Foods" should be the consumer's first freezing guide. Anyone who does not have a copy of it, should write to the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, for a free copy. Last week the three questions answered were: First: "What is the difference between a refrigerator, a freezer and a combination freezer - refrigerator?" Secondly, we explained what the word "quick-freeze" means. The third question was, "When you bring home frozen fruits and vegetables from your locker or from a store, how long can you keep them in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator before having them deteriorate in any way?"

The questions the home economists want to answer today are these, "Can you stuff poultry before freezing?" "Are certain types of freezer wrapping better for some foods than others?" And the last question, "Does it pay to freeze your own food?"

FLAVOR CHANGES

The first question, "Can you stuff poultry before freezing?" the home economists do not recommend it. They say that when they experimented with stuffing birds before freezing they found that during the storage period the seasonings and the dressing tended to change. Some of the herbs took on a bitter flavor after a few months storage. It was also noted that the actual flesh of the bird became permeated with the flavor of the herbs to such an extent that the meat was not acceptable. The American Institute of Baking also did an extensive study on this matter and they too concluded that it was not a good idea to freeze stuffed poultry because when stuffed the bird takes longer to thaw and there is always the danger of the flesh deteriorating.

Now the second question "Are certain types of freezer wraps better than others?" That certainly is a very good question because the home economists mention that they find consumers who have just bought new home freezers do not seem to know what types or kinds of freezer paper and freezer cartons to use.

Let us start by saying what types of paper not to use for frozen food. Ordinary wax paper, butcher paper, wrapping paper or newspaper should never be used for frozen foods. These papers will allow the moisture to be drawn out of the food and the food will become dried out. This drying action is known as freezer burn. Now the types of paper that can be used are these: any wrapping paper which is moisture-vapor-proof that is any wrapping paper that will allow little or no loss of moisture during storage, is a satisfactory wrap. The wrap should not only prevent the drying out of food but should also protect it from absorbing flavors. In addition to this, the wrap must of course be odorless and tasteless. And what papers will do all these things consumers ask? Over type 1, a special paper called locker paper, it may be white, peach or buff in color. It is a heavy Kraft paper on the outside—that is like ordinary wrapping paper—but it has a special wax coating on the inside. Many Canadian paper companies make locker papers and all are quite satisfactory.

ALUMINUM FOIL

Aluminum foil is another good wrapping paper for frozen foods. It is available in most grocery stores in two widths—12 inches and 18 inches. Incidentally, if aluminum foil is handled carefully and cleaned well after using, it can be re-used a second or even a third time. Moisture-vapor-proof cellophane is another good frozen food wrap. Sometimes the companies who sell freezer-units also sell the wraps for the foods going into the freezer. Many grocery stores, too, sell freezer wraps, so there are a great variety of places where freezer wraps can be bought. By the way, when buying the cellophane be sure to ask if it is the type that is specially made for wrapping frozen foods. It is not the same kind of cellophane that you wrap birthday gifts in—it is heavier and more pliable. And one other class of papers that is satisfactory are the plastic films. There are many types of plastic film papers on the market and most of them are suitable for frozen foods, but here too, is a good idea to ask when buying the paper if it is suitable for wrapping frozen foods.

And now the last question, "Does it pay to freeze your own fruits and vegetables?" The answer to this question is both "yes" and "no". Yes, it pays to freeze your own food if you raise the fruits and vegetables in your own garden or if you can buy fresh fruits and vegetables in large quantities from a farmer or from the market at less than retail price. The answer is no if you have to pay retail price for the raw produce you are going to freeze.

If you have a home freezer but you do not have access to cheaper fruits and vegetables, then the home economists' advice to you is to buy commercially prepared frozen foods and store them in your freezer. After all, it stands to reason that our large Canadian canneries who freeze foods buy large quantities of fresh fruits and vegetables at the peak of supply, they buy them at regulated prices which are less than retail prices and they can produce frozen foods quickly and efficiently. Much quicker and much more efficiently than the average homemaker can do. And to illustrate this point, take the case of a package of frozen peas. Mrs. Homemaker can buy a package of fancy quality frozen peas in the grocery store for around 27c per carton. They are all ready to eat.

For her part, Homemaker can freeze her own peas, however, she has to buy the raw unshelled peas at her grocer's at top prices, and it would probably cost just as much to buy the food and prepare it herself as it would to buy the package already frozen. And why? Because first of all it takes about 2 pounds of raw unshelled peas to fill one 16-ounce carton. The cost of peas is often as much as 2 pounds for 25c. In other words that allows only 2c. for the cost of the carton, the time of preparation, the cost of freezing. So it is easy to see why we say—freeze your own food if you have access to fresh fruits and vegetables at less than retail cost but no if you have not.

DUKE TO VISIT

This is an aerial view of Yellowknife, N.W.T., far north on the north shore of Great Slave Lake, 600 miles north of Edmonton, where the Duke of Edinburgh will end a three-day aerial tour of Canada's far north. Yellowknife, which boomed with the discovery of gold in 1935 to a population of 2,800, lives on gold, fishing and tourists. (CP from National Film Board.

Duke Will Watch Pouring Of Gold Brick, Visit Mine

Canadian Press Staff Writer

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP)—The Duke of Edinburgh will end a strenuous three-day aerial tour of Canada's far north by visiting a mine, attending a barbecue and watching the pouring of a gold brick in this semi-Arctic land of the midnight sun.

A busy itinerary awaits the duke when he arrives aboard an amphibious Canso aircraft from Coppermine, on the Arctic coast 370 miles to the north, about mid-day on Aug. 10.

But an unscheduled part of the program may turn out to be a highlight for the duke. Tour officials have indicated an amateur radio pickup may be attempted about 10:15 p.m., at which time it is hoped the duke might speak over the air waves to Queen Elizabeth in London. But this part of the program is "only a possibility."

PROSPEROUS COMMUNITY

This settlement on the north shore of Great Slave lake, 400 miles north of Edmonton, is a gold town, but not one of the rip-roaring type associated with such frontier country. Yellowknife boomed with the discovery of gold in 1935 and the start of production three years later.

But there aren't many "boom" residents still around. Most have travel however is practically the only passenger access to Yellowknife.

PICTURESQUE PLACE

Situated on a bay, it has distinct "old" and "new" communities separated by a one - mile, sloping asphalt road.

The "old town" with its pioneer shanties nestles around and on top of craggy rock outcroppings at the lake edge. It is not uncommon in winter to see Indians mushing dog teams alongside the paved highway. They live in a shack and tent settlement five miles west of town and hunt caribou within 15 miles of Yellowknife.

The orderly "new town" with its grid street plan was established more than 10 years ago on a sandy plain west of the original settlement, to permit installation of modern water and sewage disposal systems. Most of the population and the business heart of the community are there.

INFORMAL PROGRAM

Upon his arrival, the duke will review the town army cadets before going to his quarters in the Ingraham hotel, in the "new town."

The itinerary then calls for a motor tour of the new and old sections, ending with trips to mines of Giant Yellowknife Gold Mines Ltd., and the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. The former, Canada's No. 4 gold producer with an annual production value of $4,300,000, is three miles north of town.

The duke will see a brick-pouring ceremony at the Con mine, one mile south of town. Gold bricks, a little larger than ordinary house bricks, weigh about 30 pounds and are poured once weekly. They are shipped out by registered airmail to the government mint in Ottawa. Both the Giant and Con mines poured their 1,000th bricks last summer.

A smaller gold mine, Discovery, 120 miles north of Yellowknife, mines the richest gold ore in Canada. Underground workings at the mines range from 1,000 to 2,000 feet.

BIG BARBECUE

After visiting the two mines, and going down the shaft of one, the duke will mingle with town children assembled at Petitot Park. There he will go to a barbecue at McNiven beach one mile from town, where he is to meet pioneers and citizens generally. After taking in the proposed ham radio pickup with world points, the duke's day will end with an informal reception in the armories.

If the duke happens to tune in on Yellowknife's radio station, CFYK, the "voice of the golden north," he is in for a surprise. This 500-watt station, opened Feb. 19, 1950, is staffed by volunteer announcers — everyone from fishermen to school children, whoever has the time to spin a recording or ad lib on almost any subject to fellow townsfolk.

The community-owned station, supported by a grant from the municipal district and supplied with technical help by the Army Signal Corps, is located in two basement rooms of the government administration building. Its manager is a civil servant.

The station carries no advertising. The four or five hours of broadcasting it originates daily consists mainly of recorded music, announcements of town events and broadcasts of drama group plays and sports events.

Mortality Rate of Canadian Soldiers in Korea Lowest Of Any War CMA Is Told

Fall of French Govt. Creates No Excitement

By HAL BOYLE

PARIS (AP) — A man stepped into the hotel lounge and said quietly:

"The government has just fallen."

Perhaps there was frenzied excitement in French political circles over Premier Laniel's downfall, but the collapse of France's 19th post-war government created less stir in the hotel lounge than if a bronze had risen and accidentally bent an ashtray.

The barman looked up impassively at the news, then bent down and finished mixing his drink without the slightest change of expression.

"NOT DE GAULLE"

A waiter came by. I asked, "Have you heard the government has just fallen?"

"Yes."

"You don't seem at all surprised."

"No."

"You don't seem very concerned either. Doesn't it worry you that another French government has fallen?"

"Why should it?" he shrugged. "I worry about what concerns me. I take care of myself first—before the other fellow."

"Who would you like to see run the government of France—General De Gaulle?"

"No, not De Gaulle," he said. "But it is a matter of little moment to me. They are all only in the money. Me, I take care of myself first, too."

GRATITUDE

Later I asked an assistant manager of the hotel the same questions. He had much the same attitude as the waiter—that the government in France was hardly his personal problem, and he had his own life to worry about.

When I asked him what he thought of present French political leaders, he said—very seriously:

"They are all too small. France needs a stronger man."

"How about De Gaulle?"

"De Gaulle?" he looked pained. "No, not De Gaulle. It is not necessary to be a general to be strong. France needs a strong man like Clemenceau — yes, another Clemenceau. But one does not meet many Clemenceaus in a lifetime, isn't it so?"

HELICOPTERS IN SERVICE

Fall of French Govt. Creates No Excitement

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The mortality rate among Canadian soldiers in the recent Korean fighting was the lowest of any war, Brig. K. A. Hunter of Ottawa, said here today.

The number of deaths from both wounds and disease was almost 50 per cent lower than those suffered by Canada's soldiers during the Second World War, He credited the reduction to advanced medical treatment and use of helicopters in transporting casualties.

His address was one of three on medical services in the armed forces prepared for delivery before the final day's sessions of the 87th annual convention of the Canadian Medical Association. Also speaking on the services were Air Marshall Sir Philip Livingston of Ottawa, R.C.A.F., and Dr. A. MacFarlane of Toronto.

Thursday the 3,000 delegates representing all 10 provinces heard Canada's deputy minister of health Dr. G. D. W. Cameron of Ottawa, outline preliminary findings of the national sickness survey and attended inauguration ceremonies of a college for the country's 8,000 family doctors.

In addition to the papers on the armed forces medical services, the day's final convention program included 12 technical papers on a variety of clinical topics.

GIVES FIGURES

Brig. Hunter said that in the First World War 114 soldiers out of every 1,000 died from their wounds.

"This figure was cut to 66 during the Second World War and was further reduced in Korea to 34 deaths for every 1,000 wounded."

Deaths from disease had dropped from six in every 1,000 experienced in the First World War to about one in every 1,500 in Korea.

Reviewing the work of the Royal Canadian Medical Corps in Korea, the army medical expert said the fighting demonstrated the value of the helicopter as a means of transporting casualties.

"Serious cases were able to be quickly and safely transported to forward surgical units or special centres."

"Venereal disease has a high incidence in the Far East," he continued. "And one must admit our Canadian rates have been high also." The cases, however, were mainly confined to the less serious types of the disease and few soldiers required hospital treatment.

SMALL-SCALE WAR

He warned that the Korean conflict was essentially a small-scale war for which abundant services and supplies could be provided.

Air Marshall Livingstone said disaster areas will be created in Canada if the system of defence is pierced "even temporarily" in another war. This necessitated an effective medical organization which would be ready to meet the situation.

Wife-Murderer Hanged Friday

MONTREAL (CP)—Fortinat Dubuc, stumpy 56-year-old farmer who poisoned his wife so he could marry a pregnant, 16-year-old girl, was hanged early today at Bordeaux jail.

Dubuc, showing no emotion, fell through the gallows trapdoor shortly after 1 a.m., EDT, today and was pronounced dead by a jail physician at 1:18 a.m. Earlier he had heard mass said by the prison chaplain and received Holy Communion.

Last chance for a stay of execution faded yesterday when the Justice Department in Ottawa advised that the execution was to be carried out.

Previous appeals to the Quebec court of appeals and the Supreme Court of Canada were turned down.

Mrs. Dubuc died Jan. 1, 1953. A coroner's inquest returned a verdict of natural death, but the body was exhumed April 10 last year after village rumors reached the Attorney General's department.

An autopsy found traces of poison in Mrs. Dubuc's internal organs. Dubuc was charged with murder and found guilty by a Court of Queen's Bench jury at Montreal.

Canadian Officials to Seek Import Restrictions in U.K.

OTTAWA (CP) — A group of Canadian officials will leave for London next week to seek further reductions in United Kingdom import restrictions as a means of boosting lagging Canadian exports.

Heading the group will be W. F. Bull, deputy minister of trade. The Canadian will meet with British authorities June 21 at a scheduled conference of the Anglo-Canadian continuing trade committee. Norman Robertson, Canada's high commissioner to London, will preside.

Britain, once the target for a lot of North American criticism because of her trade barriers, has taken what authorities here considered to be "giant steps" in removing import curbs during the last two years.

But the restriction slashes dealt mostly with raw materials, the primary products of mines, forests and farms. The Canadians now feel that Britain has regained sufficient economic strength to go all the way—removing import curbs on manufactured goods as well.

LARGE FURTHER STEPS

Canadians also feel—and this likely will be emphasized at the conference—that Britain can well afford to take further steps in freeing the pound, to make it convertible with dollars as another trade-expanding move.

This renewed interest in British trade follows setbacks in getting the United States to assume world leadership in the non-Communist trading community by opening her doors to more imports.

President Eisenhower has agreed not to press Congress to enact his tariff-reducing proposals this year. The president's move has led Minister Howe to express disappointment openly.

DISAPPOINTED BY POLICY

"We in Canada have been disappointed in certain developments in the U.S. policy, partly because there has been some movement in the wrong direction and, even more, because our American friends have been hesitant for the moment and ceased to move forward as rapidly as before in the elimination of barriers to world trade," Mr. Howe said.

He made this statement earlier this week while speaking before a meeting of Commonwealth chambers of commerce in Montreal. He lauded Britain's steps to reduce curbs and spoke of the possibility that Britain again has assumed a role of leadership in world trade.

But he pointed up what is considered here to be the part of Britain's problem now. In reducing controls she now has hit a "protectionist core" of manufacturers who thrive in "sheltered markets."

ROBIN HOOD BIKE CONTEST WINNER

David Mooney, of 174 Charles Street, Belleville, is shown above with the Armstrong 3-speed English bicycle which he won on the Robin Hood Bike Contest show, June 9th.

David answered the question asked correctly and included a box top from Robin Hood Chocolate Cake Mix, another wonderful Robin Hood product.

This brings to a close the Robin Hood contest which has been heard for the past 10 Saturday mornings over CJBQ.

Ten lucky youngsters have won a 3-speed English bicycle thanks to Robin Hood Flour Mills.

Many thanks to all the "young fry" of the Bay of Quinte area for responding so well to the contest. To all the lucky winners, CONGRATULATIONS. To the many others who entered but were unsuccessful, better luck next time.

Robin Hood Flour Mills wish you all — Happy Holiday.

Would Extend Wildlife Program

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal-provincial wildlife conference has urged extension of federal wildlife management on a scale comparable with programs operating in the fields of forest and fisheries management.

E. S. Huestis, fish and game commissioner and director of fur-estry for Alberta, urged the concluding session of the conference Thursday to recommend amendments to present federal legislation to provide the provinces and Ottawa with a broader basis for co-operative wildlife management. There was general support for this proposal.

J. MacFie of the Ontario fish and wild life division said the polar bear is in danger of extermination in Ontario. His recommendation that steps be taken to prevent further exploitation drew strong support.

PERSONAL PILOTING

MELBOURNE (CP) — Trans-Australia Airlines has decided to remove the automatic pilot device from its aircraft following short distances. Captain John Chapman, director of operations, said it was found piloting using the automatic device were inclined to "lose the feel" of their aircraft.

Wholesale Food Prices Lower In United States

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—In the United States generally on the pocketbook is easing a little here and there as summer comes. There's hope today that before the hot weather is over, prices may be still lower.

Competition among salesmen, and a growing abundance of raw materials and manufactured goods, are the underlying causes.

Wholesale food prices have dropped. Talk of lower prices for still more foodstuffs is being heard.

MORE BARGAINS

Bargains appear more frequently at the clothing counters. Gasoline cuts appear in scattered areas—despite the insistence of oil industry spokesmen that general price cuts are unlikely. Prices of a number of building materials are a little lower than a year ago.

Counter to all this good news for the consumer, however, is a good deal of talk of higher prices for the basic commodity, steel. Much of the talk is based on the bargaining just ended between management and labor over new pay contracts.

The carpet makers are beginning to raise their prices. They cite an increase in the cost of carpet wool.

But thrifty shoppers have been doing pretty well for some time now in the lines of clothing, food, apparel, household appliances.

Some of the lower prices in the shops aren't reflected in the factory price lists. Merchants have shaved retail prices for promotion purposes, or granted discounts or generous trade-in allowances.

Some merchants say they are looking forward to seeing these unofficial lower prices openly listed by some factories this fall.

Mail order houses, whose sales have been trailing last year by a greater margin than retailers in general, are starting to lower their prices in the catalogues.

Prices in the new fall book of Sears, Roebuck, for example, average out 3½ per cent below the last fall catalogue. Sears says its prices this fall will be the lowest, on average, since 1950.

Crown Corporations of CCF Govt. Are Source of Major Political Controversy in Sask.

By WILF CHISLETT

REGINA (CP) — In or out of Canadian Press Staff Writer season, the CCF government's crown corporations are a source of major political controversy in Saskatchewan.

Wherever people discuss governmental problems of this agricultural province, the eight corporations and the 12 enterprises they control usually come up. There have been many debates in the legislature on the CCF's entry into business.

The government has set up 18 enterprises since assuming office in 1944. Six have closed, four after piling up substantial losses. The government also controls power and telephone corporations inherited from the former Liberal administration. One corporation, the government finance office, administers financing of all the power and telephone corporations.

MINISTRY OF INDUSTRY

The CCF operates an air service into northern Saskatchewan and a bus company which has a monopoly on provincial routes. A timber board regulates cutting and sale of timber from crown lands, some of which goes to the government-owned finishing factory at Prince Albert.

Insurance office looks after the government's compulsory automobile insurance plan. Another insurance firm does extensive business in Saskatchewan and has been set up in Weyburn, southeastern Manitoba. There is a brick and tile plant at Estevan in the northwest, a printing corporation responsible for government bookbinding, and fish and fur marketing agencies. A trading division has stores at northern posts.

Enterprises closed were a woollen mill at Moose Jaw, a fish board which operated filleting plants on northern lakes, a tannery and a leather products division which made shoes.

These four enterprises, plus the government brick and tile plant which still are running, had run up a total deficit of $1,639,000 by March 31, end of the last fiscal year.

They are the cumulative deficits: Fish board $364,264; shoe factory $82,787; tannery $70,036; woollen mills $830,360; box factory $18,920; brick and tile plant $269,861.

OPERATED AT PROFIT

Two other corporations which closed ran up a total profit of $485,000. They were the corporation set up to sell war surpluses—$90,099—and an organization to handle housing—$395,094.

The auto-insurance plan was $1,381,000 in the red at the end of last year.

The so-called "CCF corporations" are financed by yearly advances from the finance office. No interest is charged. The Liberal opposition contends interest should be charged because corporations gain revenue directly from the public, the basis on which the federal government operates the Canadian National Railways.

Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fines says advances should be interest-free because they are share capital—the system used by the federal government in finance of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation which receives no direct revenue from listeners.

Liberals also claim they are kept in the dark about many important matters on corporations and state it is hard to assess their true standing. Government leaders in refusing information on certain corporation activities at the last session of the legislature charged Liberal members sought details which would aid private competition.

BIG INVESTMENT

The CCF enterprises were set up under the crown corporations act which gives the government the right to bring under state control any business or industry falling within its jurisdiction. Only one, the box factory, was expropriated under the act and that after a labor dispute. Other enterprises have been organized individually or bought from private hands. Total investment the government says, has been $10,500,000.

Mr. Fines says the experimental industries designed to use Saskatchewan products have proved "expensive" with losses higher than expected. On the other hand, he says, government enterprises have brought opportunity to employment, service and manufacturing potential to Saskatchewan.

The government insurance office in 1950 reduced its fire-loss premiums 40 per cent, and private companies followed suit. It went into Manitoba at rates 20 per cent below those current. John J. Holmes, state auditor, in a recent interview in Regina, said the government firm has brought about a "very substantial" reduction in Manitoba insurance premiums.

CLAIM POOR PLANNING

Opponents have blamed the collapse of the closed corporations on poor planning and management.

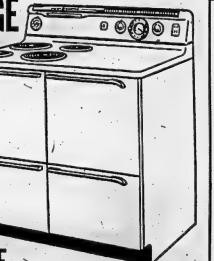
But Mr. Fines, in winding up affairs of the woollen mill during the last session of the legislature, said the creation of the Canadian textile industry in general was responsible for the closing of that corporation.

The fish board went under after three years of low fish prices and reported opposition from fishermen who were forced to sell their catch through it. The brick and tile plant was recently closed for three months after a shortage of orders developed and inventory piled up. The government says it may be closed again this fall if the same situation occurs.

Approve Building Millbrook Jail

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario cabinet has approved construction of the $2,500,000 Millbrook jail, Reforms Minister Foote, and Public Works Minister Gretzinger, announced Thursday.

The jail, a high security institution, will be built at Millbrook, 18 miles southwest of Peterborough. Contracts for building will be let soon.



MASSED CHOIRS

OSLO (CP)—A festival marking the 50th anniversary of the Norwegian Organists' Federation featured 1,000 members of 26 choirs singing Bach's story of the Passion. Recitals were held in the 800-year-old Nidaros cathedral at Trondheim.

Reid's Regents Defeat Wellington In Baseball League Opening Game

Bryson Reid Regents behind the six-hit pitching of Billy Dall came through with their second straight victory in the Bay of Quinte Baseball League last night, defeating Johnny Mowat's Wellington Dukes by a 13-3 score in a seven-innings tussle.

Dall let the Dukes down with six hits, striking out an even dozen and walking none. Dall aided his own cause by slapping out a double and a single.

Mowat sent his ace Stacey to the mound but the Raider's got to him for seven hits, mostly doubles, and twelve runs, before Billy Greer was rushed in the rescue. Greer didn't fare much better, being tabbed for three clouts and one run in the two innings he toiled.

The Reid batters had their sights well lined with Jack Elliott and Dall lashing out a double and single each. Bud was good for a triple with Duke Doran and Ted Stevens Taylor rounded out a heavy hitting outfit rounded out a heavy hitting night with a pair of singles.

SCORE IN FIRST.

The Reids took a three-run lead the first inning on five walks and Stevens' double and two Wellington errors. They added another in the second off Bird's triple and Dall's double and put the game on ice in the third with a barrel of hits. Doubles by Doran and Elliott, a pair of free passes and another Duke's error were responsible.

They added another four in the fourth off singles by Elliott and Batchelor aided by more Wellington miscues and that was the end for Mr. Stacey. Greer came in and retired the side with no further damage done.

However two consecutive singles in the sixth were good for the last Reider run before the Wellington southpaw could settle down.

The Dukes scored a run in the first when Purielle doubled and raced home on Stacey's single. They added another run in the second when Easton doubled, stole third and came home on a passed ball by strike. Dall struck out the side in this inning.

The Dukes garnered their last tally in the fifth on consecutive singles by Purielle and Bird and threatened in the sixth with runners on second and third but Dall struck out the third batter to retire the side.

The game which marked the home stand opening of the Raiders was featured with a downtown parade and official opening ceremonies. At the park Belleville Baseball Association president Malcolm Robb assayed a pitcher's role with Frank Grideline, president of the Bay of Quinte League receiving. Alderman Robert Temple representing the city fathers clinched the bat with Lloyd "Red" Doran attempting to imitate an umpire.

A colorful parade preceded the game and opening ceremonies. Three bands, the Hasty Pees, Municipal Band and the Kinsmen's Boys' Band, in their colorful uniforms and their pert drum majorettes, the Misses Betty Breach, Barbara Thrasher, Sondra Randall and June McKnight, headed the show with the proud paleolions from the Jack Bush stable providing additional color. The Reids and Dukes in uniform were in the "car" section as were a number of minor baseball players.

The teams:

Wellington: Johnson, Purielle Snider, Stacey, Greer, Bryant Ward, Easton, Vandusen, Mowat and Garrison.

Reid's Regents: Doran, Casey, Bird, Batchelor, Barclay, Stephens, Scott, Dolan, Elliott and Dall.

St. Kitts Want Larger Crowds

TORONTO (CP)—Chuck Rowan, secretary of the Ontario Lacrosse Association said Thursday he has been informed by the St. Catharines Athletics that they will play their remaining home games in the Garden Senior A League outdoors in Maple Bowl Stadium.

The A's have been playing home games indoors in St. Catharines Arena. The shift is being made in the hopes of bolstering attendance.

St. Catharines played outdoors in 1953 but moved into the arena last year. The first games outdoors is scheduled for tonight when Hamilton Tigers meet the Athletics.

Rowan also said nine 60-minute periods will be tried in the Hamilton-St. Catharines game instead of the usual four 15-minute sessions. He said the 60-minute periods will also be tried in Hamilton, Peterborough and Mimico to test the reactions of players and fans.

The winners were behind 7-5 going into the fifth inning when they came to life with eight runs, highlighted by home runs off the bats of Schreider and Wagar. Batchelor also blasted a round-tripper for the winners in the first, while Bob Vaughan came up with two in a losing effort.

Batchelor went the route for the win, giving up eight hits, while St. Denis, Cruji and Vaughan toiled on the mound for Robb's and were banged about to the tune of 10 base knocks. Although 12 errors were committed, some good defensive play by St. Denis, White, Walker and Schreider made the game more interesting. Cruji was charged with the defeat.

The hitters for Elliott's were: Batchelor with two; while Wagar, White, Sinfield, Haley, Jackson, Bennett, Charlton and Schreider had one. Cook banged out a trio of hits for Robb's while Vaughan had two; Cruji, St. Denis and Criss took the other.

Electrics Tame Bobcats By 9-1 Score

(By GARRY ALEXANDER).

With John Batchelor hitting the ball at a mile-a-minute pace, Northern Electric continued to widen the distance between themselves and the rest of the league by winning their eighth straight, 9-1 over Bob Temple's Bobcats.

The slugging second baseman came up with half of the winners hits last night, including a pair of triples as he took over the race for league batting honors, while Al Adams handcuffed the Cats with five scattered hits.

Adams was in trouble only once, the first inning, when he hit the first batter he faced and was tagged for singles by Yank McBride and Bob Temple to plate the losers' only run. He got four on strikes, while walking three.

Coach Jim Ehler of the Bobcats used a trio of hurlers in an attempt to curb the undefeated nine's hitting attack but they were touched for eight hits, while giving free tickets to another eight. Three batters struck out on strikes. 'Bunk' Young started to take the loss in the 3-2 innings, while allowing seven runs off the same number of hits. Buck Burshaw worked the middle two frames, when he walked four and was pulled for Waite, who retired the last man.

Batchelor's first triple with the bases loaded in the initial frame off Locke on base to the Electrics' first shot Northern ahead and then they broke a 1-1 tie in the third when Carr drew a walk, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on Don Locke's single. Batchelor bloooped a Texas-leaguer over first that went for another three-bagger and sent Locke home.

Two walks, a couple of errors and a single by Batchelor plus Doug Soules' double sent four more home in the seventh, while Soules and Locke collided in the outfield by Batchelor rounded out the nine runs in the ninth. The "old chucker", Herb Henn inserted himself into the line up as a pinch hitter in the ninth and drew a walk.

Besides Batchelor's four hits, Don Lodger chipped in with a pair, while Soules claimed a double and Whiting a single. Bill Nolan with a two-bagger and singles by Dusberry, McBride, Temple and Young were the Bobcats' hitters.

The line ups:

Northern Electric: Soules, Carr, Locke, Batchelor, Whiting, Cousins, Henn, Culkin, Jones, DeRushie, Lodger, Ashleigh, Adams.

Bobcats: Nolan, Dusberry, Wardaugh, McBride, Temple, Durand, J. Donovan, Whalen, Doran, Waite, Kerwood, Young.

Majors Halt Panther Streak At Seven Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

London Majors halted the seven-game winning streak of Kitchener Panthers Thursday night when they defeated the Panthers 10-3 in the nine-inning second game of a doubleheader.

The Panthers, who lost their first nine starts in the senior Inter-county Baseball League this season, won their seventh in a row by edging the Majors 2-1 in the seven-inning opener.

St. Thomas Elgins took a 6-5 home-decision from Brantford Red Sox in the other league game.

Creighton Indians downed Coniston Red Sox 8-8 in the only Nickel Belt Senior League game.

SECOND ASSIGNMENT

Charlie Wolf drew his second pitching assignment of the year against the Majors in the first game at London. Besides holding the Majors to six hits, he drove in two of the three Kitchener runs. His victory gave Wolf a second-knot record.

Bob Penny went the route for the Majors to take his second loss in three decisions.

Newcomer Stan Slack pitched a four-hitter in the second game to lead the Majors to their victory but six Panther errors contributed heavily to the London cause.

The Majors pasted three Kitchener pitchers for 11 hits, including four doubles. Garnet Jobin, the first of the Kitchener hurlers, took the loss—his first against one victory.

FIRST LOSS

Harry Fisher, who has won five consecutive games for Brantford, took his first loss of the season at St. Thomas after pitching to only one man. He came in in the ninth and gave up a two-run homer to Butch Lawing which won the Elgins the game.

Soddy Creat also belted a four-bagger for the Elgins while Fisher and Wilmer Fields each slammed two-run circuit clouts for the Red Sox.

Playing manager Tommy White, who relieved starter George Dries for the Elgins, took the victory in his first decision of the season.

Guelph-Waterloo Royals play the Panthers at Kitchener and London is at St. Thomas in tonight's only Intercounty action.

Conny Smythe To Retire?; Day Succeeds

TORONTO (CP)—Conn Smythe said Thursday he's tired of fighting with referees and plans to retire as general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs midway through the next National Hockey League season.

"I'm coming out of the front lines," he said in an interview. "I want to get away from the business of fighting referees and sometimes newspaper men. I'm getting away from the turmoil and I'm going to spend the majority of my time at the organizational level."

He told league officials at a New York meeting Wednesday that he intends to step down on his 60th birthday, next Feb. 1, and that Clarence (Hap) Day will succeed him as general manager.

DAY HAS ASSISTED

For the last four seasons, Day has been assistant general manager.

Smythe, who has coached or managed the Leafs to an unprecedented three successive Stanley Cup victories.

When Day, a former Leaf defenceman-lakes cover, it will be the first time in almost 30 years that Smythe has not been in actual charge of the Leafs, except for the Second World War years when he was overseas with his Sportsmen's Battalion and Frank Selke was acting general manager.

Smythe is known to have been contemplating the move for two or three years. With his health suffering, he has been taking longer and longer winter holidays in Florida.

Argos' Twist Lions' Tail

DETROIT (CP) — The Detroit Lions expressed incredulity Thursday at Toronto coach Frank Clair's charge they were "tampering" with Howard McCants, former Washington State football star.

"Way," said Nick Kerbawy, general manager of the Lion world champions, "we've already signed McCants—yesterday."

Kerbawy, indicating exasperation, said he couldn't understand Clair's "reasoning."

Kerbawy said McCants, an end, agreed informally to Detroit's terms last March but that the Lions would not sign him until he had completed all his college athletic eligibility—until the track season to go, Kerbawy said.

Soccer Gossip

As a result of the games played last Saturday four teams are now tied for top place in the Eastern Ontario Football League with six points each: Peterborough UEW have had no game scheduled have the better goal average. Kingston United entertained Batawa in Kingston and ran out easy winners with a score of six goals to one. N. Gray with three, Hardley two, and G. Gray, were the Kingston marksmen. Gil Howard and Curphey obtained the shootowners lone tally.

Northern Electric in a keenly contested tussle on their own sports ground edged Peterborough Canadian-Scottish three goals to two. If more advantage had been taken of scoring opportunities in front of goal by the local boys the difference between the scores could have been greater. Butgyan was top scorer with two for the Electrics, whilst Roddy got the third from a free kick which should have been well covered by the Peterboro goalkeeper. Daly and Gilchrist netted for the Scottish. In the third game scheduled for last Saturday, Kingston Concordia defaulted to Peterborough Merchants.

Three games are scheduled for tomorrow. Northern Electric are at home again this week to Peterborough UEW. This game should be the game of the season on the N.E. grounds and should be well worth watching. The starry UEW team will be all out to stay on top and retain their unbeaten record, whilst the Electrics realize that they must win this one to take the league trophy at the end of the season. Kick off for this game is called for 3.30 p.m.

On Sunday afternoon Batawa play host to Peterborough Merchants and the shoe towners will be all out to stay in the running for league honors. Having already lost two games they cannot afford another defeat. In the third game Peterborough Scottish and Kingston United lock horns in the Limrock city.

A league meeting has been arranged for 8 p.m. this evening in the YMCA to select the Eastern Ontario League All Star team to play against the Toronto Senior League in Peterborough on Saturday, July 3rd and to complete all arrangements for that game.

In minor circles the big event on the program is the scheduled game on Thursday, June 24th between Belleville Juveniles and Branch 59, Canadian Legion Juniors on the Northern Electric ground to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Federation of International Football Associations. Similar minor games will be played across Canada during that week. Both these teams will represent Belleville in the Ontario Minor Soccer championships, the draw for which is to be made in Toronto on Saturday, June 26th.

In the Bay of Quinte League RCAF United and Trenton Merchants played to a no score tie on Tuesday evening at the airport. On Wednesday evening Northern Electric entertained Batawa in Belleville and ran out winners by a score of six goals to one. Salter and Roleffston with two each together with Prenc and Peterson accounted for the Northern goals whilst Curphey got the lone Batawa counter.

Next Week's Bay of Quinte fixtures call for RCAF United and Batawa to meet in the Shoetown on Tuesday evening, whilst on Wednesday Trenton Merchants and Northern Electric play in Trenton at Bain Memorial Park. Both games are called for 7 p.m.

This week's dig to the budding soccer player "Never argue with the referee's decision. His decision regarding any point connected with the play is final."

The poor old ref. is the Aunt Sally of soccer, the butt of all the abuse or witticisms of the police minority of the spectators. Yet if the average onlooker, and for that matter player too, knew half as much about the rules as the average referee he would be less critical of the man with the whistle and would appreciate his decisions to a far greater degree.

Being only human, the referee makes mistakes at times, but he is a far better authority on the rules than the majority of his loud-mouthed detractors. As far as this district is concerned the standard of refereeing is at least on a par with the standard of playing.

ACES IN OPEN

SPRINGFIELD, N. J. (AP)—Johnny Weitzel of Hershey, Pa., gave the U.S. National Open golf tournament gallery a thrill on the opening round Thursday when he sank a hole-in-one.

Weitzel, shooting with a two-iron, fired the ace on the par-three, 190-yard 12th hole.

It was a high shot that soared straight down the fairway, dropped 14 feet away from the cup and rolled in.

The ace was the first in Weitzel's career.

BONOR CLOCKER

TORONTO (CP)—The directors of the Ontario Jockey Club Thursday honored Thomas J. Bird, the dean of Canada's clockers, who is celebrating his 80th year at Woodbine Park.

It was a surprise party for Bird, who was summoned to the winner's enclosure ostensibly to present a piece of plate to the owner of the winner of the feature race, named "The Thomas J. Bird."

Bird, in turn received a handsomely engraved tray from Allen Case, vice-president of the OJC and one of the timer's oldest friends.

Marciano Still World's Champion; Wins Bloody Decision Over Charles

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

TIME TO STOP IT!

Eighteen baseballs disappeared in youthful pockets during the Oshawa-Batas game on Tuesday night—and brothers, it ain't funny. The hardsliders cost the club in the neighborhood of thirty dollars the dozen and when any organization loses eighteen balls in one game, the exchequer takes a terrific beating.

The ball-pilfering moppets were like a swarm of bees in Exhibition Park the other night and a ball fouled to the outer pastures was the signal for a mass exodus on the part of the youngsters who seemed to come from nowhere.

And the pilfering was not confined to the youngsters, as adults, who should know better, was seen scrounging out of the lost balls, later slipping it to a young friend of his.

So the Batas' management is going to take action on the matter. From here in no youngsters will be admitted unless they are accompanied by their parents.

"We are trying to give the fans of Belleville the best brand of baseball we are capable of producing," Manager Jack Carson said today. "The club is under heavy enough expense as it is, what with travelling expenses for the team, and payment of expenses to visiting clubs in the league. Forty or fifty dollars a game for baseballs is a little too much of a financial burden, and we are going to try to eliminated a large part of this unnecessary expense."

"A true, red-blooded baseball fan will not want to keep those balls while if he has the interest of the home team and the game at heart," added Carson. "If adults, who call themselves fans, insist on retaining the balls they will be given ticket refunds and asked to leave the park.

"We do not want to cause any hard feelings, and we would like the whole-hearted cooperation of everybody with respect to this situation," he said.

OAKVILLE TOMORROW!

Tomorrow night the Batas meet the up-and-coming Oakville Oaks, who pay their visit to Belleville for their initial game with the Carson-Geyer crew. The Oaks, who administered a 16-4 shellacking to the Toronto Hoskins the other night, have shown a startling resurgence of late and will likely prove tough nuts to crack. The Batas, however, are confident they will take their fifth victory and keep pace with the Oshawa Transporters in the race for the league's top slot. The Oshawa club plays the Hoskings club in the Motor City tonight, and if by any chance the Toronto club comes up with a victory and the Batas can make acorns out of the Oaks, tomorrow the local ballsters will take over undisputed possession of the top rung.

The fans are still talking about that Oshawa thriller of last Tuesday night when each side edged the powerful Motor City crew in the last half of the ninth inning. The Batas' morale wasn't hurt a bit with the victory and they will be a fighting crew when they take the field against the Oaks tomorrow evening. Game at 8.30.

BATTLE OF THE GIANTS!

It should be a Battle of the Behemoths with Bozeman "Bunny" Dunlop bebopping the bikes should they step out of turn in Memorial Arena tonight. The Mills Brothers, with their one-leg specialist will be tearing at the bars duo of Tex McKenzie and Paul Baillargeon in a tag-team tussle in the main bout, and that should mean plenty of action—even for the estimable Mr. Dunlop.

For the Windy Mills from the Albertan prairie steppes have had their tag team title torn from their witch-like thatches so many times they will be in mayhemic mood. And they stop at nothing when in this frame of mind. Should be a right jolly old brawl.

Peerless Ray Villmar and Timmy (McBay) Geohegan tangling in the semi-final should be worth the admission tag alone. This should be one for the books. Johnny Barend and Don Lewis start the proceedings.

• • •

ACE HOLDEN COMING!

A four-man softball team, three of whom hold the opposing batters with disdain by playing cards on second base while their hurler strikes out a batter blindfolded, will be the sports attraction at the CNR Recreation Park come June 24. The diamond quartet is none other than Ace Holden famous Negro fastball hurler, who will drop off here to tangle with Paul Mercier's Bluebirds plus, as part of their trans-province tour.

The Ace was here last summer and scored a definite hit with city fans with his uncanny ability as a hurler. Possessed of blinding speed the dusky moundsman had the populace amazed with his dexterous handling of the ball. The quartet is known as the "Redcaps" due to their being sponsored by a well-known brand of suds. The game will get under way at seven p.m. There is no senior baseball fixture that evening.

Challenger Takes Terrific Beating in All-Out Battle; Rocky Takes Over in Sixth

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Ezzard Charles has joined the impressive list of those former heavyweight champions who tried to win back the title and found the burden too great, but none who watched the Cincinnati Negro take the terrible beating he did from Rocky Marciano Thursday night will forget the stout-hearted display he gave.

In defeat, Charles probably knew his greatest hour. Never again will anyone in his right mind suggest that he has no stomach for fighting. There were a half-dozen points at which the fight could have conceded might have withered under the barrage of blows that Rocky poured into him over the final dozen rounds, but at the end Ezzard still was on his tired legs and trying to fight back.

. . . STILL CHAMPION

Marciano, who has a burning ambition to be accepted as a great champion, probably made some progress toward that goal. He didn't win by a knockout, but he might have done something even more impressive in demonstrating that he could give a beating to a man Charles' skill over the full 15 rounds.

UNDER HANDICAP

If Rocky isn't great, he is a wonderful competitor. For the last 11 rounds he fought under the handicap of a cut over his left eye that streamed blood off and on and soaked both gladiators with gore.

He took everything a game adversary could throw back at him and never wavered. He came from behind and pounded out his victory as a champion should. There is no man in sight now to stand against him.

On our score card the final tally was eight rounds for Marciano, four for Charles and two so even that we couldn't split them apart. This was slightly longer in Rocky's favor than the consensus of the three officials, who were, however, unanimous in the opinion that the title had not changed hands.

There can be little question of which man took the greater punishment. Charles did, by far. Though Marciano shed the more blood, he never once gave any evidence of being hurt. Charles tired off on the solid Rock perhaps 10 times, flush on the button, yet not once did the champion flinch or back up or do anything except keep slogging forward to throw his bludgeoning left hooks and his looping right.

APPEARED LUCKY

Charles, on the other hand, appeared very lucky to finish three or four rounds after Rocky first tagged him in the sixth with a left hook to the button and changed the entire aspect of the battle. Up to that time the challenger had been practically a one-way street for Ezzard.

Then Rocky exploded his first really good one on Ezzard's whiskers. It shook the man right down to his feet. The thought ran around the ringside that the end was at hand.

TRIED TO PUT AWAY

Rocky stalked his man, wasted few punches and tried to put him away. He hardly tore Ez's head off with long rights that he threw like a catapult. Ez raked him with left jefts.

Yet Charles stayed up, and, to the electrification of the great crowd of 47,585 of which paid $543,062 in Yankee Stadium, now and then shook his head like a bull and cemented his toreador and fought back.

As the rounds wore on, the faces of both fighters became soaked with blood. Charles' face gradually swelled until, in the closing rounds, his features became grotesque.

When the last bell sounded, the man from Cincinnati had enough left to lap Rocky on his chest and smile a warped smile through his battered lips.

It was a fine ending to a great fight.

Leafs Stretch League Lead; Royals Win

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tom Lasorda, No. 1 lefthander for Montreal Royals, doesn't usually need many runs to win his games, and when his club goes out and piles up a big score for him, he is doubly tough.

The Royals massaged three Rochester pitchers Thursday night for an 11-4 victory while Lasorda coasted to his sixth win of the season. Bob Wilson hit two home runs and Rocky Nelson smashed one to make Lasorda's job easy.

Toronto Maple Leafs, 3½ games out front in the International League, whipped Ottawa A's 7-5 on Sam Jethroe's two-out single in the 10th inning. Ray Shore was the winner in relief to run his record to 3-0.

Cuban Sugar Kings won a doubleheader from Syracuse Chiefs, 4-2 and 5-1, in the other action. The Havana entry iced the first game with seven runs in the first two innings. In the nightcap, Saul Rogovin gave up only five hits.

Toronto and Richmond were not scheduled.

Tribe Still Heap Big Winner With Eighth Straight Victory; Giants Pull Away from 'Bums'

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

If the Chicago White Sox intend to be pennant contenders the next time the New York Yankees come to visit, they better figure some way to oust the champs in the four-game set starting tonight.

The Yanks won't be back in Chicago until July 27 and by that time it may be too late. In fact, the way Cleveland has been going, it just might be too late for either the Yankees or the White Sox.

This is especially true since the Indians figure to fatten up on the hapless Boston Red Sox while Chicago and New York are tangling with each other.

All three of the contenders won Thursday. Cleveland ran its winning streak to eight games with a 6-4 triumph over Washington. The White Sox outlasted Philadelphia 6-4 and New York frosted over Baltimore 9-2. Boston lost its ninth game in its last 10 starts, 3-1 to Detroit.

GIANTS IN FRONT

In the National League the New York Giants pulled two games in front of the Brooklyn Dodgers by shading Cincinnati 3-1. Brooklyn lost to Milwaukee 6-5. Philadelphia and St. Louis played the first set game of the season—15 innings—before the Cards won 5-4 with Robin Roberts going all the way. Chicago was rained out at Pittsburgh.

Cleveland jumped away to a three-run lead in the first inning against the Senators as Frank Houk walked, Dave Pope singled and Vic Wertz doubled and Wally Westlake singled. The Washington runs came in the seventh when gave up 10 hits.

Early Wynn walked the bases loaded and in the ninth on Mickey Vernon's two-run homer.

Gus Zernial, who has been feuding with manager Eddie Joost of the Athletics, came off the bench to deliver a three-run pinch hit homer at Chicago. His blast followed a bases-empty homer by Bill Wilson. But the A's were trailing by six runs by the time they found the range and they couldn't catch up.

FELL APART

Baltimore's defence fell apart as the Orioles lost their third straight to the Yankees. New York wrapped it up with five runs in the sixth inning with the help of Baltimore's errors in fielding and judgment. Three of the runs scored on a short single into center field by Mickey Mantle.

Jim Wilson of the Braves, a rookie winner his last time out, ran his string of hitless innings to 10 and scoreless innings to 24 before the Dodgers broke into the scoring column.

Jackie Robinson tied a modern National League record for long hits with his eighth double. Four doubles. Duke Snider hit a two-run homer for Milwaukee Hank Aaron, Eddie Mathews and Danny O'Connell hit home runs off Johnny Antonelli.

Roberts scored the winning run in the 11th inning at Philadelphia. He opened the 15th by walking, moved to second on a sacrifice, went to third on an infield grounder and scored on a single by Del Ennis. The Philadelphia right-hander didn't walk a man in the 15 innings. He struck out seven and runs came in the seventh when gave up 18 hits.

Argos Coach Charges Detroit Lions 'Tampering' With Signed Player

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Clair, coach of Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four, Thursday warned Detroit Lions of the National Football League they are looking for trouble if they try to sign Edmonton N. McCants, six-foot-nine former end of Washington State College, now playing with Argonauts.

Clair said McCants, fourth draft choice of the Lions, signed with Argos "more than 10 days ago" and indicated he wouldn't hesitate to grab one of the Lions' top stars already under contract if the NFL club "tampered" with McCants.

A few hours after Clair's announcement Nick Kerbawy, general manager of the Lions, claimed in Detroit that the 240-pound end signed with the Detroit club Wednesday.

DENIES CLAIM

Clair, commenting on Kerbawy's statement, said: "McCants is not the property of the Lions and never-their contract has no value. He signed more than 10 days ago with us and we expect him to uphold his contract which is in my office right now."

Earlier Clair told a luncheon of newspaper men, radio and television executives that he had heard the Lions were "tampering" with his new player. He said that although McCants was drafted in the NFL draft last February the player is under no obligation to sign with Detroit.

Clair said that the Big Four club would consider legal action against the Lions or other clubs attempting to obtain one of the Lions' top-flight players if they interfered with McCants.

TO HONOR CONTRACTS

The club's policy is to honor NFL player contracts, he said. But in the case of McCants he was not signed by Detroit when he accepted Argonaut terms and any "tampering" with him would lead to reconsideration of the policy.

Joe Wright, Argonauts' vice-president, declared that two Canadian football officials met with Bert Bell, NFL commissioner, in Philadelphia Monday in order to discuss the possibility of reaching agreement on honoring player contracts.

The Canadians were Syd Halter of Winnipeg, Western Interprovincial Football Union commissioner, and Roy Robertson of Montreal, president of the Big Four League.

Wright said he did not know the result of the conference.

CONFIRMS MEETING

In Montreal, Robertson confirmed that a meeting took place.

He said that ideas were discussed but no agreement between player contracts, but added "there is nothing on paper yet, and there won't be for a while."

Robertson said, "as far as I'm concerned, there was no need for an agreement, because either the players' contracts are good or they're not."

Referring to Frank Clair's statement last Thursday, Robertson said "it is not the duty nor the prerogative of any club to make such a statement. Coaches don't run the club; that's the job of the executive."

McCants is the second player the Argonauts have signed that has led to a disagreement with a NFL club. Earlier, George Marshall, owner of Washington Redskins, criticized Clair for signing end Herbert Hecker, property the Redskins had obtained in a trade with Los Angeles Rams. Hecker objected to the trade and agreed to play with Argos.

Clair said Thursday Hecker was signed because he didn't want to play for Washington. Argonauts considered him a free agent when he was traded.

Remember When

A defence force of RAF fighter planes hovered above the track as Mrs. Macdonald Buchanan's colt Owen Tudor won the war-time England Derby, transferred to Newmarket from Epsom Downs, 13 years ago today. A crowd of 50,000 saw jockey W. Nevett bring the 25-1 starter home first in a driving finish.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Director of the Brooklyn Dodgers Baseball School

Why should a fielder race to the place where he expects the ball to come down instead of trotting over so that he'll get there at the same time the ball does? If you've ever been at a big-league park before a game and watched fellows like Joe DiMaggio, Duke Snider, Stan Musial and Jim Piersall toss a few blades of grass or some dust in the air to determine the direction of the wind, you'll know why. Sometimes the wind shifts or increases or decreases in velocity and makes a fielder misjudge the flight of the ball. If he has raced to get under the ball, he may still have time to change direction and get under it for the catch. Being set also gives him time to get into the best position to throw after making the catch, too.

Fans wondered how Lou Gehrig could charge up to the fence at full speed to catch a foul fly without injuring himself. It wasn't an accident. Whenever he played in a strange park, he would measure the number of strides from first base to the foul line. Thus he would know approximately how far he could go to make a catch without crashing into the fence. The stars don't guess. They study and plan—and planning gets results.

In The Dressing Rooms

NEW YORK (AP)—Rocky Marciano, still the undefeated heavyweight champion of the world, calls Ezzard Charles "the most courageous fighter I ever met."

Rocky had a one-inch cut over his left eye, and a mouse beneath it, but he sat in his dressing room Thursday night chewing on an ice-pack and grinning for all the world in his dressing room. "In fact, I don't think he beat me, I think I won the fight."

"He's strong and throws a lot of punches," the beaten heavyweight challenger added. "But he didn't rip me as tough a fight as Marciano (former heavyweight champion Joe Walcott) did in fact. I've had tougher fights with Walcott were tougher. He didn't hurt me near as much as Walcott did."

DOOR CLOSED

Although Charles insisted he wasn't hurt, the door to his dressing room was closed to reporters for 40 minutes after the fight.

"He can't talk," explained Tommy Tamas, Charles' co-manager, "Marciano hit him in the adam's apple and it did something to his vocal cords."

Charles shook his head in agreement, finally croaking, and nodding, managed to whisper:

"I'm done all right until he hit me in the throat. I think it was in the ninth round."

'Gave Me Helluva Fight'—Rocky 'Want Him Again', Snarls Charles

By MURRA TROKE

NEW YORK (AP)—"He gave me a helluva fight. He deserves a return bout. I'll be ready for it."

Thus spoke heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano following his thrilling come - from - behind 15-round decision over game, undaunted Ezzard Charles in the ancient ring at Yankee Stadium Thursday night.

"I want him again," snarled the battered, unfazed 32 - year - old Charles. "I'll fight him with, I think I came closer to knocking him out than he did me. The next time it will be different."

The lean Cincinnati Cobra, who failed for the second time in an attempt to become the first ex-champion to regain the prized heavyweight crown, may get his chance in September.

ESTIMATED TO IT

"Charles is entitled to the return," said Al Weill, manager of the all - conquering Brockton bruiser. "It was a great show and a great fight. If Rocky's not entirely out doing it say a September fight with Charles in New York is a great possibility.

"If not Charles, maybe that Englishman Joe Erskine—or may be the winner of the Hurricane Jackson-Nino Valdes fight they meet in London's Harringay Arena July 14) if they put on an exciting show. Say, wasn't that a great scrap!"

It was that, and more. Practically every one of the 47,375 paying customers who contributed to a gate gate of $443,000 left the ballpark raving about the slam-bang brawl, one of the outstanding heavyweight battles in history.

MAYBE TOUGHER

"It was as tough as my first fight with (Jersey Joe) Walcott, maybe tougher," said the 29-year-old unbeaten Marciano, who went 15 rounds for the first time in his career, for only the sixth time Rocky had to win by votes of the officials and one of the few in which he failed to floor his opponent. He swept his other 40 by knockouts.

For four rounds it was all Charles as the 185¼-pound ex-champion boxed beautifully. Then the 187½-pound Rocky, bleeding profusely from an inch-and-a-quarter gash over his left eye, came on.

It was an outstanding show fs nancially, too. Rocky's purse, not counting his TV and radio take, will prove to be a bonanza, came to about $271,561. Charles collected approximately $137,980.

The gash over Rocky's left eyebrow, which the champion received 10 stitches by Dr. Vincent Nardiello, finally ended a nasty some old scar tissue in his powerful operation at St. Clare's Hospital. Charles required more treatment too for his swollen features.

Hogan, Snead Second Fiddles In U.S. Open

SPRINGFIELD, N. J. (AP)—Whoever said an tournament golf needed some new faces didn't reckon with the squarish, smiling face of William J. Patton—who prefers to be called Billy Joe—or those of Bob Toski, Gene Littler or Al Mengert.

These four, hardly more than numbers on the program to most of the huge opening day crowd at Baltusrol, were right up at the top of the leaderboard in the National Open golf championship went into its second day. The faces that drew the cheers—Ben Hogan and Sam Snead—had to be content with more or less secondary roles.

Patton, the 23-year-old Morganton, N.C., lumberjack who probably has more fun out of golf than any other tournament player, headed into the big second day's tense tournament when he fired an opening round of 32-37—69 Thursday.

ONLY FAR BEATEN

That was the only time tough old Baltusrol's tournament par of 36-36—72 was beaten Thursday and Billy Joe had the time of his life while he was the sole center of attention his way around the 7,027-yard lower course.

There actually a duplication of Patton's performance in the Masters last April, with a field geared the daylights out of the top pros and delighted the crowds with his care-free attitude and his tremendous wallops.

One stroke behind Patton came Littler, the 1953 amateur champion who won't be 24—next month—in win money in PGA tournaments until July. Toski, 28, the leading money winner of the pro circuit; the 34-year-old Ted Kroll, No. 4 on the money list.

Defending champion Hogan and Ed Furgol, an experienced tournament player, were tied at 71 with 23-year-old Mengert, a pro less than two years.

Snead, still suffering from a painful stiff neck and hitting some of his long shots badly, wound up in the 72 bracket with a flock of others including former championa, Lew Worsham, Lloyd Mangrum and Cary Middlecoff.

PAKISTAN RECOVERS

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — Determined battling by Wazar Hassan carried Pakistan to partial recovery Thursday after three wickets had fallen for 64 in the second day of a three-day cricket match against Scotland. At the close the Pakistanis, with five wickets, were still 714 behind Scotland's first-innings total of 353 for seven declared.

TIED FOR FIRST

MONTREAL (CP) — The Royal Hamilton Yacht Club and the Royal Naval Sailing Association tied for first place at the end of sailing Thursday in the Royal regatta at nearby Pointe Claire, as poor showings by Maritime crews left Saint John and Halifax entries floating far behind.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marlon Brando says he is doing another film role because of a favor to his dying mother.

The actor has reported to 20th Century-Fox to portray the young Napoleon in the film version of the best seller "Désirée." He has returned in glory to the studio where his name was mud only a few months ago.

When he failed to report for shooting of "The Egyptian" the studio replaced him with Edmund Purdom. Then it sued Brando for $2,000,000. The suit was cancelled when Brando agreed to appear in "Desiree" opposite Jean Simmons.

AGREED TO "DESIREE"

Brando explained:

"My mother was very ill when the whole thing happened. She was very upset by the lawsuits and urging at me after I left the picture. She made me promise to patch up the trouble. So I agreed to do 'Desiree.'

"She's dead now. But the deal is still on."

He gave no indication that he is any happier with his current role than he was with "The Egyptian." I talked to him as two make-up women were fitting a wig on his head. He gazed placidly in the mirror as they curled the phony locks into a replica of Napoleon's hair. He was pleasant and affable and talked about a variety of subjects with the usual Brando frankness.

HE DISLIKES TV

While making "The Wild One," he had told me he planned to work in only one more picture. This could be it.

"I'd like to do a play," he remarked. "Maybe I'll direct one. I've always wanted to see what it's like on the other end of the stick. After that, I don't know what I'll do."

Is he interested in television?

"Nah! Are you?"

I asked him about his treatment of Napoleon, whom he much resembled in the wig. He wore a Napoleonic vest over his inevitable T-shirt—but all the buttons were buttoned.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — No day need be unproductive. It is how we manage our affairs and allocate tasks that count for or against us. Disposition, understanding important aids.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — As with everyone else today, patience and carefulness are stressed. There may be a tendency to irritability. Blessup it and don't encourage recklessness or inattention. Familiar tasks, your own affairs need thought.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Although restricting in some ways, as for all of us now, your Mercury is not in unfavorable aspect. You could do much with study, teaching, analyzing, research. Be consistent.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — A sort of a busy things in line day. Proceed quietly but not with anxiety. A time for much reasoning. Better to finish things waiting attention than to start new undertakings if not urgent.

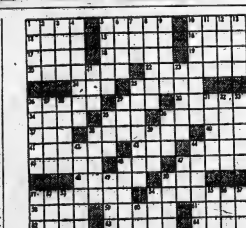
July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — No inauspicious Sun vibrations today but other aspects stress the need for soundly-paced action without wasteful haste. No thoughtless management. Your occupation, other familiar duties can run smoothly.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Save but don't skimp. Your natural resourcefulness and knack for knowing things pleasant generally are helpful aids — especially now. Haste can trip; moderation urged.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Amend if you should; don't have qualms about saying you "that's right." was wrong." You have an innately fine sense of judgment; use it for your own benefit—and that of others.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — This is a time for reasoning, pondering carefully upon the good in men and how best to bring it out. In strife we pull together. Why not in times of plenty and peace?

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — It isn't for those who "feel" like it to criticize, but for the thinker. And he will hesitate. Be of good cheer and help another in a difficult situation. You will find contentment.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Answer only after thoughtful deliberation; act only after careful study. Ascertain all facts. Guesswork leads to error. Be cheerful.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Doing things well is not to be confused with overdoing or straining. Discuss your ideas, suggestions with your loved ones. Enjoy the outdoors.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Generously can be foolish, too. Show your good judgment in all ways. Be reasonable in viewpoint and study the opinions of others. Look hopefully ahead and you will work better.

You born today were born with the Sun was leaving Gemini, entering Cancer. The tranquillity of these Signs indicates mental capacity, keenness, strong intuition, perception above normal, qualities you can be extremely useful to a disturbing point; control this. Aim high, strive daily to develop your best traits, curbing faults on the spot. Your success and happiness are intermingled. You are not happy if you are not achieving, yet you may day-dream more than actually work on bright ideas.

Sunday School Lesson:

Disaster Is Seldom Sudden

By ROY L. SMITH

It has been said, very wisely, that no man can anticipate the future who does not understand the past.

The little kingdom of Israel, described in the Old Testament, can teach this modern world a very valuable lesson. If we are not too smart to listen to the tale.

A SOPHISTICATED NATION

It had been launched as a state with high ideals, profound convictions, and brilliant possibilities. By a peculiar combination of circumstances for which it was in no way responsible, it became rich, and in the process it decided to be broad-minded.

Its powerful neighbors, whose commerce poured such golden treasure into its coffers, were utterly pagan. And the little Hebrew state, in order to keep business good, had argued, "What they believe is none of our business if they want to trade with us." And with a certain type of tolerance one can be genuinely sympathetic.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for June 27: "Judgment Comes to Israel," II Kings 17.

But Israel's tolerance became nothing better than superficiality. It was not that the people had convictions and allowed others to hold strongly to opinions quite contrary. Instead, the Hebrews surrendered their own ideals for the sake of encouraging trade. As a consequence, the ancient morals and manners of the nation deteriorated and something vital went out of the nation's life.

It was assumed that they were making progress because they were making changes. It was believed they were prospering because they were living sumptuously every day. It was taken for granted that they were wise because they made everything sound smart.

LAW IS INEXORABLE

In the meantime certain inexorable laws were working. Just as it is impossible to ignore the laws which operate in the chemist's laboratory, and just as it is also impossible to run counter to basic economic principles, so it is disastrous to defy the moral law. This was exactly what the little nation did, and what many a modern nation is doing.

WHEN THE BLOW FELL

It seemed like a terrible tragedy when the blow finally fell. The destruction of the nation's capital, in spite of an heroic defence which is an epic of courage, brought an end to an era which had at one time been hailed as "Israel's greatest day."

But it did not happen. There are no moral accidents in a moral world. The collapse of character—either national or individual — is a matter of long time development.

The defaulter who makes off with $100,000 of the bank's funds does not begin with six figures. Instead, he probably begins with 50-cent pieces.

The embezzler who takes $20,000 to make up the losses he sustained when he played the horses, probably began by placing a $2 bet with a bookie "just for the thrill of it." The girl who faces disgrace began toying with temptation long before she broke faith with all her training and convictions.

WE HAVE BEEN WARNED

And it can also be said that no man has ever fallen into the pit without having been warned of the danger he was inviting. The alcoholic saw scores of helpless addicts long before he ever took the first drink. The disgraced girl had heard about the tragic fate of her sisters for years before she took her fatal misstep. The nations which have wallowed in sin have heard the preaching of honest prophets, and perhaps jailed them for their honest words.

There is a great word of the Scripture which is still true: "Be sure your sins will find you out."

Billy Graham Ends His Two-Day Crusade

HELSINKI (Reuters) — Billy Graham wound up his two-day "crusade" in Finland Thursday night by drawing an estimated 30,000 persons into Helsinki's Olympic Stadium.

The American evangelist got nearly 2,000 listeners to stand up to signify that they wanted to repent their sins.

There was little doubt that Graham's visit had captured the interest of thousands of Finns, but there was no sign of widespread religious fervor sweeping the crowd. Many of the thousands who packed the oval-shaped stadium were obviously merely curious.

ANTI-RED REVOLT RAGES IN GUATEMALA

Lies Down on Road To 'Thumb' Ride, Run Over, Killed

Toronto Man, 22, Sought Aid After His Car Had Blowout

Unidentified Body of Man Taken from River

The Moira River claimed its second victim within a week here today when the body of an unidentified young man was pulled from the river off Dundas St.

There was no identification on the body which was dressed in blue jeans, checkered shirt and brown shoes. The man was about 28 years of age, five feet ten inches tall and weighed 165 lbs. He had light brown hair. Money and cigarettes were found in his pockets.

The body was discovered by Peter Prokopcuk, 47 Station St., and Alex. Prokopcuk, of Kingston, shortly after six o'clock. The current had moved the body to a shallow spot near the river bank where it was caught on a projection, preventing it from being washed downstream.

Just how the man got into the river is a question puzzling police officers. Lack of scratches or bruises on the body leads to the belief that he had not been swept down with the current for any great distance.

It thought that he fell off the river wall which is about 15 feet high at this point, where he was found.

The body was discovered opposite the end of Church Street on Station Street. Members of the fire department removed the body.

Identification of the man had not been made by press time, although dozens of persons called at the undertaking parlors.

Police said that an autopsy would be conducted to determine the cause of death.

Ask Rail Workers To Vote Solidly For Walkout

TORONTO (CP) — About 1,400 railway workers Friday night cheered two union leaders who pulled the rail strike vote in favor of a country-wide walkout.

Frank Hall, chairman of the committee of 14 non-operating unions bargaining with Canada's major railways, told a mass meeting that gains by union members have been won only through strong action or threatened strike action.

"It is now by fighting for our rights that we have been able to get anywhere," he said.

The meeting was one of a series being held across Canada to present union issues in the railways' dispute with their 135,000 clerks, craftsmen, maintenance and other non-operating workers.

"There is no alternative for any right thinking man or woman but to vote for the strike," Mr. Hall said.

Ambrose Massey, chairman of the Toronto joint action committee said the negotiations machinery "needs a strike vote to secure a satisfactory agreement and it is our duty to see that they get it."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The band of showers and thunderstorms which remained practically stationary across northern Ontario for the past few days shows signs of moving slowly eastward this morning and is now expected to reach southwestern Ontario by Sunday afternoon. In northern Ontario, sunshine accompanied by west of this band of weather will drop 16 to 18 degrees. Little change in temperature is expected in other regions.

FEDERAL SUPPORT FOR SASK. DAM URGED BY DREW-

Project Would Irrigate 500,000 Acres in Area

OTTAWA (CP) — Saskatchewan members have been joined by Opposition Leader Drew in urging federal support of a $125,000,000 project to dam the South Saskatchewan River for hydro-electric power and irrigation waters.

A Liberal back-bencher, two CCF members and Mr. Drew spoke in the Commons Friday night in favor of the project — a giant earth dam at Outlook, Sask., to irrigate 500,000 acres in the dry Palliser triangle and produce 500,000 horsepower of electricity.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, a consistent advocate of the project, had not spoken when the discussion started with the topic still under debate during consideration of his department's estimates.

TRY FOR APPROVAL

The Saskatchewan government has not yet succeeded in its long-standing attempts to obtain federal government approval of the project. Prime Minister St. Laurent said recently he remained convinced the project is in the national interest.

The government's position was set out earlier this month in a letter by Mr. Gardiner to Saskatchewan's Premier Douglas in which he said the government must be convinced a federal contribution will be in the national interest before it subsidizes in any way the provincial development of hydro power.

The letter asked that further discussions be held as soon as possible.

Premier Douglas has suggested the province's share of $75,000,000 and a federal share of $62,000,000. The province's contribution would include $17,860,000 as the estimated value of the dam for power purposes.

FEDERAL VIEW

Mr. Gardiner's letter said the federal view was that the hydro-electric division of costs would be on the basis of power sold which would eliminate any possibility of federal subsidy for power and guarantee that any additional costs would be shared.

In Friday night's debate, Mr. Drew said there should be no question of sectional or partisan division. Irrigation would reclaim rich land abandoned years ago through lack of water, he said.

Federal engineers of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration had concluded the project was practical. Either the government accepted the engineers' competent or it did not.

Diplomatic Row at Ottawa Turns Out in Force for Triple Wedding

OTTAWA (CP)—Diplomatic row has been astir for weeks and today turned out in force to see three dark-eyed sisters from the land of the Incas walk to the altar together.

The prime social event of Ottawa's summer, and its ripples expected to reach as far as the government, was the triple wedding of Dr. Eduardo Rey, the United States and German Fernandez-Concha, Peru's ambassador to Canada, and Mrs. Fernandez-Concha.

The apostolic delegate to Canada officiated. The prime minister, president Delgardo de Odria looked on. And one of the brides came down the aisle on the arm of a Canadian cabinet minister.

The last of a long round of social functions in honor of the three South American brides was given Friday night by speaker Whitaker Robertson of the Senate. He held open house at the senate building chambers in Parliament Hill's building.

Today in flower - decked St. George's Roman Catholic church, Msgr. G. B. Panico, the Pope's representative in Canada and an old family friend from Peru, pronounced the marriage vows over Maria Teresa, 22, Lucmila, 22, and Amparo, 21.

Victoria married Peter Bonnar, Ottawa lawyer, executive secretary of the Inter-American Association, who plans to go into public relations.

Luzmila's groom was Dr. Roque Belido-Tagle of Lima, Peru, an eye specialist.

Amparo was married to Angel Cavarello of Caracas, a Venezuelan cocoa planter.

As the brides walked up the aisle, the church was crowded with more than 500 guests from Peru, Mexico, Rio, the United States and many parts of Canada. There were diplomats in their wives and party from Ottawa society.

The girls wore identical gowns of ivory satin. Their bouquets carried bouquets of white roses. Their bridesmaids, three to each couple, were mauve, yellow and blue.

Victoria was on the arm of her father. Luzmila was escorted by Senator Sydney C. Gland, honorary consul of Peru in Halifax. Hon. Ralph Campney, associate minister of defence, was Amparo's escort.

After the ceremony the guests congregated at the new-studded lawn of the Peruvian embassy for a reception featuring champagne and a five-layer wedding cake weighing 120 pounds.

The three couples left on their honeymoons soon after the reception. Yesterday Victoria wore a brown tailored suit with honeycolored accessories. Both Luzmila and Amparo wore grey suits with pink accessories.

Parliament Blazed No Major Legislative Trails in Session

BY ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament worked long and hard but blazed no major legislative trails during the current session. Observers view the first session of Canada's 22nd Parliament as comparatively dull and lacking in either political fireworks or surprises.

In more than seven months—the session began last May 12—probably the chief accomplishments were three pieces of legislation, all of which required prolonged study. They were completion of a two-year job of redrafting the massive Criminal Code, the decennial revision of Canada's banking laws and a rewriting of the national housing legislation.

The few fireworks involved such proposals as a one-cent-an-ounce increase in postal rates, boosts in parliamentary pay and drawn-out debates on unemployment, wheat-marketing and immigration policy.

More than 6,000,000 words have been spoken during the session in a few days still to go. If the session lasts until Thursday it will set a modern record of 137 sitting days, exceeding by one the wartime top mark of 136 days.

ISSUES UNDECIDED

The streamlined Criminal Code will come into force on July 1. And despite detailed study certain issues still are undecided including those of non-confidence in the government. Both motions were defeated.

COMMUNIST RECOGNITION

Another issue undecided—recognition of the Communist Chinese government was the main theme of a Tuesday debate on foreign affairs policy. Progressive Conservatives expressed fears that government policy might lead to recognition, while they said it would be a supplanter of aggression. Prime Minister St. Laurent said he was opposed to admitting the Chinese Reds and the question would not be considered unless conditions changed.

Bedell Smith Leaves Geneva Parley Sunday

GENEVA (AP)—U.S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith is leaving the Geneva conference and flying back to Washington Sunday, informed quarters reported today.

British foreign secretary Anthony Eden also is expected to leave for London either this week-end or early next week.

Both will leave deputies in Geneva to carry on the Indo-China peace talks. The French had hoped the top men of the American and British diplomats would remain at least a few more days until the new French premier, Pierre Mendes-France, had a chance to confer with them.

HOLD LATE TALKS

Eden and Smith conferred briefly this morning. Later Eden was to have had a meeting and Smith talked with the foreign minister of Viet Nam, Nguyen Quoc Dinh.

The two western leaders planned to attend the three-power secret session of the nine-party Indo-China conference, which will make an effort to see what, if anything, the Communists and West have in common on the proposals for peace in Laos and Cambodia.

The Communist conference participants planned to examine various proposals already submitted for the Laotian, Cambodian and Red Chinese diplomats.

ASIANS MEET

Meanwhile, representatives of Red Chinese Premier Chou-en-lai, Vietminh, Viet Nam, Laos, and Cambodia scheduled meetings together today to continue their effort at settling the conflict in Indo-China peacefully.

Laos and Cambodia contend they have been invaded by foreign troops of Ho Chi Minh and call for their immediate withdrawal.

Chou En-lai declared earlier this week that "foreign troops" should leave the two small kingdoms. But both Chou and Vietminh foreign minister Pham Van Dong made clear Friday that this meant they wanted French troops to get out—55 fiscal year, were less than one per cent of the national tax bill. Reductions were centred mainly on excise and sales taxes.

Mr. Abbott has said he will leave the finance portfolio before budget time next year. It is speculated that he will become justice minister.

QUEBEC HASSLE

In the session budget debate, opposition members criticized the size of the reductions but most of the speeches dealt with the announcement that the government would not yield to Quebec's request for full deduction from personal income tax payments of the province's new 15-per-cent income tax.

One measure, adopted after extended debate, raised parliamentary pay to $10,000 from $6,000 by doubling the $4,000 taxable indemnity, which is paid on top of a $2,000 expense allowance. Progressive Conservatives opposed the boost on the grounds it should remain $6,000. Opposition CCF members took a variety of positions—that the Senate should be left out of any increase, that there should be no increase or a partial increase. It supported the final measure.

Mounting unemployment during the winter months touched off a six-day debate in which 53 members spoke. It ended in defeat motions of non-confidence in the government. Both motions were defeated.

W.S. Gemmell, Lands, Dies Suddenly

NORTH BAY (CP)—Hon. Welland S. Gemmell, for two years Ontario's Minister of Lands and Forests, died here Friday of a heart attack. He was 43.

Mr. Gemmell collapsed in his hotel room shortly after addressing a Canadian Institute of Forestry regional meeting and died before a doctor arrived.

The body was taken later in the day to Sudbury, where funeral services will be held Monday. Rev. James A. Terry will conduct the service at St. Andrew's United Church. Burial will be at Park Lawn cemetery.

Mr. Gemmell was to fly shortly before he was scheduled to make a trip to Trout lake three miles from North Bay to meet the chief ranger headquarters, brought in to supervise fighting of forest trial leaders throughout the province.

Premier Frost said he was "inexpressibly shocked and saddened" by the news. "He died in the course of duty and in action in the forefront of activity while going ahead with his task."

IN POOR HEALTH

The minister had been in poor health for several months.

Mr. Gemmell was a general practitioner in Sudbury and Capreol, Whitefish, his birthplace 20 miles from Sudbury, was the scene of his first political experience as a township reeve before the Sudbury district, valley sough a Conservative seat in the general election of 1945 and won election in 1948. After legislature as Progressive Conservative member for Sudbury East. He was re-elected in 1951.

His familiarity with the problems of the sprawling northern district helped fit him for appointment as minister of lands in 1949. After a successful handling of the mines portfolio, he became lands and forests minister in June, 1952, and at that time Premier Frost described him as a man familiar with the north country and its important lumbering industry.

Surviving Mr. Gemmell, besides his widow, the former Freda Alexander of Thorndale, are three daughters, Elizabeth Ann and Susan Marjorie.

EISENHOWER WANTS TO TALK TO FRENCH HEADS

Letter to Coty Seen As Reassuring Move

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Top-level French-U.S. talks on Indo-China, European defence, and other issues of mutual interest appeared possible today as a follow-up to the Eisenhower - Churchill meeting ended here next week.

This prospect was brought out Friday in a letter from President Eisenhower to French president Rene Coty and made public by the White House.

Eisenhower, telling he would be meeting informally with Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden in Washington June 25, told Coty that he looked forward "to resuming with the government of France such intimate conversations as I have had in Paris."

The letter was regarded by diplomats as a gesture of friendship and reassurance by the U.S. leader in advance of a visit which Premier Laniel will not participate, and at a time when the government of France has changed hands with the arrival of a new premier, Pierre Mendes-France. Both the U.S. officials have in the past been critical.

The Eisenhower message was considerably more than an action of friendship, however, because it carefully constructed language it warned the French that so far as the United States is concerned time is running out for ratification of the proposed European Defence Community. The EDC is a U.S.-supported plan for a European defence pact in which Germany would take part.

WANT UNITED DEFENCE

The message advised the French government, meanwhile, that while the United States remains deeply interested in forming a "united defence" against Communist forces in Indo-China, it is reserving the right to judge what might be done under any future decision.

"In Indo-China our nation has long shown its deep concern by heavy financial and material aid which the President" Eisenhower wrote. "The proposals for a united defence which we submitted to M. Laniel (the previous French premier) represented on our part a determined effort to find a common and equitable decision.

"Nothing has happened here to change the attitude expressed over even though the lapse of time and the events which have come to pass have, of course, created a new situation. But I assure you that we shall be ready in the same spirit to open new discussions at any time the French government may deem it opportune."

Eisenhower said he wanted to assure Coty that a package of support concerning which the U.S. gave Laniel April 16 still stands "and will continue available" to Mendes-France.

Mendes-France Forms Cabinet

PARIS (Reuters)—The new French premier, Mendes - France, today announced he has formed his cabinet with himself as foreign minister.

Gaullist Gen. Pierre Koenig was appointed defence minister, and Radical Francois Mitterand minister of the interior.

Defence Officials in Canada Favor Nuclear Weapons in Event of War

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's defence officials favor — out of necessity — use of nuclear weapons in event of war.

"If there were a war, we'd be using our hands behind our backs if we wouldn't use nuclear weapons," one high official said.

"The atomic and hydrogen bombs are the one real threat or weapon we have. Without them it would be awfully hard to beat them (the Russians)." By using them we would be the Western nations as a whole because, as far as is known, Canada possesses no nuclear weapons.

Canada's defence chiefs don't hold any false hopes that the Soviet Union, Canada and rest of Europe could beat Russia on the ground. NATO forces are considered the barest minimum to hold off a Russian attack long enough for the U.S. Air Force and RAF to swing into action with nuclear weapons and destroy Russia's ability to wage war.

"We may not win the land battle but certainly not to lose it," one authority said. "We must, of course, win the air battle."

Fierce Battles in Progress In Four Important Centres

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Two airsights Guatemalan gasoperts were reported in the hands of invading anti-communist "liberation army" forces today.

By SAM SUMMERLIN
TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) Anti - Communist rebels battled government forces at key points throughout neighboring Guatemala today as a long-awaited attempt to unseat the leftist-inspired government of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman appeared in favored rebel shells.

The "liberation" troops, which attacked Guatemala by land, sea and air Friday, were reported locked in fierce battle with forces defending forces at four important cities. There also were reports of internal uprisings throughout the embattled country.

Guillermo Toriello, a Guatemalan delegate to the United Nations, announced in New York Friday night his government had protested to the Security Council against the "criminal invasion of my country."

Spokesman for Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, exiled Guatemalan leader of the invaders, claimed his fighting was in progress at two ports and two important inland air centers. They were:

CITY SAID CAPTURED

Puerto Barrios, Guatemala's big east coast fruit shipping port, the New York, the National Broadcasting Co. said in Tegucigalpa correspondent reported Friday night Puerto Barrios has fallen to the rebels.

San Jose, a naval-air base and commercial port on the Pacific coast. This city is a site of a large gasoline storage depot.

Retalhuleu, a city near the Mexican border which is the junction of rail lines from the port of Camperico and another running south from Mexico.

Zacapa, a rail centre near the Honduras border 75 miles northeast of Guatemala City, the country's capital.

The spokesman said all four centres and Guatemala City had been bombed by planes before the invading troops hit. Capture of the four cities would cut virtually all the republic's communications.

The state department in Washington had received similar reports of serious uprisings in Puerto Barrios, Zacapa and Quezaltenago, 100 miles west of Guatemala City.

The rebel invading force numbers a reported 5,000 men. The Guatemalan army is about 6,000 strong, but many of its officers are believed disgruntled by the leftist trend of the government. The U.S. officials have announced that the Arbenz regime was creating a "people's militia" army with short range of the Panama canal.

First word of the fighting was announced in a brief spoken-men-after several days of open mobilization of troops and militia troops throughout Honduras.

In Guatemala, foreign minister Guillermo Toriello held a press conference "the battle for Guatemala" in progress. The only fighting he reported, however, was the bombing of San Jose. He said the planes were of unidentified nationality.

Toriello accused Nicaragua of supporting the rebel forces which, he said, included nationals of Cuba, Honduras, Nicaragua and other Central American nationalities, as well as Guatemalan exiles.

Nickel Is Going To Be Made Out Of Nickel Again

OTTAWA (CP)—The nickel is going to be made out of nickel again.

A proclamation in the Canada Gazette said Friday the mint will start issuing five-cent coins made of nickel Jan. 1, 1955.

Nickel is nothing new in the nickel. But five-cent pieces have been minted from steel for the last three years to conserve nickel for defence purposes.

The proclamation said the supply of nickel for coinage purposes now is adequate.

The design will remain the same.

Eastern Canada Wants Minister Of Agriculture

OTTAWA (CP) — An eastern farmer said Friday night that Canada has had a minister of agriculture from western Canada for too long.

L. Elzion Cardin (PC—Huron) made the statement in the Commons shortly before the house approved a $17,000,000 subsidy to assist the movement of western feed grains to eastern Canada.

He did not name Agriculture Minister Gardiner, who has held the agricultural portfolio in the cabinet since Nov. 4, 1935. However, he made the point that the minister after a brief clash between the two on the cost to eastern farmers for western feed grain.

Mr. Cardiff said there is too great a spread between what the eastern farmer receives for his grain and the amount paid by the eastern farmer.

RATE PARLEY

Mr. Gardiner said the government pays part of the freight bill on the movement of grain east after it has been sold to eastern dealers and the Canadian wheat board. However, the government is not concerned over the grain after it was delivered to dealers.

The dealers ground the grain, mixed it with other feeds and packed it in fancy bags for sale to farmers. That type of handling undoubtedly would increase the cost of feed to farmers who wanted to buy it in bulk, he said he did not understand why farmers did not buy in bulk.

Mr. Cardiff said the minister was not giving the whole story. There was too much spread and Mr. Gardiner was at least partly responsible.

Many Oldtimers Return to Attend Deaf Convention

The current convention of the Ontario Association of the Deaf here has meant a homecoming for many of the delegates, graduates of the School for the Deaf here. Some of the oldest among them include several whose memories of Belleville and district go back before the beginning of the century.

Mr. Noah Labelle, 77, and his wife, came down from Fort Qu' Appelle, Sask., for the convention. Both he and his wife entered the O.S.D. in 1885 and went west in 1900 where he set up a harness-making shop. Now retired after 40 years in business, Labelles have one son and two daughters, now married. All of the children were born with normal hearing.

Mr. David Sours, at 85, perhaps the oldest of them all, entered the school in 1878, six years after its initial opening. Now retired and living in Toronto, he was employed for 39 years by a knitting mill in Clinton, Ont.

Mr. John W. Smaldon, 75, entered O.S.D. in 1885. Married in 1900 he bred a family of two sons and two daughters, all born with normal hearing.

From Vancouver for the convention came Miss Ada James, 84-year-old graduate of the O.S.D., who remained with the school for 32 years as a teacher. She retired in 1931.

Mr. Frank Harris, Toronto, now retired at 72, from Ryerson Press, Toronto, when he started 50 years, was one of the leaders in a successful drive to build a $70,000 addition to the school for the deaf, in Toronto.

Incidentally, the male oldtimers used to play on a championship soccer team in the Belleville district annually around the late nineties.

Ontario Association of Deaf Opens Biennial Convention At OSD With 300 Attending

The 31st biennial convention of the Ontario Association of the Deaf got under way here yesterday with some 300 delegates from the U.S. and Canada filling the auditorium of the Deaf for the opening ceremonies.

This is the second time in 18 years that the school has been host to an OAD convention, and for most of the delegates last night was a home-coming, since most of them are graduates of the school. Chairman of the local convention committee for the four-day convention is W. B. Bell, of Oshawa, while president of the Association is David Pelkoff, M.A., Toronto, who has had full office conduct unouly for 18 years.

Recent changes in the school and plans for additional construction and equipment to the present units formed the major part of the main address at last night's session, by superintendent of the school, Joseph G. Demeza.

Major requirements of the school at present are new buildings to house the boys' vocational shops and additional classroom and dormitory space.

One of the barriers to this construction program is the need for a new heating unit before the additions can be undertaken, he said, to be carried out, Mr. Demeza told the delegates.

However, the recent provincial budget, as given to the press, made provision for this unit, he said.

ENROLMENT AT PEAK

This year enrolment of new pupils in the school reached an all-time high of 60 pupils, he stated, in order to offset the lack of space, the school gradually has raised the admission age from four years to five years, Mr. Demeza said.

"This is necessary because the trend everywhere is to lower the age of admission and not to four years," Mr. Demeza said.

The additional classrooms will make possible the admission of younger children and also will smooth the way to improvement in school's curriculum into more varied subjects for the senior pupils.

He also brought the delegates up-to-date on the layout and equipment of the school.

Everywhere in the school, new equipment, or additional space, has been added, he said.

The main kitchen now is entirely electric, as also are the refrigeration units. Power machinery has been added to all the boys' vocational shops, including a second lathe, shaper, and automatic press and a trim saw in the print shop.

The girls' home economics room and beauty culture shop have been completely re-equipped, and a movie projector installed for auditorium and classroom use.

FEES ABOLISHED

"During the time that this has been done fees have been abolished and there are no costs to parents for tuition or board," he said.

Parents also continue to receive family allowances for their children are at the school.

Living conditions in residences are being gradually improved, Mr. Demeza said.

Recently the Junior Residence now have their own dining-room, and the residence, the furniture is being added, and four television sets have been purchased to add to the facilities in the area.

In this respect he expressed his appreciation to the people of the district for their interest in the school.

A few new group hearing aids are also being added to the classrooms each year, he said.

Plans for the future include new and better lighting in class rooms and dormitories and more furniture for the residence.

PREFER RESIDENTIAL SCHOOLS

In response, Robert E McBrien, president of the Canadian Association of the Deaf, reported that the Association still views with distrust expansion of day schools for the deaf in larger urban centres.

"It is our view that there is nothing to equal the residence school for the proper development of deaf children, morally, spiritually and educationally, due to useful citizens, able to stand on their own feet in this fiercely competitive world.

"We should like to see this school develop into a combined public and secondary school for the deaf in order to enable it at least keep pace with their normal brothers and sisters whose educational facilities are being tremendous expansion during the last two decades."

There is ample room for expansion in the school, he claimed, and if educational authorities would realize the economic value of the deaf they might replace the present "somewhat outmoded" trades training facilities in the school.

Mr. McBrien reported that graduates of Junior Colleges in Ontario now can obtain the equivalent of a third-year university degree by entering industrial engineering courses with some of the larger industries.

"We are anxious to see at least some of the exceptional deaf students meet the entrance requirements of these institutions in due time."

SCHOLARSHIP FUND

The Association has a scholarship fund of over $2,000, released through contributions from regional associations of the deaf and some private donations.

The scholarship, open to the deaf of all the provinces, pays up to $800 a year for four years to a maximum of three students per year. To date six students have been awarded the scholarship.

Mr. McBrien cited what he called the "strange anomaly" that, while the deaf are tax payers, contributing to the education of the hearing who have, many scholarships of their own, deaf students must depend on their associations for assistance.

He also noted the "twin elements of prejudice and misunderstanding which confront the deaf going out into the world," and reported the publicity campaign waged by the OAD was arousing thinking in government departments.

"The Associations of the Deaf have a part to play in educating people regarding the deaf. With fine relations existing between the Ontario Association of the Deaf and the Ontario Schools, it seem that the time is opportune for both to work together for the development of the deaf and plan effectively for the future. With goodwill and cooperation and a united effort, the two organizations can achieve great results," he concluded.

HOME FOR AGED REPORT

Practicability of building a home for the aged deaf in the province of Ontario was reported to the convention by Mrs. Ross Rosnick, Toronto, vice-president of the association.

Mrs. Rosnick informed the session since no figures were available on the number of people in need of such homes it would not be feasible yet to open negotiations for financial aid, necessary for the project. The immediate problem would be to place all infirm and aged deaf in one centrally located home for the aged.

He reported he had been informed that the Provincial Metropolitan Council is planning a home for the aged and he suggested the Association prepare the council for a special wing in the home.

WELCOME EXTENDED

The delegates were welcomed on behalf of the city of Belleville, and Sidney township, by Mayor J. Both and Reeve H. Morrow, respectively.

Mayor Both praised the delegates as a body of people who have set aside their handicap and made a place in the world, becoming self-sustaining citizens.

Reeve Morrow said the citizens of Sidney township were proud of the great objects for which the association strive and the practical results it achieved.

Throughout the session, Rev. W. A. Eldridge, chaplain to the deaf of the province, acted as both oral and sign interpreter.

Earlier in the day a golf tourney was held at the Quinte Golf and Country Club with 12 of the delegates taking part.

Yemen Arabs Attack Village In Protectorate

ADEN (Reuters)—A force of 100 to 150 men from the Yemen attacked a village in this British protectorate Friday and was repulsed only after day-long fighting, it was announced today.

Four of the attackers were killed and many left the area, announcement said.

The Yemeni force, which allegedly included an unspecified number of regular troops, crossed the border near Asaoua and attacked the village of Martaa in the Audhali sultanate.

The Yemen strongly opposes a British-sponsored plan for a federation of the shiekdoms comprising the protectorate, and claims that it is being forced on the shiekhs against their will.

Jap Carrier Found With Planes Intact

SYDNEY (Reuters) — A diver found a sunken Japanese aircraft carrier with about 20 planes still intact on her deck 30 feet below the surface of Rabaul harbor, New Britain, today, according to a report received here.

The diver, J. Johnstone, said the carrier, a ship of about 12,000 tons, had apparently been bombed or torpedoed.

"The planes appear to be in quite good condition," he added.

Short Berry Crop Predicted By Farmers

An exceptionally short berry crop is predicted by farmers at the local produce market today with many vendors claiming only a few boxes of strawberries in their patches.

Late spring frosts which nipped the blossoms and lack of rain following the blossom period was given as the cause for the poor crop.

Berry prices generally were 40 cents per box although a few vendors kebbed their offerings at two boxes by 75c.

Otherwise market prices remained about the same with eggs quoted at 45c for firsts and 43c for medums. Pullet eggs brought 35c per dozen.

Roasting fowl brought 35c per lb. with hens ranging down to 25c per lb.

Potatoes sold at $1 per bushel, rhubarb, onions and lettuce brought a dime with radishes selling at two bunches for 15c. Asparagus was two bunches for 25c.

No Opposition To Government In Ankara

By GERALD LONG

ANKARA (Reuters)—The virtual elimination of parliamentary opposition in the general party government of Prime Minister Adnan Menderes in the recent general election is causing concern among political observers here.

The National Assembly is composed of 503 Democrat, 31 members of the Republican People's Party, five members of the right-wing Republican National party and two independents. The small Peasant party did not obtain representation.

One Turkish political comments on observed after the election: "In eight years of democracy, we have virtually voted ourselves back to the single party system."

This result is due largely to the nature of the Turkish electoral system. Turkey has a population of 21,000,000. There are 16,258,542 registered voters, but only 64 constituencies, each corresponding to the old provincial (Vilayet) and Turkish administrative division.

Voting is largely according to party lists in each department. This means that a difference of a relively few votes can decide the fate of a large number of seats.

The Democratic party, Istanbul, returns 29 deputies, Ankara 21, and Izmir 16.

FAVORS LEADERS

The great advantage this system gave the winning party was seen in 1950, the first election held since the Republican government introduced electoral law which has served them so badly in two elections.

Then, the Democrats polled about 4,500,000 votes and won 418 seats, while the Republicans, with some 3,300,000 votes, won only 69 seats.

The number of deputies since has been raised from 487 to 541 under the electoral law which provides for one deputy for every 40,000 people. Turkey's present representa s rise in the census figures since 1950.

Unofficial estimates of the popular vote in the May 2 election put the Republican vote at about 37 per cent of the 8,000,000 votes cast. The Republicans themselves claim 40 per cent, or 3,200,000 against 4,400,000 for the Democrats. If Turkey had a proportional representation system, this would have given the Republicans about 209 seats.

Govt. Opens Fiscal Year With $29,600,000 Surplus

OTTAWA (CP) — The government opened the 1954-55 fiscal year with a surplus trimmed to $29,600,000 in its April treasury accounts.

This was just a little better than one-third of the $79,400,000 surplus in April last year, reflecting rising expenditures and declining revenues.

April's revenues dropped to $363,431,000, against $23,353,000 from $368,774,000 last year, the monthly surplus declining from $79,400,000. Personal and corporation income tax collections declined, along with there are no import excise duties and the sales tax.

Expenditures, however, rose by $26,415,000 to $215,783,000 from $189,348,000. Spending was higher in most categories, with the large changes on the national debt, family allowances and veterans affairs and other departments.

AIMS AT SURPLUS

The government is aiming at a surplus of $4,000,000 for the full fiscal year on revenue estimated at $4,066,000,000 and expenditure forecast at $4,460,000,000.

In April, collections on personal income taxes dropped to $89,733,000 from $95,260,000 last year; corporation income tax declined to $63,149,000 from $75,184,000; import duties to $26,177,000 from $28,459,000; excise duties to $13,354,000 from $17,237,000; sales tax to $31,818,000 from $23,347,000.

Postal revenue increased to $9,500,000 from $9,000,000.

Biggest boost in spending was on defence which rose to $79,409,000 from $64,485,000.

Art Clubs Hold Fine Exhibition Of Oil Paintings

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford Art Club and the Warkworth Art Club held an exhibition of oil paintings in the gymnasium of the Campbellford high school this week.

The response of the public in attending the first showing of the clubs was gratifying to the artists with continuous large groups of viewers present during the exhibition.

TRIBUTE TO TEACHER

The work displayed was a tribute to the teacher, Mr. Paavo Airola, and, although the Warkworth Art Club was formed only a year ago, and the Campbellford club only last January, the painting showed a great deal of artistic talent and ability, and individual technique. The knowledge of color which Mr. Airola has passed on to his pupils was evident in their work, and the exhibition was a credit to the two communities taking part.

Paavo Airola came to Canada from Europe two years ago, and after a time in Toronto, decided to settle in the Warkworth area, the village of Castleton, where he could pursue his interest in art in the peaceful rural atmosphere. He is well known in the Canadian art circles, as the present president of the Art and Color Form Society in the Hart House of Toronto.

Several of his paintings hang in Hart House today. He has also exhibited in Sweden, London, England, and Montreal. His exhibition is making the most of the opportunity of acquiring some of his knowledge of art, as evidenced by the excellent exhibition of his teachings.

Over 100 paintings were on display during the exhibition.

Wren Declares Minority Report Coming on Roads

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP) — Albert Wren brought with the Ontario highways investigation committee of the Ontario legislature Friday and the Liberal - Labor member for Kenora and government members tossed after-dinner barbs at each other over the committee's work.

Mr. Wren said at a luncheon in Rainy River that a minority report will be handed in by opposition members when the select committee finishes its work.

From Clare Mapledorum (PC—Fort William) came the retort: "What does he know about it? He hasn't been with us."

Neither Mr. Wren nor Opposition Leader Farquhar Oliver travelled the committee on fact-finding trips to Albany, N.Y., and northern Ontario.

REGRETS MINORITY REPORT

At Fort Frances Friday night, during the after-dinner speeches at a chamber of commerce banquet, C. C. Jones (PC—Lambton East) said he was "sorry" to hear that a minority report would be presented.

To this, Mr. Wren replied that neither he nor Miss Grace Hurst set out to embarrass any person or to make undue political hay . . . but we are primarily interested in seeing to it that the highways department administers its affairs in the best interests of the province.

A Lift for Living

Growing Strong

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

To add size without strength is not real growth. A boy may grow up so fast that he is not as strong as his tall body might lead us to expect. He has to refit a 6'11 his strength catches up with his size.

Further, bodies may add weight after they have stopped growing. That is a subject we think about at the table three times a day or why discuss it here? Suffice it to remind ourselves that growing up is more than merely getting big-ger.

Henry Hough, editor of the "Vineyard Gazette" of Edgartown, Mass., once pointed out that too many modern people think of things that are small as a newly the early and imperfect steps of things that should be bigger and better. They seem to think that being concerned with small things is a failure of ambition. He said: "I believe that a big world is not necessarily a grown-up world and that the values of life are not measured by any standard of size . . . I know of no vaccine of enterprise that can outweigh a single human heart."

In the jazz era of the 1920's someone remarked about the current Americana mood: "Whatever is small wants to be big, whoever is poor wants to be rich, whatever is slow waits to be fast, whatever is waits to be more so!" Yes, we did have a sort of addition complexes, a cult of size and speed.

We must still beware lest we mistake bigness for greatness. The Soviet Union has more people and also more land than the United States, but after seeing Russia I am confident that ours is the far stronger and greater nation.

We Americans pride ourselves in doing things in a big way. When we visit little countries like Holland or Denmark, we tend to look a bit condescendingly on their plots of ground and their methods of organization. But when we note what some of those European farmers produce on their small acreage, we wake up to the unrealized possibilities resident in our soil and to some aspects of our watchfulness in its use. As the earth becomes more crowded and the demands rise for higher standards of living, we must learn to cultivate small areas more intensively.

If we are to grow up into real strength we must regain our respect for the importance of little things and the cultivation of the local and the personal. A good mother intensively cultivates her children's lives. Whether she has one child or eight, each one is uniquely personal and infinitely precious.

A mother makes allowance for the peculiar temperament of Tom and studies how to strengthen the weak will of Jim. She gives herself to that little circle even though she may see other women of no more talent than hers spreading their influence across the pages of the press.

With our improved methods of work, mothers no longer need to consume their whole energy in household drudgery. And many a mother is able to exert wide influence in public life. But no substitute has yet been devised for personal mothering care.

And if our youth are to grow up and become strong in spirit, we must combine this principle of local cultivation with our large world outlook.

It was said of Robert Browning that one of his eyes was near-sighted and the other was far-sighted. When he wanted to see a distant object he opened one eye and closed the other. When he desired to see things close at hand, he reversed the eye movement. Thus, as someone said, the great poet "saw the long and the short of it."

We need Browning's bi-focal vision today. We must see the large outlook, for we have to live as world citizens. But we must also cultivate local loyalties.

We must develop personal godly attitudes. In our changing world, attitudes are more important than skills. The skills we learn today may be of little use ten years hence. The weapons we are now producing in such vast volume may be futile in rubble heaps after this spurt is over.

But attitudes are permanently effective. Training in character fits individuals and nations to handle any kind of power from the human fist to atomic fission.

TO RECOGNIZE A BROKEN BONE

How do you know when a bone has been broken?

In many cases, of course, this is quite obvious. But further injury has often been caused because it not been realized that there was a fracture. First of all, remember that if there is any doubt whatever, the injury should be treated as a fracture.

The general symptoms to watch for, says St. John Ambulance are:-

Pain at or near the place where the bone is broken and tenderness or discomfort when pressure is applied over the affected area.

There is often swelling around the fracture and this swelling frequently makes it difficult to discover other signs of the fracture. In this case, care must be taken not to treat the condition as a less serious injury.

There is usually limitation of natural movement so that the injured part cannot be used normally.

Deformity of a limb often occurs. The limb may assume an unnatural position and be misshapen. The contracting muscles may cause the broken bone to override, making the limb shorter.

CREPITATION

If the broken bone is near the skin, irregularity of the bone may be noticable.

Bony grating may be heard or felt.

There may be unnatural movement at the point of fracture.

(These last two signs should never be sought deliberately but they may be noted during examination.)

All these signs and symptoms may not be present and those which are may vary in degree. Other things that should be noted are marks on clothing or the skin which may help to indicate the fracture. The injured and uninjured sides should be compared to see if there is a difference and people present (or the patient himself) should be asked if they heard the snap of the bone.

For Parents Only

An Active Partner

By NANCY CLEAVER

A group of small boys were bragging about their fathers. Tom boasted his dad had a brand new car—and he got a new one every year. Jimmie claimed his father worked harder and made more money than the other fathers. Bill said his dad won first place in the golf tournament at his club the week before. But Bob silenced them all when he said, "My dad can catch fish—and sometimes he asks me to come!"

There is nothing a small boy appreciates more than his father taking time to do things with him. Giving him playthings or money or paying for a treat at the movies —none of these are substitutes for a father-and-son adventure. With his dad as companion, a boy gets a glimpse of a man's world which is as fascinating—and which he must enter some day.

MODERATE PACE

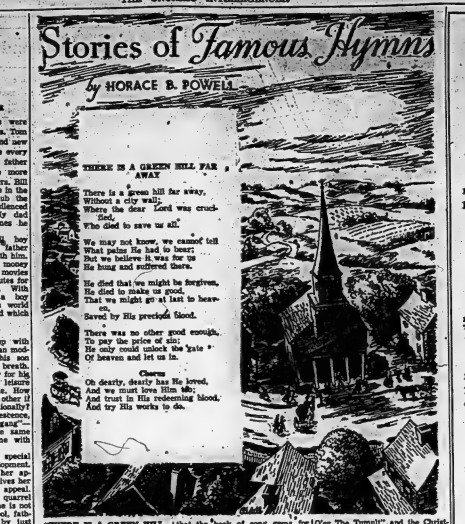
Small boys cannot keep up with grown men, but a father can moderate his pace so that the son isn't completely out of breath. It means so much to a boy for his dad to include him in his leisure time plans once in a while. How can they get to know each other if they are not alone occasionally? When a boy reaches adolescence, he will be "off with the gang"—Father will not have the same chance then to spend time with him.

A father plays a very special part in a boy's emotional development. His word of praise about her appearance will help a girl grow her confidence in her feminine appeal. When she is upset over a quarrel or a little hurt, or if she is not getting along well at school, father can usually help her by just listening to her tale of woe.

He is likely also to be more objective than a mother and he can encourage her to see that there are two sides to every story. A happy solution can usually be worked out for most childhood problems.

It is good for children, as they grow older, to know something about the way their father earns a living. If they have no opportunity to learn about his work, they are apt to take him very much for granted. It is partly his own fault if father becomes just "an animal to pay dividends."

MORE HELPFUL



A father can often influence his daughter in their attitude not only to his own job but to all work. If children need help—parents. If they lose a father by death of divorce they are apt to be bitter. But it is quite possible for them to lose touch with a father if he is indifferent to them, if he is too preoccupied with making money or if he is away from home a great deal of the time.

The children who are not adjusted and unhappy come from homes where father and mother have not given them loving understanding and guidance. The mother has the major responsibility for the children's upbringing, but the father provides necessary balance.

In a family where parents work and plan and play together with their children, boys and girls are prepared for adulthood when they will have homes of their own. In building a home is a co-operative enterprise. Dad, are you an active partner in your household?

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

"THERE IS A GREEN HILL FAR AWAY"

Children of the world, both within the Sunday School and outside of it, would be poor, indeed, without the songs written for them by Mrs. Cecil Frances Alexander.

It is nearly a century since, as a girl of 25, she wrote and published a wonderful collection of songs for youngsters, but many of these poems are still popular and in general use. Many folks declare that the book of song gems for children has never since been equalled by a similar volume.

Her hymn, "There Is A Green Hill Far Away", is written simply enough for children to understand and sing, but just as popular with adults in the church. It sings of Christ's crucifixion in ransom sinful world and to open the gates of heaven to mankind.

Two of her other hymns, equally well-known are "Jesus Calls Us O'er The Tumult" and the Christmas hymn, "Once In Royal David's City".

Mrs. Alexander was the wife of Archbishop William Alexander primate of the Anglican Church of Ireland, and one of the most distinguished churchmen of his day. But today it is she who is famous. Her name will probably go ringing down through the ages to the end of time as new generations take up the choruses of her immortal hymns.

PLUGGING FOR CRAMMERS

This is the time of year when all good convocation speakers and valedictorians will be "looking into the future with courage and confidence" and "gazing backwards with delight" as graduates "go forward along the road of life" from "this significant milestone in your careers."

It is also the time of year when university officials will "view with alarm the alarming laxity of scholarly tendencies in the student body" and parents and frustrated students will rail at university officials for "the shocking rate of failures." Both sides will summon statistics to prove their points, too.

However, we were heartened recently to see peeking out like a pansy among the flora and fauna of the educational jungle, that hardy perennial, "cramming."

Cramming is bad because students who cram—and pass—are believed to have earned their scholastic spurs without having given the educational bronco a regulation ride. However, as an advanced crammer, we can assure learned and amateur educationists that there is no process better suited to stamp a subject indelibly on young minds. Preparations with text books, reviews, feverish concentration, and an all-out, 100 per cent effort to master a difficult subject, are the characteristics of a "cram session." There are no distractions large enough to distract a brain that is meeting the relentless, self-imposed pressure of cramming.

Few educationists who lecture on cramming mention the strenuous mental involved, or the fact that the student who crams does so of his own volition and at his own pace. Neither do they stress that good cramming requires an immense amount of preparation; that note taking, synopses, and precis are themselves reduced, by ruthless editing and organization, to the bare essentials of a subject. It is not a easy feat to reduce the contents of a book, fleshed with year-long discussions and lectures, to a few pages of notes, formulae, and annotations that can be effectively and profitably reviewed the week or the night before an examination.

Nor does it point out the practical aspects of cramming. Life is not the steady, even-flowing train of events that some educators seem to think should be the life of the students. Efforts and energy output are not controlled by a thermostat. Rather, the events of life and the reactions they call forth are a series of crises met by bursts of energy and effort.

Likewise, cramming for examinations is excellent practice in learning to work like a slave when the occasion demands it. Perhaps you will pardon us while we tip our mortarboards to this year's dewey-eyed crop of "crammers."

FISHING CURES TYPHOID

The story of the kingdom that was lost for want of a nail is familiar to most children. Once heard, the sequence of events is logical—for want of a nail the shoe was lost, for want of a shoe the horse was lost, for want of a horse the kingdom was lost. But who ever heard of curing a typhoid epidemic by going fishing?

That is what actually happened at the village of Janlixio, in the heart of Mexico, according to Unesco.

Once explained, the sequence of events is as logical as that which, in childhood rhymes, linked the nail and the kingdom.

All the children in Janitxio were absent from school. They had a typhoid fever. It was caused by drinking polluted water from the mountain lake in which stands the island where Janitxio is located. The only practical way to purify the water was to boil it. But the village lacked fuel. So the villagers went fishing. They sold their fish, bought wood, boiled their water and ended the typhoid epidemic.

OPPORTUNITY FOR A SCIENTIST

A report in the British Journal of Medical Science opens the door to some interesting speculations.

Patients at a British mental hospital, given an extract of the ergot fungus which attacks grain, felt that they had shrunk back to child-size.

Furthermore, they relived childhood events "with extraordinary clarity."

We presume that sane persons, taking the drug, would experience similar reactions.

What a marvellous opportunity thus presents itself to test the accuracy of a widely held opinion.

Please, will some scientist journey back to childhood and report to us whether childhood days are, as sage and poet have so often combined to tell us, the happiest days of a lifetime.

Or are, as some of us suspect, their woes as deep, their burdens as heavy, their blows as cruel as those which, grown older and stronger and tougher, if not wiser, we experience in later life?

"Modern doctors tell girls with heart trouble to marry," says a news item from the Canadian Medical Association convention in Vancouver. That's like telling fish to swim.

WOMAN HATER

A woman hater? Yes, I say
For selfish reasons of my own,
And one is when she goes away
And leaves me in the home alone.

And in an empty house I go,
I hate it when I come from town
If she's not there to say,
"Hello."

Although of all I love her most,
A sense of hatred deep I feel
When with a cup of tea and toast
Alone I make my evening meal.

My bed unmade for days will stay.

I stack with dishes soiled, the sink.

All summer long when she's away
When dear is done and night slips down ____ The bitterest of thoughts I think,

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JUNE 19, 1934.

The Ontario Provincial elections are being held today. The results will be announced from the editorial room of the Ontario Intelligencer by broadcast over local speakers in the street and by an increased number of telephones in the editorial room.

At a recent meeting of the directors of the Y.M.C.A. four new members were welcomed to the Board: they are R. J. E. Graham, Kenard Lailey, I. E. Shapiro and Newton Thompson. The following officers were elected: president, Stanley Duff; vice president, Russell Wotten; secretary, J. N. Fudger; assistant secretary, Norman E. Edwards; treasurer, W. F. Jennings. The following chairmen of committees were appointed: house committee, Joseph Imlah; camp, Cuthbertbood, P. C. MacLaurin; finance, Harry Greenman; membership work, George H. Griffin; social work, Howard Clarke; educational work, Edward Lailey; physical, R. L. Brown; membership, Newton Thompson; boat, Stanley Bidgood; licence; boys' camp, G. B. Smith; bowling, E. Mr. Stanley Hulme of Montreal, a former well-known Belleville resident, spent the week-end in the city.

Mrs. Maitland Roy and her sister, Miss Beatrice Wragg of Hamilton, formerly residents of Belleville, spent the week-end here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Emerson of Ottawa were guests for the former's parents at their home on Charles Street.

30-YEARS AGO

JUNE 19, 1924.

There are four vacancies on the teaching staff at the high school and fifty-three applications for the position so far.

Mr. Frank Buckley and his sons, Jack and Gerald, of Maynooth are spending a few days in town.

Adjutant James Cranwell of the Salvation Army here, has received notice that he will be transferred shortly to a place yet to be named.

The County Council will make a grant to the Belleville Hospital this year. It is reported that the amount will possibly be $2,000.

Mr. Arthur Bennett of Rochester, N.Y., is visiting friends here.

Mr. J. Owen Herity of this city addressed a Masonic gathering in Guelph last evening on "Canada and the Empire."

Mr. Gordon Roberts and Mr. Grier Roberts have returned to Toronto after spending several days at their home here.

40 YEARS AGO

JUNE 19, 1914.

There was a heavy frost last night, however, little damage has been reported.

Dr. W. J. Gibson will leave tomorrow for Philadelphia, Pa., where he will attend a meeting of the American College of Surgeons of which he has been elected a Fellow.

At a meeting of the Board of Education last evening the following new members were appointed: Lieut. Col. W. N. Ponton, chairman; F. C. Sharpe, J. B. Ivey, F. O'Flynn, John Elliott, A. C. Pascoe, B. Mallory, Arthur Mc-Gie, Fred G. Deacon, S. B. Moore, T. Ed. Ketcheson, Phil. Harrison and W. C. Bell. The estimates for this year were presented as follows: public schools, $29,842.61 and high school, $12,232.81. It was reported that Sir. John Gibson, Lieut. Governor of Ontario, will be present at the opening of Queen Mary School in West Belleville.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

OUT WITH THE MESSAGE

Mr. H. Allen Smith, the humorist, has said the world is really a nation on the clergy.

Perhaps the clergy say is law! All they have to do is to say that the world is flat, or round, or upside down, and the people go out the horse-radish. I bet I'd go for again. I think I'd go in for holy orders. I'd get a lot more respect for my opinions around the house."

There are several hundred thousand of us who wish that the amusing Mr. H. Allen Smith were correct. There was a time, when the minister was called "parson," a generic meaning that he was the out-of God.

standing person of the community. He is still very highly respected, but he is not highly enough respected. Curiously enough the average minister does not respect himself as much as he should. He is inclined to bow and scrape a bit before scientists and other erudite people. This he should not do, for the minister is God's proclaimer of truth. He has something vastly more important to say than has the scientist, the economist, or the politician. He is doing disservice to the faith when he tries to make its teaching conform to every new modern idea.

Let the minister out with his true message, and we shall have a revolution overnight to the glory of God.

Conservation Briefs

A series of little known facts about conservation, under the heading of "Conservation Briefs" will occupy this space weekly. These briefs are being written by Moira River Conservation Authority and, to let you, the people, know what your Conservation Authority stands for.

DID YOU KNOW that in Great Britain's country much smaller in area than the Province of Ontario, the value of agricultural production is greater than that of the whole of Canada.

The British are good conservationists (through necessity) and for hundreds of years have practised sound farming methods. Through application of the principles of conservation they have a farm management program we farmers are going to be proud to adopt to supply the needs of a constantly increasing population.

They say 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.' The wisdom of this is well worth considering by all in relation to their soil management practices.

Enthusiasm and H-Bomb

(Christian Science Monitor)

The Oppenheimer case has aroused a storm of questions. One of the most significant has to do with Dr. Oppenheimer's alleged lack of enthusiasm for the hydrogen bomb.

Does this mean, other natural scientists are asking, that scientific advisers to the government must adopt with "enthusiasm" government policies which may be contrary to their own convictions? Does it mean, in particular, that every adviser must enthusiastically endorse the doctrine that the development of smashing offensive capabilities by United States is to be preferred to a more balanced development of offensive and defensive weapons?

It must be remembered that the Gray board found Dr. Oppenheimer a loyal, devoted, and discreet public servant. Together with most of the atomic scientists of the country he at first opposed making the hydrogen bomb, but once it was made, decided to push ahead with the project he accepted. Apparently he did not confound them out capably.

The question is one of worthiness.

Obviously the American ideal is not government of scientists by scientists must be free to state his honest convictions, even though they disagree with those in power. Otherwise a real democracy would soon degenerate—frequently attacked as being "soft" toward communism.

Complicating the picture is the fact that part of the Oppenheimer's initial opposition rested on moral grounds. This seems highly reprehensible to people who think that nothing but cold-blooded strategic calculations should enter into the determination of such questions — though Knocks.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

My house is in the heart of a big city, one of the oldest sections. Here the side streets extend to the suburbs. Thousands of acres of peaceful backyards, with grass pavements lie between us and the nearest real estate development. The nearest market garden, even such as sling around the Dixie, are a good hour's drive, or several hours' march from us.

Every night now, about midnight, there rises in our side alley, where the garbage cans are kept, the most extraordinary racket. It sounds as if a particularly large pack of garbage collectors was holding midnight revel. There is a clanging of lids, as the big metal pails are sent rolling. Lids fly.

It is the raccoons.

Where they live in the neighborhood we seem to be under a mystery. Doubtless some of the old trees have cavities where they have their families. One midnight riot before, we hurry to the side door and turn on the alley light. Nothing. Lo0kless, stands a raccon as big as a cocker spaniel, in the middle of the disorder he has created with the upset garbage can. He stands at the window of the door, undecided whether to scramble up the fence and into the dark. I don't care to take a chance, as he did last night, and the night before. After ten seconds of meticulous thought, he decides to take the alley, and proceeds to fling things around with his accustomed deftness, in search of hors d'oeuvres of the raccoon fancy.

Filling pans almost like hands, raccoons can deal with a garbage can lid more effectively than even a big dog can. We watched him last night, as his pointed nose came under the edge of the lid, and with a sharp flick, dislodges the lid, which rolls off the asphalt-bed on the can's rim. Then, like a flash, he thrusts himself past the point of balance of the receptacle and begins to jerk backward with the weight in a series of heave-ho's that would make a sailor proud. Over goes the can. The raccoon leaps nimbly aside, and then promptly proceeds to sort the goods.

Our only hope lies in city trash collectors. They will put out of his element. We trust.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE MYSTERY OF IT

Henri Fabre, whom Victor Hugo called "the greatest Homer," of whom Masterlinck rated as one of the three greatest writers since Darwin of his century, once stated that if we could interpret the mystery of the swallow which we should learn the secret of all life." Said Fabre: "There would nothing left to be erased from the world before we possess the whole truth about the infinitesimal creature has to say to us."

Man has asked a great deal of Nature, and she has imparted to him secrets that millions of years had not revealed. But why should man unfold secrets that may even destroy him and race? Nothing in all this world is so important as humanity and its welfare. Why do people think that this peace must be purchased with the present and at the cost of useless human slaughter? The people, in every population country on this globe, want nothing of war. They are all for peace and against mass murder.

What a lift to discouraged mankind if Jesus' words could be signed in terms of peace among all nations, and all engines of war scrapped. Why can't that happy consummation be realized? This is not an idle dream.

In 1949, when the decision was being made, there seemed good strategic reasons for going against a "crash" H-bomb program.

Yet, according to reports just published, the majority of numerical scientists and businessmen on the advisory committee of the Atomic Energy Commission sharply opposed. Opportunity and reflections, while the minority went even further and said that the H-bomb would be a weapon so horrible that the United States should pledge itself never to make it, while warning the Russians that a thermonuclear test had been made treated as an act of war.

Is there any thinking person anywhere who has not felt stirred by the H-bomb to profound moral questioning? — perhaps to ask: "What shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?"

We do not think that mankind is going to "lose its soul" because it has added the H-bomb to its arsenal of weapons. We do believe that only one of two things can happen between now and the H-bomb, the A-bomb and the old-fashioned rifle: war or peace.

Each of these is a wicked instrument when used for destruction. Each has its constructive agencies, as in the Great Lakes where lamprey eels take their toll and scare away others.

Even the great whales is not immune. In recent years there has been an almost tragic amount of killing due to electrically fired explosive harpoons, and a fleet of big whaling ships can haul each dead whale, and process them right there, one ship taking as many whales as a whole fleet did years ago.

Such system seems now to be extended to trawlers whose fishing grounds for generations have been in the North Sea and North to the Faroe Islands and Iceland. These trawlers used to consist of a vessel of a few hundred tons and crew of about a dozen men. But a new type trawler, built in Aberdeen, 2,605 tons, carrying 36 men, including its officers and technicians—made its first voyage recently, not to the Sea ground, but across the Atlantic to Newfoundland.

As in the case of whalers, the fish are hauled in at a wide opening in the stern in the large enclosed factory deck, where, with the latest equipment ensuring the minimum of handling, it is processed. This includes gutting, washing, filleting, skinning, wrapping, weighing, quick-freezing, and packaging that is taken by conveyors to the refrigerated holds. Arrangements have already been made for hand filleting and for quick freezing whole fish or fish steaks.

The offal is transformed into fish meal by a plant below the factory deck, and there is storage for about 110 tons of fish oil, worth about $200 a ton. There is also a plant for canning fish livers and fish livers.

The fishermen of the Canadian Maritimes and Newfoundland will not like the new enterprise. They have a hard time as it is, and may ask the Canadian Government to do something about this new threat. But it is unlikely the government can do anything to stop these fish factories, because outside certain limits, the seas are free to all.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

THEY KEEP TELLING ME.

I get increasingly frequent and gratifying letters telling me something like this:

Dr. Brady

Dear Dr. Brady: I can't find words to thank you. The whole family now is taking calcium and vitamin D supplement and we have noticed these improvements: gums not bleeding any more, headaches less frequent, husband no longer annoyed with stiff knees mornings or a peculiar pain of years' standing in the elbow . . .

(Signed).

The physiological functions of calcium in the normal, healthy individual are:

(1) It is essential for ossification of bone

(2) It is necessary for adequate contraction of the heart.

(3) It prevents excessive permeability of the walls of the small-leet blood vessels

(4) It regulates the excitability of nerves

(5) It is necessary for clotting of blood.

It is upon these physiological effects of calcium that I base my teachings about the use of calcium diet to prevent, alleviate or correct many common complaints. The trouble is, so many knucks simply do not get it when I tell 'em the calcium and vitamin D (one is of little use without the other) I recommend is no medicine, but essential food, so it is as sensible to "try" it for three weeks as it would be to "try" bread and meat for a few weeks and discontinue eating them thereafter.

Atlantic fishermen don't have to dip a lenitive toe into the waters to suspect that the water temperature has been inching immense. They have reports of strange southern fish occasionally being hauled up in their nets with the herring, and shad, dolly, halibut, cod and mackerel have been taken in new ways. For instance,

Fishermen take this to mean that ocean climate is changing, or at least that more warm currents have been coming up in this direction lately.

Report to the Atlantic biological station at St. Andrews of the Fisheries Research Board of Canada that the water 43.5 degrees Fahrenheit in the Winter during the period from 1921 to 1953. But during the last five Winters of that period (1940 to 1953) inclusive, the average was 36.5 degrees. Again, for those last five years, the Spring temperature was 45.9 compared with 43.7 for the 1928-53 period. Summer for the same period was 54.7, Fall, 47.8 compared with 46.5.

So the fishermen and scientists are in agreement about the temperature trend. The question for these persons to be: Is this only a temporary phenomenon—a mere variation between winters warming and thus perhaps change the whole character of the fishing industry?

Fish Factory Takes to Sea

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

Complaints are made from various communities of a falling off in the grounds are being fished out. That is not surprising. In recent years there has been an almost tragic amount of killing due to electrically fired explosive harpoons, and a fleet of big whaling ships can haul each dead whale, and process them right there, one ship taking as many whales as a whole fleet did years ago.

Such system seems now to be extended to trawlers whose fishing grounds for generations have been in the North Sea and North to the Faroe Islands and Iceland. These trawlers used to consist of a vessel of a few hundred tons and crew of about a dozen men. But a new type trawler, built in Aberdeen, 2,605 tons, carrying 36 men, including its officers and technicians—made its first voyage recently, not to the Sea ground, but across the Atlantic to Newfoundland.

As in the case of whalers, the fish are hauled in at a wide opening in the stern in the large enclosed factory deck, where, with the latest equipment ensuring the minimum of handling, it is processed. This includes gutting, washing, filleting, skinning, wrapping, weighing, quick-freezing, and packaging that is taken by conveyors to the refrigerated holds. Arrangements have already been made for hand filleting and for quick freezing whole fish or fish steaks.

The offal is transformed into fish meal by a plant below the factory deck, and there is storage for about 110 tons of fish oil, worth about $200 a ton. There is also a plant for canning fish livers and fish livers.

The fishermen of the Canadian Maritimes and Newfoundland will not like the new enterprise. They have a hard time as it is, and may ask the Canadian Government to do something about this new threat. But it is unlikely the government can do anything to stop these fish factories, because outside certain limits, the seas are free to all.

Atlantic Gets Warmer

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

If you find that a plunge into the invigorating breakers of the Bay of Biscay doesn't seem to be as much as much as it did 10 years ago don't be too quick to ascribe this to the theory that you have become harder and more cold-resistant. The chances are that all the water appears slightly warmer, it likely is.

Atlantic fishermen don't have to dip a lenitive toe into the waters to suspect that the water temperature has been inching immense. They have reports of strange southern fish occasionally being hauled up in their nets with the herring, and shad, dolly, halibut, cod and mackerel have been taken in new ways. For instance,

Fishermen take this to mean that ocean climate is changing, or at least that more warm currents have been coming up in this direction lately.

UNIQUE FESTIVAL TENT

Skip Manley (right) of Chicago discusses problems of the unique tent at the Shakespearian Festival with Tom Patterson, festival founder and director of planning. Manley, dressed in his working clothes, is a veteran of more than 30 years as a high-rigging expert on circuses and big-tops throughout North and South America. The $23,300 tent has a capacity of 1,900, an increase of nearly 400 from last year. Two of the four supporting posts have been placed on the outside of the tent giving additional space. (CP Photo).

Shakespeare Festival Grips Imagination of Theatre World

By JOHN PATERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Skip Manley's name can be added to the list of professionals who have combined to make the annual Shakespeare festival here an event that has gripped the imagination of the theatrical world—as well as a box-office success.

On the basis of advance sales, more than 100,000 visitors from Canada and the United States are expected to see the three plays this summer in the roomy smoke-blue canvas theatre built by Skip. They will see the result of a combination of talents from here and abroad.

Manley, a gregarious, middle-aged aristocrat of circusdom's high rigging hierarchy, is from Chicago. Tyrone Guthrie, director of "The Taming of the Shrew," and the Greek tragedy, "Oedipus Rex" is from the London stage, known also for his work at the Metropolitan Opera, the Edinburgh Festival and successful productions in Finland and Israel.

STAGE ON STRIKE SIDES

Another Londoner, Cecil Clarke, is the festival's artistic director and will stage "Measure for Measure." The unique stage — which thrusts itself into the audience on three sides—and costumes are by the talented Tanya Moiseiwitch who has worked with Dr. Guthrie in many of his productions.

James Mason of London and Hollywood will star. His leading ladies include Frances Hyland of Saanuton, Sask., and the London stage, and Eleanor Stuart of Montreal, whose lengthy career includes supporting roles to many stage greats in England and the continent.

The tent itself nestles among trees in a park which follows the east-flowing Avon river. Tent capacity has been increased from last year's 1,200 seats to 1,900 for the festival opening June 28.

Last year the tent had the usual interior posts supporting the canvas roof. Two of the wooden posts were in the backstage area, but the other two were in the audience section.

After months of planning, Manley, who has travelled most of North and South America as a tent and rigging expert since he was 18, came up with the radical proposal to move the posts to the outside of the tent.

Engineers thought it couldn't be done. Manley convinced them it could.

TOWERING STEEL POSTS

Once he had it in blueprint form, it was Manley's job to translate it into reality. He directed the delicate bracketing job from a boatsun's chair atop one of the 80-foot steel posts which replaced the wooden ones.

The tent has the largest poleless area of any "big top" known, 100 by 108 feet.

Each of the steel poles was built to carry a load of 7½ tons of canvas, something never before attempted. The poles are eight inches in diameter.

Three miles of steel cable and 11½ miles of rope are used to take up the stresses caused by weight, and to take care of extra strain due to high winds or heavy rain.

Manley has made generous allowance for weather. In his calculation of safety factors he has, in his words, "put money in the bank."

Once erected, just before rehearsals began in mid-May, Skip Manley moved into his $23,300 tent and will live there until it is taken down after the Aug. 21 closing.

RESCUE LABORER

METROPOLIS, Ill. (AP)—Five and a half hours of feverish toil by rescuers failed to end Thursday night when a 46-year-old laborer was lifted unhurt from the bottom of a 50-foot well where he was buried by fallen gravel. James Floyd was hoisted to the surface on the cable of an automobile wrecker after long dizzy hours during which rescue workers, camped by the narrow well, removed gravel from around him, pail by pail. He seemed unhurt.

Mystery Drama About Ready For Presentation

As "show-time" draws closer, activity is reaching fever, pitch in the preparation of "Night Must Fall" the 3-act mystery drama that is being presented by the local Quinte Players, under the direction of Elaine Jardine and sponsored by the Y's Men's Club at Tobe's County Gardens.

The cast is headed by Syt Quinn, as "Danny", Doris Chippe as "Olivia Grayne" and Sadie Rose as "Mrs. Bramson" and includes Flo Yanover as "Mrs. Terence," John Luscombe as "Hubert Laurie", Dolly Cain as "Nurse Libby", Vera Levine as "Dora" Jim Alexander as "Mr. Belaize" and Ted Schwab as the "Lord Chief Justice."

Final touches are going put to the stage and the auditorium and everything should be in readiness to give Belleville and district theatre-goers a real thrill, June 28, 29, and 30, as the dates and tickets are on sale now at several downtown locations. Due to the nature of this play, it is necessary that the audience be in their seats right from the start. The curtain will go up at 8:30 p.m.

A bus service will operate at 7:45 p.m. the nights of the play, leaving from the Dominion Bank corner.

PARLIAMENT

The country's large wheat surplus and a decline in world wheat sales provided the background for several debates on government marketing policies. Two non-confidence motions, stemming from the recent export price-cut of 10 cents a bushel, were defeated.

The case of Igor Gouzenko had repercussions in the Commons, eight years after he left the Russian embassy here with documents which broke a Soviet spy ring in 1946. The occasion was a request by a U. S. Senate committee to interview Gouzenko. After refusing once, the government agreed to a second request on conditions that it approve publication of any evidence. The evidence, released after a secret interview in Canada, contained almost no new facts.

Another brief controversy followed the announcement that an allied commission, with Canadian approval, had approved a reduction in the sentence of Nazi SS Maj.-Gen. Kurt Meyer, once sentenced to death for inciting his troops to slay quarter to captured Canadian soldiers killed in 1944.

His sentence was reduced to 14 years, and with time off for good behavior Meyer can be released as early as next Sept. 7. An opposition demand for documents relating to Meyer's trial, sentence and release was defeated by 162 to 63.

The security screening of civil servants was a recurring theme. Government members refused repeated PC requests for figures on numbers of employees fired or transferred as security risks and denied opposition charges of unfairness in the lack of a system of appeals.

ACT EXPIRED

On the legislative front, the government allowed the Emergency Powers Act to expire May 31. The act, criticized often by opposition members, gave the government power to control the country's economy and security without reference to Parliament.

Four by-elections were held March 22 to fill vacancies since the Aug. 10 election. Two Liberals and two Progressive Conservatives were returned, leaving the relative strength of the two parties unchanged.

Since then, two vacancies have occurred with the deaths of Rodney Adamson (PC—York West) and Lionel Conacher (L—Toronto Trinity).

Party standings: Liberal 172; Progressive Conservative 50; CCF 23; Social Credit 15; Independent 3; Vacant 3; Total 265.

RESTRICTIVE CLAUSE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House of Representatives foreign affairs committee recommended Thursday that France and Italy be denied any further foreign aid until they join the European Defence Community and help create an international defence force. Committee members voted 18 to 2 to write the restriction into the $2,500,000,000 foreign aid bill they have under consideration.

VINES

Yesterday, we saw our neighbour trying some very vines with his back fence. It was unbelievable how easily and fast he was doing it. Then we went over and tied up a couple of dozen tomato plants to stakes in a few minutes.

Curious about the ease with which he worked, compared with the difficulty we always have with tying vines, we went over to see.

He had a box of small wires about two inches long, each one covered with a green plastic paper. It seems you can buy big boxes of them for 25c. All you do is bend them into place to fasten the plant.

TEA PARTY

For afternoon tea, you won't find anything more delicious than this recipe for Date Jumbles which is about 25 years old.

Ingredients are: 6 tablespoons butter, ½ cup brown sugar, 1 egg, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ¾ pound dates sliced, ¾ cup pecans cut, broken, ¾ cup flour, 2 tablespoons hot water, ½ teaspoon baking soda.

Cream butter with sugar. Add egg, salt and vanilla and beat well. Using another bowl mix dates and pecans in flour to which the dates and nuts have been added.

Dissolve soda in hot water, beat well into mixture. Drop by spoonfuls on buttered baking sheet. Bake at 320, Makes about 60 cookies.

PAINT

Something new in oil paints for artists, students and marine men on furniture, wood or metal work are those pens containing small tubes of colors of enamel. All you do is get the correct shade and go over the scratches with the pen.

Uncle Frontenac says he thinks theatre operators should bring back the old slides they used to show just before the feature picture. The slide read: "Ladies Will Please Remove Their Hats." Uncle says he would add four more words: "No Matter How Small."

JETS ALARM CITY

TORONTO (CP)—A formation of fast-flying RCAF Sabre jets and T-33 jet trainers gave Toronto a air raid scare Thursday. The planes went over the city in low altitude formation en route to their Bagotville, Que., base from a carrier visit at London, Ont. Fear and their roar caused a flood of calls to police and radio. Air force officials said the jets were at the 2,000 feet regulation height.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

NOT MANY WIVES WILL FIND THIS STORY AMUSING

"I suppose most people would think this very amusing, but it is becoming a real threat to my happiness and peace of mind."

"This person has created a problem she has with the husband to whom she has been married twelve years."

Actually, I doubt very much if most people would. Certainly, any wife would find her particular problem stranded if he were one of those who likes to eat.

What do you wives think, as you have read the following letter?

"When my husband and I were young, and he insisted on wearing levis everywhere, I didn't object too strongly. But now I realize that only he and the high school kids wear levis to dances.

"Picture us out together, if you will. Me in a pretty, stylish dress, medium jewelry, hose and high heels, and my husband beside me in levis and sport shirt with the sleeves rolled up! I don't even as though he looks well in such clothes. He is short and stocky, 36 years old, and has acquired a paunch in the past few years.

"I will be the proudest wife in pants below the paunch barely hanging on his hips. Otherwise he will agree to shave, though never in such a hurry that he misses a day's stubble. But he often goes three or four days without shaving, since he says it makes his face look more appearance, and he wouldn't dream of shaving just for a Saturday beard just to go to the movies.

"A year ago, I absolutely forbade him to buy a mike. He's worn it twice since, and both times put on such a show that it was hardly worth the effort. It's come to the point where I dread to see the Saturday sun rise because he seem with him.

"I work in a large public office, and he has many friends. He always wears twice now, calling for me in shiny, pressed work clothes with that four-day beard—and on his day off, when he could easily have shaved! Can't you see how embarrassing for him! His excuse? 'But, honey, I'm going to work in the yard,and you wouldn't want me to change just to pick you up and get back in a dirty car, would you?' Certainly I would want him to change. I can't imagine a place nice in reverse, a woman picking her husband up at the office in a ragged, grubby housedress with her hair uncombed and no make-up on.

Well, what is this wife to do?

Certainly such a situation is enough to try her patience to the breaking point, but at the same time, I think she is far more likely to solve the problem by a good - natured attempt than by scolding and nagging.

Has she, for example, tried the positive instead of the negative approach? That is, does she tell her husband that he is such a wonderful person, and she loves him so much, and, as a result of him, that she wants everybody to think he's wonderful, too? Or does she tell him she'd rather die than be seen with him and she thinks it's horrible for him to go around the way he does? Has she tried quietly, by buying his clothes out ready for him, to see that he looks as he takes it for granted he will want to change when they are planning to go out? Or does she try to lay down the law about what he shall wear, and get his back up so that he's darned if he'll be bossed about by?

Could she, I wonder, have a confidential little talk with one of his merry friends whom they both know well, and try to get him to cooperate with her, without, of course, letting her husband know of the little conspiracy? Even so small a thing as having this friend get her husband on the phone now and then, and say that they all go out for an evening together and say, in the offhand way, "We'll all be dressing, of course," might have some effect.

In the long run, however, what she herself says and does will, I think, have the most influence, provided she does it in the right way. So, some evening, after planning an evening out, let her put her arms around her husband's neck, give him a kiss and a hug and say! "When we go out together, I dress for you, as much as for other people, because I want you to be proud of the way I look. Won't you do the same for me?"

Unless this is a very selfish husband indeed, such an approach can hardly fail.

I would appreciate it if you had time to give a little thought to my problem—Mrs. P. McF,

ANSWER:

I have spoken to three medical doctors about the 5-oz. package vs the 11-cent bag of wheat germ The opinion of the package was not sterilized. However all say that wheat germ must be fresh. That is why I buy it at the flour mill the day it is milled. Write to Mr. Russell Hunter, Cerebos Springs, Ontario, for millet meal.

BIBLE BRIEFS

Who Was This?

By A.A.M.

Who was the mighty warrior who in the midst of a military campaign longed for a drink from the well of Bethlehem of which he had drunk when he was a boy? He recalled the days when as the youngest of eight sons, he had cared for his father's sheep on the hillsides there.

His name meant "Beloved" and he was true as such to the lovable. When wild animals, lions and bears had tried to kill a lamb from his flock he had killed them. in the solitude he had often sung his own words of Nature and of the goodness of God. He played his own accompaniment on his harp.

But now he was hiding in a cave, weary from fighting the Philistines. It was the first time and the enemy's garrison was near Bethlehem. He said aloud, "O dear some one would give me water to drink from the well of Bethlehem which is by the gate!

MEN OF VALOUR

Three of his captains, mighty men of valour, overheard their leader's wish. They resolved to risk their lives to gratify it. So they broke through the Philistine's camp, drew a pitcher of water out of the well at Bethlehem, and carrying it joyfully, fought their way back to their leader.

But he was so amazed by their devotion and courage that he would not drink the precious water. To him it seemed holy, worthy for an offering to the Lord. He said, as he poured it out on the ground as a gift to God, "Far be it from me, O Lord, that I should do this. Shall I drink the blood of the men who went at the risk of their lives?"

Beauty

HEALTH-WEALTH PAYS BEAUTY DIVIDENDS

Few women can resist the lure of cosmetics which boost morale and are worth more than the time and the money expended upon them. But let us remember that beauty is more than skin deep. Without health and vitality one's appearance is neither radiant nor compelling.

Appearance depends to a large degree upon the kind of food we eat, but I suppose we sum up the necessary

Be tranquil, cheerful and tolerant of your fellow creatures. Endeavour to be unselfish in your work so you will not look upon it as drudgery. Choose friends wisely so you will have pleasant companionship. Learn to forget how to play. It is silly to be serious all the time. Smiles and laughter tighten facial lines, gives them an uplift.

Have sufficient sleep so you will awaken refreshed, ready to face the day's activities. If you are depressed, get out of doors as quickly as possible. Fresh air often revives the spirits. Work briskly, body erect, arms swinging easily.

When you feel you can't drag your feet another minute, lie down and relax. Relaxation doesn't skip the daily bath; it stimulates circulation, and brings out the skin depends in a large measure upon active blood streams.

Nutrition is of vital importance. Have some raw fruit and raw vegetables every day. Eat one food at least once a week. Make

GOOD MANNERS

BY MRS. BEECHMAN

UNEVEN NUMBER OF WEDDING ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

The bride-to-be, my dearest friend, and I are trying to plan the details of the wedding. Will you please help us, as you have helped so many in their wedding plans? There are to be six bridesmaids, the maid of honor (bride's only sister), and I, the bridesmaid. Yes, besides the best man, there are to be three ushers, according to the choice of the bride and groom. Our problem is how do we walk up the aisle? We particularly want to know if, under the circumstances, all the ushers take part in the processional? Also is it, or isn't it, incorrect for the bridesmaids to walk up the aisle (Processional) with an usher, when there is an uneven number of ushers? Also what about the correct order for the Recessional? Thank you Beechman.

This would be the correct order for the Processional: first, two ushers, the shortest walking together; next, one usher, the tallest; next, you, the bridesmaid, alone; next, the maid of honor, alone; last, the bride and her father. The ushers walk in front of the aisle.

Note 1: Yes, all the ushers take part in the Processional.

Note 2: It is absolutely incorrect for a bridesmaid to walk up the aisle (Processional) with an usher.

Note 3: Don't worry about the fact that there is to be an uneven number of bridesmaids and ushers. Since an uneven number is what the bride and groom have above, the point is to make the best of this, and plan as it is decided above.

The Recessional: first, the bride and groom; next, the maid of honor, either alone or (more frequently) the one today's bridesmaid; next, you, the bridesmaid, alone, as in the Processional. Then, the ushers, together, the ones who walked together in the Processional. Then, last the tallest usher, alone, as in the Processional.

Note: the bride probably with some strong urging from you.) may decide to have you walk with the best man in the Recessional. If so, then the other ushers, and the bridesmaids together, would be the last in the Recessional.

WHO PAYS FOR WEDDING PHOTOGRAPHS?

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

In our bobby set among our group of friends we are having quite an argument. Please help us, please? My sister-in-law was married about two months ago and she and the bridegroom left for the city where they are to live. Last week my grandchild received the book of photographs of the wedding from the Photographer, and was told that they have still to order the individual photographs. The last was, of course, that if we wanted any of the photographs we would have to buy them ourselves. I had assumed that all the members of the bridal party had received wedding photographs as a matter of course. Am I correct and should they? Or, over hear of a member of the family having to buy a wedding photograph? — Lil D.

Yes, indeed I have heard of a member of the family being expected to pay for any wedding photographs! It is quite a usual procedure, necessarily has to be when the bride and her family have the customary limited budget or even an average budget, to consider the wedding photographs are quite an item of expense, and if the bride and groom, the bridegroom's and brothers of the bride and groom and other relatives to choose whatever photographs they wish and charge these to the bridegroom, that of course would be a terrible strain on the budget.

Eat a suitable breakfast which should include milk, eggs and fruit juice for the vitamin C content. Drink plenty of water—three or four glasses a day.

Breathe deeply to keep your blood "aircondition." Shallow breathers have flat chests and pale skins.

Try to be content with what you have. After all, "things" of themselves don't bring much happiness. Happiness comes through loving and being loved.

LAW OF THE CAESARS

Caesarian section is one of the most ancient of surgical operations. Since the 19th century discoveries of anaesthesia and antisepsis have greatly added to its blessing for many expectant mothers, but it wasn't originally intended as such.

According to Roman law, an expectant mother who was unable to have a normal delivery or who died before being delivered was required, to be cut open. This was for the sake of the child; the mother, if not dead already, nearly always died shortly afterward as a result of infection.

Since all Roman law became Caesarian law after the accession of Augustus, this legal practice became known as Caesarian section.

Yet, Julius Caesar was delivered through a Caesarian section, as far as is known, Julius was born in normal childbirth, and his mother survived.

QUESTION: "I expect to have my first baby next month. My doctor thinks he will have to perform a Caesarian. Is he sure? Will I ever be able to have another baby?"

ANSWER: Caesarian section occurs in about one out of every 40 or 50 deliveries at the present time and it is certainly the answer to prayer for many a mother whose pelvis is too small to allow passage of the baby in a normally sized baby.

In the hands of a good gynaecologist, Caesarian section is now just as safe as any other recognized operation. The rule is "Once Caesarian, always Caesarian," but there is the occasional exception to this.

COMFORT FOR GOURMETS

Question: "You hear a lot about the wonderful food values of cottage cheese, but never, except in books about soft-ripening cheeses like Camembert or Limburger or Brie, do you actually encounter like Sillton or Roquefort or Gorgonzola. Are these cheeses have any food value or are they merely a delightfully useless luxury?"

Answer: The cheeses mentioned are good cheeses of foreign origin, they are high in food value, but of course, expensive. Cottage and our own Canadian cheddar at various degrees of ageing are of excellent food value and the cheapest available. Processed cheeses are lacking in food value.

Anna P. Lewis W.I. Director Visits Hospital

CAMPBELLFORD — Anna P. Lewis of Toronto, director of the Women's Institute branch of the department of Agriculture visited Campbellford on Monday and Tuesday, while attending district annual conventions of Institute groups in the Belleville area. She was a guest of Mrs. Ernest Irvin of Seymour, who is regional vice-president of the Federation of Women's Institutes of Ontario.

While on her way from the Belleville area, Miss Lewis called at the Seymour East Women's Institute hall at Menie, and the community livestock sales barns at Hoard's Station.

She was impressed with the auction sales of livestock, and amazed at the efficiency and speed with which the sales were carried out. She remarked on the type of individuals she found attending the auction, saying they were of exceptionally high calibre. The visit was an unscheduled side trip.

TOURS HOSPITAL

On Tuesday morning, a group of ladies, including Mrs. R. E. Fox, president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Campbellford Memorial Hospital, and members of the board surrounding district W.I. groups, met and were conducted on a tour of the hospital.

The architecture and the interior decorating of the building were highly praised by Miss Lewis. She was surprised to find such a completely equipped hospital, so compliital in a town the size of Campbellford.

She commented on the courtesy and efficiency of the staff and superintendent. She told the Auxiliary members they could feel proud of the part their organization had played in assisting the hospital.

She said the Women's Institute was made a remarkable contribution to the institution, and this was one of the most worthwhile projects a group could undertake.

BELLEVILLE INDUSTRIAL, HOME AND

Refreshment Unit of Fir Plywood Just Right for the Smaller Home

Today's handyman host can build his own refreshment corner and be right in on the trend to built-in serving spots designed for the smaller home.

The simple fir plywood shelves, bar and stools shown here can be fitted into a small area of your livingroom, rumpus room or den. Forming a handsome unit, they can be finished either to constrast or compliment present decorative colors of the rooms.

All parts of Douglas fir plywood are simple to cut from panels and can be assembled in an evening. Thickness of top and sides of the bar should be three-quarter inch to give a sturdy unit, with front panel and shelves cut from one-half inch plywood. Stool parts can be sawn from the three-quarter inch panel with shelves and end pieces of the wall fixture to be one-half inch.

A 12-inch square of foam rubber 3 inches thick is glued to the stool tops for cushion. Cover finish can be of any suitable material. The bar rail, a decorative feature, is of chrome tubing, 2 inches in diameter.

A few hours in your workshop will see all pieces and joints cut, glued and nailed. Plan your own finish.

Given a good primer coat the unit can be painted to match the walls of your room and will take a beautiful finish in any wood-work paint or enamel. Many persons prefer to retain the natural warm grain of the Douglas fir wood. Wipe down stains, clear lacquers, wax stains shellacs and flat varnishes offer an infinite variety of natural finishes.

Housewives Join Do-It-Yourself Fun —Husbands Learn Partnership Pays

By HERMAN HANDY

Move over, men! The little lady wants a place at your workbench.

That's the cry that is sweeping the do-it-yourself trade all over the country as woman, emancipated from the kitchen, is carving a niche for herself in the workshop.

According to latest communiques the movement is meeting with isolated pockets of resistance in some provinces, but most husbands, it seems, are only too willing to put the gals to work.

Joe, who rides to work with me, is in the vanguard of the the liberation movement.

"With a dishwasher, automatic washer and dryer, the missus just hasn't enough work to keep her busy any more," he confided a few months ago. "I'm going to try to get her down in the basement to help out."

He did, and before long his workshop was turning out double his former production, and his wife was boasting to her friends that she could run a plane or a drill as easy as a vacuum cleaner. She also mentioned, quite casually, that she found sawing, planing, sanding and painting far more effective than exercises for keeping the waistline down. That did it.

Soon her girl friends were down in her basement to see for themselves, and before long in our neighborhood half the women were pestering their menfolk to join in the fun. Nowadays, when they get together over a cup of tea, the ladies are more likely to be discussing Douglas Fir Plywood than knitting.

EASY TO TRACE

It's the same story in many parts of the country. Lumber dealers are distributing how-to-do-it plans simple enough, that gals who are used to following patterns for the sewing machine can trace similar patterns on the big plywood sheets now used almost universally for home crafts.

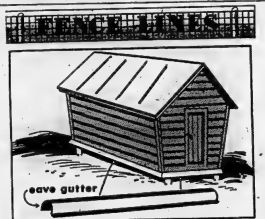
And in a few forward-looking high schools, we understand, young ladies are encouraged to attend shop-work classes with the boys.

A few husbands are still swimming against the tide, barking at their women-folk whenever they poke a nose inside the work-room door. But the smart boys are welcoming their wives (and daughters) into the once sacred precincts and putting them to work.

SIMPLE JOBS FIRST

Most women like to win their spurs on the simpler jobs—sanding down plywood edges, oiling and painting. They often display a patience in finishing areas that their husbands lack, and produce a smoother-finished product.

From here they can go on to planing, drilling holes, sawing, and. . . well, the sky's the limit. One woman we heard about started out building a bird-house, and, encouraged by the results, next built a four room doll house for her little girl.



Mrs. Farquason, who lives a few blocks away, worked hand in glove with the architect and builder on their new home. Her husband was at work all day when the owner-supervision had to be done, and besides, he wasn't much good at that sort of thing. But his wife Margerite studied everything she could find about houses, and was quite an expert by the time they moved in.

WORK TOGETHER

Other gals go to work beside their husbands in putting up partitions, or making furniture.

My friend Joe told me on the bus the other morning his husband-wife partnership was going fine.

"In fact," he said," "I'm hoping in a few weeks the misus will be able to do all the work, and I'll just sit and supervise."

CORNCRIB SHIELD—Length of eave gutter, inverted and nailed along the lower outside edge of a corncrib will make it impossible for mice and rats to climb into the crib. Give gutter coat of red lead and when dry, paint it to match building.

Repair Cracks in Floor With Slivers or Sawdust

By J. RALPH DALZELL
Author of Books on Home Building and Repair

Many readers have asked for help because cracks have appeared in their floors. Cracks occur when wood dries out, warps and shrinks. Several causes are involved, but when a floor is laid it must be dealt with as a reality and causes are inconsequential.

As shown at A in the picture, good floors have rough and finish boards. When flooring is milled, it contains considerable moisture. When moist it is green and not suitable for immediate use, and should be dried by long exposure to air or in kilns. Even careful attention to drying seldom removes all moisture.

Finish flooring continues to dry after it is nailed in place. The amount of drying depends upon its moisture content. As it dries, it shrinks mostly along the dash line a-b in picture A, and across the grain, causing cracks to appear.

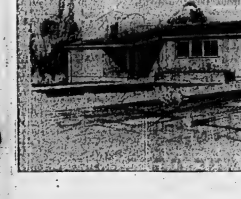
Because of expansion in warm weather and contraction in cold weather there is no way to permanently fill cracks. However, the floor can be maintained fairly well as explained.

If cracks are more than one-eighth-inch wide, thin slivers of the same wood can be shoved into them. Apply shellac to the slivers before inserting them. Smooth the tops of the slivers with sandpaper flush with the floor, and smooth the areas between. Apply one coat of two-pound cut while shellac. Sandpaper lightly with 00 paper after a few hours, and apply a second coat of shellac. If varnish is used sand with 00 paper first. For cracks less than one-eighth inch wide, fill with a mixture of shellac and sawdust from the same wood as the floor. Mix small quantities and make it easy to spread into the cracks with a putty knife. Sandpaper smooth when the mix dries, and refinish the floor as explained.

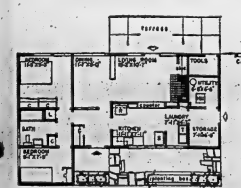
Use the same procedure for filling shiplap joints as shown at C. For butt joints (shown at D) slivers can be used if the cracks are more than one-eighth-inch wide. If less, force damp paper into the cracks below the surface of the floor to make a base for the new dust mixture until it dries. Refinish as explained.

If cracks are less than one-sixteenth of an inch and for splits within boards, plastic wood or a shellac stick can be used to fill them. The sticks come in colors.

Nailheads should be driven below the floor surface with nail set and hammer. The resulting pit is filled with the sawdust mix.



QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS



Q.—Our hardwood floor was put down on papers over concrete and squeaks all over when walked on. What can we do?

A.—Insert powdered soap stone, available at auto tire stores, into joints between boards. Then vibrate the floor with a hammer covered with a wad of cloth. This lubrication often stops all squeaking.

Q.—Can new sliding doors be built in place of the swinging type in an old house?

A.—Yes, but it will be necessary to tear out part of a wall so a pocket and tracks can be installed, a costly and messy job.

—Here is a new two-bedroom design which offers numerous attractions for convenient living. The use of a carport instead of a garage is in the modern trend and adds much to the exterior appearance of the house.

Designed by architect W. H. H. Cranfield, Victoria, the living area of this basementless bungalow should appeal to many prospective homeowners. The living room looks out on a terrace and the rear garden and lawn. A series of three large windows assures the kitchen of good lighting while the rounded bar from the kitchen and living room will save the housewife many steps when serving light snacks to company. The long, brick planting box and flagstone walk present a colorful entrance.

The floor area of the house is 1,003 square feet while the cubic measurement is 12,418 cubic feet. The exterior dimensions are 28 feet six inches, by 56 feet, including carport. Working drawings for this house, known as Design 127, may be obtained at minimum cost from

Brick—History and Uses

By 'Home Builder'

The story of brick is as old as the history of man and only slightly less interesting.

If an aristocracy prides itself on its ancient lineage and honorable service, then brick may claim to be an aristocratic material. Or, if strength and refinement come to men through trials and difficulties, then brick, too, may claim these distinctions.

Archeologists have found evidence of the use of sun-dried brick thousands of years before the earliest written records of history.

The Babylonians acquired the art, not only of making sun-burned bricks, but of beautifully moulding and enamelling them. The kings of this empire had on the brick industry under royal patronage and stamped their names and records of their buildings on brick.

The Assyrians, who patterned their civilization on that of the Babylonians, as well as the Romans afterwards did from the Greeks, followed this brick tradition although they also used stone extensively. They left remains of brick palaces, of which we have whole libraries of writings of all sorts inscribed on burnt clay tablets.

PRIZED BRICK

The Egyptians prized the brick industry as highly as did their predecessors for they ascribed the art to the oldest and wisest of their gods and the Pharoh himself monopolized the business by stamping his name on the product. The Egyptians, however, never carried brick making to the degree of perfection found in Babylonia.

European nations learned the art of making sun-dried brick from Romans.

Brick-building practices in Canada have come chiefly from England where brick was first made commercially in the Roman occupation. During the reign of Henry VIII English brick-making was perfected under Flemish influences. . . .

THE GREAT FIRE

The great fire of 1666 transformed London from a wooden to a brick city and gave great impetus to the brick industry of the time.

Today, three kinds of clay are used in brickmaking: (1) surface clays—clays of recent formation or clays upthrust from older deposits (2) shales—which have been reduced almost to the form of slate by immense pressure and (3) fire clays—which are mined at deep levels and are so-called because of their refractory qualities.

Nature has subjected clays to the severest tests of time—incredible pressures, fierce heat, bitter cold, and the leachings and depositions, by percolating waters, of loads of mineral and vegetable impurities,—until clay shows a bewildering complexity and variety of compositions.

On top of Nature's tests man subjects clay to trials by fire which changes its composition from a plastic substance to a hard, tough, durable material.

IMPURITIES BURNED

In kilns clay is subjected to heats of 1,800 to 2,200 degrees Farhenheit. During this heating process impurities are burned out or transformed into the beautiful color effects seen in the finished product. To enhance these effects the manufacturer of hard- brick sometimes mixes different clays or adds certain ores, or even salts to the brick in the kiln in such a way as to get the effect of the superheated kiln gases.

It is the flame, however, that gives the brick its endless variety of shadings and color tones.

There are three chief methods of brick manufacturing— (1) the sand mould method in which soft clay is pressed into moulds by hand or by machine (2) the wire cut method by which the clay or shale is ground and tempered to the consistency of stiff mud and forced by an auger machine through a die from which it emerges in the form of a bar with a brick-shaped cross section that is cut at appropriate lengths by wires and (3) the dry press method which reduces clay to a fine granular form which is forced, under immense pressure into the proper-sized moulds.

100,000 PER DAY

The machines used in the wire cut method will turn out as many as 100,000 face brick a day. This method is the one employed at the Cooksville Co. plant near Toronto, which produces much of the fancy brick sold in and around Belleville.

Brick made at this plant is produced from Terraville shale, a hard, rock-like formation the only one of its kind in Canada. The shale is mined by large power shovels and transported to the Cooksville plant where it is crushed and made into brick, structural tile, floor brick and quarry tile.

Raw or green brick or tiles are light gray in color and are placed in kilns and dryers chambers for a period of 48 hours. During the drying process all moisture is removed and then the brick are ready to be set in the kilns for burning.

COLOR BY BURNING

The temperature of the kiln is raised slowly to the desired temperature in the 1,800 to 2,200 Farhenheit range and then is held at that temperature for 48 hours and then slowly cooled. If burned in the ordinary way brick comes from the kiln a rich, dark red. If flashed during the burning an attractive range of colors results. Since all colors are achieved by burning without the use of other ingredients, colors are permanent and cannot fade.

For beauty, permanence, and lasting comfort, brick is recognized as the most satisfactory building material.

Bungalows and stately mansions, churches, schools, industrial plants defense projects and almost all kinds of construction use great quantities of face brick, backing brick, structural tiles quarry tiles, etc.

The prospective home-builder can take his cue from history when it comes to planning his new home and if his plans include brick, he will find it a most satisfying material. Beauty, comfort and permanence are yours when you use brick.

IVANHOE

'This Is Canada' Topic at St. Andrew's Club

IVANHOE — St. Andrew's Presbyterian Club met at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Arthur Hazzall on Friday evening. President John McInroy presided.

The Scripture, found in Psalm 72, was read by Miss Bessie Fleming.

GUEST SPEAKER.

Miss Margaret Wright, convener of the program, introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Leonard Hopkins, principal of Moira Public School.

Mr. Hopkins won the Junior Farmers' public speaking contest, held in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, last January. There were 30 contestants when the judges singled out five. Mr. Hopkins was announced the winner.

Mr. Hopkins took for his subject "This Is Canada."

"Although Canada is a powerful, prosperous continent with a growing sense of responsibility to other nations of the world, she has dangerous foes.

"Today there is a great display of jealousy and ignorance in Canadians who consider Americans ignorant, and this feeling is reciprocated by the Americans.

WIDER KNOWLEDGE NEEDED.

"The educational system of both countries should include a wider knowledge and a wider spread of knowledge.

"Canada's doors are open to the east, west, north and south. She is, as it were, at the crossroads, the hub of the wheel. She has an abundance of pulpwood, nickel, asbestos. A wonderful transportation set up — 100 daily newspapers and 900 weeklies, with no censorship; television and broadcasting systems.

"We, as loyal Canadians, should bring up our children with the thought of tolerance. There is nothing wrong with change, if it is in the right direction — it is our duty to pass on to succeeding generations our good and blot out the evil — We covet no other man's land. Let us do our share to bring into being a world of which all men dream. Let us show we believe in Christian democracy, and sell it to the world."

Mrs. Harry Benson, in thanking Mr. Hopkins for his stirring address said, "we should be all thankful and proud to be living in Canada. Let us all be loyal and faithful to our country."

Pauline Johnston's, "Canadian Born," was given by Mrs. John McInroy.

Mrs. George Wood gave two accordion numbers which were enjoyed by all present.

Mrs. Milton Shaw conducted a contest.

Refreshments were served.

BIBLE DEDICATED.

During the regular service held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Sunday morning, a beautifully bound pulpit Bible, of Moroqco leather, gift of St. Andrew's choir, was dedicated. Choir leader, Mrs. Barton Haggerty spoke briefly and the presentation was made by Mrs. Frank Ashley.

The gift was received by Rev. W. H. V. Walker, who conducted the dedication ceremony.

Following the dedicatory prayer Miss Annie and Bessie Fleming sang, "Holy Bible, Book Divine."

LITTLE COUNTRY BY-WAYS

The little country by-ways
That curve and dip and bend,
And lead the laggard wanderer
To roads that have no end—
These have a lure enchanting
That highways ne'r impart—
A touch of scenic beauty
That ensnares the tourist's heart.

A sudden bend discloses
A scene of beauty rare—
A quiet home, a hamlet,
A rustic garden fair;
And a sudden hill-top
Is caught a vista, bright
Of soft and rippling waters
Shrouded in mists of white.

Would you escape life's tumult
And calm and poise regain,
Oh, leave behind the highway,
And seek the country by-ways
Where peace and beauty reign.
—Hilda B. Anderson

WELLINGTON, — It was a pleasant June morning and although we had risen late, we were forming plans for the day when a friend arrived inviting us to join her in a drive into the country. And why not accept life's joys as they come? The day was fair, June reigned supreme, the sweet poppies and the iris and the gentle breeze lured to the out-of-doors. Then busily we prepared for a holiday. Following the highway to Picton we enjoyed a delicious dinner at the Royal Hotel, then proceeded on our rural drive. The roads leading to Carry Valley and to Milford were familiar but from there we branched off into unfamiliar by-ways and then found ourselves at South Bay, where were a church and near by a school. Later we were told that a friend, Mrs. Fournier, was teacher there and we regretted that we had not surprised her with a call. Following other unknown by-ways we soon reached the Outlet where the Carry Lake-known Lake Shore Lodge for many years a favorite tourist resort but now awaiting the holiday season.

On reaching home in the early evening we were honored by a friendly call from several ladies of the Picton Film Council who kindly invited us to join them at their annual picnic in Wellington Park and to enjoy a showing of films. These were shown in the schoolroom of the United Church following a short business meeting with Mr. Bird and Miss Keech in charge.

Opening with well-known songs, as "Home on the Range", the program was fine, the pictures shown, including one of Mexico, being delightful. The coloring in the Mexico films was bright, as we find in most tropical countries. The leader, Mr. Ward of Peterboro, was chairman of the evening.

McCarthy Expected to Start Another Roaring Fire Under Eisenhower Administration

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a short rest Senator McCarthy can be expected back with a fresh box of matches to start another roaring fire under the Eisenhower administration.

The 36-day army - McCarthy hearings just ended may turn out to have been merely a warm-up for future McCarthy struggles with the administration.

NEW AGENCY PROBE

He said after the hearings he would sleep till he woke up, take a brief vacation with his wife, and then get down to business again. It won't be quiet business, from the way he described it.

He wants his investigations subcommittee, he said, to have hearings on whether Communists have slipped into defence plants. Then, McCarthy said, he wants to consider looking for Communists in the super-secret atom and hydrogen bomb plants and the central intelligence agency, which does counter-spying on the Communists overseas.

There he runs head-on again into the administration which stiffarmed him when he tried to look into the intelligence agency before.

SERVICE ROW

Over the last four years, McCarthy had hopped from sensational charge to sensational charge and from headline to headline, attacking both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations when it suited him. Only for a year and a half has he headed the subcommittee. Before that he was a lone operator.

Conflict has been his meat and potatoes. He has grown strong on it. The sensations and the headlines have been the breath of his political life. Without them he would be again just one of the senators.

No one, he has said, can stop his search for Communists in the government. It may be that he won't stop, or can't stop, until the Eisenhower administration crushes him or surrenders to him the key to the government's inner doors.

Windsor Opens Centennial Events This Week-End

WINDSOR (CP) — The ribbon comes off the big package of Windsor centennial events this week-end as the city settles down to a summer-long celebration of its 100th birthday.

The centennial was opened officially Jan. 1, the first day of the 1800s year, but the big attractions of the party were saved for warm summer days. June 20 was designated as beginning of the intensive festival period.

A ceremony in Windsor Reaume Park, conducted by Mayor Arthur Reaume, will mark official opening of the intensive period of celebration. Detroit officials, including Mayor Albert Cobo, will take part.

System 10 Times Faster Than Old Teletype Units

NEW YORK (AP) — A telegraphic system transmitting 600 words a minute, about 10 times faster than conventional teletype units, has been placed in experimental operation.

During a month's trial run, the high-speed system is transmitting stock market reports from The Associated Press in New York to the Boston Herald Traveler. The trial run will determine the reliability of the system and the degree to which it can be used generally.

The system was developed by the Teletype Corp. Transmitter equipment comprises two cabinets—one containing a high-speed tape "reader" and the other an electronic apparatus which speeds signals over the inter-city circuits. Receiving equipment consists of a high-speed "punch" which produces tape at the rate of 600 words a minute.

Gardiner Discounts Claims Of Mounting Surpluses in Can.

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner Friday discounted opposition claims of mounting food surpluses in Canada.

He said in the Commons that, apart from wheat, improved planning has brought a balance between farm production and what can be consumed and exported.

"We do have one surplus item," Mr. Gardiner said during consideration of his department's estimates of spending. However wheat would be treated better than any other farm product.

"So if we have wheat in greater quantities than we need it in Canada or greater quantities than the world needs at the present time, it is one commodity that you can put behind an inch board and pile it up as high as you like, and it isn't going there in good condition for 10 years or more. . . .

"If we can get the storage on our farms and elsewhere it will help everybody to carry on."

As for other products, the government's plan has worked out well.

"We are in a position today where we have no surpluses such as are being talked about on the other side of the house."

The plan, begun in 1935, had reached the point "where it has brought production up to where it is today, that is the production of the commodities of which we can dispose either at home or somewhere else."

Farm organizations were told in December of each year what production Bank of Canada thought Farmers were guided by that. It had worked at the start of the Second World War in increasing bacon production for the United Kingdom, and was credited with increasing output of bacon and dairy products when the U.K. market diminished.

J. Angus MacLean (PC—Queens) said the government should exercise the fact that farmers are not receiving their full parity income, then Alberta is being discriminated against because we cooperated.

The federal government in the prairie provinces Mar. 31 appropriated $8,500,000 for civil defence, and $7,621,000 for roads and plans a somewhat larger amount this year.

Of the total, $1,400,000 was available to provinces for dollar-for-dollar expenditures on approved projects.

The four western provinces, Newfoundland and Nova Scotia have accepted this aid.

In the west it heard only one major apprehension. Provincial and municipal governments, it was said, were prepared to carry on in civil defence's present phases, but would not have the financial resources to meet the demands of a disaster.

TO BE RE-EXAMINED

It was felt the federal government should declare a policy of financial responsibility in such an event. The federal government apparently hasn't wished to commit itself to date, but it is understood it has told the provinces the matter will be re-examined.

Non-acceptance by provinces of dollar-for-dollar aid has meant their municipalities could not share in it. Recently the federal government suggested a formula which would, in effect, attend direct aid to municipalities and increase it to the provinces came in. The proposal is not acceptable to Ontario and Quebec.

In the fiscal year ended March 31 the following sums were available to provinces under dollar-for-dollar aid:

British Columbia $132,000; Alberta $85,000; Saskatchewan $66,000; Manitoba $83,000; Ontario $1,400,000; Quebec; New Brunswick $46,000; Nova Scotia $62,000; Prince Edward Island $5,000; Newfoundland $33,000.

Of this, British Columbia took $50,000; Alberta $85,000; while Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland took among them a total of $210,000.

In addition to dollar-for-dollar aid, the federal government contributes $50 per capita outlay of three equipment hose couplings, and Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia are taking contributions to such programs.

The federal government also is approaching the half-way mark in its $5,000,000 program of stockpiling medical supplies across Canada. This program is designed for civilian casualties.

OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS

Other federal contributions include the Civil Defence College at Arnprior, near Ottawa, cost of courses there, including travelling and living expenses of those attending from across Canada and a number of other things.

Sums spent on civil defence do not give the full picture of contributions by any government.

Federal headquarters in Ottawa, the Prairies and Pacific coast each has a small full-time staff of about 40, but Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, federal director, can call for advice and assistance from other departments of government, and from provincial and municipal governments. The same is true in varying degrees of provincial and municipal civil defence set-ups in regard to their governments.

UNCONSTITUTED

Civil defence, organized in the Second World War, was reconstituted in 1948 and Gen. Worthington was appointed federal co-ordinator.

In 1951, the work was transferred from the department of national defence to that of health and welfare.

In August, 1948, a civil defence co-ordinating committee was established to bring together on a continuing and co-ordinated basis all federal departments and agencies concerned with civil defence.

On Aug. 24, 1950, the first civil defence federal-provincial conference was held at which the present federal - provincial advisory council.

On Feb. 21, 1951, Canada and the United States agreed that, as far as practicable, joint civil activities in both countries be coordinated "as if there were no border."

Canada is also a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization civil defence co-ordinating committee.

New Train Proposed

CHICAGO (AP) — The Rock Island lines Friday said it plans for a light-weight, underslung passenger train featuring the "last word and revolutionary."

The railroad said it was the first in the country to order such a train, tentatively called the Jet Rocket.

Some other lines have been interested in similar trains but no orders have been placed for specific jobs.

The Rock Island announcement pinpointed the economics of the money saver.

"The new train will be half the weight per passenger of the present type of streamlined equipment, with the result that its operating costs will be much reduced."

109 Teachers, Mostly Women, Off for Europe

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department has recruited 109 single teachers, mostly women, principals and one superintendent for service in schools for children of Canadian army and air force units in Europe.

Royal Canadian schools now are being built at Canadian Army and RCAF stations in France and Germany. The army will have three in Germany, one near Soest, one near Werl and one near Lahr.

The RCAF will have five, at Zweibrucken and Fort-Soellingen in Germany and at Metz, Grostenquin and Marville in France.

The teachers were recruited, the defence department said Friday, through co-operation of 40 school boards across the country.

LOANED TWO YEARS

They get the no loan for two years from the school boards and receive the same salary they would have got from the boards. They will receive free living quarters overseas or their transportation will be paid there and back. Their superannuation and seniority rights will be maintained.

The defence department, which will reimburse the school boards for the teachers' salaries, made no effort to get British teachers had to be single. This does not apply to the eight principals or superintendent, who will be able to take their families overseas with them, the department said. A. C. Ritter of Kingston, Ont., will be stationed at Metz, headquarters for the air division.

Major Disagreement Among Federal, Ontario and Quebec Govts. on Civil Defence Costs

Editor's Note: Canada's civil defence preparations were studied by Forbes Rhude, Canadian Press business editor, during a cross-country tour. The problems of financing the civil defence program are discussed in this article.

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Civil defence, as planned in Canada, is the responsibility during a provincial and municipal governments and of the individual citizen.

There is, however, major disagreement among the federal, Ontario and Quebec governments concerning cost.

The federal government takes responsibility for a wide range of matters and offers financial assistance. Ontario and Quebec disagree with the terms of assistance and its amount.

NATIONAL UNDERTAKING

They say civil defence is a national matter and that the central government should pay the full cost of all things which are for civil defence solely.

The federal government feels the cost must be shared, however.

Col. G. A. Welsh, Ontario's provincial secretary, told a reporter:

"We have had wonderful co-operation from the federal government but we cannot finance civil defence with their financial proposals.

"Our municipalities are in a difficult position and haven't large sums of money available."

Ontario, Quebec also are spending considerable sums yearly on a cost-shared provincial-municipal program for the province's fire departments, and its civil defence estimate this year totalled $240,000, including $196,000 for the base program.

QUEBEC VIEWPOINT

A spokesman for Quebec's civil defence organization said:

"Quebec is ready to co-operate fully with the federal government concerning the federal government is ready to shoulder its responsibilities in full.

"Under the present proposed arrangement the federal government would give the province $600,000 if Quebec was ready to spend as much.

"The Quebec government's view is that the province's hospitals, roads, police, fire services are already a contribution to civil defence which entitles it to dollar-for-dollar aid.

"The province is willing to accept $600,000 as a contribution to defence as long as the province is not required to spend a similar amount. An equal system would be set up that way."

GUIDING AGENCY

Paul Martin, minister of national health and welfare, the department under which civil defence operates, has expressed his government's view as follows:

"The federal role is primarily that of a guiding and co-ordinating agency. It is not to take over the communities exceed those of United States.

"The very essence of civil defence is assurance of normal community services, and any operational responsibility must fall on the community which is already dependent on the day-to-day responsibilities of maintaining the normal amenities of life.

"It would be an unwarranted intrusion at this moment, except only for inefficiency if the federal government were to assume the operation of a community's fire, police or public health service.

"The federal role is to encourage civil defence is at the local level. No government, federal or provincial government, can do this job alone."

Ontario and Quebec feel that because of the large number of their population and industry they should proportion of costs in other provinces, then Alberta is being discriminated against because we cooperated.

The federal government in the prairie provinces Mar. 31 appropriated $8,500,000 for civil defence, and $7,621,000 for roads and plans a somewhat larger amount this year.

Demand Pentagon Answer Security Clearance Pleas

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Karl Mundt (Rep., S.D.) indicated today he would go along with a Democratic demand that the Pentagon (U.S. defence headquarters) speed answers to requests for security clearances on two Senate investigations sub - committee inquiries of Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.).

Senator John McClellan of Arkansas, senior sub - committee Democrat said speaking for the three minority party members, demanded publicly Friday that the sub-committee move fast to find out why the two have not received defence department security clearance to handle classified documents for which application was made more than a year ago.

"I will second it," Mundt said in an interview, if McClellan will ask the Pentagon "to take up these cases and say 'yes' or 'no' to the applications."

Aside from Mundt's comment, there was little sign of harmony between the Republican and Democratic members in the wake of the group's first closed-door meeting Friday following the hearings' end Thursday. Even getting plans future similar get-together for the job of writing their report.

Mundt said he understands the two sub-committee staff members, who have also been denied clearance despite a delay of 16 months in one case and 15 months in the other.

Both he said "is is manifestly unfair to the individual to take so long" to answer charges of possibly unfair questions about them.

McCarthy told a press conference Friday he knows of no staff members who are disloyal to the military, and knows nothing about any of them that would raise doubts about their loyalty.

The issue cropped up late in the 36-day televised inquiry held by the investigations group into Northern Pacific Railway Company and top army officials. Questions were raised about who had access to possibly secret documents in sub-committee files, and the defence department sent a letter to Mundt reported to list as "cleared" by that agency all applicants but two.

Commuter Trains Money-Losing Proposition

TORONTO (CP)—A spokesman for Canadian National Railways said the operation of commuter trains is a money-losing proposition and the railways would discontinue them if permitted.

W. J. Bennett, who appeared before the board of transport commissioners for Canada at hearings to hear submissions on the commuter train situation.

There are nine railway lines leading into Toronto from the metropolitan area which are subject to a commuter service is run on only three routes.

That service runs on the Hamilton-Oakville-Toronto line and the Toronto-Scarborough Junction. In its brief, is requesting a better service. The railways also want an increase in rates for the service.

Canada's Health Never Better Finding of Medical Profession

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's doctors today declared Canada is living look at the country's over-all health situation.

The conclusion: It was never better.

The conclusion was based on more than 120 papers, reports and brief discussions delivered during the 87th annual convention of the Canadian Medical Association which opened here Friday night.

"The convention has left the medical profession with a feeling of achievement and optimism," said Dr. A. D. Kelly of Toronto, president of the association.

"Although a vast amount of research into both the causes and treatment of disease still remains to be done, tremendous strides have been made in medicine during the last half century," he said. "The listener can laugh into some of the latest developments and techniques.

He termed the five-day gathering, which attracted more than 1,500 doctors from all sections of the country, "outstanding success."

The convention saw the CMA climax a two-year drive to encourage and maintain the standards of the general practitioner by officially inaugurating the College of General Practice and approve floor-dation of community water supplies and the addition of chlorine to cooking utensils and flatly condemn the practice of fee-splitting between doctors and surgeons. Fee-splitting is any arrangement between doctors where one receives a portion of the other's fee without the patient's knowledge.

Friday's closing sessions were devoted to a wide-ranging clinical program that saw some of Canada's leading specialists deliver 29 technical papers and chair three panel discussions. All were designed to give the general practitioner an insight into some of the latest developments and techniques.

Drastic Streamlining of CNR Corporate Structure Proceeds; 78 Companies Are Operating

By JOHN LABLANC

OTTAWA (CP) — A drastic streamlining of the Canadian National Railways' intricate corporate structure is in full swing.

The publicly - owned system, created out of a complex of railway, hotel and miscellaneous other properties, had consisted up to now of 78 distinct companies, tied together in a maze of interlocking ownerships.

All have been under the control of the parent Canadian National Railways Company, but in many cases the CNR held control through an intermediary company.

About two years ago, the CNR decided to pull together this loose setup, and so far a series of amalgamations has cut the number of companies down to 60.

More are in prospect, until eventually all rail operations will be under the CNR banner, while single subsidiaries handle each of the major divisions such as communications, steamships, hotels and real estate.

"JUST GROWED UP"

The CNR calls the developing plan a "rationalization" of its structure, which "just sort of growed up" over more than 30 years.

Chief impetus behind the reorganization has been president Donald Gordon, who brought one of the country's keenest financial minds to the CNR when he became its head 4½ years ago. He had been deputy governor of the Bank of Canada.

Up to now, companies capitalized at more than $50,000,000 have been put through the amalgamation wringer. That is apart from the CNR itself and its wholly-owned subsidiaries.

On the chopping block at present are all railways in all parts of the country, but has been combined under the name of Canadian National Railways. Biggest in the group is the $25,000,000 Canadian Northern Pacific Railway Company.

COMPANIES LISTED

Others are:

Bay of Quinte Railway Company; Beauharnois and Barry's Bay Railway Company; Canadian National Electric Railways; Canadian Northern Manitoba Canadian Northern Western; Central Vermont; Halifax and Southwestern; James Bay and Eastern; Marmora Railway and Mining Company; Quebec, Long Lake and Saskatchewan Railroad and Steamboat Company; Sorel and St. Charles and Huron River Railway Company.

Six others, which have been wrapped up directly with the CNR, are:

Lachine, Jacques Cartier and Maisonneuve; Montreal Belt and Magnetawan River Railway Company; Montreal and Province Line; Ottawa Terminal; Canadian National Express Company and Canadian National Railways Co. Branch Lines Company.

Two communications companies have been merged. They are the Canadian National Telegraph and Grand Trunk Pacific Telegraph companies under the name of Canadian National Telegraph Company.

LANCERS MAY END

HALIFAX (CP) — The scarlet-jacketed junior Bengal lancers will be seen in this port's Dartmouth Day parade Monday and may ride right on into extinction unless $10,000 can be raised. A group of public-spirited citizens has decided that the colonial days of the lancers will end if funds aren't found to ensure that their riding standards aren't lowered.

Tributes Paid By Frost, Drew To Mines Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—George Drew, National Progressive Conservative leader, Friday issued the following tribute to Mines Minister Gemmell of Ontario, who died suddenly Friday:

"I have lost a close personal friend of many years whom I very greatly admired. Welland Gemmell was one of my closest associates in northern Ontario and even before he was elected as a member of the Ontario legislature he was of great assistance to the government and myself with advice based on long experience regarding the many problems about which he had such wide knowledge.

"As a member of the legislature, as minister of mines, and as minister of lands and forests he served his province well. He brought to the responsible offices unusual experience throughout the mining areas of northern Ontario. As a representative of one of the most important mining communities he contributed greatly to the improvement of mining legislation and the transportation facilities for the new mining areas.

"Above all he was a warm and loyal friend who will be greatly missed by all who knew him. He was a fine citizen in every way, who served his community, his province and his country well. All his old associates in the Ontario legislature and in the Conservative party in the province generally will extend their deepest sympathy to Mrs. Gemmell and the children in the tragic loss they have sustained."

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost said Friday he was greatly shocked and saddened by the sudden death of Ontario Lands and Forests Minister Gemmell.

The premier was abroad from Queen's Park when word came of the sudden death of the minister in Northern Ontario. When told, Mr. Frost issued the following statement:

"I am personally greatly shocked and saddened by the word of the sudden passing of my friend and colleague, the Honorable Welland Gemmell. Only yesterday we sat in cabinet together and he seemed well and vigorous and expressed deep enthusiasm for the plans in the progress of his department and his work.

"His death at this young man, whose life was so full of promise for himself, his wife and family way to the service of his country, is a loss to the public life of our province. He died in the course of duty and in action in the forefront of activity while going ahead with his task. He will be greatly missed.

"In this time of great sorrow, we all express our sympathy to his wife, who was also his helpmate, and to his children and as well to the whole community of Sudbury, which he had so ably represented since his first election which he had such ardent pride."

FABULOUS FLINGER!

Silver dollars may not grow on apple trees, but there will be plenty of banknotes in the bushes this summer for 'Ole Saleboy' Saichel Paige, ageless negro hurler, who will be here with the Harlem Globe Trotters on July 5th. The Trotters are travelling across Ontario with the House of David team, famous brushbeard club.

SATCHEL PAIGE

Abe Saperstein, famous boss man of the Trotters basketball team, renowned international squad, who parlayed them into a couple of million dollars, assembled the Trotters baseball squad, put Old Satch at the head and said 'Go Get 'Em'. The Trotters and David's will play a night engagement at the Exhibition Park on the date mentioned.

Ole Satchmo, who was leading his bank account far faster than a lot of major leaguers, finally fell to the blandishments of Bill Veeck, then of the Cleveland Indians, and signed with the Tribe. He played four seasons with the Yeockers and the St. Louis Browns, then was cut loose. All of which was up the Satch's alley, so to speak.

He was the biggest baseball drawing card outside the majors and, it is predicted, he will attract more fans here than in any season he spent with them. Satch, unlike many other baseball stars never laid awake nights dreaming of the thrills he would get when he was traded or sold. He flirted with the steady downpour of golden drops that fell from the skies in the parks outside the "big time."

There was nothing of the Yankee Stadium about the parks in which he packed them in with a three-inning stint six days a week, but Satchel wasn't bothered; he was getting his share of the box office loot.

He had his moments in the majors, too. The Washington Senators were sitting ducks for the magic flipper of the ageless one. His lifetime record against Washington was 11 victories, four defeats. In the memorable 17-inning game in which he held the Senators scoreless after the ninth inning, Satchmo got weary of the whole business and broke up the game by hitting a hit, his third of the contest. The Nats had men on third twice in those extra innings with one out. They got nothing. Paige pitched to Eddie Yost and struck him out. He gave Jackie Jensen the same deal. "He threw me his arm, his elbow and his wrist, everything but the ball," said Yost. "The next thing I knew he threw the ball, too, to my great surprise."

LOVE THAT GHOST!

We asked Manager Jack Carson about it. We queried Coach Vern Geyer anent the thing. In fact we asked several people, and they shook their heads. In case you fans do not know what this is all about, the Estes Park area is haunted. In fact the "Misty Mistlewson" went to the mound the other night against Oshawa, relieved Art Wright in the ninth and retired the side. His name is Billy Smith.

Swelp me, we saw it in the press box with brother Devine, and Phil Flagler of CJBQ; likeable Gordie Garrison and Billy Smith (Hah) of the Oshawa radio station and other hablibues, and we'll be dagnabbed if we saw any hurler by the name of Smith go out there. In fact as far as our records go, Wright went the route in a fine mound effort.

But a fan sent us a clipping of of the Oshawa paper, the signed column of "Soup to Nuts," George H. Campbell. Mr. Campbell, who apparently disdained wired "facts," came up with the info that "Billy Smith", etc., relieved Wrights in the ninth. He had Kelleher tagging out a double in the fifth. "Joe" was taken out in the second, etc.

Manager Carson and Coach Geyer would like Mr. Campbell to reveal the whereabouts of this mystery hurler. They figure they can use him against Oshawa tonight. Incidentally, Billy Smith, the Oshawa radio sports announcer, is a "real" guy. But we'll be danged, shd he admits it, if he pitched baseball that night.

However it appears that the Bates do not need any ghost pitcher against the "powerful" Oshawa Transporters. They are scheduled to appear here next Tuesday night, and we sincerely hope "Mr. Smith" will be around. The "ghost," that is. We know the "Smith" in the flesh will be on hand.

"Was somebody pulling your leg, Campbell?"

SHOULD BE GOOD!

Al Meagher, the "voice" of the Canadian National Railway Recreation Association, tells us that this "Ace" Holden and his four-man crew, who appear at the CNRAA Recreation Park next Saturday evening against Paul (The Man) Revere's Bicentics, plus some additional strength, are one of the best softball attractions to appear here since they were here last season. If our memory serves us right the "Ace" was troubled with a sore arm on that occasion, but brother what a show he put on.

The "Ace" and his crew are under new management. They are now sponsored by the Carling's Breweries and wear the tab "Red Cape." - "Speed" Weller, Carling's man hereabouts, tells us on that account of his company, which is well known for its interest in, and furtherance of, clean, wholesome sport as well as conservation. Ask that erudite "Perc" Ketchason (the Hatch), only about that. His column "Ketch's Korner" is one of the best as far as outdoor life goes.

However, the "Ace" has gathered a couple of new faces and it is said, the team is about 100 per cent better than that of a year ago. If that is possible. It is one of the best softball attractions to appear here in many years and the fans should not pass it up. The game starts at seven o'clock so there will be lots of time for the brown bread, beans, beer and bath afterward. In fact it is the only sports attraction of the evening on that date.

Pint-Sized Lefthander Runs Scoreless Innings to Record; Dodgers Chip Giants Margin

By Ben Fehlgar
Associated Press Sports Writer

If some of the major league's best pitchers turned up with aching backs today they have a good excuse.

They're busy taking bows for Friday night's games when 36 every active park in the two circuits there was at least one hurler who covered himself with glory.

At the Polo Grounds it was Harvey Haddix of the St. Louis Cardinals. The pint-sized lefthander snapped the New York Giants' six-game winning streak with his third straight shutout, 5-0.

In winning his ninth consecutive game Haddix put his string of scoreless innings to 32, longest in the majors this season. He also increased his top-ranking strikeout total by 7 to 86 and his overall record to 11-3. Nobody else has won as many as 10. Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals has both leagues.

THREE SINGLES

At Forbes Field Vern Law, one of the National League's brightest rookies, allowed Milwaukee only three singles and won the game 4-1 for Pittsburgh while the Braves loaded single in the last of the ninth.

Corky Valentine, another rookie, outduelled Curt Simmons as Cincinnati whacked Philadelphia 4-0. Wally Post collected four hits and drove in both runs for the Redlegs.

Joy in Flatbush came from Don Newcombe's first complete game since May 7. The big righthander turned back Chicago 6-2 as the Dodgers chipped the Giants' league lead to a single game. Newcombe struck out eight, did not issue last six innings. Gil Hodges homered twice.

In the American League Cleveland beat Boston 5-4 as Bob Lemon shaded Chicago 7-6. Philadelphia edged Detroit 2-1 and Washington outlasted Baltimore 7-5 in 13 innings.

HOW THEY FARED

And here's how the pitchers fared:

Mike Garcia, the Big Bear of the Indians, turned back the Red Sox on four singles for his ninth victory, his club's ninth straight triumph and the Indians' ninth success in nine meetings with Boston this year.

The only solace for the Red Sox was the first pitching appearance since April 30 of Mel Parnell, the lefthander, recovering from a wrist fracture, pitched one inning in relief and retired the Indians in order.

Art Ditmar, a rookie Park in Chicago a pitcher starred in a different role. Bob Grim, another rookie and a relief man in the fifth, won the game with his hitting. He singled home two Yankee runs in the sixth and hit his first major league home run with one aboard in the eighth.

Grim needed help from Johnny Sain in the ninth.

At Briggs Stadium in Detroit young Arnold Portocarrero checked the Tigers for four hits and was in complete command after Ray Boone's first inning home run. Only a week ago the Tigers had beaten the rookie 16-3.

Remember When

Joe Louis, making the 17th successful defence of his world heavyweight crown, knocked out Billy Conn in the eighth round at Yankee Stadium, New York, eight years ago tonight. Five years previously Louis had needed 13 rounds to dispose of Conn. For their second meeting a crowd of 45,000 paid a total of $19,925,500, a mark surpassed only by the $2,658,000 gate receipts for the second Dempsey-Tunney fight at Chicago in 1927.

Elgins Outlast Galt Pitchers; Panthers Lose

By The Canadian Press

St. Thomas Elgins went through three innings and 45 minutes of play and four Galt pitchers Friday night to gain their ninth Senior Intercounty Baseball League victory.

The score was 9-8 in the 10th inning when pitcher Bill Hanrahan of Galt Terriers allowed a walk and forced in the tie-breaking run.

In the only other league battle Guelph - Waterloo Royals rallied with four runs in the seventh and three in the ninth to score an 8-5 victory over Kitchener Panthers. It was the second consecutive defeat for Panthers who had a seven-game winning streak until Thursday night when they fell 10-2 to London Majors.

NICKEL BELT

In the Nickel Belt Senior Baseball League, Sudbury Shamrocks took over first place with a 2-1 win over Garson Greyhounds. Pitcher Jack Lamothe needed help in the eighth inning from Ralph McCabe for the win.

At Timmins, Porcupine Combines lost an easy 13-4 win over Abitibi Athletics to extend their winning streak to four games. Copper Cliff won a 6-5 slugfest decision of the loop, downed Creighton Indians 10-6.

WINNING RUN

The winning run at St. Thomas was scored when Ray Urban hit a two-bagger to right field and Jackie Bird got a pass ball. Herm Mason was also walked after Andrews filled the bases. Then Gordy Gray was passed intentionally and Bruno Casanova was forced in Urban with the victory run.

Art O'Connor paced Galt with four hits in five trips, including two doubles. John Ambrose was credited with the win and Hanrahan was charged with the loss. It was Galt's sixth loss against 10 wins. Six of the wins had five losses.

Highlander Lou Fauth went the distance for Guelph-Waterloo and was tagged for 12 hits. Cy Bericker took third on a passed ball. Herm Mason was also walked after Andrews filled the bases. Then Gordy Gray was passed intentionally and Bruno Casanova was forced in Urban with the victory run.

Art O'Connor paced Galt with four hits in five trips, including two doubles. John Ambrose was credited with the win and Hanrahan was charged with the loss. It was Galt's sixth loss against 10 wins. Six of the wins had five losses.

Highlander Lou Fauth went the distance for Guelph-Waterloo and was tagged for 12 hits. Cy Bericker was charged with the loss. Playing-manager Ed Sokol clinched the victory with a two-run hit in three-run homer off George Bonilace, one of five Kitchener pitchers to perform in the game.

SCOTLAND BEATEN

EDINBURGH (Reuters)—Pakistan completed up a 10-wicket victory over Scotland Friday, recovering from a seemingly impossible situation by putting out the entire Scottish side in 105 minutes.

When Scotland began their second innings half an hour after lunch, they led 333 to 295. A draw seemed inevitable. But behind the fast medium bowling of Mahmood Hussain, who captured six wickets for 17 runs, four of them clean bowled, Pakistan quickly got their 10 wickets.

ZULUETA WINS

NEW YORK (AP) — Orlando Zulueta used his talented left hand to jab his way to a unanimous decision over defensive- - minded Johnny Gonsalves Friday night in a 10-round Madison Square Garden bout between two speedy lightweights. Zulueta weighed 134½, Gonsalves 134.

They will have three other rivals —Blue Scooter, Bellfares and Setton—but public interest is centred on the feud between Canadiana, owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, and Chain Reaction, owned by Mrs. Elodie Tomlinson of Oakville, Ont., and Winnipeg.

Paul, 'She Was Good Rassler,' Mangles Mills in Main Bout

By GEO. H. CARTER,
Sports Editor.

"Ho-Ho" chuckled big Paul Ballargeon, the huge home-town pig wrassler from Cite Keebec, "I-I-I'z done Mealy Dunnet his goat, eh? An' the big Quebec oil tossed back his head and "smote" a laugh that might have stirred mythical Big Bunyan in his grave.

"Ho", the burly habitant chortled, "dey t'ink dey are tough, yes?" And he threw his head back so far you could see where the pigs snout had made tiny tracks on his tonsils.

To give the big guy credit he practically whipped the "Rats Inc." duo Al and Tiny Mills, single handed in that tussle tentatively at Memorial Arena last night.

He was sided and abetted to some extent by the giant-size Tex Mackenzie, whose mere scowl at fleet nine inches above sea level and who mainly was the "fall guy" for the horrendous gymnastics of the hair-drapes from the gopher holes of Alberta.

The Mills Boys should wear white streaks in their matted hair to give the general public a hint as to their standing in rassledom as far as fandom declares. For one run their stringy locks they secrete some sort of perfume which they remove after declaring war in the heat of combat and gently but firmly massage the opposing cauliflowered mother as he is looking or not. It is probably Channel "Cat No. 3867543. At any event, "accidentially . . . ."

JUST ROSE PLAY.

You, reference, Paul, a rugged rascal who tosses Clydesdales around the home pastures to keep in shape was in his habitual form last night. He fretted and chafed at the ringside ropes, tore off pairs of ropes with his twisting fingers as he watched his Lone Star Slat mangle. Yes, gentle he well known wolks from the "Hate Inc." dass.

Then it came his turn. He pulled the pin as he "leap" over the ropes and the "Battle Royal" exploded in all directions.

He "flung" Mealy Fully over the hemps, and sent tiny, his partner in crime, along as a chaser. He whammed Tex and slammed him; he slashed 'em and bashed 'em, he the rowd rose in unholy glee.

That was the first fall.

After consultation with their attorneys in the dressing room the Mills Bills emerged with hate in their eyes, perfume in their hair, and insurance policies paid up.

REPEAT SHOW.

But they had not reckoned with M'sieu Paul. He flexed the mighty muscles that make an Alpine Percheron look like a weaned colt, and sent his "pocket" in as round 2 bait. Tex, who has to duck every time he comes up against a rather, was a good "fall guy" as he absorbed some terrific punishment before he pinned Al in a neutral corner where M'sieu Paul was waiting.

"Hoh, B'Dam, B'gar, B'Jupers, B'Love Sacre Bleu" yelled Paul, who has a pal friend in the Allied Nations' secretariat, as he cleared the ropes in a hurdle that would make Mal Whitfield look like a toddler, "He che comes."

Again he clutched and he hawmed, and brought the house down as he heaved and hurled the Mills boys willy-nilly about the ring. He even took a good-natured slug at portly Bunny Deakin, who incidentally was the referee and whose eyesight is gradually failing. At least it looked that way at times. But it was a good show with the proper fade-out.

Ray Villmar and Timmy McIlroy Geohegan put on a fine show in the semi-final. They wrestled to a thirty-minute draw in a display that had the crowd cheering both wrestlers. It was clean, clever and deserved all the applause it received.

Johnny Savard, pride of Rochester, and Don Lewin, opened the show with a thirty-minute tie.

Hockey Player Harks to Baseball

WINDSOR (CP)—Marc Reaume, 20-year-old defenceman of last year's St. Michael's Majors in the Junior A OHA and a candidate for a defence post with the Toronto Maple Leafs of the NHL, Friday was reported listening to professional baseball bids.

During the last two weeks, the hard-hitting catcher has been slugging the ball at a .370 clip with Windsor West End Athletic Club in the Detroit Amateur Baseball Federation class A league. He was invited to Briggs Stadium early this week where he worked out under the eyes of Tiger officials of the American League.

Batting—Wally Post, Cincinnati Redlegs, collected four hits and drove in both runs as the Redlegs defeated Philadelphia Phillies 2-1.

Bluebirds Whip Stewart Warner By 13-5 Score

Behind the two-hit pitching of Bruno McCurdy, the Bluebird juniors turned back Stewart Warner last night, 13-5, to pull into a second place tie with Peterboro. The game was under the lights at the Alemite field.

Marcier's beardless ones did most of their scoring in the early innings, getting all their runs in the first two. A six-run explosion in the second and three more in the third. Their final two runs came in the ninth frame. Stewart Warner pushed across two in each of the fourth and seventh, both squeezing another in the third.

McCurdy went all the way for the victory, surrendering a homer and a single, while whiffing six and walking three. On one run off him was earned, that being opposing pitcher Frank Baldwin's circuit clout in the fifth.

Baldwin was very free with the free ride, allowing 12 while credited with three strikeouts and charged with four bases on balls.

Singles by Bob Bowman and St. Denis accounted for the first two tallies and in the second the Juniors sent ten men to bat. Three drew a walk to open the inning and then Baldwin safe on a fielder's choice play, successful attempts to steal, Stewart Goyer and Green, an error and Bowman's single by St. Denis sent six runs scampering home.

A walk to McCurdy, teamed with singles by Bowman and Goyer made it 11-0 while the last tally were made possible by an error and singles by Bowman and Day.

Fourth inning runs off McCurdy came from a pair of walks, a hit batter and a Bluebird error while Baldwin added another as he held off the fifth frame with two singles. Two more free walks, two errors and a fielder's choice plated their fourth and fifth runs.

Paul Russell, third baseman for the Bluebirds, paced the attack with four singles while Gerry Goyer and Bowman, Day, Bill Wells, Green, Dave Jones and Junior Day each banged out a brace of safeties to help Mac Marcier in having the odd one.

Dave Goldby had a single to go with Baldwin's homer for the losers.

The teams:

Bluebirds—Russell, Jones, Goyer, Green, Day, Bowman, Lewis, Wallbridge, Kellett, McCurdy, Day, White, Casey, Barclay, B. Green.

Stewart Warner—Murray, Millaley, Kelly, Goldby, Ashley, Cornell, Bertrim, Jabbes, Mahon, Creggan, Lewis, Dall, Powers.

Cards Ready To Make Move Says Stanky

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie Stanky thinks his St. Louis Cardinals are ready about ready to make their move.

The fiery little manager appeared pleased Friday over his team's pennant chances Friday despite a recent losing streak that knocked them out of first place clear into the second division.

"You watch us," he said. "Next year, our pitching is set," said Stanky.

"Don Kolloway says Gerry Staley are finally pitching the brand of ball expected of them. With Harry Haddix and Vic Raschi continuing to look good practically every time they've showed they still have a Big Four worthy of the name.

The Cardinal currently are fifth place. They've split 32 games down the middle, far below a pennant-winning gait.

Minor Baseball

Schwabe bantam baseballers defeated the CNRAA team 6-0 in a Bantam Minor League game. The game played at the CNRAA Recreation Park last night.

The winners practically clinched the contest with four runs in the first inning. They added another in the second and fourth. The ralroad kids were held to three hits and threatened to score in the second and fifth innings.

Jackie Elliott went the route for Schwabs, striking out six batters behind some fine fielding. Byners on the mound for the CNRAA was touched for eight safeties as his mates bobbled the ball on three occasions.

Ernie Exard paced his team with three singles and a double for a perfect batting at the plate. Dicky Bonner and Exard's brother were the losers.

British Soccer Gets Another Deadly Setback

LONDON (AP)—British sports writers used some scalding phrases Friday to describe the performance of the English soccer squad in allowing Belgium to gain a 4-4 draw at Brussels.

The Daily Herald described the British players as "lazy-looking and completely without heart" in the first part of the game . . . "English football suffered another deadly blow in Europe . . . England, this was pitiful," the Daily Sketch headlined describing the match as of "great, humbling humiliation" for England.

Belgian newspapers were seldom less Friday in their comments on the draw.

The daily sports newspaper "Les Sports" said: "Courage is not enough to explain this result. The undoubted decadence of British football does not explain it either. Even in bad form, England had stock in a style of soccer now outmoded. The British players remain astonishing in their manoeuvre and control the ball perfectly."

Het Laatste Nieuws said: "The British team played an old-and-outdated game . . . a team that lacks vigor and velocity."

Royal Ascot Winds Up In Turmoil

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ASCOT, England (CP) — Royal Ascot, the ritziest race meeting of them all, wound up Friday after four days of high fashion and that railbirds will long remember.

There were all sorts of shocks—a photo finish decided by a judge's ruling pulled one, a race in which the horses rolled around in the ten sailors, and a six-month suspension for Australian Derby winner Never Say Die.

The latter was the result of the discovery that something is screwy on the famous old Ascot course. Never Say Die, winner by a nose in front of the grandstand proved beyond doubt that horses driven on the stands side might ust as well stay in the stables.

In these events, placed horses came exclusively from those drawn nearest the rail numbers on the far side. Through some quirk, Tuesday's race for two-year-olds inevitably finished a city block behind the leaders.

One popular explanation: When the track is heavy the going on the stands side is much tough, slowing even the fastest runner. Wednesday's five draw came in being deified occurred Wednesday when Paul Hatvany's Chivalry, Ashley, Kelly, Goldby, Cornell, Bertrim, Jabbes, Mahon, Creggan, Lewis, Dall, Powers. drawn in the No. 1 position, won the Royal Hunt Cup, Chivalry sloped over to the favored part of the course and just beat King or the Tudors in a finish that is still in dispute.

To the naked eye, the photo showed Chivalry dead beat. But the judge took out a powerful magnifying glass, studied a microscopic margin and gave the race to Chivalry, which paid 50 to 1 in the pari-mutuels.

Marciano's Fighting Style Crude But Very Effective, Says Talbot

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Probably the most accurate and enduring words that have been written or uttered about the big fight up to tonight credited to Manager Charles, the loser, as he sat in his dressing room a few minutes after his ordeal had ended.

Though it looked as though it had collided with a beer truck, Ez took careful stock and said he thought each of the several fights with Jersey Joe Walcott had been tougher than the one Rocky concluded against Rocky Marciano, the champion.

"With Walcott you've got to think all the time," said Charles. "He's a master ring tactician. With this guy you don't have to think nothing out. You know what he's going to do."

Rocky's way of doing battle could be no more concisely described by a man with a typewriter and a two-inch stack of paper.

SUPER ENDURANCE

All the world champion knows how to do is shuffle forward in a half crouch and deliver either a left hook or a looping right at an opponent's head. It's simple but it's effective and requires only a little coordination and super endurance.

Someone has called him the fistic counterpart of the Big Inch pipeline of the game. That would be difficult to prove, but it's entirely possible. Certainly no heavyweight ever could absorb more punishment or longer to bring himself to an absolute physical peak than Marciano just before he fights.

BUT NOTHING HAPPENED

Perhaps 100 times, in the course of 15 savage rounds Charles measured his man with a right cross he had. He set himself solidly and, as Rocky moved within range, missed, threw in a barrage of lefts and rights that should have torn the champ's head off.

Instead, they didn't do anything. It's a matter of record that not one sixth round it was a one-sided fight; no matter what you might have heard or read.

As in the eyes of the eye we still see the game veteran bumbling around helplessly, unable to defend himself. Rocky just punched himself arm-weary through a ballroom of the later rounds, the wonder is that Charles can talk so soon of wanting to go though it again in September.

Frankford Trims Bobcats 8-5

FRANKFORD — Frankford scored their third win of the season last night as they entertained the Belleville Bobcats and coasted home with an 8-5 score in a Belleville and District Softball League game.

Dave Hamilton pitched the route for Frankford, allowing 11 hits, fanning eight, walking four, and issuing no one batter. For the Bobcats it was Jack Rigel, giving up 10 hits, striking out two, issuing four free passes and hitting a batter.

Four runs in the third put the homesters ahead to stay as they used an error, a double, two singles, plus Bill Rankin's triple to good advantage. They pushed across two in the sixth and another pair in the eighth.

One in the fourth and one in the seventh kept the Bobcats within striking distance and they put up a good fight in the ninth with three runs on two singles, an error and Bert Wallace's triple. Too late and too little.

Rankin was credited with a trio of singles for Frankford while Bill Rankin chipped in a pair. Cosgrove had two singles while Murphy claimed a brace for himself and Lowery split a brace of one-baggers.

Bill Nolan hit McColl almost at will, four singles in five trips. Bert Whalen had two triples with Temple and Norwood banging a brace of singles each. Dussberry got the other single.

Rhode Island Fight Promoter Dangles Bait

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Boxing promoter Manny Almeida of Providence says he has guaranteed heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano $275,000 to defend his title in Rhode Island next September.

Almeida Friday night telegraphed Marciano and the Champion's manager, Al Weill, listing a privilege of taking 45% per cent of the net gate for a title defence against Ezzard Charles.

Almeida, who has promoted 29 of Marciano's 46 pro fights, said Providence and Rhode Island bid would draw "at least 50,000 and do a million dollars at the gate."

Providence is only 94 miles from Brockton, Mass., home of the champion.

BATS TITLE VACANT

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania Boxing Commission Friday declared the light heavyweight boxing championship vacant and said it would recognize an elimination tournament to choose a successor to Archie Moore. The action was based on what chairman Charles Johnston described as "utter disregard" of Moore's manager, Charley Johnston, in nominating the champion for fight Philadelphia contender Harold Johnson.

Royal Rookie Clubs Two Home Runs In Wings' Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After a three-year hitch in military service, Jack Fashoo, a rookie first baseman of Rochester Royals, apparently is finding International League pitching as much to his liking as his pre-Korean days in the Western League.

He was with Omaha of the western loop in 1951, his last year of baseball before the call to the colors and hit .307 with 77 runs batted in.

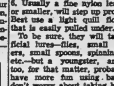
Friday night, he clubbed a pair of two-run home runs to lead the Red Wings to a 10-3 victory over Montreal Royals and provided the games behind Toronto Maple Leafs who turned back Ottawa Athletics, 5-2.

11 HITS

The Royals nicked Jack Fashoo for 11 hits but they also stranded 11 runners. Bill Renna also hit a homer for the Wings.

Archie Wilson provided the winning margin for the Leafs with a three-run round-tripper, his seventh of the year. Connie Johnson got the victory although he was tripped for relief by Lake Kastor and Joe Taylor.

In other action, Syracuse Chiefs trounced Havana Sugar Kings to end a five-game losing streak, and Buffalo Bisons and Richmond Virginians divided a doubleheader.



The Virginians won 7-5 in the afternoon session but the Bisons came back to win the night game, 5-3, behind the six-hit pitching of Hal Erickson who was aided by home runs by Danny Ryan and Mal Hoderick.

Summer Fishing

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Salmar Tablet.)

Summertime is synonymous with vacation time. Then it is that the salaried man avails himself of those cherished two or three weeks of vacation on pay. Some, to be sure, go to the shore, play golf, or what have you, but by far the great majority plan their vacation around fishing trips.

During the summer months the season is open on most all of our fresh-water game fish. Salmon, trout, pickerel, walleye, etc., command a certain amount of attention, but by far the popular species among us are the two headliners, fish and bass.

PAN FISH

The great popular appeal that pan fish have for the general angling no doubt can be attributed to the fact that they are easy to catch with the simplest sort of tackle and their numbers are legion, so that the sport rarely comes home empty-handed.

For years much stress has been laid on the importance of taking a boy fishing. It is a good idea and should be encouraged. However, simply advancing the idea is not enough. Some suggestions are in order for the fathers, uncles and friends who feel like following through.

Every week-end of the trout season, or part thereof, there will be on, of all places, our big trout rivers. The boy will be there in an attempt to fish such waters; thus, they hang around on the bank, bother everybody, and nobody—father or sons—has a good time.

The best way to start a boy fishing is to go after pan fish. These can be caught with his daddy's inexpensive tackle. Most states, regardless of latitude, now enjoy fishing seasons for pan fish, so the boy is free to fish to his heart's content with all he can and have a grand time.

ANNUAL HARVEST

As our cultivists gain knowledge of fish management, we find that one of the vital things concerning pan fish is to harvest the crop annually. To thrive, the pan fish population of any body of water should be reduced systematically annually so that it does not outgrow its food supply.

Recent studies in Virginia on a 60-acre lake show some interesting figures. The average weight of the catches during the season. As might be expected, 31 per cent of the fish were pan fish.

After three months, the lake was fished out. Every species was counted and weighed. They found that the 1000 fish caught during three months represented only 15 per cent of the lake's sport-fish population. Of the 1000 fish, 75 per cent of the lake's sport-fish population. Of the 1000 fish, 75 per cent of the lake's sport-fish were pan fish.

As I say, pan fish are easy to catch. They bite readily almost any time of day and they will take just about any kind of bait—worms, small minnows, cut bait, crickets, and so on.

Should you be short of bait, you can always fall back on "bonnet worms." Find a bed of lily pads and then look for those bunches which have brown spots where the stems attach to the leaves. Open such a stem and there you will find a greenish-white grub. The pan fish regard these with high r'ar'er.

Fourth have small mouths; for that reason it is best to use small hooks, rarely not larger than No. 6. Usually a fine nylon leader, fine or smaller, will step up production. Best use a light quill float, one that is easily pulled under.

To be sure, they will take artificial lures—flies, small streamers, small spoons, spinning lures, etc.—but a youngster, and you, too, for that matter, probably will have more fun using bait. And don't worry about taking home all you catch. It is good conservation, as real sportsmen will tell you, to reduce pan-fish populations to the danger point.

BLACK BASS.

Next to pan fish, the black bass seems to be the most popular fresh-water game fish for summer fishing. Both popular species—the largemouth and the smallmouth—provide excellent sport and they give you a very satisfactory angling contest on light tackle.

One of the nice things about bass fishing is that you can learn more about the fish themselves and the better you learn how to locate your fish, the more of them you can catch. In other words, bass fishing becomes a game, or a woman, to learn angling.

Moreover, bass fishing can be done right along in very hot weather and you can still have a good fish with bait, either fresh or salted. There are also times when they will take surface lures with real success.

If you enjoy casting—fly rod, plug rod or spinning rod—bass fishing will provide satisfactory antagonists. If they are in a stubborn mood, they will fail you almost any lure that the skillful of man can conceive. Just take a look at the variety of lures in any tackle shop. They all catch fish.

There are certain baits which may improve your bass fishing this summer. First and foremost is the live-minnow lure as used slowly. Bass often are deliberate, but they can be tempted into striking. So take your time.

As I say, anybody can be pretty much what you want to make it. A kind Providence has done many nice things for the sportsmen. To my way of thinking, bass fishing is one of the nicest.

The ancient two-storey Kallasa Temple in Hyderabad, India, was carved from the solid rock of a 100-foot cliff.

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines Athletics scored five goals in the last 10 minutes Friday night to defeat Hamilton Tigers 9-7 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association senior game.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Director of Baseball
Copr. 1954, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

There are some easy plays in baseball which players make difficult. One is fielding the batted ball.

On most tag plays only one base-runner is involved. Unless the base-runner is forced between the bases, and a runner should develops, let the runner come to you. Don't go out to meet him.

There have been a number of instances when high tags have permitted runners to advance from first to third. The writer was told between a third-baseman's legs when the baseman made a high tag while straddling the base line.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Let's take a look at some of the current and forthcoming movies.

"Demetrius and the Gladiators" is a clear and unabashed attempt to cash in on the popularity of "The Robe." Using some of the same sets and actors plus a fragment of the original theme, the sequel tosses in a large supply of sex and violence for good measure. Vic Mature and Susan Hayward supply intensity as the erring hero and the Measuring-Rod Roman lady. Jay Robinson's job as the Emperor is even worse than it was in "The Robe," in that's possible.

"Living It Up" is perhaps the best of the Martin and Lewis romps. For once they have a substantial vehicle — taken from the Broadway show "Inside Flagg," which was taken from the movie "Nothing Sacred." Janet Leigh is lively aside, and Sheree North provides the wildest mowth dance in history.

"Magnificent Obsession" is a pleasant dose of mesmo and sentiment. The old Robert Taylor-Irene Dunne movie has been remade with Rock Hudson, Jane Wyman and color. Miss Wyman suffers beautifully.

"The Student Prince" is yet another remake. (Don't they make any new pictures?) During the early moments, you wonder: Why on earth did they drag out this old piece of claptrap? But then you get into the swing of it and you see how these old operettas charmed an earlier generation. This one is glossed up with everything but a new plot and provides diversion. Edmund Purdom mouths Mario Lanza's songs and is stiffly competent.

"The Caine Mutiny" measures up to the bigness of its story. Not that it's perfect. Drawbacks: Jerkiness of the early narrative and the love story, which could have been scuttled. The film's best is the tale alive is the glowing personality of Shirley Booth. Without her, this would have been a dull affair.

Least is Humphrey Bogart's portrait of Captain Queeg.

"About Mrs. Leslie" rambles on in the manner of a serial in a woman's magazine. What brings Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" is one of those rare musicals that discard formula for originality. This handsome hunk of folktale tells how seven brothers won their wives in frontier days. Young, loyal players sing and dance for all they're worth, to their delight.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, for Saturday, June 19, 1954.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — It may be hard to distinguish between sincere propositions and tricky, hollow schemes or gestures. Genially albeit firmness may hold off those seeking to take advantage of you. Heed sound advice.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Plan your day's work carefully. Pattern activities upon successful experiences and follow through closely to avoid errors. Extend the horizon of your activities judiciously.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Some advances, but you'd better be on guard for pitfalls. Smarted obstacles. And don't let haste spoil a good day. Look close by for opportunities.

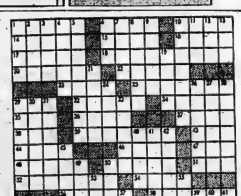
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Today's outlook is not entirely encouraging. Influences suggest that you be most thoughtful in management, rightly-concerned with complex or perplexing matters.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Aim to overcome unfriendly conditions with taste, tact, patience and tolerance. Assist where you can; it will react favorably, carry weight in your favor. Press no issues unwarrantably.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) —Finish whatever you start. Gains possible. Scholars, musicians, doctors, teachers, civic, government projects highly sponsored. Look for honestly earned honors.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You may have to forget some personal wishes in order to get the full co-operation that could help you in the overall picture. Be concerned about what the other fellow is doing, thinking.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Try to keep one step ahead of the other fellow; also keep clear of dissension with superiors, relatives, everybody. Don't invite nervous tension. Your judgment is fine when you remain calm.



November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Responsibilities may seem to pile up, but your commonsense and keen perception should save many steps and errors. Don't permit outside influences to upset your plans; be consistently active.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — This may be a dull, unattractive day. But try to realize that this is generally so for many—in business, professional or domestic affairs. So mind your answers, don't overpress; but do act.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Not entirely generous aspects now. Financial, business and personal matters need closer scrutiny for pitfalls. The smartly energetic one will have a good share of benefits, however.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) —Activities in your particular line should give you pleasure as well as bear fruit, IF, of course, you have faith and use your talents rightly. Meet obligations head-on; don't shirk.

YOU BORN TODAY have considerable cleverness to develop; are versatile, restless, quick of mind and action. You may sometimes be difficult to get along with; then again most gracious, generous, sympathetic. Aim always toward consistency, ease of action, and tolerance of others. Don't scatter your energies in too many directions. Offer your ideas, business propositions to high honorable bidders, but also listen to others' propositions and suggestions. This is vital to best results, harmony, good health. Birthdate: Blaise Pascal, Fr. philosopher, mathematician.

Be Careful of That Outboard Motor, It Serves You Well But Can Do Harm

TORONTO—Don't put an overpowered outboard motor on a small boat! This is the warning of rangers of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, alarmed at the increasing number of water accidents involving careless or reckless boaters.

During the Second World War, outboard motor power was greatly increased until it is possible now to obtain motors ranging up to 50 h.p. The average fisherman or cottager has been accustomed to motors of not more than 10h.p. and the acceleration of the higher-powered engines, if carelessly handled, may throw a boat end for end.

The Department, which operates more outboard motors than any other organization in Ontario, has few accidents, mainly because its men are trained to handle the motors, rangers point out.

The believe that the average "cottage boat" to be used by families holidaying at summer resorts is driven far enough and fast enough with motors ranging down from 10 h.p. rather than up. Any children are to use the boat, rangers would rather see them playing with 1.5 h.p. motors than anything much larger. Incidentally, that is the size motor that is quite satisfactory for lake trout trolling, a favourite summer sport.

THE COMMON SENSE

Judgment and common sense are just as necessary in operating a boat as a car, Department experts say. First essential is a good boat, strong and watertight, capable of carrying whatever the load is to be, of shape and design that will not slip over, or all over-all type adapted to the kind of service, weather and water in which it will be operated.

They urge knowledge of the water and weather conditions, not only how best between you and back. Also, they advise, know how to swim. Equip the boat on every outing, no matter how short or how protected, with essential safety devices. There should be a buoyant life jacket or cushion for each passenger, a pair of oars or, at least, one paddle, an extra can of fuel for the motor, a small kit of tools—screwdriver, adjustable wrench, pliers—a couple of extra spark plugs, a spare shear pin and several extra dives or "shear" pins for the propeller.

Rocking the boat, making turns at too high speed, overloading, driving a motor-equipped boat too close to or among bathers, venturing into water that is rough or may become so, are dangerous and foolish.

Making turns at too high speed, rangers say, is one of the most common faults and dangers. Two person already have lost their lives this year by being thrown from boats which circled and ran them down.

Be careful in cranking the outboard. Don't stand up or kneel on the rear seat to do so for motors may start suddenly and throw you off balance. If you can't start the outboard with a couple of easy pulls on the starter cord, chances are that something is wrong with either the ignition or fuel supply and prolonged cranking from an upright position will not help. Instead, it may take your life!

Garden Notes

Garden Chores for June

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

If your wisteria failed to bloom well it is time to root prune. If the plant is only a few years old, three feet out from the main stock dig a trench the depth of a spade, loosen the bottom soil and replace with good top soil, manure, or compost. Sever all roots crossing this area. Older plants should have the trench dug further out, say up to six feet from the stock, according to age. The branches should not entwine as they choke each other. Feed and water generously, and top prune in August if the growth becomes rank.

It is not too late to plant morning glories. Soak the seeds in warm water over night, or nick the seeds with a nail file. The thick covering takes a long time to break if it does not have a little help. If you want the vines to cover a low fence nip out the top growth when the plants reach one foot high, and again when the side shoots have grown a foot. This will cause the plants to spread out rather than run to the top and produce many loose tendrils.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

SINGING POSTURES AND PERCHES

Have you ever watched singing mannerisms of individuals in a large choir? They really are amusing. One person continually smiles and sways to the rhythm of the music, another pulls his face sideways and wears a pained expression, while a third gazes at the conductor with fixed attention and, with mouth wide open, looks as though he had every intention of swallowing the poor man.

Notice various kinds of birds, and you will discover that they too have singing mannerisms.

Typical of the average, enthusiastic singer, the song sparrow throws back his head, and as his stubby bill opens and shuts the feathers of his throat jump up and down. He is not difficult to see, because his most popular perches are right in the open: the top of a fence post, a flag pole, or a small tree.

To judge by the contortions of the yellow-headed blackbird, we might expect something very fine; but his voice is harsh and croaking. Even less musical is the song of the American bittern, yet great preparations are made before it even begins. He lowers his body, stretches his neck, clicks, and finally sticks up his head—all are a sound is heard.

PERCHES VARY

More varied than the postures are the perches of the singers. A brown thrasher sings from a high branch, a vesper sparrow loves a fence, a goldfinch often chooses a telephone wire, and a red-winged blackbird balances on a reed. A long-billed marsh wren has been caught singing while poised between two reeds—one foot on each.

Most birds prefer a high singing perch. Even though a field sparrow builds its nest in a low bush or on the ground, it sings from a fairly high branch. But the field thrush sparrow is satisfied to spend all its time in the grass, and there it sings its weak little song.

Not content with one special singing perch, some kinds of birds are the perches of the singers. A brown thrasher sings from a high branch, a vesper sparrow loves a fence, a goldfinch often chooses a telephone wire, and a red-winged blackbird balances on a reed. A long-billed marsh wren has been caught singing while poised between two reeds—one foot on each.

Most birds prefer a high singing perch. Even though a field sparrow builds its nest in a low bush or on the ground, it sings from a fairly high branch. But the field thrush sparrow is satisfied to spend all its time in the grass, and there it sings its weak little song.

Not content with one special singing perch, some kinds of birds tire several. A Whip-poor-will visits his in rotation. These may be some tree, your rain barrel, and your sawhorse.

Occasionally a meadowlark gives what is known as a flight song, and a gray-cheeked thrush has been seen singing in flight. But this is an ordinary occurrence for certain species.

The goldfinch, bobolink, yellow-breasted chat, yellowthroat, and ovenbird all have a flight song before their ordinary ones. The purple finch has all these stunts. After warbling beautifully from one branch he often mounts into the air, continuing to sing, then lands elsewhere to finish his song.

HOW WHITE IS WHITE...

That sounds like a riddle, but the technicians in EATON'S Research Bureau consider it a simple, straightforward question. Some white paints, for example, are much whiter and stay white longer than others, depending on the quantity of Titanium used — and that degree of whiteness is often an important factor. In our Research laboratory there's a Reckman Spectrophotometer which measures the strength or intensity of colours and it shows accurately how white white really is. This fascinating instrument helps us, too, to match the colour of several batches of paint, or printing ink or face powder.

Since many vitamins produce a colour when mixed with other substances, the Spectrophotometer can measure the strength of that colour and determine the vitamin content. That's one reason why EATON'S own medicinal preparations always maintain the strength declared on the label!

With such accurate, scientific tests, our Research Bureau helps make certain that Eaton merchandise meets the claims we make for it in our advertising . . . so that you can SHOP WITH CONFIDENCE AT EATON'S.

MARTIAL LAW PROCLAIMED IN GUATEMALA

Three Die in Fire, Find Rope Around Neck of Mother

Think Woman Was Tied Up In Port Arthur Area Home

Elroy Purvis, 24, From Maritimes Drowns in River

Elroy Purvis, 24-year-old Maritimes man from Elderbank, N.S., was drowned in the Moira River early Saturday morning, when he apparently fell over the railing into the river off Station street.

The body was spotted by Peter Prokopenuk, 47 Station street, and Alex Prokopenuk, of Kingston, shortly after six o'clock Saturday morning. The body was in about one foot of water and 20 feet from the bank.

There was no identification on the body and the man was not identified until Saturday afternoon when as the result of radio and newspaper description two Milltown women came to the undertaking parlors and were able to give officials the man's name. The identification was made by Mrs. Vesterfelt with whom the man lived at Milltown and Mrs. Josie Williams.

They said Purvis had been in the Belleville area about a year and was working as a laborer at construction work in suburban Belleville.

An autopsy confirmed that the man had died of drowning and the body was released for burial. The body was shipped over the week-end from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Parlors to his home at Ellerbouse in Nova Scotia.

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—A mother and her two children died Saturday night amid the flaming ruins of their home at a lonely north-western Ontario railway siding. Police said there are signs indicating it may have been murder.

Their bodies were found by a train crew at the section siding of Kelly, about 90 miles northwest of here on the Canadian National Railways line from Port Arthur to Sioux Lookout.

Police said Mrs. Hedwig Koppler, 35, was found lying outside her blazing home. There was a rope around her neck and charred rope fragments clung to her wrists as if her hands had been tied behind her back.

FIND CHILDREN'S BODIES

Inside the ruins, their bodies charred beyond recognition, were a five-year-old son and a 10-months-old daughter.

Police said the rope around the woman's neck did not appear tight enough to have caused strangulation. One theory was that she had been tied to a piece of furniture inside the house but staggered outside and collapsed when flames burned through the rope.

An autopsy will be held today at Fort William to establish the cause of death. The children were also badly burned but there was no immediate indication of how they died.

The father, Horst Koppler, was working at Mine Centre, near Fort Frances. He came to Canada from Germany three years ago.

Inspector Jack Craig of the OPP arrived from Toronto Sunday to head the investigation.

REDS BREAK PRISON.

SAIGON, Indo-China (AP) — Informed military sources reported today that Communist war prisoners held by French Union forces near Saigon smashed out of their camp Saturday with the aid of savage attacks from surrounding native guerrillas.

Authoritative sources said about 100 of the war prisoners were killed, wounded or captured but about 400 succeeded in their flight. The camp is at Ke Sat, about 30 miles southwest of Saigon.

Duke Uninjured In Fall During Polo Match

MIDHURST, England (AP) The Duke of Edinburgh fell from his pony during a polo match on Ambersham ground, Saturday but was uninjured.

Just before the game ended the duke, riding in No. 2 forward, rode into the goal mouth. His foot got tangled in the stirrup of an opposing rider and he landed flat on the ground.

Queen Elizabeth wasn't present. She was at Ascot for the final day of the Royal Ascot race season.

The duke's team, the Windsors, lost to Whiphill in the Cicero Cup final.

SEVERE CONCUSSION

Britain's leading brain surgeon, Dr. Wylie McKissock examined the duke again this morning. He had seen him soon after he was brought to hospital here Sunday night.

The duke was rushed to hospital here with severe concussion and head injuries after his station wagon collided with another in the Berkhire village of Sunningdale.

After two hours in a local hospital he was transferred to the National Hospital for Nervous Diseases here. There were no signs of complications.

The duke is an officer-cadet at Sandhurst military academy.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Drier air from Northern Ontario and from Northern Ontario during the night now covers most of southern Ontario. This warm humid air will bring more comfortable conditions to the south today. However, with a new disturbance developing west of Lake Michigan, showers and thunderstorms are expected to persist in southwestern Ontario and is spread over all regions by Tuesday morning. Then the first full day of summer will bring scattered showers to most parts of the province.

COMMONS TURNS TO STUDY GOVT'S DEFENCE SPENDING

Must Approve Estimates Of Thirteen Depts.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons today turns to a study of the government's big defence - spending program as the session's end approaches.

Before the House are expenditure estimates of $2,000,000,000 for the defence department, $40,000,000 for the defence production department and another $6,400,000 for civil defence in the 1954-55 fiscal year. A number of items of defence department spending already have been approved.

Today's program is part of a schedule set last night by Citizenship Minister Harris, Conservative leader. If members stick to the plan, he said, Parliament can prorogue Thursday night.

WORK AHEAD

The work involves passing one minor bill and approving estimates of 13 departments, the cabinet and parliament itself. Estimates in part of most of the departments involved have been approved.

Then comes the prologue of the session a day or two, however, even if Parliament fails to file all business its present daily sitting of 8½ hours.

Members, meeting on a Saturday for the first time this session, dealt with pleased expenditures of the health and fisheries departments.

National health insurance was a major topic and members of all parties, including supported their versions of it. Health Minister Martin, however, said only one provincial government is prepared to enter federal-provincial health insurance program. He said later he was referring to Saskatchewan.

STATEMENT READ

He read a statement of government policy, made last year by Prime Minister St. Laurent, that the Liberal government is committed to the policy of contributory health insurance, administered by the provinces.

DUKE VISITS PARIS

PARIS (AP) — The Duke of Edinburgh, at the controls of a naval plane, arrived today for his first visit to the French capital since his wife ascended the throne. He was met at Orly field by President Rene Coty. He will also visit the headquarters of the Allied Powers in Europe at Fontainebleau Forest.

Board Recommends Contribution To Grade Crossing Fund Be Raised

OTTAWA (CP)—The board of transport commissioners has recommended that Parliament quintuple to $3,000,000 the annual contribution to its fund for railway grade crossing construction.

The board's annual report, drafted after a government-ordered study lasting more than a year, was tabled by Transport Minister Chevrier.

The board proposed that the recommended increase in the fund start from last April 1, beginning of the current fiscal year.

Expectations are it will not be implemented at the present session of Parliament—now in its last days—but that the government will bring in legislation at the next session.

Other major board recommendations:

1. For level crossings, the government's allowable contribution should be increased to 60 per-cent of a single project with a maximum of $200,000. The present figures are 40 per cent and $150,000.

2. The fund should be made available to help improve grade separations — underpasses and overpasses — where they are inadequate for the highway traffic using them. In any one case, the contribution should not exceed 30 per cent of the cost or $150,000.

3. Contributions should be permitted to cover any part not rewards the cost of maintaining and operating automatic crossing signals. The maximum for any crossing should not exceed $200 per month.

4. The Railway Act should be changed to clarify the law under which prevents contributions from the fund for level crossings built after 1909 unless there is an agreement etween the railway and a municipality. The board should be able to apply money from the fund, it says, to level crossings more than three years old.

5. The board should be allowed to defer contributions towards the cost of highway projects in connection with grade separation and the closing of, or diversion of most of the traffic from, an existing level crossing.

6. Parliament should repeal a section of the Railway Act which imposes on the railways all costs of protection at railway - highway crossings where the railway was constructed after 1909 unless the board specifically says otherwise.

Leading Newspapers Urge Restraint in Guatemala Issue

NEW YORK (CP) — Leading newspapers in New York and London urged restraint in handling the Guatemalan situation in their first editorial comment since the outbreak of hostilities in the Central American republic.

The Times of London said anti-Communist countries must be careful not to weaken their own case against Communism by intervening into the affairs of other countries.

"It is the more important, therefore, that all powers not immediately involved, all that is, except Guatemala and her self-indulgent neighbors, should act and talk with great correctness and restraint."

The Daily Telegraph said "the presence in the New World of an outpost of the Communist empire presents a serious problem.

"The United States has powerful means of intervention at her disposal, but she must be wary of using it in a manner to alienate the whole continent. Latin American states."

The New York Times said determination of the nature of the present Guatemalan uprising and the degree of responsibility of neighboring Honduras and Nicaragua requires investigation that cannot be hurried.

"But one thing is clear. The Communists have blamed Russia's veto Sunday in the UN Security Council for the failure of the problem "where it rightly belongs, in the organization of American states."

"Most of these states," the New York Newspaper's editorial continued, "would accept a modern version of the Monroe Doctrine and would consider it 'dangerous to their peace and safety' that Communist dictatorship in any guise should gain a foothold in this hemisphere."

The New York Herald Tribune said the military situation in Guatemala remains obscure. One of the most important factors was the temper of the Guatemalan army, which had been withdrawn from contact with the insurgents.

The Herald Tribune said that while the government claimed it had avoided military action to sustain its charges of aggression against the revolutionaries, a more plausible theory is that the troops are being withdrawn to protect the capital.

"It may take time to prevent the familiar pattern of events in Guatemala," the editorial concluded, but the government "has given few signs of confidence in the armed forces or in the loyalty of the population."

One British newspaper, the Manchester Guardian, was critical of the role of the United States government in Guatemala.

The Guardian said Guatemala "can hardly have served Moscow's purposes worse . . . a stick to beat 'Yankee imperialism with.'

Regardless of never whether the Guatemalan government could be got rid of, the Guardian added, "the Communists could be got rid of with more tact than the state department has shown."

Predicts Atomic Plane Reality Within 6 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert LaBaron, a government atomic specialist, predicts that the United States will have an atomic powered airplane in operation within six or seven years.

LaBaron is chairman of the military liaison committee to the Atomic Energy Commission. He revealed most of his copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report in a discussion of peacetime uses of atomic energy.

Predicting that an atomic plane may be a reality within six or seven years, LaBaron added: "... There isn't any reason why you might think of an airplane that could fly 200 or 300 hours in the air—you could go around the world several times."

LaBaron foresees a tremendous development of atomic power plants for generating electricity.

POWER PLANTS SOON

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Great Britain's atomic experts figure that nuclear power plants for industrial use can be made economically competitive with coal-burning plants in that country within a decade, a British newspaper to an International Atomic engineering congress here says.

3 U.S. Tourists Killed As Car Plunges into Lake

SYDNEY, N. S. (CP) — Three American vacationers were killed today and a fourth was critically injured when their car left the highway 25 miles from here and plunged into a lake.

Collapses at Funeral

TOKYO (Reuters) — Robert W. Mayhew, 74, Canadian ambassador to Japan, collapsed at a funeral service today and was taken to the United States Army hospital in Tokyo.

Water Used In A-Engine Highly Corrosive

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Research on the engine for the first atomic submarine has shown that ordinary water is highly corrosive when extremely hot and under pressure, a Navy admiral has revealed today.

Rear Adm. D. V. Thomas of the company's atomic power division told an international congress on nuclear engineering here: "We discovered," pressurized water was found capable of "severely" disintegrating such metals as aluminum and magnesium during studies aimed at finding the best structural material for certain equipment to be used in the Argonne's power plant.

Fortunately, Dr. Thomas said, it was found that the metal zirconium was able to withstand the corrosive attack of "superheated" water.

STRIKE BALLOTS ARE DISTRIBUTED BY RAIL UNIONS

Most of Demands For Fringe Benefits

MONTREAL (CP) — With union and railway representatives still negotiating in Montreal, strike ballots go out today to 125,000 railway workers across Canada.

The men, who man the shops, freight yards, offices and express services of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways and two smaller lines, are being asked how they want, and are prepared to support their demands for fringe benefits.

Branches of 14 unions across the country will collect the votes as they come in and start reporting results to the union negotiating committee Aug. 2, the day polling ends.

Each ballot is accompanied by six pages of text explaining what the unions want, and why. Except for hotel workers, every union that took part in the Montreal negotiations on a union - wide strike at 1950 is represented.

Basic wages aren't an issue. But the companies have refused the demands for such things as longer vacations and shorter hours that would cost them $60,000,000 a year if granted in full.

The workers have almost six weeks to decide whether the fringe benefits are worth another tie-up.

NO PREDICTIONS

Frank Hall, chairman of the union negotiating committee, was non-committal about the results of the vote.

If they vote to strike, we'll go through with it," he said. "We don't expect them to do it one way or another yet."

Mr. Hall and other union officials have urged the workers to strike, Wednesday at a mass meeting in Montreal he said: "We must fight to the end."

"If our rightful demands are rejected this year, future contract negotiations will not have a hope of succeeding."

The call to action came the night before the union and railways reopened negotiations at the request of Labor Minister Gregg. The talks have been going on although they now stand adjourned until next week.

REQUESTS OUTLINED

The unions asked for cumulative sick leave, eight paid holidays a year, three weeks paid vacation after 10 years' service, and bonus pay for overtime.

A. J. Wickens, their representative on the board, recommended seven holidays, three weeks vacation after 15 years and two weeks for hourly-rated workers after two years, and the setting up of a health and welfare plan.

Supreme Court Justice R. L. Taschereau recommended 12 holidays, three weeks after 25 years, and a health and welfare plan. The railway companies spoke through Gordon Sloan, manager of personnel, rejected all the demands.

Kapuskasing to Be Most Important Place on Continent for Few Seconds

KAPUSKASING, Ont., (CP) — From the astronomer's point of view this pretty northern mill town will be the most important place on the continent for a few seconds June 30.

Scientists announced last spring that nature had chosen the town as the best place from which to view one of her most rare and beautiful phenomena—an eclipse of the sun.

Eighteen experts from observatories in the United States and Vancouver and many others from other countries' universities have flocked in to arrive here to set up the sensitive apparatus they will use to observe and record the solar energy.

The eclipse will last for 89 seconds while the moon passes between the sun and the earth.

The town of 5,000 also expects thousands of tourists. The Chamber of Commerce has persuaded many householders to take in guests for the night.

The eclipse will start at 8:17 a.m. EDT. At 7:10 the sun will be visible from sight for about a minute and a half. At 8:10 the moon will have completed its passage across the sun's face.

John F. Heard, Dr. J. B. Cohe and Jerry Lagrawetch of Toronto observatory, Toronto, have set up instruments designed to photograph the eclipse about yard at Matice, 40 miles west of here. The Hamilton observatory team under Dr. J. L. Locke will be located near Smoky Falls, 100 miles north.

Charles H. Tindall, professor of engineering research at Pennsylvania State College, will observe the eclipse from a lands department plane.

Other observers will be from Ohio State University, Ottawa University and Flower observatory.

A half dozen aircraft will carry representatives of the Dunlap observatory, the Royal Geographical Society, the National Film Board and the CBC.

Scores of photographers will record the event for newspapers and magazines throughout the world.

Hotel reservations booked up weeks ago show tourists from all over Alabama, California and Cuba.

Govt. Mobilizes For Showdown Battle With Rebels

Security Council of UN Calls For Cease-Fire in Country

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)— The United Nations Security Council called unanimously Sunday night for a cease-fire in Guatemala and for all UN members to withhold aid from the fighting forces there.

The action came after the Soviet Union cast its 69th veto in council history on behalf of Guatemala's leftist government. The veto defeated a motion to refer the Guatemalan complaint of aggression to the western hemisphere's regional organization, the Organization of American States.

Henry Cabot Lodge of the United States, council president for June, said the Soviet veto obviously showed the Russians have "decided to back the armed forces" there.

He said angrily:

"I say to the Soviet delegate: Stay out of the western hemisphere. Don't try to start your army and conspiracies here."

OAS MEETS TODAY

Despite the Russian veto, Guatemala has already asked the five-member inter-American peace committee of the OAS to help stop the invasion forces of Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, leader of the rebellion aimed at ousting the leftist government established a meeting in Washington late this afternoon to take up the request.

The council still was voted after Guatemalan delegate Edmundo Castillo-Arriola charged that neighboring Honduras and Nicaragua, backed by the U.S. and the United Fruit Co., had connived in an aggression against Guatemala's democracy for necessary expeditionary forces.

Lodge hotly defended his government and denied the charges. He said information available to the "western" suggests that the situation, does not involve aggression but a case of Guatemalans against Guatemalans."

Success Stories Written by Deaf In Many Fields

During an address to the OAD convention, Robert Mathieu, president of the Canadian Association for the Deaf, referred to what he called "the twin elements in the progress and understanding" which constitutes a dangerous combination facing the deaf acceptation in the case of the loss of one sense, have contributed towards the development of the eternal nuisance which confronts the deaf today.

"For one thing, this has led to the development of associations for the deaf, but how successful are people with such a handicap and the building of the "outside world" and make their own way there?

Here are a few pen portraits culled from among delegates attending the convention:

The man who made the above mentioned statement is one of the outstanding graduates of OSD, Robert McBrien, now is a top draftsman with the Canadian General Electric, Peterborough.

Following an attack of meningitis in boyhood, he lost his hearing and subsequently entered OSD in 1917. "Here he found that such future brilliance he was encouraged to enter Belleville College, where he studied for a year before enlisting in World War I. He graduated from Peterborough Collegiate and went on to his degree in mechanical engineering at Toronto University.

He has been with CGE since 1928, contributing designs for the firm's huge hydro projects.

FINDS SUCCESS AS MANAGER

David Pelkoff, outgoing president of the OAD, has been active in organization work for the deaf in Canada for over 30 years.

Service manager of a Toronto furniture firm, he is Russian born and became deaf at five, following fever contracted during a blizzard. Reared in western Canada, after graduating from Winnipeg School for the Deaf, he took his B.A. degree at Gallaudet College for the Deaf, Washington.

In 1922 he founded the Western Canada Association for the Deaf and also established the McDermid Scholarship, forerunner of the present Provincial Association of the Deaf scholarship.

President of the OAD for the past 16 years he also is second-vice-president of the U.S. National Association of the Deaf.

Recall the phrase "irrespective of their educational attainments."

One of the most outstanding personalities attending the convention is Joseph Dumais.

Now operator of a highly-successful Toronto firm of interior decorating, specializing in custom built furniture, he lost his hearing while a boy in Russia. Settled in Toronto since the early 1920's, he received no formal education and when 20 years old could neither read nor write English.

One-time sheet-metal worker, he also was an expert tailor. From selling venetian blinds as a sideline he expanded into his present business.

These then, are three of the many who have gone out into the world to overcome a handicap, working in offices and factories, on roads and on the seas.

Elmer Hinds, 21, of Spry Settlement near Bonarlaw, suffered a broken back when his car, driven by Yorston, Madoc, sustained a broken leg early Sunday morning, when the car in which they were riding went out of control on a curve south of Madoc and rolled over into the ditch.

Hinds was taken to Belleville hospital by Bush's Ambulance of Tweed and was later taken to Kingston hospital by Bush's Ambulance at Belleville. Yorston was taken to Belleville hospital by Thompson's Ambulance.

Hinds' condition in Kingston hospital was said to be critical.

The two men were riding in the car driven by T. Lavigne of Campbellford, when about half a mile south of Madoc on the Foxboro Road the vehicle went off the highway, rolled completely over and landed on its four wheels in the ditch.

Provincial Constable R. Devey, of Madoc, investigated.

Monoxide Fumes Overcome Man Working in Garage

A premonition on the part of 3 Purdy street housewife that "something was wrong" at home saved the life of her husband, who had been overcome by carbon monoxide fumes, when the door of his one-car garage blew shut. Saturday morning Mrs. Wesley Conley, 46 Purdy Street, had been concerned when her husband's groceries and had given up the thought of remaining to have a cup of coffee when something seemed to tell her there was something wrong at home.

G. Murray Brigham, Ottawa, New President Deaf Assoc.

David Pelkoff, Toronto, president of the Ontario Association of the Deaf for the past five years, Saturday relinquished his office to make way for what he called the "younger blood to carry the reins" of the Association, when president of the O.A.D. is G. Murray Brigham, Ottawa, former secretary of the Association and one-time pupil of Belleville Collegiate.

Presenting the president's report for the last time, to the 51st biennial convention of the OAD held at the OSD here, Mr. Pelkoff said he was stepping aside with some regret.

"I have been under some pressure to continue in this office but I regret to have to decline the overture."

After election of officers for 1954-56 Mr. Pelkoff was named a director on the executive committee.

Other officers elected were: vice-president, Howard Lloyd, Brantford; secretary, Donald Simonds, Toronto; treasurer, Norton Dick, Toronto. Directors: Arthur Hamilton, Toronto; Mac Atkinson, Ottawa, and Mr. Pelkoff.

IN SOUND CONDITION.

In his address to the convention, Mr. Pelkoff said the OAD has emerged from the past two years since the previous convention, as sound as ever and in a steady financial position.

"Our continued advancement in this direction is due largely to the zeal of Ontario's deaf citizens who attended the conference, some going one day and some another.

Mr. Kerr stated that there were 385 children in the care of the society, 200 of these in foster home care, and 50 children are on adoption probation. These will be the members on the policies of the organization.

Thieves Fail To Remove Safe In General Store

MARMORA (Special) — Six dozen cartons over a ton — failed to defeat thieves who broke into the general store of the F. M. Ketcheson Co. in Marmora Saturday night but thieves made off with only a small sum of money as Albert Maynes the same evening.

The break-in at the Marett store was discovered on Sunday morning by Don Marett, one of the partners. Thieves had entered the store through a rear window. They tried to break into the cigarette safe but failed to get over top of it but apparently became discouraged and left without five layers of brick.

About 1100 a.m. Sunday, Ed O'Neill, who lives in a trailer on the property at the rear of Albert Maynes' store noticed the front door open and summoned police. Entrance was safe in the store was missing. Nothing else had been disturbed. It was not known if anything was taken from the safe.

On Friday night a plate glass window in the grocery store of Vaughan Glover was smashed by a large stone, which had been covered with rags.

OPP Constable Tom Lummiss from Madoc investigated both incidents. Assisting him was Provincial Constable L. Pellisero of Belleville took fingerprints in both cases.

Marmora's regular police constable, Kenneth Redding, was released from duty only last Wednesday.

Fifteen Chinese Nationals Can Return to China

By EDDY GILMORE

GENEVA (AP) — The United States agreed today to permit 15 detained Chinese nationals to leave the U.S. and return to Communist China.

This was the first concrete result of direct negotiations under way here between American and Chinese Communist representatives on the exchange of detained persons.

The Chinese Communists still have not agreed to release any of the 11 Americans held as American civilian and military personnel who are either in prison on the Chinese mainland or who have been refused permits to leave.

ADMIT 30 HELD

The Chinese Reds have confirmed that they are holding 30 U.S. civilians in prison, but said one civilian and a number of military personnel listed by the U.S. as detained were either dead or missing.

The Chinese did not say when any of those detained would be released—if at all.

The Chinese Reds contend about 5,000 Chinese, mostly students, are being prevented from returning to China from the United States. This number is disputed by the United States, which says it is perhaps 20 to 100 Communist spies involved. These were refused visas on security grounds.

Evidence Differs On Classification Of Materials

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

RED LAKE, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario legislature's highway investigation committee Saturday heard evidence on material classification in road contracts that conflicted with an earlier statement made by the former No. 2 man of the highways department.

W. N. Ashbaugh, division engineer at Kenora now being transferred to Peterborough, told the committee that the Kenora division engineer never approved material classification.

"You mean the responsibility was entirely head office?" asked Albert Wren (Lib-Lab—Kenora).

"That's right," replied Mr. McEwen.

Last month, J. D. Millar, former highways deputy, testified at a Toronto hearing that division engineers were responsible for approving classification of rock, earth and gravel.

Russians Lead In Chess Play

By GEOFFREY GOULD

NEW YORK (AP) — Russia's leading chess strategists, going all out, defeated the U.S. in match with the best United States players tonight, are just six points away from certain victory.

As the third round opens, the Russians lead 19½ to 13½. They were expected to win, but it is a matter of pride for the U. S. team to make it as close as possible.

Anything over 16 points would provide the test for the Russians.

YOUNGSTERS EVEN

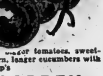
The three youngest U. S. players, Donald Byrne, Larry Bisguier and Larry Evans are even with their opponents.

The No. 1 U. S. player, Samuel Reshevsky, also is even with his Russian opposite Paul Keres.

They have drawn both their games.

Seek to Arrange Laos, Cambodia Cease-Fire Talks

By MA KHARRELSON



GENEVA (AP) — Indo - China conference sources worked behind private meetings today to arrange military negotiations for a cease-fire in the Communist kingdoms of Laos and Cambodia. The formal nine-power conference was recessed until Tuesday.

Red China's premier - foreign minister Chou En-lai was the only leading conference figure still in Geneva. Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov and Smith agreed with the other conference delegates that peace prospects in Indo-China conditions be held on Laos and Cambodia. Chou En-lai was under way for Viet Nam, the other Indo-China state.

A main question to be decided is who will take part in the direct talks and whether they will be held in Geneva or in Indo-China.

The two Indo-Chinese kingdoms have made it clear that they will not negotiate with representatives of the Communist resistance governments," which they and the French consider "phantoms" with no popular support.

The Laotians and Cambodians want to deal with the Viet Minh rebels, charging it is their forces who have invaded their territory.

Liberal Leader Predicts General Election in Fall

TRENTON, (Special)— Liberal Leader Farquher Oliver told over 100 delegates of the Central Ontario Liberal Association annual meeting at Presqu'ile Point on Saturday that there may be a provincial general election this fall and asked them to prepare themselves for a two-fisted battle in which no quarter will be asked and no quarter given. He based his prediction on the possibility that the highway scandal would spread to other departments in the government and that the Frost board of strategy might consider the time ripe to spring an election before more discrepancies are uncovered.

The first time in the history of the Ontario Liberal Association a woman was chosen to head a regional post in the organization. Mrs. Wanda Miller, mayor of Gravenhurst, was voted president of the Central Ontario Liberal Association, succeeding Hugh Gibson, Q.C., of Kingston.

Mr. Oliver was of the opinion, that the Liberal party of Ontario had the best chance of achieving success since Mitchell Hepburn was elected to office in 1934. He said he would not have taken on the leadership ,had he not considered it was in the interest of the people in Ontario that the Liberals again take over power. The Liberal standard bearer said that Premier Frost is a nice man but one man can't run the affairs of the province in a satisfactory manner, "Take the prime minister out of the cabinet he said and the whole administration would fall like a deck of cards. The opposition has the weakest cabinet in 25 years," he said.

WILL NOT TIP HAND.

Although Mr. Oliver assured the delegates that the Liberals would not tip their hand until an election has been called he stressed the importance of a good organization if the party is expected to win. He urged them to emphasize the Conservative's shortcomings and failures. He pledged the Liberal party to bring favorable relationship between the municipalities of the province and the government. He charged the present government with neglect in civil defence. He rapped the Frost administration for shunning an obligation to build houses in the province, he maintained Ontario should have a health insurance scheme of its own. He recommended old age pensioners should receive 10 per cent more money a month out of provincial revenue.

Mr. Oliver, calling for action from the delegates, asserted, "I don't intend to go around the province making wild extravagant promises involving millions of dollars of the taxpayers money."

A rousing three cheers and a tiger led by J. D. Burnett of Cobourg rang through the dining hall as the enthusiastic supporters gave their leader the assurance they were behind him to the last man. All of the delegates had earlier pledged support to Mr. Oliver.

EXECUTIVE APPOINTED.

The new board of executive of the Central Ontario Liberal Association comprises: President, Mrs. Wanda Miller of Gravenhurst; secretary, Barry Stafford of Kingston; treasurer, Pat Scollard of Peterborough; management committee, John Ley of Pickering, Mrs. Effie McCabe of Belleville, Mrs. Ertal McNabb of Barrie, Dr. Daniel C. McVicker of Deseronto, Hugh F. Gibson of Kingston and Fraser Ross of Beaverton; resolution committee, Alex Elliott, Q.C., of Peterborough, Mrs. Thelma Thompson of Lindsay; eastern section vice president J. M. C. German of Cobourg, secretary Mrs. Helen Upper of Colborne; western section, vice, president John A. Calmeron of Oshawa, secretary Mrs. Helen Ross of Beaverton; nominating committee J. B. Burnett of Cobourg and John Wallace of Orillia; constitution committee J. C. M. German, Q.C., of Cobourg and W. B. Gordon of Peterborough.

At three o'clock the members convened on the market square for a church parade to the Salvation Army Citadel, where the sermon was delivered by Capt. Headed by the 9th Anti-Tank Pipe band, the marchers paraded up Front St. to Station and then down Pinnacle to the Salvation Army Citadel.

The district lodge get-together was concluded by a banquet in the evening at the Little Denmark restaurant on the eastern outskirts of the city.

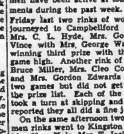
Two Require Medical Care After Accident



TRENTON (Special)—A car passing two cars abreast on Byron street Saturday left a hole and went out of control ending up on top of a fire hydrant. Cecil Lewis, 46, of Trenton and Mrs. Ethel Saddington C. Smith of Trenton both needed attention and were treated at the Trenton Memorial Hospital.

The car turned over on its right side when it hit the water outlet. Before the two men inside could be lifted into a position where it was necessary to push the car back on its four wheels. Water from the hydrant was shut out over the street and water service in the vicinity was cut off while workmen repaired the break.

Trenton police investigated.

Sunny Skies Assure Brides During Triple Wedding in Ottawa

Wearing identical gowns, the three beautiful daughters of German Fresnados-Concha, the Peruvian ambassador to Canada, were married in St. George's Church in a triple wedding ceremony in Ottawa. Nuptial mass was celebrated by Most Rev. Giovanni Panico, apostolic delegate to Canada, who during his five years in Peru as Papal Nuncio before his Ottawa appointment was a close friend of the family, and knew all the brides as youngsters. Sunny skies assured the happy brides who received 500 guests at reception at the Peruvian embassy following wedding which was the social event of the spring season in capital. Above, the brides and bridegrooms are pictured on the steps of the church in advance of the ceremony. Peter Bernardelli, left, of Montreal wed Victoria, the eldest. Dr. Roque Bellido-Tagle of Lima, Peru, became the husband of Luzmila; and Angel Cervavalo of Caracas, Venezuela, took Amparo, the youngest, as his bride. — Central Press Canadian.

STICKS TO ESTIMATES.

MEN OF THE NORTH.

Softies!

That is the only word to describe adequately the men of the true north, supposedly strong and free.

Here, for years, we have been laboring under the delusion that the northland, men were men and if the women were not proud of it they were at least too timid to protest.

How far this picture of masculine mastery differs from the awful truth has now been revealed by a dispatch from Timmins, where hard-rock miners are evidently as terrified of a petticoat as an elephant is of a mouse.

For two nights beauty pageant judges in Timmins have failed to eliminate any of the eleven contestants for the title of Miss Timmins 1954, let alone pick the winner.

If they continue to make progress at this pace, the eventual elimination will finally be completed by Father Time with his scythe, or Cupid with his bow and arrow. In any event, by the time there is only one contestant both alive and unwed, the suggestion that she was able even to toddle in 1954 will probably be classed by her under the title of subversive activities.

Apologists stress the fact that the judges are handicapped by the unusual system devised to guide their deliberations, it not being sufficient cause for elimination if one girl is less pretty than another but it being required that she fail to meet a certain minimum standard of pulchritude. Just who devised this minimum standard we do not know, but in the opinion of all the earmarks of cowardice we suspect that the standard itself matches it and anybody more attractive than Mammy Yokum is a cinch to pass the test with flying colors, lipstick, rouge, nail polish and eyeshadow. Far from advancing the system as an excuse, Timmins men must wear it as a badge of shame.

Secure northerners, safe underground and protected by a few sticks of dynamite, may plead that the judges are not representative of the fraternity of miners, they being described as a former professional hockey player and a stock car racing enthusiast. We have always considered, and, if the miners are not represented amongst the judges, however, had participated, in either of these sports we required a courage and stamina a notch above the average we are forced to the conclusion that it was only because they would not take the risk—even with the protection of the minimum standard system of judging.

We might add that we are perfectly ready to pick the winner of the Timmins contest at any time. Our courage is equal to the task of eliminating ten Timmins girls at any time—so long as we continue to live in Belleville.

Please mail pictures—and it must be distinctly understood that the identity of the judge must not be revealed.

SUMMER IS HERE—OFFICIALLY.

Today is the first official day of summer.

Although the weather regularly two-times the calendar with a burst of warm days long before June 21, from today we officially justified in speaking of this merry season and all it promises.

The long sultry days relaxing in the office, the long warm nights working the garden; best of all the prospect of the annual vacation at the lakeside cottage, away from the grind and bumps of every-day-living—sounds wonderful.

Not that we should complain of modern everyday living, for we have come pretty close to building an ivory tower to house our way of life. But to secure it, it has been necessary to build over the tower a fortress of officialdom.

Probably the greatest symbol of officialdom in everyday living is the parking meter. It takes a test to prove we are sufficiently talented to officially steer it; we must register it each year that we may officially drive it in public. Then there are the dogged little matters of official one-way streets, official traffic directions, official car spaces where we buy official time to park officially.

Even in relaxation red tape binds us with everything from library fines to library fines. And when you try to escape it on week-ends officialdom follows us into the country, telling you what quantity and size of fish you may take home and where and when you may take it—officially.

Some nations must even surrender their sons for a period of years to officialdom.

Today, because of happy persistence and immensity we subconsciously accept this Gargantua as a necessity in unravelling the complexities of modern living. We are content to let our destinies be written in the Idle Time Book; the wages of progress would seem to be officialdom.

Yet it will be good to get away to that summer cottage or elsewhere where we can relax and do what we want to do in our own good time.

Yes, the prospects of that two-week trip are good to contemplate, and it grows nearer every day, now that summer is here—officially.

AMERICAN SUMMER

This is summer-underway:
Swimming fine and roses blooming,
Children free to romp in play,
Counting on steam cones consuming.

Land where every man is free
To go fishing when he pleases,

These are summer-cottage days;
Neighbors gone on their vacation,
Life is lived in sterner ways

In totalitarian nations.
Under freedom these we know;
Restful trips to pleasant places,
Time with golfing friends to go
Or to baseball games or races.

Here as slaves no men are bound,
To their heavy labors goaded;
Here whole families gather round
Picnic tables richly loaded.
Beauty everywhere to see,
Friends to share the hours of rest with,
What a glorious land have we!
Land so many splendors blest with!

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

25 YEARS AGO

JUNE 21, 1934.

In the Provincial elections the Liberal party after an absence of administrative control in the Ontario Legislature for 29 years, when the Ross government was defeated, was elected to power under the leadership of Mitchell Hepburn by a large majority over the Conservatives led by the Hon. George S. Henry, who had been a member of the Legislature for many years and held the office of premier for some time. Mr. Henry was re-elected in his riding of East York. Sixty-five seats out of a total of 90 were captured by the Liberals. From 94 members — the number held by the Conservatives before redistribution, the Conservatives dropped to 17. The Liberals ran up 65 seats, 12 ridings before redistribution. In the Belleville category we are Independent.—The United Farmers of Ontario and Conservatives, the Independent-Labor Commonwealth Federation, made its first bid for recognition in Ontario, and elected one member in Hamilton East, over the Conservative candidate.

In West Hastings W. Ireland, Conservative, Trenton, who has held the seat for the past fifteen years, was defeated by Dr. J. Gordon Wallbridge, Liberal, of this city, by a majority estimated at this time of about 1,000. In East Hastings, James F. Hill, Conservative, who has represented the riding for the past eleven years, defeated the Liberal candidate Peter McLaren, by an estimated majority of 350. Mr. Hill was first elected in 1923 and in two elections he was returned by acclamation.

Prince Edward T. Bowman, Liberal, was elected with a clear 800 majority. He is a gain from the Conservatives. Horace Colliver was the Conservative candidate. He held the seat for two terms.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Every time I get in the lineup at the wicket to buy a railway ticket for Brown's Corners, (81.15) the man behind me has bought a ticket for Honolulu with side-trips. Why should I? Being a bank clerk on post 38, the girl ahead of me in line is the cashier from the neighboring bank behind her the day's cash to deposit and twenty-six transactions to be made out. Every busy railroad office should have separate wickets for short trips and long trips. And every bank should have separate wickets for single deposits and withdrawals, and for multiple transactions such as commercial firms bring in at all hours of the day.

It is a netting experience to come into a railway ticket office and find three wickets with three lines; you pick the shortest line, naturally: three people are ahead of you: and two of them get their business over with commendable despatch. Then the next one ahead of you produces a list and proceeds to buy transportation and Pullman accommodation for a service club going on a convention jaunt to Los Angeles.

Certain other institutions, such as customs houses and various civic departments in town halls are a little old-fashioned in their attitude towards the public. They are not selling. They are collecting, as a rule. Bute it seems to me banks and railways are in the selling game. And it is surprising how they have failed, so far, to be caught up in the modern trend established by supermarkets, self-serve shops of many kinds, service stations and so many other businesses that make the convenience of customers their prime concern.

When I get that idea out on merchant friend, he was indignant.

"Do you think I want to get in line at the bank behind half a dozen storekeepers ahead of me? I'd be an hour getting my deposit in."

And a much-travelled man protested: "Not on your life! Now what's the use of being an experienced traveller if you can't pick a line-up at the ticket window that has nothing but short-trip people in it? While most of my transactions take ten or more minutes at the wicket, I hate like the dickens to get behind another ten-minuter."

FIDDLER GIVES

VIOLINIST TIP (Tracks Magazine).

For weeks, the destitute concert violinist, subsisting in a small tenement flat, had anxiously watched the daily arrival of a very bad neighborhood fiddler who played in the courtyard below. When the bad violinist moved out his wretched tunes, windows in the tenement opened and tenants threw out wads of money.

One day the concert violinist tried it, played very brilliantly, but only collected 30c. Completely discouraged, he asked the neighborhood fiddler his secret.

"Simple," said the novice, "You play so bad, you get a bookmaker."

Creation—Swirl of Ylem

(Scientific American).

Dr. George Gamow, a Canadian cosmologist, who had lately returned from a mathematical pursuit into cosmic history, describes the moment of creation as a blinding flash followed by a swirl of ylem. Ylem is the name Dr. Gamow borrows from Aristotle to designate "the primordial bits of matter — electrons, protons, neutrons from which the chemical elements, as we know them, are sealed."

Within half an hour, according to Dr. Gamow, the process of conversion had ended. The swirl of ylem and, chemically speaking, the universe has been a pretty dull place ever since.

"According to our calculations", says Dr. Gamow, "before the universe was five minutes old its temperature was a billion degrees. At the age of a hundred to a million degrees, a temperatures comparable with the interior of an atomic bomb". This, he explains, ended the exciting part of the show. By the end of the first 300,000 years, things had cooled off to a few thousand degrees as warm as the surface of the sun.

"It is natural", he states, "to conclude that the chemical elements were formed at the relative abundances that we know during the first few minutes of creation. We believe the time of formation must have been very short. For the famous fact that the neutrons in the original ylem would have decayed very rapidly after the temperature quickly dropped below the level at which nuclear reactions could take place."

According to Dr. Gamow, the theory that our universe was born in an immense explosion — the "big bang" hypothesis of creation — appears to be gaining support from recent observations. Photographs made by the most powerful telescopes continue to show more and more galaxies flying from each other like the fragments of a hand grenade.

* * *

"A theory which suggests that our universe started with an extremely compressed concentration of matter and radiation naturally raises the question: How did it get into that state and what made it expand? Our formulas tell us that various parts of the universe are flying apart with an energy exceeding the force of gravity between them. Putting these formulas into reverse for a review of the period before the universe reached the stage of maximum compression and that it is the rebound from the period of reversibly toward a state of infinite rarefaction."

Calculations based on the observed rate of expansion of the universe is flying apart enabled scientists to fix the date of creation at approximately five billion years. The figure, says Dr. Gamow, "that is in perfect agreement with geological and astro-physical estimates."

Cloudsessing Does Not Last

(New York Times)

All the good things about cloudless mornings are self-evident and need no description here. It is sufficient to say that cloudless mornings are one of Nature's noblest institutions. But the worst thing about them is that they often deceive people in early rooms and even rainy evenings, particularly in the early months of the year. If cloudless mornings came with some sort of meteorological warning that they would stay that way all day, even the city dweller, who only knows (still cloudless, of course), they would be much easier to enjoy. But the thing to watch for is that begins without a cloud in the sky is by no means to be relied upon.

Unless you have a lot of faith in such a day—perhaps it is a cherished one for a twenty-first birthday, a garden party or an outdoor wedding—always leave that after such an suspicious beginning the day ends in a rainstorm. Once in a very great while a day manages to negotiate all its hours from morning without producing the slightest wisp of a cloud; but that is not the sort people would like to put in a bottle, label "Typical Summer Day," keep it on the pantry shelf and bury in a time capsule with the instruction that it may not have been typical, but it certainly was beautiful.

Not that there is anything wrong with clouds in themselves. An occasional cloud, well-behaved and sculptured by persistent winds into something more precious than gold, is a perfectly fine. One part cloud, as a matter of fact, can sometimes be cash moving along at a few thousand feet, does wonders for, or otherwise, cloudless sky. Its innocent whiteness accents the peerless cerulean beyond, and to form an almost emotional attachment for cumulus. Nimbus, with its slow solo across the air. Certainly photographers dote on such clouds. Artists and mural decorators strive to develop color schemes that would duplicate, record the sky's color—all its harsh or hushed, infinitely varied, hues. How they fail, how they fail. And photographers realize that a uniformly blue sky, unbroken by a single cloud, is neither breath-taking nor awe-inspiring, but rather dull. Even a few clouds or a single cloud is provide comic relief, and for those who are accustom to spend the afternoon indoors instead of in muddy field.

The Evening Cloud

(By John Wilson, born 1785, died 1854, popularly known as Christopher North, who was for many years Professor of Moral Philosophy in the University of Edinburgh.)

A cloud lay cradled near the setting sun;
A gleam of crimson tinged its head and under;
Long had I watched the glory moving on
O'er the still radiance of the lake below;
Tranquil its spirit seemed, and floated slow—
Ah! too, like thee, I envy motion there
Which rests or breath of eve that chanced to blow
Wafted the traveller to the beauteous Elysian—
Emblem—seethought, of the departed soul.
To whose white robe the gleam of bliss is given;
And, by the faith of Mercy made to roll
Right onward to the golden mansions fill the air of Heaven;
Where, to the eye of faith, it peaceful lies,
And tells to man his glorious destinies.

Girth Growth Goes With Rank

(Kansas City Star)

From Germany comes the report that an American general believes his troops are getting too fat. The general has urged that something be done about the girth for members of his command.

This officer undoubtedly is of an lantern-jawed type, cast in the mold of a Patron or a Rommel. The fight of an overweight soldier may be offensive to him. We once heard of a corps commander, a lieutenant in the first War 11, who disliked all personal adornment. This officer, of course, is not a failing of the brass alone. We knew personally of a corporal named Chester who disliked all generals.

In the Army today, this general must realize he is meddling with a sacred institution. Fat and lazy are the terms applied to the average soldier. Fat and lazy are the terms applied to the average soldier. Fat and lazy are the terms applied to the average soldier

First Session Likely to Close Late This Week

OTTAWA (CP)—The first session of the 22nd Parliament is expected to prorogue late this week but work already is building up for the next meeting of Canada's law makers.

One of the first items of business at the new session, starting in November, will be a government bill expected to boost grants paid to municipalities in place of municipal taxes on federal property. The government proposed the legislation for the present session but dropped it from the House to complete business this week.

Finance Minister Abbott told the Commons that the new grants would not begin until the start of next year and that municipalities would not be prejudiced by the delay.

During the last few months there has been considerable speculation that the government is planning to propose amendments to the Judges Act to increase salaries of judges. The rumored legislation was not proposed and observers now state that it may be introduced early in the next session.

Parliament also may be asked to adopt measures to streamline rules to speed up work.

Amendments to the Criminal Code also will be considered.

Father, Mother Three Children Burned to Death

LIVERPOOL, N.S. (CP) — Five persons were trapped to death here Sunday when their home was destroyed by a fire which was blamed on an over-heated electric hot plate.

Dead are Tom Wills, 39, his wife Phyllis, 34, Sharon, 10, Gray, 8, and Paddy, 7. Two other children, Dennis, 13, and Stanley, 11, smashed their way to freedom through a first-storey window. Patricia, 9, was spending the night at a neighbor's home.

The body of Tom Wills was found with that of one child he was apparently trying to escape with to a window.

CAT WAKES RESCUER

Fifteen-year-old Celia Delaney, a neighbor, said she was awakened at 2:30 a.m. by cries from her cat and saw the flames spouting from the Wills' home. She screamed an alarm and ran half-clad toward the house where she helped smash the glass and assist two of the children.

An inquest will be held today.

The tragedy is the worst in recent years for this small shore paper-making town 100 miles from Halifax.

French Mop Up Rebel Villages North of Hanoi

HANOI (AP) — French tanks, artillery, planes and gunboats and Viet Namese infantrymen Sunday smashed their way through a series of rebel-infested Indo-China villages 18 miles northwest of Hanoi in a mop-up operation still under way this morning.

A French fighting officer said mop-up crews pushed through eight villages on the south bank of the Red river, and more villages held by the Communist-led Vietminh were under fire today.

Small French gunboats stood in mid-river and pumped machine-gun fire into the suspected villages while planes and artillery pounded them with high explosives. Then Viet Nam infantry units, supported by light tanks, smashed their way through the communities.

CAPTURE 28, KILL 28

Thirty-one Vietminh rebels were captured and 38 counted killed, the briefing officer reported. He said there was no estimate of how many may have been killed or wounded by bombing, strafing, artillery and tank fire.

Elsewhere in the delta, small patrol clashes flared during the night and early morning darkness in a dozen different areas, some less than 10 miles from this major city.

B-26 bombers, flying below storm clouds, caught Vietminh supply convoys with bombs on highways, the air force was using its bring up ammunition and rocket launchers to the edge of the delta for a possible assault against Hanoi.

Five Children Perish in Fires During Week-End

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Five children were burned to death during the week-end. They were among 28 violent deaths in eastern Canada.

Ontario led provincial totals with more than half the deaths—14. Fatalities were recorded in Quebec, five in Nova Scotia and one in Newfoundland. There were none in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, a Canadian Press survey showed.

In Liverpool, N.S., Tom Wills, 39, was burned to death in a fire which he used his wife and three children to safety from their flaming home. Four children killed were: Phyllis, 34, his wife; Sharon, 10; Gray, 8; Paddy, 7. An intended electric hot plate was blamed for the fire.

A mother and her two children died at Keily, Ont., a railway section siding 84 miles northwest of Port Arthur. The burned bodies of a 10-month-old girl and a five-year-old boy were found in a shack. The mother's body was discovered outside the building. People identified her as Mrs. Hedwig Kopples, 38.

HANGS SELF IN CELL

Police at Kingston said James Dufresne, 26, of Harrietield, hanged himself with his shirt in a jail cell two hours after he was arrested on a theft charge.

A Kitchener, carpenter, Norman A. Hass, 38, was asphyxiated in his converted garage dwelling. He was killed during his sleep by smoke from a fire smouldering in the roof insulation.

James Howren, 15, of Douro, Ont., was shot to death while hunting groundhogs near his home. A .22-calibre rifle in the hands of a chum accidentally discharged as he was standing in front of it.

OTHER ONTARIO MISHAPS

Highway accidents in Ontario claimed the following lives: Constable Kenneth Lennon, Toronto; Charles Irwin, 57, and Russell Shaver, 69, both of Paris; LAC. Wesley E. Stoutter, 21, stationed at Camp Petawawa; Lillian Rose Bell, 19, Watford; Margaret Lou Sercombe, eight-week-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sercombe, Parkhill.

Drowned in Ontario were: Benjamin Misuty, 7, Toronto; Josephine de Groot, 5, Alex; Edward Adams, 21, Toronto; Herbert Wilson, 34, Toronto.

Guy Lombardo Starting New Career Next Week

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Guy Lombardo starts a new career next week with the connivance of a gay whale and glittering Chinese junk.

The this - side-of-heaven maestro is not, let it be immediately understood, abandoning the devoted dance fans who have kept him among the favorite maestros of a generation. The band plays on.

But as a man whose varied enterprises run the gamut from speedboats, oil and restaurants, the Canadian-born Lombardo now is adding a sparkling new activity as a theatrical producer.

He makes his impresario debut Thursday with a $200,000 extravaganza entitled "Arabian Nights," It will play nightly until Labor Day at Jones Beach, big seashore resort and branch of Broadway entertainment just 35 miles out on Long Island from Times square.

BUCKSKIN TODD

Lombardo hasn't picked a soft spot to sprout managerial wings, for his predecessor as producer of Jones Beach shows for the last two years was Bamboyant Mike Todd, busy movie-making now.

After listening a day tell of the scenes of "Arabian Nights" as we sat in a corner of the Roosevelt Hotel grill (where the band has been busy since 1929) and hearing brother Carmen provide a few sample croons of its tunes, we can tell you the Lombardos are out to give the public sights galore.

In addition to the 65-foot mechanical whale, equipped with bulbs in public address system, and the giant replica of a Chinese craft which will come sailing into the lagoon between stage and audience, the show is to include two ballets, a disappearing water ballet and the dry-shod ballet theatre company, and 100-foot-high sets on the revolving stage that will variously depict a sultan's seraglio, a street in Baghdad and a mystical valley of jewels.

MELCHIOR STARS

The stars of the show include operatic star Lauritz Melchoir, Metropolitan, who has graced three Hodgers and Hammerstein shows on Broadway, ballerina Mia Slavenska, Ralph Herbert and Hope Holiday, a Betty Huttonish young dancer.

The 45-piece orchestra will be conducted by—nope, you're wrong —not Lombardo but Pembroke Davenport, a veteran theatre pilgrim.

The story of the entertainment is, of course, from the ancient "thousand nights and a night" and might primarily concentrate on the legends of Sinbad and Aladdin.

Eisenhower Expected to Seek SEATO Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower probably will urge Prime Minister Churchill to co-operate in setting up an international conference on anti-Communist defences in Southeast Asia when the two meet here next week-end.

Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden are due here Friday. Their talks with Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles will be informal and, officials indicate, as confidential as possible.

The Indo-China crisis is the No. 1 topic. Others include organization of the European Defence Community and atomic problems.

BRITISH STILL HOPEFUL

United States officials say the U. S. is still urgently interested in getting a united front of allied diplomacy and Asian country set up to halt Communist expansion in the Indo-China area.

However, France's new government has staked its existence on getting an Indo-China peace in 30 days. And the Reds at Geneva have offered new concessions.

These developments were said to have brought new hopes for peace to British leaders, although the Americans remained skeptical.

Quinte Tennis

In a Quinte Intermediate tennis match played over the week-end, the Quinte team scored a win over St. Andrews, three games to two games.

The first men's game went to Dick Murst and Harold Redpath of St. Andrews over Mike Black and Pete Upper 6-1.

The St. Andrews team of John Black and Ivo Kvarda also took the second men's game over the Quinte's pair of Bob Brearley and Martin Halloran 6-3.

In the first ladies competition, Betty McBride and Sheila Kells of the Quinte defeated Donna Blue and Beverley Burns 6-1.

Second ladies game went to May Patrick and Patsy Brearley of Quinte 6-3 over St. Andrews Patsy Pigden and Judy Asseline.

The mixed game and the match was won by Barry Kells and Beth Davidson of Quinte over Dale Burley and Sheila Nash from St. Andrews 6-4.

NEW INCENTIVE

DERBY, England (CP) — Forty per cent of profits from city salvage may go to the collectors, under a new scheme designed to attract more men to the garbage-collecting staff and make the town tidier.

Hospital Care For Veterans Made Cheaper

OTTAWA (CP)—A plan to make hospital care cheaper for war veterans in the low-income group was announced in the Commons Saturday by Veterans Minister Lapointe.

Veterans who draw a pension or who served in a war theatre will be able to receive treatment for non-pensionable disabilities in veterans' hospitals by paying rates calculated on their income. The government will continue to pay the full cost of treatment for all pensionable disabilities.

Treatment will be free in veterans' hospitals for veterans serving less than $200 a year if single, $1,500 a year if married. If their income is higher, they will pay costs on a percentage basis up to one per cent of their income for each $100 of income above $200 and $1,200. Allowances will be made for dependent children and wages lost due to illness.

FREE TREATMENT

Veterans who earn less than $200 or $1,500 now receive free treatment for non-pensionable disabilities but those earning more than these amounts must pay $12.55 a day.

Mr. Lapointe said that, as an example, a married veteran drawing a pension or who served in a war theatre, having two children and earning $20 a week, would pay no more than $45 for two months' hospital care and a month's convalescence. Similar treatment in a civilian hospital would cost $600. Fees are apart from doctor's fees and extra services.

The new scheme is already in force. It is embodied in an order-in-council passed two weeks ago.

Musical Talent Displayed At Albert College Recital

By EUGENE LANG

Up and coming musical talent of this city and district were given the opportunity to display their accomplishments in the realm of the piano, the voice, and the string ensemble at the recital rendered by the persons of students of the Albert College Conservatory of Music. Pupils of Miss Beasie Handley (piano), Mr. William G. Connor (piano), Mr. Harrison Dyer (vocal) and Mr. Barnett Taylor (violin, viola and 'cello) presented in the Memorial Chapel of Albert College a program of varied content and appeal, which demonstrated to the audience in attendance the musical ability of each and every participant.

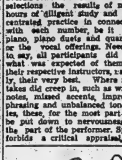
Prior to the actual recital, Rev. W. E. MacKenzie, Principal of Albert College, welcomed all in attendance to this, the last of four recitals held during the week, of students of the above mentioned teachers. Mr. MacKenzie stressed briefly the importance of music in this hectic world, and the lending factor that it is in the academic life of Albert College. His remarks in connection with the musical life of Albert College were very optimistic, showing an ever increasing interest towards music of "higher" the allied arts in the forthcoming years.

STRING SYMPHONETTE HEARD

Perhaps the major attraction of Saturday evening's recital was the initial concert appearance of the Barnett Taylor String Symphonette. Founded by Mr. Taylor, teacher of violin and stringed instruments at the conservatory, this group of string players, all pupils of Mr. Taylor performed in a most satisfactory and pleasing manner. Though this string ensemble has been practising for a period of only two months they revealed an unusual amount of co-ordination and clarity in their playing. Each all are not of the same technical advancement in regard their individual instruments. Mr. Taylor has wisely arranged all the music that they performed so that not only that none of the players has a part that would tend to get him in deep water.

In other words, each member of the Symphonette has been given a part that just merits his (or her) technique. Well known selections of short duration were chosen, ones that showed a good interpretation of sound, fairly careful phrasing, and a just amount of precision. Considering the amount of practice (both individual and collective) and instruction that these string players have had at the capable hands of Mr. Taylor, they gave a very praise-worthy interpretation of their enthusiastic efforts. We hope that this group intends to carry on and will increase in personnel in the future, not being condemned to disbandment after the ephemeral organizations have in the past.

Members of the Symphonette are: Violins, Mrs. G. E. Currie (Concertmaster), Raymond Taylor, Miss Marion Fox, Joachim Reimann, Fred Stone, Joseph Ryson, Miss Mary Hanna, Miss Eileen Schwab; E. G. Garnett, Allan Garnett, Kitty Gesin: Viola, Allan Lipes; 'Cello, Mrs. A. Masser.



MANY HOURS OF STUDY

The numerous piano pupils of Miss Beasie Handley and Mr. William Connor as well as the vocal students of Mr. Egerton Boyce for the most part showed in their overall renditions of their chosen selections the results of many hours of diligent study and concentrated practice in connection with each number, be it solo piano, piano duets and quartets, or the vocal offerings. Needless to say, all participants did only what was expected of them by their respective instructors, namely, their very best. Where mistakes did creep in, such as wrong notes, missed accents, improper phrasing and unbalanced tonality, these, for the most part, can be put down to nervousness on the part of the performer. Space forbids a critical appraisal of each and every number-participant performance, but it can be safely said that any who did falter, knowingly or unknowingly, they can be forgiven, as they did a most commendable job in all aspects. Not intending to be unfair to anyone, this writer would like to mention two or three items that attracted his attention. Solo piano numbers that were exceptionally good—Joan Burke (Country Gardens), Laura MacKay (Sonata of Haydn), Duets that appealed—Dawn Dunford and William Connor (Minuet from Meistersinger) and Mary Reilly, Dawn Dunford, Esther Juby.

Two pianos, four hands—Marilyn Marsden, Evangeline Reilly, Dawn Dunford, Esther Juby.

Two pianos, four hands—Marilyn Marsden, Evangeline Reilly, Dawn Dunford, Esther Juby, and Norma Browne. (For each of these named: Mr. Connor played the second piano part.)

Finally, mention must be made once again of each and every participant for the overall conscientious and commendable performances that were given. The many many hours of practice and rehearsal that each participant went through were justly rewarded by the warm applause following each recitalist's offering.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

THE BRIDEGROOM HAS AN ATTIRE-PROBLEM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Prospective bridegrooms have their attire-problems too. . . and I have one that certainly perplexes me and frustrates my family. They, as well as I, have always disapproved of wearing an evening reception, when there has been a large church wedding in the morning. But, Mrs. Beeckman, that's what is happening to me! And I don't like it for I think it would be so much better taste to have a wedding breakfast after the ceremony. However—!

We are to be married in church at 11 o'clock in the morning; then there is to be a wedding breakfast, but only for members of the bride's families and our wedding attendants. In the evening there is to be a large reception in the home of the bride's parents. Our morning wedding is to be very formal; bride in traditional wedding gown and bridal veil; and I'm to wear cutaway coat, striped trousers, and the suitable formal accessories. Now, my prospective mother-in-law and her mother insist that for the evening reception I should change to formal evening attire, "white tie and tails." I think, and my attendants agree with me, that we should wear to the evening reception the attire we wear at the morning ceremony. Who is right about this? — Arthur ii.

You are. You and your attendants correctly wear to the evening reception the attire you wear for the morning wedding. Of course, the bride will be wearing a different dress than at her wedding . . . and you should wear the clothes you have worn at the church.

ANNOUNCEMENT SHOULD SHOW PROPER RESPECT TO FIANCE'S MOTHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance's mother died when he was a very little boy, and two years after death his father remarried her cousin. She has been a wonderful mother to him, he is completely devoted to her, thinks of her more as "mother" than as "stepmother." As a matter of fact he never uses the term "stepmother" for her, even in introductions. (And he has also asked me not to.) Our engagement has not been announced yet, and in taking over the announcement last evening, we wondered if it would be proper, or even permissible, to refer to him (in the newspaper announcement of our engagement, and later in the newspaper announcement of our engagement, and later in the newspaper announcement of our wedding) as "the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Page," meaning the present "Mrs. Page." Would this be proper? — Doris.

No. . . this would not be proper on any count. In the first place, it is not the fact. . . and it certainly would not be showing the loving honor and respect to your fiance's own mother, I do hope you and your fiance will consider further such a disrespectful and bad-taste plan. The announcement in the newspaper, of the engagement and of the wedding, should read: "to Mr. David Page, son of Mr. Robert Page, of this city, and the late Mrs. Page."

THAT "IMPORTANT FIRST DANCE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently my escort at a dance was peeved (and still is!) because I danced the first dance with another fellow. He insists this is very bad manners, was discourteous to him, and that I should have known better. Do you think that he was just jealous, or do you think I was wrong? — Patricia B.

I know you were wrong. He wasn't jealous . . he was merely right in his point of view that a girl should take it for granted that she should give the first dance to her escort-of-the-evening. (As a matter of fact, the last dance is often possible, and if it's a formal-type-planned dance, the dance before and after supper.) Now that you've learned your lesson, know you were wrong—discourteous, too—you should straightforwardly admit to your escort your discourtesy, apologize "prettily" . . and hope he'll invite you to another dance, to give you the opportunity to show him you know what's what!

SHOULD THEY SEND AN ANNIVERSARY GIFT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

There seem to be as many (perhaps more) wedding anniversaries these days as there are weddings! My husband and I have a special problem on this account. We have parties to which we have been invited for the last of this month. Both couples are particularly intimate friends of ours, we happen to know that the parties are to celebrate wedding anniversaries, but both couples have told us that they prefer not to omit on the invitations any mention of the fact that the parties are wedding anniversary parties. Our 100 percent inclination is to take a really nice present to each party. But, Mrs. Beeckman, should we, since we may be the only ones "in the know"? — Miriam S.

My advice is that you shouldn't, in either case, take a present with you to the party. You may, as you say, be the only ones who know that it is a wedding anniversary,

Woman is Top Executive of Lumber Firm

By KEN BESTHERAL

Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUESNEL, B.C. (CP)—A slim, attractive brunette is proving daily that most have no monopoly on British Columbia's rough, tough lumbering industry.

Then years ago Mrs. Dorothy Ritson's chief concern was her home and the welfare of her son Jimmy. Today she is a top executive for a lumbering enterprise that annually cuts and ships 61,000,000 pounds of lumber to domestic and export markets.

Dot Ritson describes her position as copyrider of the H. J. Gardner Lumber Company as that of "a glorified bookkeeper."

But veteran lumbermen admit she can "handle any job from driving a truck to high finance as good or better than any man."

MARTINET OPENING

Dorothy was a bride of 23 with a two-year-old son when wartime labor shortages gave her an opening in the company founded by her father, the late H. J. Gardiner.

With her three brothers, Alfred, Herbert and Harry, all serving in the armed forces, she offered to lend a hand in 1943. She has been working steadily at both since.

Her first job was driving a 12-ton logging truck hauling fresh cut logs to the company mill. Quesnel business men still speak of the skill and daring of the dynamic, 115-pound woman as she manhandled the big trucks over rough, dangerous mountain trails. Soon she was helping to run operations in the woods and keeping the books in the office.

Her father, who walked into the Cariboo country from Vancouver on foot and came back in 1926, established the company with the first sawmill to operate in the Quesnel area.

Today his daughter is controller of a widespread operation that last year marked 8,000,000 board feet of lumber. The company operates a number of portable sawmills in the Cariboo, a fleet of trucks and a subsidiary planing mill and has its own airplane to allow executives to keep in close touch with operations.

Ian Chemoller, Mrs. Ritson is in charge of credit, financing and accounting.

Her brothers have taken over active management of the woods and mill operations and Herbert Jand, Jack, is in charge of the planing mill.

FUTURE BRIGHT

Mrs. Ritson sees a bright future for the Cariboo district in the announced plans for extension of the B.C.-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway from sidetrack at Squamish, B.C., to Vancouver and construction of a natural gas pipeline from the Peace river district.

"Extension of the railway into Vancouver will be a great boon for the lumber industry," she says. "It will allow us to compete for the first time in the Prairie market and give more competitive rates in the United States."

Both the rail and pipeline developments should spark development of secondary industries in the Quesnel area and bring to the women of the interior more of the amenities of city life, she added.

"I will be wonderful to have the convenience of gas for cooking. And no furnace to stoke when hubby's away—oh my."

Mrs. Ritson thinks Canadian business women should stop forming their own clubs and take a more active part in such organizations as chambers of commerce and boards of trade.

"We should stop flaunting the fact we are women and just concentrate on doing a good job.

"That's the fastest way of making a man sit up and take notice," or, I judge, at least there might be only a few others who will vote. If only you and your husband, or, say a few others, object "wearing gifts," I should certainly think those who didn't know would feel highly embarrassed, or dismayed. For this would emphasize that you and your husband are special friends of the hosts; that the others aren't, because they haven't specified in. A really nice anniversary present you may give or send . . is a good card, and an assurance that you give it or send it to the host and hostess the morning of the Anniversary Day.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU WIN FRIENDS WHEN YOU REFUSE TO GOSSIP

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I manage a beauty shop in my city and have two customers who are constantly gossiping and asking personal questions about other women.

I always tell her that I do not know the answers to the questions she asks, and at times have even had to be quite rude, but she pays no attention and keeps right on making a nuisance of herself.

Please advise me what to do or say to put an end to this. — C.V.B.S.

It would suggest that the next time this woman asks a personal question about another woman, you simply say that you prefer not to discuss your clients.

If this does not work, then I suggest that the next time she calls for an appointment, you tell her you are sorry, but your appointments are all taken and you cannot give her one. Keep this up until she understands that you prefer not to have her as a customer any longer. You're certainly under no obligation to give appointments to women with whom you prefer not to deal.

Don't worry that it might hurt your business to do this. You can't lose by refusing to gossip. Instead, people will think all the more of you when they know their personal business and their confidences are safe with you.

MAYBE THIS IS JUST ANOTHER PASSING ROMANCE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For a year, a certain boy and I were going together and then another girl and went with her for about six weeks. After she went home, he got a letter from this girl telling him she was sending back his pictures, which she did.

He told me he wasn't going with her any more and that he couldn't forget me, but I'm not sure if he still loves me or not. Whenever we see each other in town and stop and talk, he always asks me to come to his house, and then we go to a show. I can't refuse him, because I still love him and would like to go with him again, but I don't know if it would be wise for me to go to his house.

What do you think? I have thought of going away, but I know there is nowhere I could go that I would forget him.

He is just 20 and I am going on 19 — Jean

Dear J.:

You don't sound very mature to me for a girl of 18. I'm sure that, by this time, you must already have had more than one experience of fully believing you were "in love" and that you could never "forget" if anything happened to your romance, and then, after awhile, discovering that the romance was over and you didn't really care about the boy any more could easily happen again. Don't you think?

On the other hand, why not just let things take their course until you find out if this is going to be just another repetition of what has happened before? Since this chap is now asking you to go out with him again, go ahead and enjoy yourself. You certainly have nothing to lose by it, and you will be sensible enough not to do a lot of day dreaming about marrying him until you see which way the wind is blowing.

As for going up to his house, there's nothing whatever wrong about that, so long as you go there only when his family are home and never just for the purpose of being alone together. It's just as natural and right for a young man to want his parents to meet his girl friends, as it is for a girl to have her parents come to her house and meet hers.

Keep Cool With Frozen Desserts

By Mary Moore

In a letter last week from Helen P. she asked for frozen desserts not calling for whipping cream. I don't blame her. The cost is high and so are the calories, too.

June 21st, the first day of summer, should be an ideal day to coolly blossom forth with such frosty froth.

The basic recipe for a plain sherbet seems to be a good starting point, for a sherbet is as ice tive for a luncheon dessert (if you're rich and slim) and gala-tis-fies the latter may be omitted, but I recommend using the gelatin.

SHERBET (basic recipe)

One cup sugar, 2 cups water, 2 teaspoons plain gelatin, 1-4 cup water, 2 unbeaten egg whites, 1 cup fruit juice or 1-2 cup crushed fruit (if crushed pineapple is used it should be canned; fruit juices may include orange, grape, apple, apple, cherry, raspberry, strawberry, etc. and crushed fruit may include crushed strawberries, raspberries, bananas, orange pulp, lemon juice, grated rind, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Soak the plain gelatin in the 1-4 cup water five minutes. Add the sugar to the 2 cups water and bring to boil. Stir the soaked gelatin into the syrup, until dissolved. Cool. Add the fruit juice or crushed fruit, which includes the 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Pour into freezing tray, freeze until firm all over. Transfer to cool bowl and beat until uneven egg whites and beat with rotary or electric beater until light—and fluffy. Return to freezing tray and freeze until firm. This amount will fill two trays. After 1st cool, Add the fruit juice

FRUITY SHERBET (no gelatin)

Two cups mashed bananas, 1-3 cup each lemon juice, orange juice, 1 cup light corn syrup, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 egg white, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 cup milk, 1-4 cup heavy cream whipped, 1-3 cup coarsely cut maraschino cherries, 1-2 teaspoon finely grated orange rind. As soon as bananas are mashed add the lemon juice to them then the orange juice, corn syrup, and salt. Beat the egg whites until stiff and gradually beat the sugar into it until stiff. Fold the fruit and banana mixture. Add the milk, cherry juice, cherries and rind. Turn into freezing tray and freeze until almost firm. Transfer to chilled bowl and beat to blend and smoothly. Return to freezing tray and freeze until firm. Eight servings.

SIMPLE ORANGE ICE

Make a syrup of 2 cups water and 1 cup sugar by simmering together for five minutes. Remove from heat and add 1 cup orange juice or unstrained orange juice, 1-4 cup lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon finely grated orange rind. Turn into freezing tray and freeze to a mush. Turn out in cold bowl and beat until smooth, return to tray to freeze firm, then beat again in cold bowl, and return to tray to freeze firm. Serves 6.

BURNT ALMOND ICE CREAM

(Evaporated milk)

One and one-half cups white sugar, 1 1-3 cups hot water, 1 tablespoon flour, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 well-beaten egg, 4 1-2 cups evaporated milk; 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup finely chopped blanched and toasted almonds. In heavy frying pan slowly melt 1 cup of sugar over moderate and light gold, then slowly add the hot water, stirring constantly until caramel dissolves. Mix the flour with the remaining 1-3 cup sugar and the salt in the top of a double boiler, and stir in the hot caramel syrup, gradually until thick. Cover and cook 15 minutes over boiling water, stirring twice. Pour this slowly over the beaten egg white stirring, then return to double boiler to cook 2 minutes. Cool. Add the milk, vanilla, and chopped almonds. Turn into freezing tray to freeze to a mush, then beat in cold bowl until foamy and return to tray to freeze again to a mush. Beat again and freeze firm. Eight or ten servings.

HARD WORKERS

WEBSWOOD, Ont. (CP)—The Presbyterian Women's League in this Sudbury district town reported a bank balance of $16, decided on purchase paint for the church floor, and agreed to do the work themselves.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

BEAUTY IS MORE THAN SKIN DEEP

In the pursuit of good looks women spend a great deal of time and money—worthwhile investments, of course. But they should also remember that cosmetics are not the sole answer to the beauty problem. A woman's living habits, her emotional state, even her thoughts are factors to be considered.

Alexis Carrel, in his interesting book "Man the Unknown" touches on this subject. His observations are worthy of the attention of every woman who would preserve youthful appearance — and what woman wouldn't?

He says "The shape of the face, the mouth, the eyelids and the lines of the visage are determined by the habitual condition of the flat muscles, which move in the softness tissues underlying the skin. And the state of the epithelial tissues of the skin depends on that of the mind. Indeed every individual can give his face the expression that he chooses. In this open book can be read not only the vices, the virtues, the intelligence, the stupidity, the feelings of the individual, but also the constitution of the body."

Carrel has put on your looking glass! It will remind you that cosmetics are just the cream on the beauty cake. It will impress upon you that vale?peace of mind, the best of all beauty aids, is the youthful appearance. Tranquility is an insurance against emotional unrest. With it, there will be no accumulation of temper, with their devastating effect upon the spirits, the nervous system, the digestive organs, the skin, the blood streams. The expression "blind rage" is just that, since anger can affect vision.

The woman who is always "boiling inside" because of some real or fancied slight is not playing fair with herself. The sickhious mental state will make her countenance lose softness and charm and all make-up in the world will not be of the slightest benefit.

Jealousy, envy, hatred, are unpleasant emotions will produce facial lines and shadows that become established, will remain with one throughout the years.

AT THE BELLE — Marilyn Monroe plays a hocky-tonk entertainer in Twentieth Century-Fox's "River of No Return," in Cinemacolor, co-starring Rory Calhoun and Robert Mitchum, continuing today and Tuesday at the Belle. Filmed on location in Canada only CinemaScope, and the marvels of Stereophonic Sound, could bring this flaming love story to life.

A WONDER DRUG HELPED CHANGE THIS...

Surgery will always be the answer to certain medical problems. But, in some cases, today's antibiotic wonder drugs have helped remove the need for such drastic action.

To grandfather, however, those same cases meant heavy doctor's bills, long hours in surgery, nurses, many medicines, and certainly a long period of convalescence. Even in his day of low prices all these costs were great.

It is only because truly staggering sums have been spent in research and development by the leading pharmaceutical houses that we can buy today's wonder drugs at all. And buy them, moreover, at prices that are very reasonable when compared to what grandfather had to pay for treatments—many of which are no longer necessary!

COMMONS TURNS

It year up to the provinces to work out plans, the statement said, and federal assistance depended on satisfactory agreements being made with the provinces. Mr. Martin said the matter is being given close attention and study.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said health insurance has been a plank in the Liberal party platform since 1919.

"When is that commitment going to be implemented?" he asked.

Health Insurance should be placed on a universal basis covering all Canadians if the cost were to be kept down.

CLAIM SOCIALIZED

Dr. William Blair (PC—Lanark) and F. D. Shaw (SC—Red Deer) criticized the CCF plan for national health insurance which they described as socialized medicine.

Dr. Blair said the agreement and good will of doctors must be obtained if any plan is to succeed.

"We believe a contributory plan could be introduced which would cover the minimum hazards of the state medicine in Canada."

Several opposition members criticized the size of federal grants to voluntary health organizations; referring to a statement of $164,450 in grants to 14 organizations.

SUGGESTS INCREASE

J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood) said the amount was "tragically in the extreme" and added that a $10,000 grant to the Health League of Canada, for instance, should be larger.

Mr. Martin replied that the amount does not include all the grants. This year grants to voluntary organizations would total some $3,000,000.

Another member urged larger federal contributions for construction of hospitals. Mr. Martin said he can give no encouragement that there will be an increase. Health was primarily provincial responsibility. However, federal grants had helped in the building of 63,000 hospital beds in the last 5½ years and the country's shortage had been reduced to about 23,000 hospital beds.

GOVT. MOBILIZES

Another invading column was reported moving in from Macuelizo, Honduras, about 20 miles west of Puerto Barrios, Guatemala's chief Caribbean port.

The third was reported toward Zacapa, midway on the vital rail line between Puerto Barrios and Guatemala City.

Rebel sources said their planes also are dropping arms in western Guatemala where uprisings against the government have been reported.

UPRISINGS REPORTED

Reporting the dropping of supplies to insurgents inside Guatemala, a rebel spokesman said small-scale uprisings had occurred at Totonicapan, Retalhuleu and Huehuetenango. These towns range in population from about 6,000 to 9,500. They are located north and west of Guatemala City, nearer the Mexican border.

Rebel headquarters claimed government soldiers "are deserting to our side" and declared the Arbenz government has no confidence in its army. Spokesmen gave no estimate on the number of deserters, however.

In a statement, the headquarters said the "national liberation movement has taken a position inside the territory of Guatemala without the help or co-operation of any other country or any foreign army." A spokesman said the rebel force consists of 5,000 men, all Guatemalans.

The Arbenz government has charged Castillo Armas received aid from Nicaragua. It also has asserted that the rebel force is composed of adventurers from other Central American states, in addition to Guatemalan exiles.

There was no immediate reaction to diplomatic developments at the United Nations and elsewhere on Guatemala's charge that it is the victim of aggression. The U.S. has charged that the Guatemala government is Communist - influenced.

ASK CEASE-FIRE

At an extraordinary Sunday session, the UN Security Council unanimously called for a cease-fire in Guatemala. The resolution, proposed by France, also urged all UN members not to aid either side in the struggle.

The move came after the Soviet Union vetoed a U.S.-sponsored bid to turn the complaint over to the Organization of American States and demanded that the council first act on the case.

The cease-fire request was approved after Guatemalan delegate Edmundo Castillo-Arriola charged that Honduras and Nicaragua, supported by the U.S., and the United Fruit Co., had connived in an aggression against Guatemalan territory by mercenary troops.

U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge hotly denied the charges. He said information available to the U.S. "strongly suggests that the situation does not involve aggression but a revolt of Guatemalans against Guatemalans."

The Guatemalan fighting sparked a wave of anti-U.S. demonstrations in other Latin American countries.

In Havana, police repeated a group of Cuban Communists attacked the office of the United Press, throwing stones and other objects at the news agency quarters. Windows were broken but no one was injured.

BURN U.S. FLAG

Chilean students shouting pro-Guatemalan slogans burned the U.S. flag in downtown Santiago a Saturday night. The demonstrators represented seven political parties, ranging from left-wing Socialists to conservative Social Christians.

In Buenos Aires, the pro-government newspaper Critica said Guatemala is "surrounded by enemies" giving help to "exiled Guatemalan revolutionaries. In the first Argentine newspaper comment on the uprising, Critica said it "clashed with the powerful interests of the United Fruit Co. and its subsidiaries" while fighting for national sovereignty.

Guatemala spans the narrow isthmus of Central America south of Mexico, at the area where the isthmus is best so that it lies east and west between the Caribbean and the Pacific. Honduras lies to its south, and east, while British Honduras lies north and east and is separated from Honduras by a narrow strip of Guatemala which reaches to the Caribbean.

On the Pacific side south of Guatemala is El Salvador, a smaller republic, then south and east again lies Nicaragua, reaching down to the Panama canal zone.

SECURITY

The council took no action on Guatemala's request that it send a peace observation mission at once "to prove the connivance" of Honduras and Nicaragua.

SPECTATOR REMOVED

Proceedings were interrupted three times by applause, which Lodge's gavel cut off, and once by a sport-shirted spectator shouting "down with the Guatemalan invasion by the state department" UN guards turned the man over to New York City police who booked him on a disorderly conduct charge and held him for mental observation. He identified himself as "William Daley of Greenwich Village, New York City in care of the American Labor party."

The Guatemalan delegate said his country had been invaded from Honduras Friday by mercenaries and bombed by F-47 planes (Thunderbolts) of North American manufacture, the latter coming from bases on Nicaragua and Honduras.

He claimed to have documentary proof linking the exiled leader of the invasion, Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, with Nicaragua and "the government of the north," an obvious reference to the U.S.

The Guatemalan also produced the surprise charge that two fliers of U.S. citizenship had crash-landed, wounded, at Tapachula, Mexico, Sunday, after an attack on Guatemala. In Mexico City, the Mexican air force chief of staff, Col. Carlos R. Bergunza de Victoria, said he had no report of any such incident.

Tribe Hikes American League Lead To Four; Brooks Cut Giants' Margin

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

FINE EFFORT.

Marve Robert Buxton almost stole the show in that narrow 5-4 victory over the Oakville Oaks on Saturday night. Robert started off in somewhat shaky fashion and the fact that his fielding was below par had several to the fairly heathen did not help matters much. Then that pesky Oaks Rovers slammed a four-bagger into the wild blue yonder and instead of "Screwie", Marve Buxton settled down to as neat a piece of flinging as these optics have seen in many a baseball moon.

The home came in the sixth to give the Oaks a 4-1 lead. Came the seventh with Tony Petillit and Davy Jones on third and Marve Robert stroke to the plate. He smashed a terrific drive over the centrefielder's head to home-clean the sacks and it was a new ball game. Buxton settled down and pitched the only thriller-mean in the final four frames. He whiffed ten, bestdes adding a single to his hit record. Not a bad chore in any man's league.

The win gave the Baizs their fifth victory as against two defeats and they should be hovering around the top of the heap. The standing will likely be available before the "baby goes to bed."

A lot of credit for the Baizs fine record thus far goes to playing coach Terry Gorrey for the fine way he has handled the team, either from the bench, the third-base coaching line, or his position in left field. He has combined a tactful attitude when it comes to making a decision and he is no respecter of persons. On more than one occasion he has had the hammer of on the game when he thought it would benefit the club. No one is perfect and to err is human. But there has been little room for criticism thus far in the manner in which Gorrey has master-minded the Baizs.

Gorrey has no comments to make about Saturday's game but it was evident he was pleased with Buxton's sensational all-round effort and the way the club pulled itself out of the early innings doldrums. He intimated he would start Johnny Mowat tonight against Peterborough with Sam Mulholland likely starting against the Oshawa Transporters tomorrow night.

HOT TOX JOX . . .

The roaring bellicose of the stock car racing fraternity swing into action at the Exhibition Grounds again on Wednesday night after a somewhat lengthy lay-off as pro moter Dick Barrows informed the writer this morning that though the threatiers did a real job of wrecking their souped-up bicycles in the last race of the season, "nobody were filled with pellets. However it seems that all have recovered nicely, thank you, and will be racin and roarin' as per again come Wednesday evening. A good field of starters is assured.

ACE HOLDEN,

Reports from down Montreal way have it that Ace Holden, famous Negro fastball hurler and his four-man crew who are scheduled for the Canadian National A.A. Recreation Park on June 28, will show a couple of new faces. The "Ace", who is now sponsored by the Carlings Breweries Ltd., has renamed the club the "Rockets". Last year they were labelled the "Rockets". The new players are said to be tops in fastball circles and make the Rockets an even more formidable aggregation than that which played to a tie here last summer. It is softball, say Holden, and they will do their best, and will be served up by a master craftsman and three colleagues who are something of fastball wizards themselves.

IN SECOND PLACE.

Here is the Viaduct Ontario League standing, including Sunday's games. The Oshawa Transporters are on top of the heap with nine wins and three defeats; Belleville Baizs are second with five and two; Toronto Hoakings seven and six; Toronto Dogwoods five and seven; the Petes four and eight and the Oakville Oaks three and nine.

The Transporters fielded a southpaw reported to have come from Lafayette University, somewhere in Pennsylvania and he promptly handed the Petes a 10-1 setback with a neat five-hitter. The Petes won one and lost two over the week-end with Hoakings winning one and Dependables winning one and dropping a pair.

The Baizs will be gunning for their sixth victory tonight in Peterborough while tomorrow night at the long-leading Oshawa club will be their guests at Exhibition Park.

Batting — Bobby Hofman and Dusty Rhodes, New York Giants, set record by hitting pinch home runs in sixth inning of 7-6 victory over St. Louis.

Pitching — Bob Keegan, Chicago White Sox, became first 10-game winner in the American League with 7-3 decision over New York American open in 1948, repeating saving second place for Chicago. In 1950, 1951 and 1953.

Remember When

By The Canadian Press

Ben Hogan scored his first major golfing victory 12 years ago today by winning the Hale America open at Chicago with a 36-under-par 72-hole total of 271. Hogan rocketed the top with his first victory in the American open in 1948, repeating

Tomahawk Red Sox for Brace As Yankees, White Sox Split; Reliefers Win Pair for 'Bums'

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Warren Giles' embargo on the $100 home run bonus came just in time to save Leo Durocher from an acute case of C-note shorts.

Take Sunday, for instance. Two Giant pinch hitters, Bobby Hofman and Dusty Rhodes, set a record by hitting pinch homers in the same inning of New York's 7-6 victory over St. Louis. Wes Westrum also homered in the Giants' nine inning and Al Dark hit one earlier.

The Giants needed them. Their National League lead was sliced to a half game by Brooklyn's double victory.

RELIEF DID IT

The Dodgers again fell back on relief pitching to knock off Chicago twice 6-4 and 6-3, with Clem Labine bailing out the first game and Bob Milliken and Ben Wade holding the fort in the second.

For the first time since Sept. 6, 1953, Brooklyn actually won a doubleheader. First the Pirates downed Milwaukee 2-1 in 10 innings when Lew Burdette hit Curt Roberts with a pitched ball, with the bases loaded. Then Gair Allie's three-run homer gave the Pirates the second game 8-3 over Bob Buhl. The double defeated dropped the Braves seven games out of first place.

Cincinnati bumped Philadelphia twice 4-3 and 6-4, chasing their old teammate, Herm Wehmeier, after they scored nine runs in the first inning of the second game.

TRIBE ADVANCES

Cleveland hiked its American League lead to four games by beating Boston and Sunday afternoon around the head 3-1 and 9-2, while New York and Chicago were dividing two. Whitey Ford's five-hitter and Art Houtteman's 10-hitter held had home runs help down in Gotham, boosting the Tribe's season record to 31-5 over Boston.

The Yankees managed 20 hits, including home runs by Bill Skowron, Gil McDougald, Mickey Mantle and Joe Collins in thumping Chicago's Billy Pierce first part way before 37,075 at Comiskey Park. Then Bob Keegan squared matters for the White Sox at 7-3, becoming the first American League pitcher to win 10 games this year. Roger Lollar's two-run homer in the seventh was the second game's big blow.

Baltimore's losing streak ran to eight straight when Washington's Connie Marrero and Dean Stone pitched the Senators to a double victory, 7-1 and 7-2. A crowd of 17,149 boosted the visitors' home attendance to 304,732 but the Baltimore Birds were thoroughly hooed.

RAINED OUT

A Philadelphia-at-Detroit doubleheader was rained out.

Eddie Stanky spent a frustrating afternoon at the Polo Grounds where his Cardinals left 17 runners on base, only one shy of the major league record, in the nightcap and 16-inning contest involving 33 players. Milliken became so involved that Monte Irvin, who flirted on the bench, got into the game as a pinch hitter and played left field, then wound up on first base when Whitey Lockman was chased by an umpire.

Ray Lamparella collected a bunt single, double and triple and Carl Furillo hit a three-run homer in Brooklyn's five-game triumph in which Labine's stylish relief work saved the day for Erskine.

Elgins Muff Chance for Top; Oshawa Nips Petes

By The Canadian Press

St. Thomas 'Elgins missed a chance during the week-end to slip into first place in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League standings.

The Elgins dropped both ends of a twin-bill Sunday when they met Guelph - Waterloo Royals at Guelph, Ont. Victory went to Bobby Schnurr led Royals a 5-0 victory in the opener but the Elgins bounced back to defeat 10-9 in innings in the nightcap before they edged Elgins 2-2.

In the third league battle, London Majors strengthened their grip on third place with a 3-0 win over Stratford Red Sox. The pace-setting Hall Twisters were idle. London is in third spot with Red Sox fourth.

FIFTH FIFTH

Royals' double win moved them into fifth place ahead of the idle Kitchener Panthers.

The shutout was the second in succession for Schnurr. Jack Caffrey was the victim here as Elgins giving up five runs in the first inning on five hits, all singles, with two walks and two errors.

Glen Norbeck shot a single into right field in the 10th inning off Caffrey for the winning run in the extra-innings game.

Ed Drapeau went all the way for his first win against two defeats, giving up nine safeties while Jack Kartsell in the ninth, was the loser.

EIGHT HITS

At Brantford, Bob Brack scattered eight hits as he beat the Red Sox for the second time this season.

The Majors picked up single runs in the third, fifth and sixth innings as the three held to six hits by Bob Goldsboll and Wilmer Fields. Russ Bauer led the winners with two hits.

Harry Fisher paced the Red Sox with a double and two singles.

In the Viaduct Ontario Baseball League, Dependables of Toronto salvaged one of three week-end games on home ground.

LOST TWO

They dropped an 11-7 decision to Hoskins Saturday and then went down to a 6-4 defeat Sunday at the hands of Hoakings. Dependables in the night game Sunday they made three base hits and six bases on balls count to edge Petes 5-4 in a six inning game.

At Peterborough Saturday, Oshawa Transporters held onto their first place position in the VOBL by defeating Petes 10-1. Lefty Howard Monteith limited Petes to five ball for Oshawa and fanned 11. His mates touched Jerry Frizzell for six safe hits.

Activity in the Intercounty loop will see London at Kitchener Tuesday and Guelph at Galt.

OUTRID 12 FOR 12 FOR 12

BALTIMORE (AP)—Washington Senators of the American League paid a reported $30,000 for Harmon Killebrew, 17-year-old batting sensation of Idaho semi-pro baseball. He is the first bonus player ever signed by Washington and the Senators will be tossed to other major league teams for the six-foot, 185-pound hitter. Owner Phleger, Senators farm director, went after Killebrew after seeing him hit 12 for 12—four home runs, three triples and five singles—in three semi-pro games at his home town, Payette, Idaho.

Wings Defeat Royals Twice; Cut Leafs Lead

By The Associated Press

Rochester Red Wings are making a determined bid to get back on top of the International League and win their second straight pennant.

Manager Harry (The Hat) Walker's Red Wings moved to within two games of the first-place Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday by taking back Montreal Royals' twice, 11-6 and 8-3.

Meanwhile the lowly Ottawa Athletics ended Toronto's six-game winning streak with an 11-6 victory in the first game. The second game was called because of the Sunday curfew law at the end of six innings with Toronto ahead 3-2. The game will be finished at a later date.

Syracuse Chiefs swept a doubleheader from Havana Cuban Sugar Kings 3-2 and 8-4, and Buffalo Bisons and Richmond Virginians split a twin bill. The Bisons won the opener 5-1 while Richmond took the nightcap 8-5.

FOURTEEN HITS

Rochester collected 14 hits off loser Glenn Cox and his four successors, with Al Richter and Bill Virdon leading the attack with three hits apiece.

Seven errors by Montreal in the second game handed Rochester the victory.

Outfielder Joe Taylor of the A's drove in what proved to be the winning run in the seventh inning of the first game against Toronto with a triple. Luke Easter slammed a home run for the winners.

In the second game, the Leafs tallied three runs in the fifth inning. Mike Goliat's triple scored Archie Wilson and pitcher Vi Lombardi and Loren Babe' double sent Goliat home.

Bobby Bunton, Batas' Hurler, Sparks Team To 5-4 Victory Over Oakville

Blasts 3-Run Homer in 7th To Wipe Out Oaks' Early Lead; Whiffs 10 in Fine Mound Job

Bobby Bunton, Belleville Batas righthander, reached down, grabbed the ankle of the Oakville runner who had left first and went on to lead it to a zanyone 5-4 victory in a Viaduct-Ontario Senior Baseball League game here Sunday afternoon.

After a shaky start, Bunton settled down to fashion a masterful display of hurling, allowing seven hits, striking out ten and walking one. / His towering homer, on smash with two mates aboard in the seventh was the turning point of a game that appeared to be in the Oakville bag. He added a single to pace the Batas at the plate.

GRAB 4-1 LEAD

Brash, Oakville third baseman blasted a homerun to lead off the sixth inning to give the visitors a 4-1 lead. Unfazed, the blow hurt Bunton's pride is not known, but it had the right effect as far as the Batas were concerned. Bunton dug in his spikes and had the Oaks entire out of the box after one rest of the route. Only thirteen men batted him in the route, four of the six of them striking out. The side went out in order in the 7, 8 and 9th.

Ross Patton, clever Oakville southpaw, started on the hill and breezed along for five innings after the Batas had collected a first-inning run-off a walk, an error, and a sacrifice. Patton allowed but two hits in the first frame, the first coming in the fourth off Eddie Wellens' bludgeon. He struck out eight Batas and walked four. Ed Dunlop another lefthander relieved him in the fifth inning after Vern Goyer led off with a single.

In the fateful ninth, Tony Pettitt who relieved Wellens behind the plate, smashed out a single and Davy Jones drew a walk. Allin Kelleher laid down beautiful sacrifice and Pettitt advanced. Bunton strode to the plate and smashed the second pitch far and above the centerfield fence in nearly 400 fans roared their approval.

Doug Hull who replaced Vern Goyer in the seventh, trotted around the plate with the winner. Goyer smashed out a single, going to second on the sacrifice. Archambault and Hull took over the Goyer spot. Fitzpatrick grounded out and Hull followed to third on the play. Tony Pettitt hoisted a long sacrifice fly to deep centrefield and Hull crossed the plate with the winning tally. Davy Jones singled but was stranded at second trying to pilfer the bag.

The Batas got away to a two run lead in the first with MacDonald drawing a walk and Peter Jones getting a life on Oakville infield error. Vern Goyer sacrificed the boys along and Archambault grounded out Fitzpatrick's infield out. Patton settled down and struck out Wellens and Davy Jones to retire the side.

TWO RUNNERS

Consecutive singles by Dowling, Brown and Thompson gave the Oaks the tying score in the second innings before Bunton squared away to retire the side. Consecutive errors by MacDonald and Claude Carr paved the way for a brace of Oakville runs in the fifth as the two men scored in front of Ross Patton's two-base hit to centrefield. Brown hit his home run when he was the first man up in the seventh but after that hoist it was all Bunton.

Bob Jet the Batas attack with his homer and single, with Kelleher hitting a bloop-double in the eighth, "dying" on third base after a passed ball got by the Oakville catcher. Vern Goyer, Tony Pettit, Ed Wollens and Davy Jones were good for singles.

Brown replicated Bunton's feat for the Oaks with his homer and single, Dowling helped himself to a double for the only other extra-base clout for the visitors.

Both teams came through with snappy infield double plays that cut off potential rallies.

Unsung Miss From Maritimes Star Performer

ST. LAMBERT, Que. (CP)—An unheralded young miss from Fredericton gave convincing evidence Saturday of her readiness to compete in the British Empire Games.

Rhoda, 17-year old daughter of Squire Tait, today won the award as outstanding girl performer at the eastern Canada track and field championships but turned back two of Montreal's representatives in sounding out a classy triple.

The high school youngster gathered in 30 points over-all to cop open sprints and also won the open hurdles.

She shot from behind in the 100 to overhaul Joan Wood and set the pace throughout to clock the last few yards by a scant foot. Rosella Squires, 17-year old representative of Ajax in Olympic and British Empire Games, was third. Miss Tait's time was 11.6 seconds.

In the 80-yard sprint Margery Ross, 16, of Ajax, won by a five-yard margin over Rosella at the finish, Joan Wood finishing third place. The winning time was 7.3 seconds.

LONG JUMP HERE

The same three ended the broad jump competition in that order, Rosella with a leap of 16 feet 17 feet 3½ inches giving her the victory.

Five open and native records were broken, mostly in the lower-age groups.

The featured, Coronation mile run was the first appearance in a competitive event from New York university.

Bill Crothers, 17-year old member of the provincial track and field officials will go into a huddle next week to decide whether he should be at the final trials in Vancouver next month, for Canada Empire Games team. Miss Squires will also compete in the finals.

John Bateman of Cornwall Collegiate finished second in two individual events. He was beaten in the 90 yards by Jim McGuire of Montreal, Verdun, in a time of 10 clicks third. Later in the 220, Paul Taylor of Westmount came in first. Bateman won two entries in this event.

Records Broken At Track Meet

HAMILTON (CP)—A policeman, a school teacher and a university student set Canadian records at the Ontario track and field championships here Saturday.

Stan Ralfe, 31-year-old policeman from Oromocto tossed the shot 50 feet, 9 inches, a quarter of an inch better than the previous record.

A new mark in the women's shot put was set by Jean MacDonald who made a throw of 42 feet, seven and a half inches, two feet; four inches better than the former record.

Larry Pella, Sudbury athlete now attending the University of Michigan, made a discus throw of 156 feet, 8½ inches, three feet better than the former record.

SEVEN EVENTS

A total of 45 events were run off in the all-day competitions.

Carol Myers from Toronto Silver Heels Club was the meet's top point winner athletic with victories in the baseball throw, the discus and the javelin. Mary Lawrence, unattached but coached by Cornel Pivovical of Toronto, gained the most points in senior girls competition, 18, one more than Gwen Hobbins who won the 80-meter hurdles in the meeting without competition.

Silver Heels Track Club won the team championship.

A. Robertson of Cornwall placed third in the men's 440 high hurdles behind winner Murray Gaziuk of Hamilton and J. McRoberts, Toronto.

St. Kitts Crews Take Honors At Junior Regatta

TORONTO (CP)—St. Catharines Rowing Club won top honors with five victories as the Ontario Canadian Rowing Association's second annual junior regatta here Saturday. The Don Rowing Club of Toronto had four wins while Argonauts of Toronto and the Leander of Hamilton had three wins each.

St. Catharines crews finished first in the 135-pound eights, the 135-pound eights, the 145-pound fours, the 133-pound singles and the senior eights. The latter was a special race pitting the junior heavy eights winners, the Don Rowing Club, against the St. Catharines and Argonaut crews which will be competing in the British Empire Games trials at St.Catharines July 10. The smooth-striking Don crew came home handily, finishing three lengths ahead of the second-place Argonauts.

DONS WIN

Don Rowing Club crews won team trophies for three of their four victories: the Argonaut Trophy, 135-pound fours, the Hunter Memorial Trophy, junior heavy eights and the Don Rowing Club Trophy, 145-pound fours.

Dons also won the quarter-mile dash eights, run this year for the first time. St. Catharines delegate was second.

Albert's only opponent, Bill Gray of Leander, tipped about 30 pounds more than his lithe foe. Albert was already sweeping across the finish.

Kings' Sponsor Lost Money; Drops Team

EDMONTON (CP)—Business executive Cliff Ross, who bankrolled Edmonton Oil Kings to the Memorial Cup junior hockey final, has dropped sponsorship of the Western Junior League club.

The team lost money in the 1953-54 season—some quarters said it was between $19,000 and $20,000—but the final figure won't be known until July 1, the end of the amateur Hockey Association notifies the Edmonton office of the sporting attended Memorial Cup final games.

"I can't go on being a party to an unhealthy situation," Ross said Sunday. "I would like to see the next sponsor get the team organized on a player-pool basis and cease paying 17- and 18-year-olds steady and healthy salaries."

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Dodgers Baseball School

While the hook slide is the basic slide in baseball, alert players also learn to use other slides for specific purposes. For instance, there is the play (generally at home plate) where the ball just beats the runner to the plate and the catcher (occasionally a baseman) blocks the plate to be sure that the runner won't touch it before he can be tagged.

The smart baserunner will slide past the catcher and then slap the bag with his hand. Experience indicates that once a catcher has gotten into position to block the base, he freezes in this position for the impact of the slide by the runner. When the runner slides away from him he cannot react quickly enough to make the tag. Jackie Robinson has demonstrated the effectiveness of this slide on many occasions.

The injury hazards involved in the headfirst slide would not recommend it for use except in getting back to a base on an attempted pick-off play.

Games, Football Radio, Television To Cost Half Million, Claims CBC

TORONTO (CP)—A $500,000 deal involving television and radio rights for the July 30-Aug. 7 British Empire Games at Vancouver and Big Four football games has been announced Saturday by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the biggest in Canadian sports history.

Although the CBC did not disclose the price, it was learned authoritatively $500,000 is the figure spent by the Northern Electric Co. and National Carbon Co. Northern Electric will get the full shot for the B.E. Games and the company will buy the National Carbon portion in sponsoring television and radio transmission of the Big Four games.

Television coverage of the B.E. Games will be seen each night at 7 p.m. Aug. 1 during the July 30-Aug. 7 period over six microwave-interconnected stations. Included are stations CBLT Toronto, CBMT Montreal, CFPL London, CHCH Hamilton and CBOT Ottawa. Stations not linked at present on the microwave television network such as CBWT Winnipeg and CKSO Sudbury, will receive programs on film the following day.

CLOSED CIRCUIT

The CBC said that transmission has been arranged for closed circuit across the United States from Seattle to Vancouver. The Corporation will be fed into the existing CBC-TV network. Additional facilities have been ordered to link CBUT Vancouver to Seattle.

Plans have been completed but CBC officials said they expect to bring the Grey Cup final and semi-finals to football fans across Canada by television and radio. The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation have not signed a contract but spokesmen said that should have been practically satisfactorily.

During the football season, Big Four cities will be blacked out for home-town games. Union playoff and these will be seen on more than 125 NBC stations throughout the U.S.

McCants Signs Two Contracts; To Play for Argos

DETROIT (AP) — Howard McCants casually admitted Saturday that he has signed contracts with two professional football teams "and if there's a bottle over it I just won't play football."

The flashy six-foot-eight Washington state end is right in the middle of a row between the Detroit Lions of the National Football League and Toronto Argonauts.

Both clubs previously had announced signing the 243-pounder. Here is McCants' version:

"The first contract I signed was with Toronto in April, but we had it post-dated to June 25. Then I decided I'd like to play with Detroit and signed a contract with them on June 11. I intended to play with Detroit until I saw some things I didn't like. Now I'm definitely going to play with Toronto and I'm looking for there the first of next week."

McCants would not say what "the things I didn't like" about Detroit were. Lions general manager Nick Kerbawy said "I'll know Monday whether I'm going to use McCants. Right now I'm not sure. At the rate I'm going I'll probably spend all summer in court with Canadian players."

England, Hungary Win Games In World Soccer

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—England and Hungary won their games Sunday in the world soccer championships and qualified for the quarter-finals.

England defeated Switzerland 2-0 in a sparkling game before 40,000 angry easily beat Germany 8-3 at Basel.

In other games Sunday, Italy beat Belgium 4-1 at Lugano and Turkey shut out Korea 7-0.

The Swiss must meet the Italians while Hungary plays Germany in playoffs to decide the remaining two quarter-final berths.

Uruguay, Brazil, Austria and Uruguay advanced to the quarter-finals on Saturday, eliminating Scotland, Czechoslovakia, France and Mexico.

Hungary, which played to a 4-4 tie last Thursday with Belgium, got a goal in each of the second and third periods to decide the outcome.

Ed. Furzol 'Man With Crooked Arm' Defeats Hogan, Snead in US Open

By ORLO ROBERTSON

SPRINGFIELD, N. J. (AP)—Probably the most unlikely golfer ever to win a fairway is the new U.S. open golf champion and he can credit much to a crippled left arm.

Ed Furgol, a leap six-foot, 155-pound, 37-year-old professional from Clayton, N.Y., put together consistent rounds of 71, 70, 71 and 72 over the long par 70 Baltusrol course for a 284—good enough to finish one stroke on front of 32-year-old Gene Littler, 1953 amateur champion from Palm Springs, Calif., now playing as a pro.

Through the four rounds, Furgol stepped down the carpet-like fairways at a pace that left his playing partners, officials, gallery and often his caddy trailing. It appeared as if the man with the crooked arm, frustrated time and again since turning pro in 1946, knew he was destined to win golf's biggest prize and refused to let competition be the feat as soon as possible.

LITTLER TROUBLE

Baltusrol's narrow fairways and tough rough offered him little trouble. His left arm, 10 inches shorter than his right and stiff from the elbow down, guided the ball true to the target with few exceptions as his right applied the power.

"My left elbow was a little stronger than Hogan's," said Furgol jokingly. "It kept me out of the rough." Defending champion Ben Hogan, seeking his fifth title, finished five strokes off the pace with a 289.

Furgol injured his left elbow at the age of 12 when he fell off parallel bars. The arm never healed correctly and he was left with a crooked, useless arm.

The crippled left arm proved valuable in one way. He didn't have to learn how to hold it stiff as he guided the club head into the ball.

The arm came in good stead on the 18th hole Saturday when he hooked his drive into the trees. For a moment it looked as if the ball was going to elude him. Then the crooked arm guided a seven iron shot as he came out on a fairway of Baltusrol's other course, hit the green from the side and two putts got him a par.

THEN HE TALKED

However, not until he had clinched the title, when Littler failed to sink an eight-foot putt on the 18th for a tie, did Furgol start talking. Not once during the three days had he engaged in a conversation of more than two or three words.

"Golf is my work," said Furgol, "and I figure I'd want anything I can get out of it. That's why I'm a golfer. A number of changes were made in the English lineup before the game.

Uruguay Trims Scotland 7-0

BASEL, Switzerland (AP)—Andie Beattie, manager of Scotland's soccer team which was defeated 7-0 by Uruguay in the world championships here Saturday, said he has decided to retire.

"I had made up my mind before today's match and today's defeat has nothing to do with that decision," he said in an interview. Beattie said he was quitting because of "embarrassing pin-pricks in carrying out the job which was proud and honored to accept."

Scotland was eliminated as a result of Saturday's loss to the defending champions.

UPSET VICTORY

NEW YORK (AP) — King Ranch's On Your Own pulled an upset Saturday when she defeated Mrs. George D. Widener's Evening Out in the $30,000 Cazelle Stakes before 31,138 fans at Aqueduct. The Maine Chance Farms' Fascinator was third.

Last Saturday pop had a kind of a tickle in his throat and ma told him he ought to stop smoking a while, and pop said, That's smart advice, and by golles I'm smart enough to take it I'm not going to lite another cigar till the beginning of the week, he said.

And yesterday morning he was smoking a cigar while he was reeding the Sunday paper, and ma came in the living room, saying William Fotts, what do I see?

Doot tell me yet, let me guess, pop said, and ma said, You know very well without guessing. This isn't Monday, she said.

It's not suppose to be, pop said, and ma said, And you aren't suppose to smoke till the beginning of the week by your own sollem assurance.

But this is the beginning of the week, pop said, and ma said, Now how do you make that out?

Easily, pop said, Sunday was Tuesday and so fourth, how much more proof do you want? he said, and ma said, Monday Tuesday Wensday and so forth, that's how much more proof. Sunday is the proverbial day of rest, and is it logical to rest on the first day of the week, or the last day? she said.

Why, the first day, of course, pop said. Isn't it logical to rest when you've got 6 long days of work ahead of you? he said, and ma said, Oh witch a man. How can you sit there and smoke and still accuse women of twisting logic around to suit their own convenience? she said.

I won't answer them any more, I'll congradulate them, pop said. Boys, it's a wonderful world, I always say so, he said.

Which he does.

By SAM GORDON

You may not be able to squeeze a coconut, So, try the Vienna coup. This means (1) using up a winner to (3) set up a winner in the opponent hand, and then (3) squeezing that winner out of him.

South was declarer at seven notrump in this deal:

♥J 10 4 /
♦K 5 4
♣K J 9 2 3

WEST
♠7 4
♥9 8 7 6 5 3
♦
♣10 8 7 6 5

EAST
♠K J 10 9
♥8 5 2
♦
♣Q J 10 9 8 2

SOUTH
♠Q 8 6 5 3 2
♥A Q
♦A 7 6 3
♣A K Q

Opening lead from west was a spade, a suit his partner had bid. Immediately was north dummy ace forced out to set up east spade king. Declarer must now squeeze out the king of spades from east.

A more spectacular when declarer deliberately cashes a good ace to set up an opponent king for a later squeeze. But the operation is just the same ultimately the opponent forces out the ace.

When dummy was forced to win the first trick with spade ace, the small club from there entered south with the ace. Three heart tops and club queen were cashed and south led the small club.

Since east had shown out of clubs right from the start, the nine of clubs in dummy was a proven finesse when west did not play the ten. North then cashed diamond king and showed west void in that suit.

The bidding and opening lead indicated spade king in east. Hence, that hand is protecting the two suits. It makes him a sitting duck target for a squeeze from the direction of dummy.

North cashed a top club and heart jack to get south sluffs of a diamond and a spade. Dummy is still in the lead and each hand is down to three cards. See what each holds.

Dummy has two small diamonds and a top club. East clings to a spade king and two diamonds. South sits with spade queen and ace of diamonds with small. North now leads the club, a squeeze card.

If east fires a diamond, south throws spade queen and takes two diamonds. If east chucks spade king, south sheds small diamond and has diamond ace with good spade queen. Ennaboo, Vienna coup.

SPORT IN BRIEF

CANADIANA WALLOPED

TORONTO (CP)— Chain Reaction, a big colt that got lost with the also-rans against Canadiana in the Queen's Plate last June, gave the bay filly one of the worst licks-ings of her career Saturday by winning the $10,000-added Maturity Stakes.

Chain Reaction defeated E. P. Taylor's prized filly by 10 lengths in their first meeting since Canadiana took the Plate classic. The colt was only galloping through the last 70 yards but covered the 1½-mile distance in 1:50 3-5, two-fifths of a second slower than the track record.

The brown colt picked up $7,450 for his owner, Mrs. J. Tomlinson ana, appearing skinny and drawn since he last appeared in Canada, tired at the finish but was an easy second over Blue Scooter.

More than 14,000 fans turned up at Woodbine track for the Maturity, billed as a return run between the two horses.

HOST CLUB WINS

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Brockville Rowing Club crews banked away with the first of home-and-home series Eastern Rowing Association regatta here Saturday with 28 points in a nine-event program. The other clubs, Lower main, Lachine and Ottawa, garnered 18 and 9 points respectively. The Brockville oarsmen took five firsts, a second and a third for their winning total. Second-place Lachine took one first.

NO MORE, BOYS

NEW YORK (AP) — National League president Warren Giles has notified all managers the payment of bonuses for outstanding performance on the field, and wagering of any kind, will no longer be tolerated, it was learned Saturday. Leo Durocher and Eddie Stanky, two of the three managers to whom the notice specifically was aimed, said they would hereafter comply with Giles' wishes. Milwaukee's Charlie Grimm, the other principal, had a like immediate comment. The three recently presented members of their respective teams with bonuses for remarkably noteworthy performances on the ball field.

WINS TRIAL

HAMILTON (CP)—Veteran Gerard Cote of St. Hyacinthe, Que., outlasted a starting field of 23 runners Saturday to win the British Empire Games marathon trial in 2:35-degree heat here. Keith Dunnell of Dundas, Ont., was second and Barry Lash of Hamilton Olympic third. Only nine of the starters finished the race over the 26-mile, 385-yard distance. Cote's time was three hours 10:46.

OOH! LA! LA! JANE RUSSELL IN "THE FRENCH LINE"

Ooh, La-La! Jane Russell is coming to the McCarthy theatre tonight in "The French Line", a high - and hilarious musical comedy in Technicolor.

Frisky — from her success in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," the jazz-lipped Jane sings and dances through romance and high comedy in this new Howard Hughes production as she portrays the richest gal in Texas. To avoid fortune hunters — she goes to Paris incognito, by swapping identities with a New York fashion model, but finds much more in the romance line than she bargained for. Gilbert Roland and Arthur Hunnicutt co-star with Miss Russell in "The French Line." Roland provides the romance as a dashing French musical comedy star and Hunnicutt supplies a good share of the laughs in the role of Jane's saddle-sore Texas guardian. Also prominent in the cast are Mary McCarty, singing comedienne from Broadway and the nitelclub circuit, Joyce MacKenzie, Paula Corday, Scott Elliott, Craig Stevens and Lenore Elliot.

Action of the picture centres on board a liner en route to Paris and in the gay French capital, where beautiful girls and gorgeous gowns provide extra sparkle to this bubbly entertainment.

Lloyd Bacon directed "The French Line" for RKO Radio and the music score was written by Joseph Myrow, Ralph Blane and Robert Wells. Billy Daniel staged the dance numbers for Producer Edmund Grainger. They are built around such song hits as "Any Gal From Texas," "Well, I'll Be Switched," "Win a Kiss," "Comment Allez Vous?" and "What Is This That I Feel?"

AT THE CAPITOL — Bill Holden as a sharp-tongued, cynical prisoner-of-war, stars in Paramount's "Stalag 17" a role that won him the Best Actor of the Year Academy Award. On the same program "War of the Worlds", this Year's Academy Award winner for special effects. Showing at the Capitol Theatre for its first Belleville showing tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR MONDAY, JUNE 21, 1954

MARCH 21 TO APRIL 20 — (Aries) — Impatience and lack of spiritual faith could upset the neatest work or clerical plans. And remember the present urgency of consistency and care in detail.

APRIL 21 to MAY 20— (Taurus) — Though you may have strong convictions about something, be not adverse to listening to others' opinions, lest you become stilted in viewpoint. Remember, too, that you could possibly be just plain wrong. Tact!

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini). Unusual interests and activities; improvements in medicine, chemistry and electronics are highly favoured. Look about sharply.

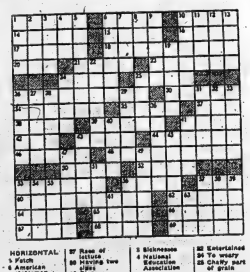
JUNE 21 to JULY 23 — (Cancer) — There are alternatives for truth, justice, and tolerance and if you stress these now you will be blessed for a long time to come. Heed attitude care.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 — (Leo) — Go along reasonably with the trend — If it is a constructive one. But be individual enough to say "no" and "yes" where you should, regardless of how it "looks."

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 — (Virgo) — Opportunity may not be readily recognized at the moment, but more ferreting and carefulness about details will open the doors, offer fresh advantages. Use persuasion, not force.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 — (Libra) — Some unusual situations likely. Don't become confused or excited. Take all in stride, you will smooth out the wrinkles more quickly. We all need obstacles to strengthen ambition, character.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 23 — (Scorpio)—Don't overcrowd your day andd avoid uncalled-for remarks for hasty decisions; they might upset associates, eventually yourself. Concentrate on the best ways, means.

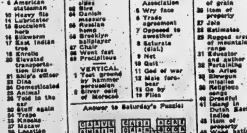


NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 22 — (Sagittarius) — Aim to strengthen and elevate your status. Hold your head faithfully high, but keep your feet on terra firma, as the saying goes. And keep vision clear from prejudices.

DECEMBER 23 to JANUARY 21 — (Capricorn)—Go far enough but not too far — how often we have been reminded of the need for application of this wise old remark? Mark time where you should; be vigorously active where necessary.

JANUARY 22 to FEBRUARY 20 — (Aquarius) — Better-than-fair configurations should encourage your efforts. Don't let bottlenecks form where you can help avert them. And don't waste your time on foolish matters or individuals.

FEBRUARY 21 to MARCH 20 — (Pisces) — A fine period for setting new goals and for developing situations more suitable to your advancement. Adjust differences quickly, smilingly.



YOU BORN TODAY are often the recipient of business and other propositions because of your eagerness of spirit, and enthusiasm for life. You are deeply attached to loved ones, yet may at times be at odds with them, which actually makes you feel ill. Be more careful about uncalled-for remarks and you'll avert many unpleasant situations. You have versatility, an attractive personality; inborn wit and a gift for entertainment. Pray for God's guidance and peace of mind.

Kansas Convicts Fail in Attempt To Gain Freedom

LANSING, Kans. (AP)—Shielded themselves with six terrified prison visitors, six desperate convicts tried to force their way out of the Kansas State prison Sunday.

A veteran guard was killed and one of the hostages and two of the convicts were wounded in bursts of gunfire before the group surrendered in the administration building.

The convicts were armed with three crude .22 calibre pistols and six knives, all made within the prison. The pistol ammunition presumably had been smuggled in.

The six men rushed into the visitors' room where about 35 visitors were talking with prisoners. They seized the hostages, including two children, and fled to the administration building.

VETERAN GUARD KILLED

Fred Kenaga, 58, an unarmed guard supervisor with 25 years of service, confronted the convicts at the administration building door and was shot to death.

Inside a vestibule the convicts were stopped by two gates. Threatening the hostages, they forced the gatekeeper to open the gates. He refused and they fired at him.

Warden Charles Edmondson rushed into the corridor and drew fire. The warden was not hysterically.

The warden got a rifle and stepped into the corridor again as armed guards approached from the yard in the rear.

"I knew we were going to have a showdown, and that we were going to have it right there," the warden said.

The convicts started shooting but surrendered when the guards opened fire. The warden said all six will be charged with first degree murder for Kenaga's slaying. One had been serving terms for robbery; the other was doing 30 years for rape.

Will Present Village With Resuscitator

WELLINGTON (Special)—Wellington Branch No. 185, Canadian Legion, will present the village fathers with an Emerson Resuscitator which will be available for use in any part of Prince Edward county, branch president Jack Ogilvy announced today.

The presentation will be formally made to Reeve James Cleminson and the village council some time in September, but the instrument will be made available for use in the immediate future.

The resuscitator is the only one of its kind in the county. The nearest it is stated is that owned by the Belleville Fire Department.

The Legion branch and its ladies auxiliary are sharing the cost of the resuscitator, said to be nearly $600. Fund for the project will be raised through the media of various projects conducted by both organizations.

Representatives of the manufacturing company were in the village over the week-end giving instructions regarding the operation of the instrument to members of the village volunteer fire department, and the Legion. Further demonstrations will be given periodically to the twelve members of the fire brigade so that operators will be available for emergency at all times.

"The Legion feels that in presenting the resuscitator to the village, and for the use in the county, it is filling a long-felt want. Wellington have had drownings in the past, which might have been prevented had such an instrument been available," President Ogilvy said.

U.S. Delegate Unusually Quiet At Wheat Parley

By SYDNEY GAMPELL

LONDON (Reuters) — As the international wheat council's conference ended today, many delegates speculated on why the United States has taken none of the initiatives expected of it.

Last Wednesday there were serious suggestions that the U. S. would offer wheat at the minimum price and call upon importing countries to honor their obligations to take up their quotas at that price.

But apparently the U. S. has done nothing of the sort. The American delegate, who was expected to be the most eloquent person here, is reported unusually taciturn.

Instead, the importers have taken the initiative, with the Belgian proposal for a United Nations conference to frame a new international wheat agreement more comprehensive than the present one which expires only about a third of the total international wheat trade.

IT MIGHT NOT WORK

Informally, various delegates have given other reasons for the present agreement year is nearing its end. One is that it favors the import dictats. If the U. S. or any other country does not like the exact export price to the minimum, all that the conference could do would be to tell it to go ahead. Some remarkable things might happen, but nobody knows how in advance.

Until it had offered wheat at the minimum price, or at least some months, the exporting country plainly could not complain at lack of response by importers. There might not be any lack of response.

There has been no suggestion that any importing country would want to evade its obligation. But the agreement does provide certain escape clauses, particularly for currency of payment and for quality of wheat. Among last years and civil servants it might take months to sort out, and by then the year's agreement year might have ended.

Sixteen Quinte golfers qualified for the club championship tournament. These include, T. A. Carruthers, Mike Edwards, Art. Bridge, Murray McIntosh, Dr. G. V. Faulkner, Cord. Graham, Val. Detroit Boat Wins Primary For Gold Cup

WINDSOR (CP) — Joe Schoenith of Detroit Saturday had a big boost from Lady Luck as he blasted his Gale V to victory in the fifth Maple Leaf unlimited power boat regatta.

The regatta, staged in the Detroit river is a primary for the Seattle Gold Cup races Aug. 7. Most unlimited entries are three-point copies of the world champion Slo-Mo-Shun of Seattle.

Miss U.S., driven and owned by George Simon, scooted to an easy win in the first heat but was disqualified when judges discovered she cut out two buoys.

This gave Schoenith first place. The race was run in three heats and judged on the point system.

WON SECOND HEAT

Simon won the second heat going away with Schoenith second.

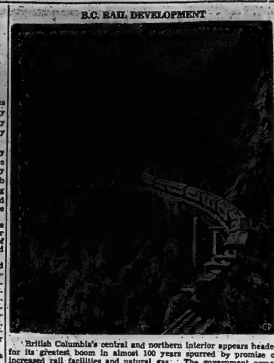
The final heat, also was won by Schoenith. In the third lap turn, Simon's boat did a side slip and a roll crash. The driver came out uninjured and the boat was picked up by a tug before she sank.

Gale V clocked an average of 78.721 in winning not the fastest lap was the will second in the third heat by Miss U.S. when she spurted to 103.766 miles an hour.

British Crew Wins Montreal Royal Regatta

MONTREAL (CP) — A British crew Saturday sailed away with top honors in the Royal regatta off suburban Pointe Claire, leaving 18 Canadian teams following in the wake.

Lt.-Cmdr. R. L. Hewitt and his two-man crew from the Royal Naval Sailing Association broke a tie with the Royal Hamilton Yacht Club to win the four-day races.



Hamilton was in second place and the Kingston Frontenac yacht club was third.

An interesting feature of the regatta was the presence of the sleek Bluebottle, owned by Queen Elizabeth and her husband. Bluebottle came across from England aboard a liner at the same time as Cmdr. Hewitt and his crew.

The regatta was a test of seaman rather than vessel, however, as the teams exchanged boats after each race. The Vancouver team was taking its regular turn with Bluebottle in the final race.

On Sunday Bluebottle was loaded on a truck bound for Ottawa, where she is scheduled to go on display June 21-22.

B.C. SAIL DEVELOPMENT

British Columbia's central and northern interior appears headed for its greatest boom in almost 100 years spurred by promise of increased rail facilities and natural gas. The government owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway is spending millions on new line extensions opening up new sections or developing present facilities. Here a train winds through scenic mountain country and across a swift-flowing river. (CP Photo).

Central, Northern Interior Of B.C. Appears Headed For Greatest Boom in 100 Years

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP)—British Columbia's central and northern interior appears headed for its greatest boom in almost 100 years.

Spurred by the promise of increased rail facilities and natural gas, the vast, sparsely settled hinterland is the scene of growth and activity unequalled since 1858 when the lure was gold.

Ralph Chetwynd, minister of trade and industry for B. C., summed up the optimism pervading the entire area stretching some 700 miles northward from Vancouver with the prediction that the present Cariboo and fringe-explored north country "will be unrecognizable in five years' time."

NEW DEVELOPMENTS

The contagious confidence of the hardy men pioneering settlement of this country of mountain valleys and high plateaus is based on the rail and gas developments and their impact on the natural resources abounding in the province.

The government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway now is constructing a 40-mile extension from its southern terminus at Squamish, B.C., to Vancouver. The $12,000,000 link is scheduled for use next year. Survey parties are at work on a $40,000,000 extension that will link the northern terminus at Prince George to Dawson Creek, 270 miles to the northeast in B.C.'s Peace river district.

Northwest Transmission Company plans a natural-gas pipeline from the Peace river through the Cariboo country to Vancouver.

Reflecting the optimism in a tangible sense is the tremendous post-war growth of central interior areas along the PGE like this terminal city that serves as a junction point with the Canadian National Railways and the villages of Quesnel and Williams Lake.

75 miles south of Quesnel, and at Prince George, almost the same distance to the north.

Population of Williams Lake, estimated at 2,500, is double what it was two years ago; Prince George jumped to nearly 12,000 compared with the 1940 figure of 3,000.

Prince George, with visions of eventually replacing Edmonton as the main distributing point for the Peace river and Yukon areas, this year will spend some $4,800,000 for school, hospital, water and other civic improvements.

In 1953, despite a three-months woodworkers' strike, a record total of 506,000,000 board feet of lumber valued at more than $40,000,000 was cut in the Fort George forest district that includes Quesnel and Prince George. The previous high of 486,000,000 feet was cut in 1952.

BIG SPRUCE STANDS

To the north of Prince George and within 35 miles of the route chosen for the PGE's northern extension lie virgin stands of spruce which forestry officials estimate will give a perpetual yield of 100,000,000 board feet annually.

Pulp companies are interested in sites at both Prince George and Williams Lake for erection of 82,000,000 plants to manufacture low-grade pulp used in the manufacture of wallboard and other products. Spruce in the Prince George area has been tested and found ideal for processing into synthetic fabrics.

Williams Lake ranchers are confident that the rail link to the Peace river, expected to be completed in five years, will provide a source of cheap feed that will lead to establishment of packing plants in their area. Last year they shipped $1,250,000 worth of livestock to the lower B.C. mainland.

Williams Lake, like all central interior points, boasts a booming lumber industry. Twenty new sawmills were established in the area last year, boosting the total to 140 and further expansion is anticipated in the industry that last year produced $3,500,000 worth of lumber.

But it is at Dawson Creek, starting point of the Alaska highway, that the boom wave appears to peak. Its population, only 518 in 1941, has zoomed to 3,500 making the grain and livestock shipping centre the largest village in B.C. Its population exceeds that listed for 17 of the 34 incorporated cities in the province.

HUGE SHIPMENTS

During a normal crop year, more than 3,000,000 bushels of grain are shipped from Dawson Creek, a greater volume than that from any other single shipping point in the country except two inland ports like those of the lakehead, Montreal and Vancouver.

Although grain ranks as the major industry, more than $3,000,000 worth of lumber was shipped from Dawson Creek last year together with livestock valued at some $1,000,000.

Added to that is a fast-growing oil and natural-gas industry in the Peace river belt, still in its infancy, already possesses sufficient known reserves to warrant construction of a pipeline to the west coast.

One oil company has taken an option on a site on the outskirts of the village for a $3,000,000 refinery and another company is contemplating a similar step.

Nearby is a big limestone deposit suitable for making cement and almost unlimited supplies of high-grade coal are close at hand.

Roger Forsyth, whose Northern Freighways serves as an 1,800-mile extension of the PGE from Prince George through Dawson Creek to Fairbanks, Alaska, left a responsible position with an aircraft firm in Toronto about 10 years ago to establish the trucking line.

"I chose northern B.C. because it looked like one of the coming sections of the country," says Mr. Forsyth whose company now is the largest operating along the Alaska highway.

"Every section of Canada offers wonderful opportunities. But this place . . . it's tremendous."

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (CP)—Sailing masters and officers seeking higher pay presented an inquiry board here with a pay sheet showing the cook on one vessel earned £111 a month, while the master got £107. They said the first mate on one ship resigned to become an able seaman at higher pay.

GUATEMALA ARMY OPENS DRIVE ON REBELS

Two Boats Upset By Violent Storm; Hunt Oshawa Men

Heavy Damage Is Caused In Southwestern Ontario

OSHAWA (CP)—The search continued today for two young fishermen missing and feared drowned Monday night when a violent storm upset their motor boat on Lake Ontario.

Missing are Doug Stone and Fred Lewis, both of Oshawa.

Two other occupants of the boat survived, Robert Hickie, 20, swam 500 yards to shore in an effort to get help when the boat overturned on the return trip from Bowmanville to Oshawa. Vincent Armond was picked up by a tug as he clung to the overturned craft.

VOLUNTEERED TO SWIM

Hickie said he volunteered to swim to shore after the four failed in attempts to row the boat. He left the other three clinging to the craft.

"I thought they would all be able to hang onto the boat," he said. They were all clinging to it when I left."

Gorman was taken to hospital here, suffering from exposure.

Hickie said the storm caught them at Bowmanville during a fishing trip. They waited out the worst of the wind on the beach but finally decided they could make the return trip safely.

TORONTO (CP)—A heavy rainstorm swept across southwestern Ontario Monday night, upset two boats in Lake Ontario with a possible death toll of two, damaged crops and cut telegraph and hydro communications.

Rain, lightning and winds with gusts up to 50 miles an hour cut off telegraph communications from Toronto through St. Thomas to Sarnia. The storm, which lasted about an hour, reached as far north as Orillia, about 15 miles northwest of Owen Sound.

Two young fishermen from Oshawa, Doug Stone and Fred Lewis, are missing and believed to have been drowned when their motor boat was swamped in Lake Ontario. A third occupant swam to shore and a fourth was picked up by a tug.

FOUR RESCUED

Four Americans from upper New York State were rescued by Toronto harbor police after their 23-foot cruiser capsized in Lake Ontario, four miles from shore.

The four, who were sailing from Wilson, N. Y., to Toronto, are:

ACI Frank Lauer, 42, Wilson, N. Y.; his fiancee, Rose Marie Prorok, 19, Buffalo; ACI Jack McGee, 28, and his wife, Helen, 24, both of Buffalo. The men are stationed at the U. S. naval air base at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

"Our big problem," said McGee, "was to stay together in the heavy swell. Frank stuck a finger through the fabric and held Rose-Marie with the other hand.

"I had quite a job keeping Helen from slipping away. It was a good thing we were wearing lifejackets and had flares."

CUMMINGS SPARED

Windsor and Niagara peninsula centres escaped the brunt of the storm.

At Oakville, 15 miles west of Toronto, a housewife was knocked unconscious when lightning struck nearby as she was trying to close her northern door.

Power was cut off for 20 minutes in parts of London when lightning struck just outside the former station there, Clinton, 45 miles north of London was without electricity for about two hours.

In other areas communities the electrical storm started four barn fires, blew the roof off a church and uprooted many hydro poles.

Heavy fierce winds and rain also flattened crops to the ground in the Hamilton district.

Toppled poles and falling branches tore down telephone and telegraph lines and disrupted communications in some districts. Some power lines also were hit.

At Sudbury, overnight rainfall of 1.1 inches brought the month's total to 3.86 inches and therefore were the normal total for the whole of June of 1.79. In that city, rain has fallen on 16 days so far this month.

RESERVE ARMY TO BE SHAKEN UP: HOUSE IS TOLD

Number of Units To Be Reduced

OTTAWA (CP) — The reserve army is to be shaken up.

Announcement was made in the Commons Monday night near the end of day-long scrutiny of the $2,000,000,000 defence appropriations, which were approved.

Number of reserve force units will be substantially reduced but said the 17,000-member reserve force—to be renamed the militia—will keep pretty well its present responsibilities in case of emergency than at any time in the last 30 years.

BASIS FOR BUILD-UP

Mr. Claxton said:

"There will be an extensive reorganization of militia units to reshape them more closely to possible wartime requirements, effective peacetime training and local support.

Paper Companies Fined $242,000 For Combine

TORONTO (CP)—Fines totalling $242,000 were imposed today on seven paper mills, 21 wholesale paper merchants and a trade association associated after a plea of guilty of conspiring to fix the price of fine paper in Canada. All announced that they will appeal.

The "big four" mills in the Canadian fine paper industry were each fined $10,000, the maximum penalty, by Mr. Justice W. J. Spence of the Ontario Supreme Court. They are: Howard Smith Paper Mills Limited, Montreal; E. B. Eddy Company, Hull, Que.; Provincial Paper Limited, subsidiary of Abitibi Power and Paper Co. Ltd., of Montreal, Toronto and Toronto; and Rolland Paper Co. Ltd., Montreal.

Also fined $10,000 were Alliance Paper Mills Limited, subsidiary of Howard Smith; and Don Valley Paper Co. Ltd., Toronto, owned by Alliance.

ONE FINED $4,000

Canada Paper Company, another Howard Smith subsidiary, was fined $4,000. The court was told it withdrew from the conspiracy after going out of the fine paper business in 1940.

Fined $10,000 each were the wholesale firms of Bunbury Paper Co. Ltd., Toronto; Fred W. Wells Paper Co. Ltd., Toronto; Kruger Paper Co. Ltd., Montreal; E. B. Mud-Spattered and Soaked by Rain, M.L.A.'s Straggle Into Port Arthur

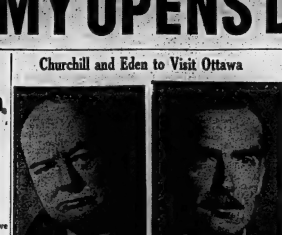
By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Mud-spattered, rain soaked and weary with insect repellant, the Ontario legislature's touring highways inquiry committee straggled into Port Arthur early today.

The entourage ended a 700-mile trip by airplane, boat and car that began 16 hours earlier in Red Lake, 40 miles northwest of the Lakehead.

The fact that the committee toured the 83-mile Savant Lake-Ear Falls, and Ignace-Fort William highways involved in the highways department investigation was incidental to the hectic trip made by the 15-man party.



The day's journey began at Red Lake where the committee flew through a rain-ridden clouds to Pickle Crow, 150 miles to the east.

At Pickle Crow the committee transferred its 500 pounds of baggage to two outboard motor boats for the journey up the Pickle and down rain-swept St. Joseph lake.

Then came a long stretch of approaches to two bridges.

Three times the launch stalled in the middle of the lake. The wheelsman lost his way and had to be guided through the twisting channels by the committee chairman Keiso Roberts (PC—Toronto St. Patrick) said any comment on the investigation of the highway constructed by Bergmann Contractors Ltd., one of the three firms under investigation by police, would be withheld pending completion of criminal proceedings.

Political Pundits Agree on One Thing, Cabinet to Be Shuffled

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Political pundits around Parliament Hill now are engaged in one of their favorite pastimes—shuffling the cabinet.

Likelihood of a shuffle has been heralded about since last April after Finance Minister Abbott said he had brought down his 19th and last budget.

The pundits agree about one thing—that there will be a shuffle. Unanimity ends there.

Some say it will be done in one quick upheaval; others that it will come in two stages—a minor shift now and a bigger rearrangement before members gather again in the fall.

It's impossible to sort fact from fancy.

Let's start with 55-year-old Mr. Abbott. The gossip has three versions; that he will become chief justice of the Exchequer Court, succeeding Hon. Thibaudeau Rinfret who retired today; that he will become a junior member of the court with Hon. Roy L. Kellock and senior chief justice; that he will switch jobs with either Justice Minister Garson or Revenue Minister McCann.

Some observers say Dr. McCann, 57, would like the finance portfolio because Mr. Garson is quite happy with justice where the big job of revising the Criminal Code has been completed; others say the revenue minister is headed for the Senate where there now are 18 vacancies.

Then there's Transport Minister Chevrier. He has been mooted as the choice to head the St. Lawrence seaway authority.

Other shifts Mr. Chevrier will decline the seaway job and that it will go to General A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian chairman of the International joint commission.

During the last few days Defence Minister Claxton has been rumored as getting out of the government to become president of an insurance company. Mr. Claxton has made no comment.

The possibilities have caused considerable speculation and probably a headache for Mr. St. Laurent who also has come in for his share of speculation.

It was suggested this rich roundthe-world trip that the 73-year-old prime minister was ready to retire.

LAST BIG-NAME CHINA'S CHOU, TO LEAVE PARLEY

Indian Plane on Way To Take Him to Nehru

By EDDY GILMORE

GENEVA (AP) — Red China's Chou En-lai, last of the big-name figures at the Geneva conference, will leave Wednesday for private talks with Prime Minister Nehru in India.

This was confirmed today as representatives of the six non-Communist participants in the Indo-China peace talks met to review developments of the last few days and to consider their next steps.

Included in the talks were the delegates of Britain, France, the United States, and the Indo-China states of Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

They are understood to be preparing a proposal to set up a series of committees to take up specific problems, such as supervision of the proposed cease-fire, control of elections and prevention of any violation of agreements reached here.

MILITARY TALKS EXPECTED

By the time Chou leaves, direct military talks between the warring sides in Indo-China probably will have been arranged, and the major problem of halting the conflict will be in their hands.

An Indian Constellation aircraft left Bombay today to pick up Chou and his party. The group is expected to arrive in New Delhi Thursday.

The Chinese leader played an important role in week-end developments which steered the Indochina talks toward direct negotiations. He was the principal architect of a Communist-Asian decision — party conference Saturday night, which called for such talks by the kingdoms of Laos and Cambodia.

Numerous Latin Americans Back Guatemalan Government

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Numerous Latin American officials, newspapers and student groups have thrown their support behind the government of Guatemala in its fight against invading rebel forces who claim they are anti - Communist. Britain meanwhile is adopting a wait-and-see attitude, while Russia has accused the United States of actually touching off the fighting which began during the week-end.

In London the Churchill government refused under prodding from the Labor opposition to say whether the leftist Central American republic has been invaded or torn by civil war.

Foreign Secretary Eden called the trouble "a serious development" and refused to elaborate under a barrage of questions in the House of Commons.

UPHOLDS DELEGATE

He upheld the action of Sir Pierson Dixon, British delegate on the United Nations Security Council, that the world organization "could not remain indifferent to this situation."

Eden said "The leader of this" invasion, Lt.-Col. Carlos Castillo Armas—and "many, if not all, of those invading the country" are Guatemalan exiles. The House laughed as he added "something of this kind is not absolutely unique in Central American history."

Britain has a stake in the sort of government that rules Guatemala. One of her colonies, British Honduras, borders on the little republic, and Guatemala in 1946 claimed the territory, dispatching British warships to the colony.

Moscow's newspapers joined today in a bitter new propaganda blast against the U.S., and Moscow radio quoted articles from Mexican Izvestia and Trud blaming the Americans for the Guatemalan fighting.

Most Latin American groups have openly accused the U. S. of sparking the invasion. The Uruguayan parliament condemned the "aggression" against the Caribbean state.

Student demonstrations continued in Ecuador, Chile and Cuba, student groups, some of them Red-inspired, pledged support of Guatemalan president Jacobo Arbenz Guzman's regime.

However, in Mexico, which generally sympathizes with Arbenz' regime, a leading newspaper came out flimsily against his government. In Havana, Ernesto de la Fe, a member of President Fulgencio Batista's cabinet, urged recognition of Col. Carlos Castillo Armas' rebel regime.

Anti-McCarthy Candidate Wins Maine Primary

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

PORTLAND, Me. (AP)—Maine Republicans overwhelmingly renominated Senator Margaret Chase Smith in Monday's primary election and cut down in crushing defeat the challenger she said Senator McCarthy apparently put up against her.

It was a crushing victory, by a margin of more than 3 to 1, over Navy veteran Robert L. Jones, the Wisconsin Republican senator's 36-year-old spouse.

Drew Declares Horses Were On Payroll

OTTAWA (CP)—The Currie report galloped into the Commons again today.

"The horses were on the payroll," Opposition Leader Drew said, thumping his desk for emphasis.

Previously, Defence Minister Claxton said the Opposition continued to repeat this though the prime minister had dealt effectively with it during the last session of Parliament.

"That statement is directly contrary to the facts," Mr. Drew said. The prime minister had skirted the question.

"Are the horses on the payroll," the Progressive Conservative leader demanded. "And there were the hobby horses, the stolen cars, the fraudulent invoices and the general's flahpond."

Mr. Drew was referring to the report by Gen. George S. Currie, Montreal accountant, which disclosed irregularities in 10 big army works services. It was the subject of heated controversy in the defence expenditures committee and the Commons at the last session.

Mr. Drew said that if there were no horses on the payroll at Camp Petawawa, then Mr. Claxton simply say he doesn't believe Mr. Currie.

Fine Cafes Almost As Famous As Great Cathedrals in France

By HAL BOYLE

PARIS (AP)—Leaves from touring notebook:

Cooking is a form of poetry in France, and the fine cafes of Paris are almost as famous as her great cathedrals.

But the average tourist coming here isn't a gourmet on a pilgrim's trail. He's a hungry human. He just wants a good meal that is typical of the country.

To many a diet-starved American there is no greater taste thrill here than big chunks of toughly crusted French bread spread half an inch deep with yellow Normandy butter.

It takes a man back to the days of childhood, when coming home hungry from play, bread was the first food.

A French waiter, watching a group of us put down plate after plate of the wonderful bread here, asked:

"Don't you have bread in the United States?"

There's a hard question to answer.

In Germany the best food big is Bratwurst. It is a section of pork sausage about a foot long and two inches in diameter that you boil to lift one.

The Teutonic hot dog is broiled over a charcoal fire and, served with a bun, costs less than two bits.

Owners of baseball clubs wishing to lure fans back to the ball parks might try replacing their pressed anaemic hot dogs with these St. Bernard lengths of Bratwurst. After downing one, a fan would be too sleepily satisfied to complain about the quality of the mustard—or the pitching.

Both Sides Claim Victory in Clash Near Rait Centre

Situation in Nation's Capital Almost Normal Once Again

By PAUL SANCHES

GUATEMALA CITY (Reuters)—The Guatemalan army signalled a general offensive against the invading rebels today, and announced that victories in the initial clashes of the conflict have set the insurgents back in a "retreating battle."

The army said "well-trained regulars, armed with modern weapons" pushed the rebel forces of exiled Col. Castillo Armas into retreat when the two sides clashed for the first time Monday at Gualan, near the key military base of Zacapa, 71 miles northeast.

(Meanwhile, the rebel radio based at Belize, in adjoining British Honduras, claimed its forces won the battle and "completely annihilated" the army of President Jacobo Arbenz.

(The rebel Radio Liberation called for the surrender of the government forces because "we don't want to shed unnecessary blood.")

SAY REBELS THRAFFED

In addition to claiming victory in the Gualan battle, the government high command said Pilot forces at Puerto Barrios, Caribbean port and site of some of the country's vital oil reserve storage tanks, surrounded rebel groups trying to enter the port "after a brief skirmish."

(Rebel forces previously claimed to have captured the port when they began their invasion-revolt from Honduras.)

The high command said a Honduras-registered schooner carrying arms was captured in the port by government forces and its crew taken prisoner.

It said that rebel planes, supporting the Castillo Armas forces at Gualan, strafed military installations and railroads at Zacapa.

CAPITAL NORMAL

Here in the capital the situation was almost normal today, with stores open and no air raids early in the day.

Private automobiles, kept off the streets for three days by a gasoline ban, reappeared and the government allowed filling stations to sell each motorist five gallons.

There appeared to have been little response to the government's call for men to go to the front to defend the country.

The interior ministry announced the capture of two rebel planes and a case of explosives allegedly intended for blowing up gasoline storage tanks in a small plane landed at Baigia, near the port of Puerto Barrios on the Pacific coast.

FIRMS WARNED

Business firms today were asked to carry on as usual, but the government threatened "drastic action" against those which, it said, have taken advantage of the invasion to boost prices.

In its broadcast, the rebel radio urged Guatemala City business houses to "commit suicide" by opening. It urged the evacuation of the city.)

Churchill Says Talks Will Cover 'All Subjects'

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Churchill said today he will seek consultations in talks on "all subjects of major current importance" when he visits President Eisenhower next week-end.

There will be no formal agenda for the talks, Churchill told the House of Commons, "but I hope we can have an exchange of views on the whole range of current importance."

Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden leave for Washington Thursday. Eden will go on to Canada on week-end as guests of Eisenhower.

WILL VISIT OTTAWA

They will pay a short visit to Ottawa following their talks with Eisenhower, informed sources confirmed today.

When the announcement was made in the Churchill-Eisenhower meeting, Prime Minister St. Laurent issued an invitation to "Winnie" to fill and Eden to come to Ottawa if time permitted.

Member Calls Defence Dept. 'Thoughtless'

OTTAWA (CP)—Donald Fleming, (PC—Toronto Eglinton) said Monday night that the defence department was thoughtless and unfair when it built a three-storey red brick building in the middle of a Toronto residential district.

He said the building was erected on Avenue road property acquired from the city for the site of a fire station. The property was formerly occupied by the Eglinton Hunt club.

Construction of the building, which could be used for offices or a warehouse, had resulted in depreciation of homes in the residential area.

Defence Minister Claxton agreed that it was too large a building for the size of the Toronto lot.

School Officials Request Widening Of College St.

A request for city council to proceed this summer with the widening of west College street was made to council members Monday night by representatives of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board.

Appearing before council were board members Arnold Campbell and J. Durant of Thurlow township, and Leslie Reid, principal of the new Quinte Secondary School scheduled to open in September.

Mr. Durant said that traffic congestion on College street was increasing daily and with the opening of school in September a very definite hazard would exist.

At that time 400 pupils would be attending the school. They would arrive in buses, cars, private cars, on foot and by bicycle. The present narrow condition of traffic there would be a very definite hazard, he pointed out.

Also grading and landscaping of the school property would be held up until the street was widened.

Principal Leslie Reid underlined the urgency of the matter, declaring that no one would want to be responsible for any fatality that might occur because of traffic congestion.

"Children are not careless, but are careless," noted Mr. Reid. "I say an ounce of prevention is worth a lot of cure. I say we must do all possible fatality can be prevented it should be done now."

Alderman Smith as chairman of public works committee noted that would still be an item made in this year's budget for funds for the widening of College street. However, options on most of the property required had been secured.

Mr. Reid said the board hazard was the cut and the high banks which would be removed in the course of the school site.

"I am hoping that enough money can be saved from the year's public works budget to do something with the hill," he said. "I am not guaranteeing anything."

Delegate Reports To Rotary Club On Ottawa Trip

Of the many projects sponsored by Rotary clubs, probably one of the most important is their "Adventure in Citizenship" convention designed to bring students together from across the nation, in Ottawa, to explore the workings of government in the capital, thus broadening their perspective of Canada and what it means to be citizens themselves as future citizens.

Belleville this year is represented by Belleville at this year's convention held last month, was Donald Johnston, Albert College BCITO student. Today he reported on the four-day affair to the weekly luncheon of the club, at the Hotel Quinte.

The convention was a hectic round of visits to the various government buildings, speeches by prominent politicians and group discussions among the some 170 students attending.

The students listened to such prominent speakers as Prime Minister St. Laurent, Citizenship and Immigration Minister Walter Harris, Opposition Leader George Drew and Solon Low, M.P.

They also took in the National Art Gallery, the Supreme Court and a parliamentary session.

Certificates of citizenship were presented to the students by the Prime Minister.

Summing up his impressions, the speaker said the convention goes a great way towards making better citizens, since meeting people from all over Canada one gets a better impression of how the nation is run, he said.

Council Looked on Sale With Frown Then The Wall Came Tumbling Down

Despite the fact that by their own admission the building is "liable to fall down" members of council last night voted not to pull the old Front street firehall.

And today "the walls came tumbling down."

It was the second time within the past year that council had considered the sale of the old fire hall which has been condemned as unsafe. Last night's motion to sell was lost when council split even on the vote and the motion to call for tenders failed to get a majority.

This year council called for tenders on the old building but because the price offered was felt to be too low the building was not sold.

Just how the public works recommendation to sell the old building came in to council was a question asked by several of the aldermen, who pointed out that the majority of committee members were present when the sale was made.

Alderman Bruce Smith, who as committee chairman signed the recommendation, said he still felt the property should be retained for the city's needs. "I don't go back at two or three times the price."

He referred to the new fireplane road north of the city and said that unless all equipment went into the city was provided, something would have to be done on North Front street to make it wider.

"Even though the city kept the property for ten years before it was put to use, the property would still be an asset to the city as a park," he said.

REVENUE BALANCED

Alderman R. Temple could not see the value of the firehall property as a possible site for widening the upper bridge.

He couldn't see the possibility of any considerable increase in traffic over North Front street because of the four-lane highway, noting that it would not be put into use unless it was necessary for traffic to take traffic beyond Belleville. He claimed the new highway would serve more way to take traffic congestion away from the lower bridge.

"I agree with Alderman Temple" said Mayor Bolus. "I think there would be less traffic over the upper bridge, not more. I can't see the idea of keeping the firehall property as a site for a possible bridge."

Alderman Moxam suggested the site may be needed as an outlet for a possible riverside drive at some time in the future, but this idea struck a snag in Mayor Bolus and Alderman Temple who pointed out that a drive entrance to such a bridge would merely create congestion.

Alderman Tice as chairman of property agreed the old building was a "falling down" and pointed to the city's liability. He cited highway engineers' opinion that the new highway would mean increased traffic on North Front street.

Alderman Keegan said he favored a second artery out of the city in preference to any plan to widen North Front Street. He said the building should be torn down.

It was Alderman Ryde who questioned how the recommendation to sell the firehall came to be accepted when committee members apparently were opposed.

ALD. ASKS QUESTION

"I'd like to know how a minority recommendation came in to council," he said. Apparently only the mayor knew the recommendation."

"Is a minority recommendation legal?" asked Alderman Bradford.

"I am sure we have a capable public works solicitor," replied the mayor. "I assure you I had nobody to do with the committee minutes."

"But it is not legal and not right," commented Alderman Bradford.

"Then it must have been a mistake," interjected Alderman Argue.

"Well then I for one do not propose to vote to sell the property," said Ryde with such foolishness," the deputy-mayor hastily added.

The mayor asked Alderman Bradford if he was ready to say that the committee minutes were not correct, pointing out that the minutes were to be read by the city clerk.

"But I ask, a question has been posed without an answer," pointed out Alderman Bradford.

Here the city clerk noted that the recommendation to sell the firehall had come to him for the future of committee chairman Alderman Smith.

Alderman Smith here withdrew the recommendation but later in council made a motion to call for tenders as introduced by Alderman Sale, who stated that he had no use for the firehall and council may as well get rid of it.

Voting against were Aldermen Argue, Clarke, Duffy, Sale, Tice and Mayor Bolus. Opposing were Aldermen Bradford, Country-man, Hyde, Keegan, Moxam, Smith and Thomas.

New Generator Used by Club On Field Day

About 30 members of the Quinte Amateur Radio Club took part in the club's annual field day held last Sunday in the hills three miles north of Brighton.

Members operated seven transmitters, each on a different band, from their own, recently-purchased A.R.C. generator. The generator, used for the first time this year, gives the club a portable source of power and makes it independent for equipment for the first time.

Three members were assigned to maintenance and generator, while the remaining personnel operated the transmitters in rotation.

The club, using the call sign VE3HR, made 310 contacts with stations and other field day sites in Canada and the United States. One contact was with a two-meter station operating from an airplane flying 8,000 feet over Detroit, N.Y. Farthest station contacted was in Dallas, Texas, Panama. It was reached on the 20-meter phone.

All equipment used was engineered and built by the members. Howard Hyndman, Trenton, headed and organized the field day. His reported that the two-meter transmitter stayed open most of the night and performed better than last year.

The 32th Battery mess equipment provided meals for those taking part in the field day.

Would Ask CPR To Run Trains On CNR Tracks

A suggestion that a committee from city council approach the two railways with the view to doing away with the C.P.R. tracks between Trenton and Napanee and run C.P. trains over C.N.R. tracks was heard in city council Monday evening.

George DeVuyst, local restaurant operator, claimed that such a move would do away with much of the noise of the trains passing and at the same time would eliminate cross ing dangers at the east and west approaches to the city.

Piers of the present railway bridge over the Moira could then be utilized for a highway bridge which would serve to eliminate much of the traffic congestion at the city's four corners.

No action was taken on the suggestion by city council.

Motion to Sell City-Owned Lots by Tenders Turned Down

The sale of remaining city-owned building lots in the Parkwood and Bayview Heights districts, quite apart from any discussion by city council Monday evening with councillors battling verbally over the question, was voted down before a recommendation to sell the lots by tender was turned down.

The recommendation was introduced by Mayor Bolus, who declared the city was not receiving as much as it's prevailing price for lots in the new area.

He said it was the duty of aldermen to give the recommendation every consideration that the city may realize as much as possible out of the remaining city-owned lots.

Alderman Countryman declared the matter had been before council for a number of months and was turned down. This however, was stated to be because committee pointed out that a previous council had not been changed.

The mayor said he had heard on good authority that certain lots in the new city were now up for sale at $500.

Offers of Milton Sale and Son for a number of the remaining city owned lots and also the offer of Mr. Sherriff Devolin were whoied by Mr. Sale were discussed.

These offers were for $150 by Mr. Sale and $200 by Mr. Devolin, but the latter's offer included the lot on which Devolin's price included the lot on which Devolin's price included a covenant is sold.

Alderman Duffy pointed out that a number of people had submitt begged for purchasers for the lots he had no takers. The idea was to get houses on the lots so the city could collect taxes.

Mr. Sherriff Devolin noted the city was still trying to get a price of three cents per foot and wood Heights area but nobody would buy because of heavy local competition in the area. He noted there were about 43 city-owned lots left.

Mayor Bolh wanted to know why $1 Sale and Son's offer for a city owned lot Alderman Hyde was prepared to pay $2,400 in subdivision.

ALD. HYDE REPLIES

To this Alderman Hyde replied that he felt the lots on Parkdale and Eastwood Park Sub-division was in a different area. It was a 60 wide and level 60 foot lot and was completely serviced. He said there was no comparison between a lot in this sub-division and one in Parkwood Heights, which was narrow, required fill and with all local improvement charges still to be paid.

Alderman Argue contended let prices be left as previously reported and if lots were worth three or four times what the city was getting the policy should be changed.

"This matter was thoroughly discussed at a previous meeting," noted Alderman Keegan. "Council has not changed it. I have yet to know if this recommendation if carried would be the offer of Mr. Sale and Mr. Devolin.

INTENDS TO BUILD

Alderman Tice noted that Mr. Sale intended to build immediately and each of the lots for which offered would be developed on a 12 month building covenant. Mr.

Devolin wanted the lots without a covenant.

The danger of building being too high should in mayor's recommendation to call for tenders for the lots was raised by Alderman Tice. He pointed out that this was the last council meeting before the summer recess and it would be too late after September.

"That's not necessarily the case," replied Alderman Keegan. "A city council could be given to sell the lots during the summer recess."

Council voted 10-5 against offering city-owned lots by tender. Approving were Aldermen Argue, Moxam, Sale, Smith and Mayor Bolus. Opposing were Aldermen Bradford, Clarke, Countryman, Duffy, Hyde, Keegan, Reid, Temple, Thomas and Tice.

Council then voted 11-4 to sell a piece of land on the Parkwood Heights area to Mr. Sale. The agreement carries an 18-month building covenant and the purchaser agrees to pay local improvement charges for the life of the debentures.

Approving the sale were Aldermen Argue, Bradford, Countryman, Duffy, Hyde, Keegan, Sale, Smith, Thomas and Tice. Mayor Bolus and Aldermen Clarke, Moxam, Reid and Mayor Bolt.

Another Section Of Old Firehall Falls Into River

Already condemned as being unsafe for occupancy, the old firehall on Front Street continued its disintegration last night, while city councillors were discussing whether or not to sell the property.

Last night council turned down a motion to sell the old building and today another section of the main rear wall fell away leaving a gaping hole extending to the roof of the structure.

On order from Mayor Both and Ald. Rice, chairman of property committee visited the hall day by the public works department to prevent close approach to the unsafe structure.

The rear wall of the old firehall property has been rapidly deteriorating for several years and some weeks ago fell away part of a lean-to structure adjoining the main structure collapsed. Also a wall which developed in the stone wall of main building.

This morning a 15-foot section of the rear main wall above the lean-to structure fell away, carrying down the roof and walls to the lean-to.

Today city officials are pondering what to do with the old structure.

Opinion of some is the only thing to do is tear the old structure down.

Severe Electric Storm Blankets Entire District

The weather man staged another thunder-lightning display in the heavens last night when a severe electric storm struck the district.

Purification Plant officials stated this morning that nearly three-quarters of an inch of rain fell during the night.

Lightning raged over the city in brilliant panoramic effect ranging from the finest hair-line type to the sharp forked kind that split asunder with the sullen ear-chilled thunderbreak.

The storm rumbled in the distance a little after eight o'clock, reaching its peak in the city about nine-thirty. Then it gradually moved off.

It seemed to encircle the heavens as lightning flashed in all four quarters of the compass. Raging in the distance the storm returned on two occasions, finally settling into silence. The rain, however, continued to fall long after the sound effects had disappeared.

Farmers, and market gardeners were pleased with the rain today. The rain was of the "dollar-a-drop" variety and will prove a real benefit to the growers of peas and berries.

George Bailley, Wellington farmer, who has 11 acres of raspberries and 25 acres of early and late peas, said this morning: "Growers for a Bloomfield canning company said the rain would be of exceptional benefit to pea growers.

"Rice were beginning to appear in places," he said, "but last night's downpour should fix that. Peas will be ready by the end of the week".

He wants to put his viners in operation next Monday as the timely rain will aid greatly in filling out the pods.

30-Cent Support For All Cheese Likely to Remain

The 30 cent support price for Ontario cheese is likely to continue for the remainder of this season, according to H. C. Arnold, vice-president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association. Mr. Arnold was acting as spokesman during the absence of President W. J. Coon, who is now in the United Kingdom.

Mr. Arnold said the Marketing Board had taken some cheese on recent exchanges in order to support the price. He stated it was "almost certain" the association would be able to continue the 30 cent support for the remainder of 1954.

He pointed out the 30 cent floor was agreed upon by the negotiating committee on October 19, 1953, and, while exceeded at times, the price had not gone below that figure since.

Mr. Arnold and Secretary Charles Heath also had something to say regarding the domestic selling price for cheese which the association had been obliged to accept in order to support the market.

Rumors to the contrary, they stated, the sale of cheese taken by the association will be based on a 30 cent cost. It was hoped this would silence rumors in trade circles.

Mr. Arnold further stated that, insofar as the association knows, all Ontario factories coming under the marketing scheme are listing cheese on the exchanges and a large percentage of factories are reporting any direct sales. It could be, he stated, that the occasional factory is not complying 100 percent, with the regulations but are leaving themselves open to penalties provided in the scheme. Measures will be taken to correct such situations, he stated.

In spite of this small minority the floor organization the association is receiving from the cheese trade has been very gratifying to those who must administer the marketing scheme, stated Mr. Arnold.

Tenders Called For Combined Pumper, Ladder

City council will call for tenders for the purchase of a combined aerial ladder and pumper for the fire departments, the estimated cost to be in the neighborhood of $25,000.

The city fire committee tabled the recommendation at Monday evening's council meeting with Chairman, Alderman Angus Duffy noting that it would be good business to buy the dual equipment.

He said the pumper-aerial ladder would be stationed at the Dundas Street firehall in the east end of the city, noting the present pumper at this firehall was of 1935 vintage and parts could not be assured. In addition an expenditure of $3,000 was necessary on the pumper.

Plans would be to retain the present pumper but to add a ladder truck of 1928 vintage go. "A straight pumper would cost about $18,000," he said.

COMMENDED FOR EFFICIENCY

Alderman Argue suggested the question was not whether the equipment was needed, but whether the city could get along without the equipment. He noted that insurance rates in the city were as favorable as anywhere in Ontario. He commended the department for its present efficiency.

Mayor Both commended the fire committee chairman for his position but he could recommend this fire department in Ontario, but questioned whether they should have the right minds and as to what equipment was to be purchased before tenders were called. He said he had been approached by fire equipment salesman who had said his equipment was being purchased.

Alderman Duffy agreed that his committee had met several "very enthusiastic" salesmen but assured no man had been told his equipment was being purchased.

Alderman Bradford ended the discussion by declaring that if the city was going to house "museum pieces" in the new Dundas street firehall, it should give consideration to putting the building to a better purpose.

The recommendation to call for tenders carried.

CHIEF WILL ATTEND

Chief Cecil Vance was authorized to attend the Dominion fire chiefs' convention in Saskatoon in August with his expense not to exceed $300.

To a question by Alderman C. Hyde as to what the chief gained through attendance at the chiefs' convention, the fire committee chairman replied that the latest in fire fighting techniques and equipment was discussed.

"Attendance at such conventions is one of the reasons why our department is so efficient," he said.

Council Sits Past Midnight To Transact All Business Before Summer Adjournment

In a meeting which lasted until after one o'clock this morning, Belleville city councillors caught up on the lag ends of city business before recessing for the summer months. The next regular meeting of council will be held in September, although local problems at least one special meeting will be necessary before that time.

Second assistant city engineer Jack Miller was named assistant engineer at a $200 increase in salary, Mr. Miller's appointment followed the recent resignation of Assistant Engineer Keith Cowan, at which time it was noted that the vacancy not be filled.

Councillor Hyde said that the position not be filled," noted Mayor Both as the recommendation was tabled, "then we have engineering doing private work on city time, then we have a conflict of engineers."

Alderman Hyde said his interpretation of the previous recommendation was that no additional personnel be hired, while Alderman Smith as committee chairman thought that if additional help was needed in his committee so that words would not be misconstrued.

The city clerk noted the understanding for months, would be two engineers instead of three.

Mayor Both's agreed with Mayor Both that the position of 1st assistant engineer was not to be filled and that Mr. Miller and Mr. Miller should remain at the same salary.

Council carried the recommendation naming Mr. Miller as assistant engineer and $200 raise to three.

BY-LAW RESCINDED.

The early closing by-law for city grocery stores was rescinded for the month of July and August weeks ago when a number of grocery store operators appeared before council on the initial reading of the by-law.

No grant was approved for the west side of John street from Victoria to Alexander.

Council engaged in a lengthy discussion on whether or not the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation should be requested to make larger grants in lieu of taxation for the over 200 veterans housing units in the city. At present the city receives a grant of $75 per unit per year in lieu of taxes but of this a total of about $72 per unit is repaid to the government on a loan provided to assist the municipality in providing services for the land. The loan is to be paid back in ten equal instalments.

A special committee with Alderman Duffy as chairman had been appointed to investigate the wartime housing report to council. The report was given last night.

The report indicated Central Mortgage would be willing to consider increased grants in lieu of taxes, but that any increase in grants would be offset by increased rentals for which the city must take the responsibility.

The committee recommended in their report that increased grants be asked but on the understanding that the city was not to be asked to take the responsibility for increased rentals. The committee also recommended that Central Mortgage be asked to sell the house to veterans providing the selling price was not more than $6,500 per unit. Mr. Duffy noted that when the houses were sold the city would get full taxes.

$56 PER YEAR PER UNIT

The increased grants suggested would amount to about $50 per year per unit.

Alderman Hyde said he would have no qualms in asking veteran to pay the additional $4.25 per month rental, and said he was prepared to recommend this be requested. Other aldermen, however, were of different opinion, claiming that they had agreed to erect housing to veterans and it should not go back on its word.

Alderman Argue suggested that a relastic view be taken. He noted that veterans' homes outside the veterans' area would rent for possibly $75 per month, while veterans were paying only $42.50.

There were just as many veterans outside the area paying such rents as were living in the area.

Mayor Both doubted that the government was ready to sell veterans' housing units as the necessary legislation has not been passed He noted, however, that a recommendation from this and other councils may encourage the necessary legislation.

A recommendation requesting Central Mortgage and Housing to sell houses in Belleville to veterans was ultimately passed, the motion calling for other municipalities to concur.

Alderman Hyde's motion requesting higher grants in lieu of taxes was tabled until the September meetings.

Mr. J. A. Ousterhout was given the contract for the supply of fuel oil at 17.2 cents per gallon, with the Cowan Coal Company getting the contract for the $15.50 per ton.

McFARLAND GETS CONTRACT

The H. J. McFarland Construction Company was awarded the street oiling contract at $22,780. A communication from the Divisional engineer of the Department of Highways at Port Hope, indicated the department was willing to give the city a lot at the southwest corner of Bay Bridge Road and Dundas street to be used for improvement of traffic conditions and providing no building was constructed on the lot at a future date. The necessary deed will be prepared.

Councillors had a field day during the period for enquiries.

Alderman Moxam had a complaint regarding low flying jet planes and urged that a letter go to the air station commanding officer.

Alderman Keegan wanted to know where Mayor Both got his figures regarding a statement made recently at a public utilities meeting that administration costs in he city of Windsor were $48,000, while in Belleville administration costs were $50,000.

The mayor replied he had received the figures from the city engineer at Windsor. He said he was willing to have administration costs in the city engineering office investigated and the

WANTS INSTRUCTIONS

"It has nothing to do with me," replied Alderman Smith, "I am not send men up to have the fence taken down until I know all it is without my jurisdiction."

It was decided that written instructions from the city solicitor would be necessary before action was taken.

Mayor Both also wanted to know why City Engineer Charles Mott was going to Toronto on Tuesday (today) to view a model of the ice control dam proposed for College Street, and asked if the engineer's presence would have anything to do with the re-

Smaller Tomato Pack

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian vegetable canners apparently are planning to put up more beans, peas and corn but fewer tomatoes this year.

The bureau of statistics estimated today that canners so far have signed contracts with farmers in Ontario for output from the following acreages, last year's figures in brackets:

Tomatoes 22,300 (23,300); peas 24,000 (23,010); corn 17,710 (13,-590); beans 1,290 (600); asparagus 1,190 (880).

sponsibility of the city in connection with the acceptance of the model.

Alderman Bruce Smith replied the presence of the city engineer had been requested by the Department of Planning and Development and that it was only courtesy that he should be present with members of the Moira River Authority.

He said that the presence of the engineer would have no bearing on any responsibility the city may have in the matter.

Under motions Ald. Argue introduced a motion petitioning the minister of highways for permission to reduce the speed limit on six residential streets in Belleville to 25 miles per hour. The motion was referred to the traffic committee.

Alderman Keegan introduced a notice of motion to the effect that ratepayers be asked if they were in favor of erecting 15 members of council with the mayor to be chosen from one of the elected members.

GENERAL BUSINESS

Under general business Alderman Hyde referred to the delay in collection of licence fees for plumbing contractors and to the apparent small number of plumbing permits issued. He noted that only 12 contractors had paid their $25 fees, while he could think of at least 10 others who should pay the fees.

He requested that the plumbing inspector be urged through the board of health to make closer checks on plumbing contractors.

Mayor Both gave a brief verbal report on the recent mayors' convention at Windsor, noting that since this meeting the department of health had made a mandatory order requesting all municipalities over 2,000 population with sewage systems to have sewage disposal plants by 1957.

Legion Reports $10,000 In Building Fund

TRENTON (Special)—Branch 110 of the Canadian Legion at a meeting last night directed a resolution to town council asking council to amend a by-law authorizing parking in front of the cenotaph at the entrance to Fraser Memorial Park.

The three delegates chosen to attend the Dominion convention from August 1 to 8 were Zone Commander W. Colterjohn, comrade W. E. Donaldson and comrade C. G. Warner. Comrades George LaBrash and J. F. Cole were presented Past President badges. The three new members inducted into the branch last night were A. Green, J. Keegan and D. R. Graves.

The treasurer reported that there is now over $10,000 in the building fund. The branch plans to erect a new building sometime in the future.

It was announced that the Decoration Day ceremony will be held at the cenotaph on Sunday, May 29. The units attending including representation from the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, the Royal Canadian Navy Reserve, R.C.A.F. Association, Branch 86 & Repair depot will march from Dafferin School to the cenotaph for service.

Plan New Hospital

TORONTO (CP)—A new 1,300-patient mental hospital for northern Ontario will be built near North Bay, Works Minister Grierson announced Monday.

The hospital will be at Cook's Mills on the east side of the Ferguson highway, about 3½ miles north of North Bay. Mr. Grierson said the government had promised more than $5 million to locate the new hospital in the North Bay district. Cost of the hospital was not announced.

Chances of Retaining 6RD Not Bright Says F. Follwell

TRENTON. (Special.) — Frank Follwell, M.P., holds no promise for the future of the R.C.A.F.'s No. 6 Repair Depot remaining at its present location, if the government decides to move it to Downsview the transformation will take one or maybe two or three years, Follwell has been informed. It may be closed up altogether, explained Mr. Follwell, because according to policy of the Department of National Defence all Repair Depots across the country are due to be abandoned. Mr. Follwell has been council and Trenton service club representatives that he would attend to the matter closely but could offer no hope.

All would not be lost according to the Liberal member who indicated that a Transport section of the R.C.A.F. may take over when the Repair Depot has left. Councillor Clair Graham asked to have it put on record that all service clubs are backing up Frank Follwell in his fight to keep the Repair Depot in Trenton.

Mayor Ross Burtt, members of council, service club representatives played host to Mr. Follwell, Elmer Sandercock, M.P., a representative of the Trade and Commerce branch of the Dominion government and a representative of the Trade and Industry branch of the Ontario government at a dinner when the method of procuring industry for Trenton was discussed. Tim Turnbull with the Planning and Development Board at Toronto confirmed the earlier belief that individuals and personalities spearheading groups had proven to be the most successful means of attracting new industry. He advocated a five-year expansion plan be adopted. He urged his listeners to use the facilities of the Trade and Commerce branch of the federal government. He pointed out the benefits of planned zoning when industry was deciding upon a location.

Mr. Turnbull answered questions relating to local businessmen providing plans for industrial prospects as a means of inducing them to locate in the community. He indicated that it was customary for the investor to expect between 3 1-2 and four per cent on his investment. "The man who builds the plant is usually a community spirited individual who hopes to benefit in other ways from the expansion of his community," Mr. Turnbull explained.

OIL TROUBLES LAKE ONTARIO WATERS.

Near Consecon, globs of grease dot the western shore of Prince Edward County.

How extensive this pollution is, we do not know. But it does not seem to be a purely local phenomenon. We heard of one bather who got a grease job at Presqu'ile over the week-end.

That the pollution may be widespread is suggested by a discussion of oil slicks on the Great Lakes at an industrial waste conference held at Guelph last week.

The Canadian Press intimates that some delegates blamed discharges from oil industries, for it reports that Kenneth Cassmore of the British American Oil Company disagreed with this view.

We do not know what is the cause of the Consecon grease spots, but it does not appear to have originated in the manner suggested by A. V. Delaporte of the pollution control board. He told the Guelph conference that some of the oil slicks are soot and cinders that have settled on the water from chimney stack discharges.

Actually there is nothing that resembles an oil slick at Consecon. The deposits, in the main, are small, about the size of a dime, and they are numerous. On sand, or gathered on top or underneath pebbles, is a thick, black, sticky substance, almost tar-like in its consistency. It smears easily, but is not so easily removed, from foot or hand or bathing suit or dress or car rug.

This grease may have travelled far before it was, apparently, washed up in the shores of Prince Edward County. But, regardless of its origin, it is a nuisance and is likely to remain with us for some time. It would appear imperative that the appropriate authorities endeavour to discover the source and to prevent a repetition of the error, or the carelessness, which resulted in it being cast on Lake Ontario's bosom.

DWARF THIS ONE.

The problems of old age pensioners, alas, seem to be universal.

However, one of the more unusual problems of pensioners was aired recently in a news release from Iran, a country from which one court dwarf was suing his country for an overdue pension.

Seventy-five years ago the King of Iran had a dwarf named Aboul Hassan. A splendid name for a dwarf if you have a dwarf in need of a name. The King promised to take care of this dwarf in his old age.

The king, alas, died, the court dwarf and with a change in regime and governments, Ramasan Ali Hamadani was done out of his $18.80 a month pension. At the age of ninety Ali sued the Iranian government for this pension because he had dependent children, all of whom are dwarfs, relying on it.

The remarkable thing about this case, to our way of thinking, is not that Ali won a case against the government, remarkable a feat though that is anywhere, but the fact that he has nine dependent children at the age of ninety. The news report of his case fails to tell us whether or not those nine are three or 73 years of age.

The whole problem of Ramasan Ali Hamadani, the dwarf with nine dependent dwarfs, is a large-sized problem, indeed. But we would feel a little easier about the whole affair if the news report had explained fully whether or not the government award was restoration of a lost pension, or the beginning of children's allowance.

FAR FIELDS.

We all know that far fields look green.

Sometimes they are.

Valerie Sampson, now 12, proved that when she left Britain to live in Wexford, Ont. She is now revisiting her native land, having called for her trip with money earned by baby-sitting and delivering newspapers.

We expect that there are a lot of Canadian-born twelve-year-olds in Wexford who will find enough money to make a trip to Britain. They could have it, too, if they had recognized the opportunities existing in their home town. But it took a newcomer from a distant land to recognize the fact that Wexford fields not only looked green but were green.

Probably Valerie is one of those exceptionally bright and lovable children who would recognize opportunity no matter where they were. Still, we expect that the strangeness of Wexford helped her in that direction. Great expectations are usually unfettered by preconceptions are always valuable assets in the search for success.

THE RAINS COME.

Remember the years when drought plagued the prairies?

Now from Saskatchewan's wheatlands come complaints of floods as cold rains continue to pelt down on sodden acres.

During the dry years, there were those who advanced the theory that a change in climate might mean the end of Canada's golden harvest.

If the rains return for a few years in a row, there will be talk about the west having become a monsoon country.

By keeping their fingers crossed, this year's 42 wet weather is expected to cut a million acres from the land seeded to wheat.

Perhaps these rains are just what is needed to enable Canada to dispose of the surplus wheat piled up after three years of bumper crops.

The Coronation Ball, which was a part of the City of Belleville Centennial Celebration, will be held in the Belleville Country Club on Wednesday evening, which was a great success. Miss Mary Drummond was crowned Queen of the Carnival after a keen contest of several weeks' duration with Miss Madeline Bell and Miss Margaret Calcutt. Mayor Geo. O. Reid crowned the Queen and presented a silver cup to each Miss Bell and Miss Calcutt. The crowning followed a grand march in which all took part and later pictures of the group were taken. Persons, who bought tickets from the rival queens in order to cast a vote for them, will be drawn for on Saturday.

The big street parade in connection with the Belleville Centennial was witnessed by thousands on Friday. It was led by two motorcycle police, who were followed by the Lindsay Boys' Band in their smart grey uniforms touched with scarlet. There other bands, well placed in the parade, were the Pipe Band under the leadership of Pipe Major Albert Johnstone, the Citizens' Band led by bandmaster Reg. Bunbury and the Argyll Regiment Band, under the direction of Bandmaster Ross Hunter. The latter band is composed mostly of College Institute boys. They were heartily applauded as they marched along Front Street. In the parade there were over forty-eight commercial entries, fifteen private entries and twenty-five comic entries. The winners in the commercial entries were the following in the order given: Standard Manufacturer Company, Stanley Wilbur and the Boy Scouts. The prize for the comic entry in Eastern Ontario Press, Radio Party Inspects Huge Hydro Development at Niagara Falls

By BOYD UPPER

A large part of Ontario's future is being forged on the Niagara frontier.

The shape of things to come for Ontario's growing population and booming industry is the ten-station powerhouse of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario's new Sir Adam Beck No 2 Generating Station at the foot of Queenston Heights.

Housed in this mammoth station will be sixteen 100,000 horsepower generators, which, in full operation, will quadruple the present power output of Hydro's Niagara installations.

Sir Adam Beck No. 2 Generating Station, one of the world's greatest engineering achievements, is a growing monument to the triumph of the housewife's demand for electrical labor saving devices, the farmer's need for light, heat and mechanical muscles and industry's hunger for more and more power.

OPENED FOR INSPECTION

The magnificent project was open for inspection Saturday to the men and women of the press and radio of eastern and central Ontario. Hosts for the day were E. G. Gurnett, east central regional manager —from Belleville and Adam W. S. Smith, central regional manager of Toronto and Hydro Chairman Robert Saunders.

Representatives of press and radio from Belleville, Kingston, Picton, Marmora, Tweed, Trenton, Frankford and Madoc were included in the eastern Ontario group which left Belleville by bus for Niagara Saturday morning at 8.30 a.m. They were joined along the way by personnel from Peterborough, Peterson Falls, Colborne, Port Hope, Bowmanville and Oshawa. The Toronto party and the Belleville group proceeded to Niagara Falls together after dinner at Burlington's Brant Inn where they were addressed briefly by Hydro chairman, Robert Saunders. Leo L. Mullen directed the tour.

After a briefing on the entire project members of the touring party were taken for a drive along the two-and-one- half mile open cut canal that brings water from two five-and-one-half-mile long tunnels to the brink of Queenston Heights for its 300-foot plunge to the generators in the power house at the foot of the cliffs.

It was difficult to appreciate the size of the power house and the penstocks leading water down the side of the cliff to the generators, from the foot of the power house at the base of the gorge. Once inside the power house, however, its size became apparent.

GIGANTIC GENERATORS

The generators, one of which has been put in service already, are truly sturdy high. The power house soars another six storeys above this. A 300 ton giants crane rides just beneath the roof and is capable of picking an entire generator from its position and moving it to a work area for overhaul or repairs.

Only the exciters on top of the generators are visible from the main floor of the power house. The whirling turbines, moored on concrete, are beneath one's feet.

Power production from each generator can be appreciated only by comparison to something else. The 11 generating stations on the Trent Canal, for instance, produce 40,000 kilowatts. Each of the 16 generators at Sir Adam Beck No. 2 will produce 78,000 Kilowatts, or 100,000 horsepower.

The work is well ahead of schedule and Hydro hopes to have seven of 16 generators in operation by Christmas of this year.

DEEP INTAKE OPENINGS.

Equally impressive are their own way were the 500 foot long, 50 foot deep intake openings for the twin tunnels that run three- and-one-half miles under the city of Niagara Falls.

These long, slotted intake vents looking much like the mouths of a mouth organ, will suck 15,000 cubic feet of water per minute from the Niagara River about two miles above the falls. Huge gates, whose workings are supported by twin, aluminum-sheathed towers, control the water intake of the tunnels.

The entire project looks like the work of giants. Pictures and words are inadequate to convey the enormity of the work itself. Square miles of country have been peeled by giant earth-movers. Massive intakes have been built on land squeezed from the river and barricaded behind coffer dams; the open-cut canal is wide enough and deep enough to float the Queen Mary; and Hydro has scooped out and diked a 650-acre basin for a reservoir.

The reservoir, which will store water at night when power is at a demand is low will spin turbines of its own to produce 223,000 extra horsepower, and the water so used will see double duty as it is carried by canals to the main power house.

A common control room for the original Sir Adam Beck generating station and the new plant, plus the generating capacity of the reservoir, will make Hydro's Niagara works the largest electric power plant in the world with an output capacity in excess of 2,- 300,000 horsepower.

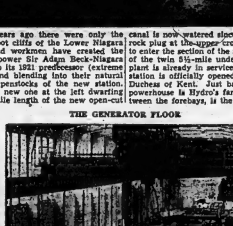
Cost of present construction is $343,500,000, or more than Canada's share in the St. Lawrence seaway project. Is it worth it? Answer, Hydro points to the fact that demand has increased in Ontario by 96 per cent since 1945 and that power generated in steam plants cost approximately three times as much as Hydro power.

One of the most striking aspect of the entire project is the pride of men on the job in the work that has been done and their sense of achieving something worthwhile for the people of Ontario, who own the Hydro system.

NOT RESTING ON LAURELS.

They are not resting on their laurels, though. Already months already wrought men are talking animatedly about the challenges of the St. Lawrence project. They know they can link the St. Lawrence, too, because of the confidence and the experience they have gained at Niagara.

They were talking, too, of the remedial works to be carried out on the falls themselves whereby Ontario Hydro and U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will reshape the falls, enhancing their beauty, and by providing a more evenly distributed flow, slow natural erosion.



Niagara Falls is a spectacular natural wonder. Ontario Hydro at the Sir Adam Brock No. 2 plant, has enhanced the spectacle, put a beauty to work and undertaken to give the falls a face lifting.

In the process they have given the people of Ontario an achievement of which they may be proud, and an achievement in the standard of living that they would not now be without.

PRIDE OF ONTARIO HYDRO

Here, where three-and-a-half years ago there were only the bare and ancient rocks of the 300-foot cliffs of the Lower Niagara Gorge, Ontario Hydro engineers and workmen have created the modern display. Sir Adam Beck-Niagara Generating Station No. 2, adjacent to its 1921 predecessor (extreme right). On both sides of the cliffs are the penstocks of the new station. Above these are the two canals, the new one a bit left dwarfing the older channel. The entire 2½-mile length of the new open-cut canal is now watered since the blasting early in June of a massive rock plug at the upper cross-over of the two canals, enabling water to enter the section of the new canal leading back to the exit portals of the twin 5½-mile underground tunnels. The unit of the new plant is already in service, and four will be in operation when the station is officially opened August 30 by Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, the Duchess of Kent. Just back of the right-hand tip of the original powerhouse is Hydro's famous Floral Clock. On the "island", between the forebays, is the switchyard for the new station.

ROBERT H. SAUNDERS

Hydro Chairman Robert H. Saunders, C.B.E., Q.C., Saturday conducted Press and Radio representatives from Ontario Hydro's Toronto and East Central Regions on a tour of the Sir Adam Beck-Niagara Generating Station No. 2 project at Niagara Falls. Some 80 members of daily and weekly newspapers and radio stations participated in the tour.

Born in Toronto, Mr. Saunders has served his native city in many phases of business and public life. A member of the legal profession, he was appointed King's Counsel in 1944. He was a member of Toronto City Council for a number of years, and while serving his fourth term as Mayor he was appointed Chairman of Ontario Hydro, assuming office on March 1, 1948. Last year, he was named President of the Canadian National Exhibition, for a two-year term.

THE GENERATOR FLOOR

This busy construction scene in the powerhouse of Ontario Hydro's $343,742,000 Sir Adam Beck-Niagara Generating Station No. 2 shows the great progress made on the huge development since it was first started in December, 1950. Where three-and-a-half years ago there were only the bare and ancient 300-foot cliffs of the lower Niagara Gorge, there is now the magnificent structure of the new powerhouse with the penstocks in their concrete "envelopes" rising above it.

Facing south, this photograph shows the 100,000-horsepower generators in the assembly bay on the generator floor. One unit is already in operation, and its exciter may be seen in the right centre of the photograph, directly below the two 350-ton overhead cranes. Each 100,000 horsepower generator weighs over a million pounds. When completed for 16 units, the powerhouse, situated six miles downstream from the Falls, will be approximately 1,150 feet long, 83 feet wide, and 50 feet high.

E. G. GURNETT

Co-host with Hydro Chairman Saunders to the press and radio representatives' tour of the Niagara project Saturday is E. G. Gurnett, Manager, East Central Region.

Mr. Gurnett, born in Owen Sound, has been with the Commission since 1916 when he joined its accounting department following graduation with honors in electrical engineering from the University of Toronto. In 1920, he transferred to Hydro's Municipal Department, and in 1922 was named Regional Consumer Engineer for Hydro's Eastern Region. Two years later he was appointed Manager, East Central Region, succeeding the late Col. L. G. Dandeno. Mr. Gurnett is an active Ontarian and has done much work on behalf of the community's gifpgied children. He is a member of the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario.

4. Income tax will be deducted at source for all members unless a member claims that his total net taxable income is below the minimum taxable and requests that no deductions be made.

5. Present brigade and other formation headquarters will be replaced by a new type to be known as militia group headquarters.

6. A number of artillery units will be converted to armored units; "excess" anti-aircraft will be converted to other types of artillery or amalgamated with units of other types; coast defence units will become harbor defence units.

7. A new directorate combining militia and cadets will be set up at army headquarters.

8. Additional militia units will be provided for the militia "as funds permit."

FAVORS NEW GUN

During the long debate on the service appropriations, these were some of the points made:

1. Mr. Claxton said- Canada would be expected to supply a full division in Europe in event of war.

2. Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) said the Canadian army has too little armor.

3. Mr. Claxton indicated that he favors adoption of the Belgian .300- calibre Fabrique Nationale rifle as the army's standard infantry weapon. The standard rifle now is the .303 Lee-Enfield.

4. Douglas Harkness' (PC—Calgary North) contended that the army's equipment is inadequate and outdated.

KEY RAIL

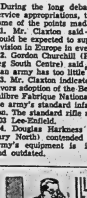
The source also said:

1. At least two Canadian pilots have fled their country in training planes since the invasion began Friday.

2. Two railroad bridges at Guasimal have been destroyed; sabotage along the line between Guaian and Puerto Barrios has increased; a train which left Guatemala City for the port of San Jose "simply disappeared."



3. The rebels have taken over the rail town of Morales, some 50 miles from Puerto Barrios.

4. A rebel plane machine-gunned and dropped grenades on San Jose. The rebels also announced that their planes had bombed Coban, a garrison town in central Guatemala, from a base inside the country.

The rebel radio broadcast a threat to bomb Guatemala City for the fourth time since the invasion began. The previous three bombings were by single planes and apparently did little damage.

Castillo Armas, who says the Arbenz government is Communist-dominated, has proclaimed his command the only legal government of Guatemala and called on his countrymen to disavow the Arbenz regime. He urged foreign countries not to recognize envoys of the Arbenz regime until said he plans to send his own representatives abroad as soon as details can be worked out.

In the international diplomatic arena, the Guatemalan government awaited reaction to the United Nations Security Council's call for a cease-fire. Pending the outcome of that, Arbenz' representatives asked the five-country inter-American peace commission in Washington to withhold action on his complaint of aggression.

SMITH—BURNS

The First Pentecostal Church, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, June 19th, at 2:00 p.m., for a pretty wedding, when Mary Thomas Burns, of Belleville daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Emmons, became the bride of Donald Lewis Smith, of Parham, R.R. 1, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Smith. The Rev. A. L. Ellis, pastor, officiated before a background of peonies, Sweet Williams, and streamers.

The bride was attractively attired in a gown of blue Chantilly lace over satin. She wore a pink hat with flowers, and corsage of roses and Sweet Williams.

Mrs. James McAllister, of Belleville, youngest sister of the bride, was her only attendant, gowned in pink nylon marquisette over taffeta. She wore yellow roses.

Mr. Roy Smith, of Parham, Ont., brother of the bridegroom, acted as groomsman.

The reception was held at the bride's home, where the bride's mother, wearing a navy blue crepe gown with white and Chantilly lace trim, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in grey silk. Both wore corsages of yellow roses.

For travelling to Niagara Falls and western points, the bride chose pink linen with gold and rhinestone trimming. Mr. and Mrs. Smith reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Joyceville, Ont., Sunbury, Parham and Peterborough, Ont.

LELLIOTT—GOODFELLOW

CAMPBELLFORD, — Codrington United Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday, when Ada Louise, daughter of the Hon. and Mrs. W. A. Goodfellow, of Codrington, became the bride of William T. Lelliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Lelliott. The Rev. William Fletcher, of Wooler, officiated.

The church was decorated with ferns and peonies and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Grace Hazelwood. During the signing of the register, Mrs. John Goodfellow sang, "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a cocktail length strapless gown of white nylon tulle over taffeta, with a lace bolero. Her veil of white tulle was caught to a pearl trimmed Juliet cap. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. R. Babcock, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, wore an ankle-length gown of teal blue with a hat of pink tulle and carried pink roses and sweetpeas.

Durianne Bird, niece of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a gown of pink nylon, with a nosegay of pink roses and sweetpeas.

Groomsman was Mr. John Lelliott, and the ushers were Mr. Phillip Goodfellow, brother of the bride, and Mr. Jack Simpson, of Niagara Falls, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Trent House in Campbellford, where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of grey orlon with a blue feather hat and a corsage of pink roses and stephanotis. The bridegroom's mother also received, wearing light blue with a white hat and a corsage of pink roses and stephanotis.

Out-of-town guests included some from Toronto, Niagara Falls, Peterborough and Bowmanville.

Following their honeymoon at Bala, Muskoka, the couple will take up residence in Toronto.

Mr., Mrs. W. H. Lee Celebrated 40 Years Of Married Life—

On Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lee, 240 William Street, held a quiet, informal "At Home" to their relatives and friends, on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary.

Forty years ago, on June 17th, Mr. and Mrs. Lee were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Post, of West Huntingdon, by the Rev. E. A. Tofflin, with Mr. Lee's mother, Mrs. Fanny Lee, and a few relatives present.

Since their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Lee have resided at their present address. Both are members of Bridge Street United Church. Mr. Lee is being an honorary elder. Both are deeply interested in the good of the church and in community life.

Due to Mr. Lee's ill health, the gathering was informal. They were happy to have Mrs. Lee's three sisters present, Mrs. Laurie Brough, (Tillie); Mrs. W. J. Tufts, (Lottie); Mrs. Sandy McCurdy, (Margaret). One brother, Mr. Elmer Post, was not able to be present. They have one son, Borden, who resides with them, and who assisted in celebrating this memorable event.

Others present included, the Rev. Duncan and Mrs. MacTavish; the Rev. Miriam Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sandercock, and various neighbors and relatives; also a few friends from the immediate vicinity, as well as relatives from Stirling, Madoc, Mount Pleasant, Carman, Manitoba, Foxboro, and Colborne, Ont.

Mrs. Harry Rollins, Mrs. Lottie Tufts and Mrs. Margaret McCurdy served refreshments, including a lovely anniversary cake made by Mrs. Lee's niece, Ruth Follwell, which was presented to them by Rodney and Marydell Follwell.

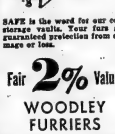
Mr. and Mrs. Lee were the recipients of a radio by the near

Girl, Age Nine, Gets Amateur Radio Licence

NORTH BAY (CP)—Believed the youngest radio operator in the country, nine-year-old Judy Kannegiser has received her government licence.

To get her licence, she had to master the theory of radio and electricity, draw a circuit for a three-tube radio and send at the rate of 13 words a minute.

Henceforth on the airways, she is VE3ERJ.



It took Judy just three months to master the theory and code.

Daughter of Gordon Kannegiesser, 34-year-old railway passenger conductor, the young girl became interested in radio in her father's basement radio "shack." After trying in vain to keep the youngster from toying with his equipment, the father decided to teach her to use it properly.

Her mother received her licence on the same day. Mrs. Kannegiesser said she has been preparing for her examination off-and-on for the last two years.

The father was a wireless operator in the RCAF during the war. He is VE3ACZ while his wife is VE3EDJUZ.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

THE FLORIST WAS IN THE RIGHT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently I telephoned our florist to send some flowers to the church where the funeral service was to be held, and I asked him to "send the flowers in our name." I had to telephone the order for the flowers, because my husband and I were on a holiday trip and could not attend the funeral. My cousin, in whose name I sent the flowers for her brother's funeral, showed my sister the card the florist enclosed with the flowers, and it was signed "Mr. and Mrs. James Smith." She was very sarcastic about this form. But we are wondering how else the florist should have signed the card enclosed with our flowers. — Dorothy S.

I judge that you did not inform the florist how you wished the enclosed card to read. Since you asked him to "send the flowers in our name," he was in the right in signing the card "Mr. and Mrs. James Smith." It is not necessary, but it is permissible, to write a message on a card enclosed with flowers sent to a funeral.

PROPER TO SEND MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Two months ago my fiance and I, in order to side-step an extremely difficult situation in his family not concerning his parents and an almost as difficult situation in my family (also not concerning my parents), eloped to a nearby city and were married. Neither his parents nor mine objected to our marriage—indeed they were all enthusiastic about it—and they all understand why we did, and why we did it. So "all is well," and we would very much like to have formal announcements of our marriage sent out (by my parents, of course). But would this be correct, this late? — Marie H.

Yes, it will be entirely proper for your parents to send out now the formal announcements of your marriage. It would be a proper, convenient and dignified way to inform relatives and friends, near-by and at a distance. (Be sure to include the date of the marriage), and the name of the city and state where it took place.)

RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I know that at our wedding reception I dance the first dance with my bridegroom. Then what is the sequence?—Bride-to-be

After that first. . .and most romantic! . .dance with your bridegroom, you dance next with your father. Then with your bridegroom's father. . .then with the best man. . .then with the ushers (first with the head usher, if a head usher has been appointed.) Then you can "play the field," probably dancing first with your relatives who claim priority and with other guests.

NEVER NECESSARY TO HAVE WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle an argument in our family, will you please answer this question: Is it absolutely necessary to have a wedding reception after the ceremony—even if the church is a large, formal wedding? — Christine W.

No. . . it is not necessary to have a reception after any type of wedding, formal or informal, large or small. It depends entirely on the wishes of the bride-to-be and her family. As a matter of fact, sometimes a bride chooses to have only the spiritual occasion of a church ceremony. . . .with no social occasion whatever.

WHEN BRIDE'S MOTHER GOES UP THE AISLE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A very dear friend of mine, a professional singer, is to sing a solo at my wedding. Should my mother go up the aisle with the head usher before the soloist has sung or afterward, that is, just before the processional is about to enter? — Jane A.

Your mother is escorted up the aisle immediately before the processional.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU MAY BE SORRY IF YOU BREAK WITH YOUR PARENTS OVER THIS

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 18 years old and in love with a man who is 37. My parents and relatives do not like him, and they have told me that if I marry him I am not to darken their doors again.

I don't know why they don't like him, because he is good to me. He doesn't drink or spend his money foolishly. He bought me a watch for my birthday, and my parents told me to give it back to him and stay away from him.

I work hard every day and pay my board every week and buy my brothers something every payday. I can't see why my parents I have every intention of marry this man, and their answer was, that if I do they will make my life miserable. What am I to do? — J.R.

Dear J.R.:

It is possible, of course, that you are unusually mature for 18 so that a man nine years older than yourself is a suitable companion for you; that he himself is a person of good character, and sincere in his friendship for you; and that your parents are unreasonable in their attitude.

At the same time, I feel that you would be well advised to proceed very cautiously in your relationship with him. Actually, most young men of 37 would not find their girl friends in their own age group, and it is not always a good sign when one of them picks out a teen-ager for special attentions. Moreover, if his chap knows that your family disapprove your going out with him, and if his intentions are entirely honorable, then it seems to me he would do something himself to try and make friends with your parents and let them see what he is really like.

Why don't you suggest that he do this? If he agrees, and makes a real effort to win them over, one thing may be all right. But if he refuses your suggestion, then I doubt if he is genuinely interested in you with any honest intention or hope of eventually marrying you, and you might be a very sorry girl if you defied your parents and broke with them over this issue.

The only safe thing is for you to do nothing impulsively, but wait for Time to show you the wise course to take. It will, if you're sensible enough to give it a chance.

BETTER WAIT FOR THE BOYS TO LOOK YOU UP

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My girl friend and I went to a dance one Saturday night where we met a couple of boys whom we liked very much since.

They didn't give us their addresses, and we didn't give them ours, but we could find out where they live from someone we know. If we did, would it be all right to write to them, or would they think we were chasing them? — F.M.

Dear F. M.:

Seems to me if these boys were anxious to follow up their acquaintance with you, they would have found some way to get in touch with you. After all, if you know someone who could give you their address, they must know the same person and could get yours the same way.

Better wait and see if they make any move from their side.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON

HAIRDOS GALORE: TAKE YOUR CHOICE

Once upon a time all coiffures were standardized. One feminine head looked exactly like next one and all the others. That was particularly true in the period of the over-stuffed pompadour that acted as an anchor for the Merry Widow hat which was about the size of an automobile tire. Becomingness mattered not. Style was the idea.

Nowadays hair stylists offer a wide selection of chic and charming arrangements. You can wear your locks high or low, long or short, curly or straight. If you are a cute little trick, the poodle cut is your dish. The woman who has reached the point when she can look baldly in the eye and tell lies about her age will be pleased to sport a dignified hairdo with a back swirl that gives her neat head lines.

Some movie stars have been wearing shoulder length cut for years and will probably keep right on wearing it as it imparts the little girl look more than any other arrangement.

The Italian cut was a flash in the pan and for good reason. It has to be cut cleverly. The uneven fringe over the forehead, suggestive of sick straws, belongs to the gamin type and every little shag must be carefully placed. Many women submit to the scissors at the beauty shop, found the mode maddening, and are now sweeping up the shorn tresses in a modified pompadour.

Among high school girls and college lassies the casual style is popular. There is just enough curl in the ends of the hair to make them stay put. Career girls choose arrangements that require only a few sweeps of the comb for grooming.

Over - elaborate designs are grand in pictures displayed in beauty shops, but don't fall for them! They require too much fussing and too many wave sets.

Emergency Snacks

By Mary Moore

It's a good thing to live with young people — especially their ever-anything-once type.

For instance would an old fogey like me even think of toasting a sandwich in the waffle iron? No sirree, not unless I was pestered to do it by Pete who seems to have learned more than just fraternity lore by living in a fraternity.

WAFFLE-TEED CHEESE SANDWICHES

You take fresh slices of 80 per cent whole grain bread. Cover one slice with a slab or process cheese, spread the other side with mayonnaise and put them together. Then butter the outsides not too generously, and put them in the waffle iron to bake until they are pale gold and crispy. He made them for lunch today and they were nifty. It seems the fellows eat them—two or three of them each—for a midnight snack in the fraternity kitchen.

MARY J.'S EMERGENCY SNACK

Dave's home for the summer too so Mary J. has to keep some supplies hidden. She had a cellophane package of hamburg buns in the refrigerator. When we dropped in late one evening—hungry as always—she quickly grated some old cheese and mixed and softened it with some cream, spread a little on the split buttered buns, sprinkled it with diced bacon and broiled them until cooked and toasted.

KOMPASS' SPECIAL

Once when Mrs. Kompass only had enough cold chicken to put in her eye she chopped it and added it to half a can of condensed mushroom soup and spread it on halves of those underbaked "most 'n serve" rolls and broiled them. A delicious tidbit.

MARIANNE'S ICED MOCHA

If it calls for chocolate it's Marianne's private property. In the winter she concentrates on cocoa, but when it is hot she gets more venturesome. Make 3 cups double strength coffee. Put it in top of double boiler with 2 squares of bitter chocolate and 1-4 cup sugar and, heat until chocolate melts. Rotary beater to blend. Chill. Add 3 cups whole milk, and whip in a little cream if you have any and if all the guests are bean-pole-shaped. Pour into tall glasses and garnish with whipped cream or plop big spoonful of vanilla ice cream in.

Since my young people always seem in need of energy they still like making candy. This is their current sweet:

PEANUT CANDY

Three cups white sugar, 1 cup each light corn syrup and milk and chopped walnuts, grated rind of 1 orange, 2 squares bitter chocolate, 2 tablespoons icing sugar. Mix together the sugar, syrup, milk and boil gently until it forms a soft ball when tried in cold water. (230 deg. F. on candy thermometer.) Remove from heat and cool to room temperature. Meanwhile melt the chocolate in top of double boiler. Remove from heat and add the icing sugar to it. When the first mixture is cool, add the grated rind and nuts and beat until it begins to stiffen, then pour onto buttered pan, and when nearly set, spread the chocolate over it. Mark into squares.

OLD PRACTICE

In former centuries tattooing was used as a means of identifying convicts and slaves.

RAILROADER

Ralph Chetwynd, British Columbia's jovial, hard-working minister of railways, sees a bright future for the provincially-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway. Here he examines a model of one of the modern diesel locomotives used in the operation of the 452-year-old line, traversing the hills and valleys of central B.C. Mr. Chetwynd is a former traffic trouble-shooter for the PGE and started with the railway in 1945. (CP Photo).

Expect Pacific Great Eastern Railway to Show Profit in '54

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP)—British Columbia's controversial foundling, the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, expects to make a historic purchase this year—black ink.

For 42 years the government-owned line, traversing hills and valleys of central B.C., has ended each year in the red.

"But 1954 will be different," says the province's deputy minister of railways, J. S. Broadbent. "All expectations are that the PGE will show a substantial profit this year."

Adding weight to the prediction is the steady decline in operating losses recorded in recent years.

NEW CAPITAL SET-UP

In 1239 the PGE operated at a loss of $820,000. The figure included straight operating costs, maintenance and provision for depreciation but excluded fixed charges on the $130,000,000 debt largely wiped out by the government this year under a capital-structure reorganization.

Two years later, when the 340-mile rail link between the southern terminal at Squamish, B.C., and Quesnel in the Cariboo country had been extended another 82 miles northward to link up with the CNR at Prince George, the loss was $346,333. Last year it dropped to $70,000 despite a prolonged woodworkers' strike that drastically reduced the volume of traffic over the line.

In the first two months of 1954 the volume of traffic over the PGE was reported up 25 per cent over the same period the year before.

Founded in 1912 as a private venture designed to tie in with the old Grand Trunk Pacific system running between Prince Rupert and Red Pass Junction, near Jasper, Alta., the PGE went into bankruptcy five years later. The provincial government took it over in 1917.

Often called the daddy of all white elephants, the PGE parodoxically runs through one of Canada's greatest concentrations of natural resources and an area of breath-taking scenery.

EXTENSION PROGRAM

The PGE this year launched a long-promised $60,000,000 extension program, a 40-mile, $12,000,000 northern extension will bring the line from Squamish to North Vancouver replacing the present slow and costly barge system used to transfer freight cars to the present railhead. The PGE will link up with the Northern Alberta Railway that runs between Dawson Creek and Edmonton and will give the Peace river area a shorter rail route to Pacific coast ports. Construction will start next year and is scheduled for completion in five years.

PAYING PROPOSITION

Ralph Chetwynd, who joined the PGE in 1943 as a traffic trouble shooter and now heads the entire organization as B.C.'s minister of railways, says the southern extension will be a paying proposition, largely due to a speed-up in traffic and reduced handling charges.

Neither the government nor the PGE expects the northern extension to show a profit in the first few years of operation.

Mr. Chetwynd says he is confident the northern extension will have a sufficient traffic volume to defray straight operating expenses from the start, but he believes it will be some time before it will show a profit except on a low—or non-interest basis.

PROVINCE TO BENEFIT

But he sees "over-riding benefits for the province as a whole. "The northern extension will speed up the colonization of the north country.

"It will have a tremendous impact on trade and industry in the whole country and especially in B.C. It will provide a long-needed link between northern and southern B.C. and give the products of the Peace river a shorter outlet to tidewater for foreign markets and to the rich west coast markets in both Canada and the United States."

The PGE will also open up vast forest areas north of Prince George and spur exploitation of reserves of mineral wealth.

The northern extension will run through Pine pass, location of one of the greatest stands of virgin spruce remaining in Canada, and through the centre of a huge deposit of high-grade coal.

Gold is found in most sections of the central and northern interior. A limestone deposit suitable for manufacturing cement is located near Dawson Creek and elsewhere silver, zinc, lead, asbestos, iron and platinum exist in commercial quantities.

RAILWAY LINE

Founded in 1912 as a private venture the Pacific Great Eastern Railway was bought by British Columbia in 1917 and has been provincially-operated since. This map shows the present route and the proposed $60,000,000 extension program launched this year. A 40-mile, $12,000,000 southern extension will bring the line from Squamish south to North Vancouver, replacing the present slow and costly barge system used to move freight cars to the present railhead.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And—most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only $1.19 a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember—if not entirely satisfied—your money will be refunded promptly. ®Trade Mark

"Isn't it going to be a beautiful dress? I've been daydreaming about my white wedding for years, but I hardly dared hope for this. You see, my father died when I was very small, and . . . well, there just wasn't any money to spare.

"But Mother managed to put me through school, and three years ago I got my first job. At first I just didn't know how I'd ever spend all that money. Yet at the end of three months I hadn't saved a penny.

"And then, Ted proposed. You can imagine how thrilled and happy I was. And I decided then and there to start saving for our wedding.

"So, on my uncle's advice, I opened a savings account at The Dominion Bank. Every pay day without fail, I deposited a few dollars. I was really surprised at just how quickly my savings mounted up. And now, thanks to that savings-account, I know that I'll be a bride that Ted will be proud of in the wedding dress of my dreams.

"The wedding's in two weeks. Uncle Alec says he's giving away the happiest bride in the world . . . and Ted says the loveliest, bless his heart. We're planning to open a joint account at The Dominion Bank . . . and start saving for a home of our own. Isn't life wonderful!"

Cigaret Smokers Die Sooner Than Other Men Aged 50 to 70

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Cigaret smokers die sooner than men aged 50 to 70 and they die mainly from heart attacks and cancer, an American Cancer Society study reported today.

It finds no effect from cigarets on cancers other than lung cancer. Numerically, the biggest effect could be in heart disease, since far more people die of coronary disease than die of lung cancer.

Just what the effect of cigarets is upon men under 50 or upon women can only be guessed at until more studies are made, the authors of the report said.

187,766 INTERVIEWED

The report is based upon interviews in 1952 with 187,766 healthy men aged 50 to 70 about their smoking habits, and a check-up upon causes of death of 4,854 of them who died within 20 months.

It shows the death rate—from all causes — among the cigaret smokers to be up to 75 per cent higher than among the men who never smoked.

For men who smoked a pack a day of cigarets or more, the death rate from heart disease and cancer is at certain ages double that of non-smokers.

Smoking only a pipe or only cigars doesn't seem to affect the death rates except possibly for cancer in general, but this possibility needs further study, the report said.

The findings were reported to the American Medical Association by Drs. E. Cuyler Hammond and Daniel Horn, director and assistant director of statistical research of the American Cancer Society.

None Wearing Iron Cross Says Claxton

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian army has enlisted "a very small number" of German immigrants, Defence Minister Claxton said Monday, but he knows of none who have the Iron Cross.

Mr. Claxton was replying to a Commons question by H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West).

Mr. Herridge asked whether any German immigrants, former members of the German army, have been enlisted; if so, whether any received the Iron Cross decoration from Hitler's hands for aggressive actions against British or Canadian troops, and if so, whether any have asked permission to wear the decoration on Canadian uniforms.

Mr. Claxton said he knows of none who have the Iron Cross for any reason, and could not imagine a soldier silly enough to ask permission to wear the decoration if he did own one.

Reserve Army Armories Given 'A Panning'

OTTAWA (CP)—Julian Ferguson (PC—Simcoe North) says reserve army armories "are glorified bar rooms for leading citizens to consume liquor in for hours at a stretch."

What's more, he said Monday in the Commons after an interruption by State Secretary Pickersgill:

"Yes, I have (personal experience) and enjoyed it."

Mr. Ferguson said armories were not built for the enjoyment of anyone, but to train troops.

He added:

"Why try to satisfy a handful of people in the militia in a small community by putting up a luxury building with beautiful furnishings, lovely drapes and a bar, and have the members of that particular section of the militia go out and solicit people to come in and have a drink of liquor in those places?"

Mr. Ferguson said this was competition against the civilian beer parlors.

"I have no objection to drinking liquor, not at all," he said. "I have drunk it on every occasion all my life, and I will continue to do so. . . ."

But that had nothing to do with preparedness. For example, in Barrie, the armories were not big enough for sea cadets or the air cadets in which to train "one-tenth as properly as they should train."

Controlling Insect Pests

A simple hand sprayer and suitable spray will control most of the insects that delight in spoiling garden shrubs and plants. Here are some of the common pests and the simplest spray for the amateur gardener.

Rose Curculio: The rose curculio is a snout beetle about ¼ of an inch in length, is bright red on top and black on the underside. It feeds on the buds and often cuts them off. Use of spray DDT, one teaspoonful 50 per cent wettable powder in one quart of water, applied as soon as the buds or beetles appear, and at ten day intervals if necessary.

Gladiolus Thrips: These are small active insects that suck the juice from the plant causing white spots on the leaves. If flowers develop they will be small. Use the same spray as for rose curculio, first applying it when the plants are ten inches high and every ten days thereafter. DDT powder should be mixed with the corms when they are stored in the fall to kill the over-wintering stages of the thrips.

Leaf Hopper on Virginia Creeper: The adult leaf hopper, a small active greenish colored insect with red markings, appears shortly after the leaves expand and feeds on the leaves by sucking the sap from them. A severe infestation will cause the leaves to drop off. The same DDT spray may be used for this insect, applied soon after the leaves expand and at ten day intervals if necessary.

Aphids: There are a number of different species of aphids most of which are familiar to the gardener. They can be controlled with a spray of nicotine sulphate, ¾ teaspoon 40 per cent nicotine sulphate in one quart of water in which ¼ ounce of soap has been dissolved. The spray should be thoroughly applied as only the aphids which are wetted will be killed.

Spider Mites: The spider mites are very small and greenish in color. They usually feed on the underside of the leaves sucking the sap from the plant. Severe infestation will cause a white flecking or yellowing of the leaves and possibly leaf drop. They can be controlled with spray of 1 teaspoonful 15 per cent Aramite wettable powder in one quart of water, or 1 teaspoonful 25 per cent Malathion wettable powder in one quart of water.

None other than those incense-burning, built-close-to-the rassling Napoleons from Ole Nippon, the Togo boys. Now that should be a dish for the faithful. Prayermats, and incense, methee a spot of hari-kari, fans and fandangos should make it right mighty interesting for the Giants. The squat Nipponese are names well-known in rasledom and they bring a touch of the mysterious when they come here before. TOUGH SKED.

The Batas will be week-ending in Toronto with as tough a schedule as any team has to face. Saturday they have a date with the Oaks in Oakville and on Sunday they face a doubleheader with the Shamrocks and Hoskings of the Queen City. Going to be a real grind as far as the pitchers are concerned since the western games seem to come in clusters. Jack Wilson Manager Jack Cronin will keep his fingers in Toronto over Saturday night since a double travelling shuffle would take plenty out of the diamond troops.

Tonight the Oshawa Transporters are here seeking revenge for the ninth innings victory the Batas snatched from them on their last appearance here. The American hurling star who pitched the Oshawans a five-hit 18-1 victory over the Petes on Sunday will hardly be visible this evening since it appears the Transporters are well upholstered in the pitching department. Wouldn't surprise us to see them toss the former Peter mound star "Lefty" Dodson against our side. And if the Batas win they will be tied for the top again.

QUESTION.

Is Satchel Paige's hesitation pitch legal or illegal?

That is a question everyone in baseball has been trying to answer for years. You will get a chance to decide for yourself on Tuesday, July 6, when the ancient and historic twitter comes here with the famous Harlem Globetrotters baseball team to play the House of David at Exhibition Park.

Satchel's hesitation pitch is one of the most controversial, as well as effective, pitches in all baseball. Big leaguers are evenly divided on the issue. Some players claim it is illegal, others say it is legitimate. What does the owner of this fascinating pitch say?

"They never did say it was illegal, exactly," Satchel said the other day. "I don't believe they have ever been able to make a ruling on it."

"The trouble about it came when I first got into the big leagues and I had those sluggers striking at the ball before I pitched it. I'd wind up—hesitate and they'd strike."

"The hitters would start swinging when I'd hesitate, the but was all the way 'round before I ever let the ball go. That's when they'd get mad and start hollering like the dickens!"

The hesitation pitch was particularly effective against the mighty New York Yankees. The Bronx Bombers could never figure out how to hit it. Casey Stengel, their shrewd manager, said recently:

"That is the toughest pitch in baseball to hit. I don't know whether it is legal or illegal. All I know is that Satchel does it so cleverly that you can't make a ruling on it. When he was with Cleveland, I used to tell my boys this: 'Get out there and get a lot of runs fast as soon as you can. I want you to get a big lead because if it's close in the late innings, they are going to send that old man in to pitch and you won't get anything much off him — except that blankety-blank hesitation pitch.' So we'd go out and get the runs we needed before Satchel came in."

Satchel, lean and skinny as ever, will give you a demonstration of what Stengel was talking about when he comes here with the Globetrotters.

'I Never Would Have Made It Without Chataway Behind'; Won't Do Better---This Year

By STIG HAEGGBLOM

TURKU, Finland (AP) — John Landy, second man in history to crash the four-minute-mile barrier, rested today after his record-shattering 3:58 performance and announced that he probably won't do better—at least this year.

"I have kept my present top shape for more than nine months," said the 24-year-old Australian. "Now I believe some sort of rest action will set in. I think I have done what I can for this year."

But he left no doubt that he is looking forward to his duel in Vancouver with Roger Bannister of England, whose 3:59.4 performance of May 6 he surpassed in the blazing sun of Turku stadium Monday. They meet in the British Empire Games in the Canadian city next month.

"I'm almost too happy to be able to speak," added Landy. "If it hadn't been for Chataway chasing me around the track I never would have made it."

LOWERED SECOND MARK

Chataway, an Englishman, was the pacemaker who also pushed Bannister to his 3:59.4 effort.

In the process of breaking the mile record, Landy also lowered the world 1,500-metre mark to 3:41.8. Both records must be recognized by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, but there is no doubt that the recognition will be a mere formality.

In London, where he still is working for his medical degree, Bannister took the news of Landy's race with his usual calm.

"It is a wonderful achievement" he commented. "Landy has tried as hard as anyone to run the mile under four minutes and I am glad he has succeeded. This shows there is no finality in records. They can all be broken."

Furgol Victory in Golf Tournament Is Monument to Unbreakable Spirit

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Ed Furgol's surprising victory in the United States national open golf tournament last week-end is a monument to a fighting, unbreakable spirit which wouldn't accept defeat.

Few, if any, national championships have had to overcome the handicaps, hardships and vicissitudes which blocked this lean St. Louis golfer's road to final success.

"It seems I've always been trying to prove something to myself," Furgol said. "I knew I some day would—and I did."

As a boy of 12, he fell from parallel bars in a playground and smashed his left elbow, leaving a withered arm 10 inches shorter than the right.

ALMOST DIED

For years after that he was virtually one-armed. He couldn't button his shirts or tie his shoes. Once he nearly died from poisoning, which he attributed to anaesthetics given him to kill the intense pain of his injury.

Son of an immigrant Polish machinist, he was one of five children — two boys and two girls who had to help the family make ends meet. He helped his father handle the 1½-acre plot of ground for food. He saddled and worked as a metal polisher for additional funds.

He beat his physical handicap by strengthening his hands and his shoulders. He became a good golfer, but not a great one. For seven years as a touring pro he played in every major tournament —more than 200 of them—and never won a first prize.

But he never quit hoping—"I knew some day I'd win the open," he said.

Argos Sign American Star

TORONTO (CP)—Fullback Edward Fulmer (Armstrong, released by the United States army last year has been signed by Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football League, it was announced Monday night.

The 26-year-old, six-foot, 200-pound player was voted the outstanding backfielder in the 1951 Tangerine Bowl game while playing for Stetson.

TITLE BOUT PLANNED

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Doug Harper of Calgary will defend his Canadian light heavyweight title against Tony Armstrong of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., in a July 7 bout at Newcastle, N.B. The announcement was made by George K. Garnett, president of the Canadian Boxing and Wrestling Federation.

Joost, Zernial 'Kiss, Make Up'; Athletics Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—And so Eddie Joost and Gus Zernial were reconciled, and the Philadelphia Athletics lived happily ever after.

The time element in that statement is somewhat exaggerated, but the fact remains that since manager Joost reinstated Zernial in the A's line-up following their recent flare-up, the A's have won seven of nine games.

Moreover, Big Gus has been playing better than ever. He's hit safely five times in 19 trips to the plate, and was largely responsible for three of the Philadelphia wins. Joost hopes he does as well against the first-place Cleveland Indians to day.

Some second-guessers are saying the Joost-Zernial tiff was one of the best things that could have happened to the sliding, hapless club.

DUGOUT DISPUTE

Their row was a publicly-conducted affair 10 days ago. Gus and his manager were seen in the throes of an arm-waving hassle in front of the A's dugout in the early stages of a game with Detroit Tigers.

Zernial was more than a little out about what he termed privately, and the fact he was that night put into the sixth spot in the batting order instead of his customary clean-up position. The dispute ended with the two going to the showers.

The next day Joost, after a conference with Zernial in the office of general manager Earle Mack, announced Gus was fined the sum $250.

Two days later, a much-cooled-off Zernial stated publicly that he was ready to take orders. He said he was prepared to play when asked, sit on the bench if necessary and keep his mouth closed.

Winnie Reach Readying for Tough Catalina Island Channel Jaunt

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It is generally known that there are set regulations governing such arresting endeavors as weight lifting and marathon running, and even wrestling on television has a certain pattern of rules. But there is a shocking shortage of conformity still another appealing activity.

This is in channel swimming, and this laxity concerns Canada's leading swimmer of the day, Miss Winnie of St. Thomas, Ont.

Miss Roach is an authority because she has swum the English channel and is out here getting ready to do likewise to the Catalina island channel in July.

Miss Roach—in private life Mrs. Morris Leader—is peculiar in the channel - swimming sorority because she is a pretty blonde. The mother of three tots, she is streamlined more like a porpoise than a hotfoot.

The 26-year-old Winnie says there are such variations of race conduct as knee-to-knee competition and beach-to-beach. Also shore to-shore.

MAY BE EMBARRASSING

Knee-to-knee, it may be explained, means the swimmer starts out in water up to the knee and is considered finished when each the same depth is reached on the other side.

It is understood a contestant must not be standing on his head when he attains the knee-deep mark at the finish. The rule here is vague, however, if it exists at all.

Beach-to-beach means just that. This is important because if you aim for a beach and miss, due to tides or driftwood or something, it can be most embarrassing, especially to whoever is sponsoring the swim in the first place.

Miss Roach says it may take something like an international convention of channel swimmers to iron out the problems.

Winnie negotiated the English channel in a time 25 minutes in 1951, just two minutes slower than Florence Chadwick's time.

Florence holds the Catalina record at 15 hours 47 minutes, made in September, 1952. Winnie hopes to beat it, but she pointed out that July is a worse month than September for swimming channels—this one, anyhow.

And here again was the lack of rule uniformity.

Joe Louis became the second Negro in boxing history to win the world heavyweight title when he knocked out James J. Braddock in the eighth round at Chicago, 17 years ago today. The first was Jack Johnson, champion from 1910 to 1915. Louis had a 12-year-old reign until he abandoned the title in 1949 and then failed in a comeback attempt.

It is dangerous to push people off docks, "duck" other swimmers, or rock small boats. Many persons lose their lives every year as a result of such smart-alec, show-off tricks.

You might strike your head on a hidden rock or log. It is best to dive only at beaches or pools which provide ample deep water for diving. Before diving from a boat, be sure there is deep and free of obstructions.

NEVER DIVE INTO STRANGE WATER.

Lack of Pitching Depth Greases Skids for Slipping Yanks—Talbot

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—There is not likely to be any general regret from the rest of the American League at news that the Yankees are becoming seriously worried. A more popular reaction probably would be that it's about time. The five-time world champions are not universally loved.

A spy close to the scene reports that there are unmistakable traces of gloom among the Yanks as they head westward toward still another crucial series with the leading Cleveland Indians next week-end.

It seems we've dawned on the chance that the race is drawing toward the ball-park and that they are five games out of first place with no help in sight.

LACK MOUNDS DEPTH

It is not so much that the Yanks are failing to win their share. They have won 16 of 19 games since June 2. But during the same period, the Indians have set a 15-5 pace—aided a fair enough to their advantage — and Chicago White Sox have even edged ahead whenever of faltering.

Our personal prophet of doom for the Yankee places much significance in the fact that they no longer seem able to win double-headers. They have split nine of them in succession, and that, he says, is one of the accepted symptoms of lack of pitching depth. A club which never can get the right performances from its staff on the same afternoon is not a tearing tiger.

CHIEF NOT SHINING

Inspection of the record of Allie Reynolds, the veteran ace who must produce brilliantly if the Yanks are to pull out their sixth flag, does not hold forth any great promise. Though the super-chief holds a fine 8-1 victory record at this point, he is having his troubles.

He has finished only three of the 10 games he has started, and has needed help in relief each of his last five decisions.

But for the comforting presence of Johnny Sain in his bullpen, manager Casey Stengel plainly would be in poor shape. Sain has played fireman 22 times and has won or helped win 15 games.

As of Tuesday, Chicago's team batting average stood at .270, Cleveland's at .267 and the Yanks at .248. Cleveland had knocked in 262 runs, Chicago 231, the Yanks 221. If the champions are becoming worried, it is understandable.

Eddie Blake Pitches, Hits Leafs to Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eddie Blake, ace of the Toronto Maple Leafs' pitching staff, has shown he also can do his part when it comes to hitting.

The 29-year-old righthander who spent last season with the Cincinnati Redlegs and Indianapolis put on a sensational one-man show Monday night with a grand slam home run and two singles, driving in all the runs in the Leafs' 5-1 victory over Buffalo Bisons.

Blake, who had a combined 14-7 pitching record in the National League and American Association, hit his homer in the second inning and drove in Sam Jethroe with a single in the fourth. His single in the sixth gave him three hits in four attempts.

The Leafs increased their lead to 29½ games over Rochester Red Wings, whose game with Richmond was postponed because of rain.

Blake gave up eight hits, struck out one, walked two for his sixth victory of the season against three losses.

Montreal collected 14 hits and backed up lefty Tom Lasorda's six-hit pitching as the Royals whipped Syracuse Chiefs 11-1.

Wally Fiala, playing second base for the first time, paced the Montreal attack with three singles and a double in five trips to the plate.

Hal Bevan's single in the seventh scored Syracuse's only run as the last-place Ottawa Athletics slipped Havana Cuban Sugar Kings 4-3.

Pt. Anne Takes Over Second Spot; Trims Bluebirds

(By GARRY ALEXANDER)

The Point Anne Cementmen took over undisputed position of second place in the Belleville and District Softball League last night by whipping the Bluebird Juniors 9-3.

Bob Hunter and Junior Day hooked up in a neat pitching duel for the first four frames with the Pointers holding a 2-1 lead until the Bluebirds broke through started the homesters on their way to a 7-1 lead with a grasscutter by first base, Pat Gilmour sacrificed him across with the tying run when they bobbled the ball and Jack Green advanced both runners on a base knock off Russell's glove at third. Bert Wardhaugh and Ben Gilmour raced home on short passed balls by Jake Wade and Day was able to plate Green. Nick Sero followed with a four-bagger to centre and Day was right behind as Bruce McCurdy coming on to relire the side without further damage. Both teams scored a pair in the eighth.

Bob Hunter toiled on the hill all the way to gain the victory while allowing eight hits. He struck out a pair, walked three and hit one batter. A couple of double plays pulled him out of trouble in the first and again in the sixth session.

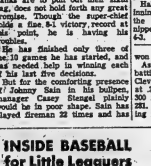
Day was the losing hurler in the 5-3 innings pitched, being touched for six hits resulting in seven tallies. McCurdy gave up two runs on two hits while between them fanning five and walking half a dozen.

A hit batter, base on balls, wild pitch and Bob Strahan's single to centre scored the first run in the initial frame while the O'Brien-Spafford screw out by Strahan and Pete Green's single, an error and a fielders choice. They got another pair in the eighth on Bob Green's triple and singles by Wayne Bovay and Day. Wade Jr. added the last two came on a sidling double by Bill Strahan, Hunter's three-bagger and a wild pitch.

Bob Hunter had a single to match the triple for the Point Ox-Pointers with more than one hit. Sero had a homer, Bill Strahan and Jake Wade doubles with singles for Jack Wardhaugh, John Green and Bob Strahan. Wardhaugh also drew two walks and was hit by a pitch as well as Hunter, Sero and Bob Green's triple with singles for Pete Green and Bovay rounded out the eight hits.

Bob Green made the outstanding defensive play of the game in the eighth when he made a running shoestring catch of Pat Gilmour's long blast to left-centre field, sprawling in the process but not coming up with the ball. The lineups:

Bluebirds: Barclay, Russell, St. Denis, B. Green, S. Green, Bovay, Day, Kellett, McCurdy, White.



Point Anne: Genereaux, Wardhaugh, Gilmour, J. Green, Bob Strahan, Wade, Sero, Bill Strahan, Hunter.

Line score:	R	H	E
Bluebirds ... 010 000 020—	3	8	1
Point Anne ... 200 050 02x—	9	8	4

Day, McCurdy (5) and P. Green. Hunter and J. Green.

Indians, Full of Confidence Await Series With Champions; Giants Lead Brooks by Game

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

While the New York Yankees stagger and flounder five games off the pace, the Cleveland Indians confidently awaited an invasion by the Philadelphia A's tonight. In fact, they weren't even thinking much of the A's. The week-end series with the Yanks occupied their thoughts.

Casey Stengel's New York Yanks also were thinking of the Cleveland series, but they were far from confident.

This is the year the Indians' Al Lopez has been waiting for. No one in Cleveland thinks the club will fold as it has an annoying habit of doing in the late stages. Silenced are the critics who have been hooting Mr. Lopez' scalp because he insisted on using Bob Lemon, Early Wynn and Mike Garcia both as starters and relievers. Lopez will have couple of good relievers to send in when the pitcher gets hot. Both Don Mossi and Ray Narleski have filled a big void in the bullpen.

As for the Yankees, Stengel is saying "all aces." Allie Reynolds, Whitey Ford and Ed Lopat for the Indians, but he doesn't even know who is going to take the hill today against the Detroit Tigers, or Saturday a club against whom the Yanks fatten their averages.

IMPORTANT TEST

If the Yanks can get past the Tigers, the coming series with the Indians will be their most important test since the start of the season.

In the National League, the New York Giants pulled a game ahead of the Brooklyn Dodgers in the 5-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. It was the only major league game scheduled Monday. Willie Mays hit two home runs but the Giants required the services of three pitchers — Jim Hearn, Windy McCall and Marv Grissom — to dump the Birds.

It is now apparent the Giants have been beating the top contenders, while the Dodgers have been whacking the second-raters. Leo Durocher's team eventually will wind up with the Brooks in the number of games to played against the second division clubs and should be able to lengthen the margin if they, too, can beat the weaker teams around.

Minor Baseball

Deacon Brothers pee wees won their third straight game at the Memorial Field by defeating the feating Goldies Shellers 7-2 in a five inning affair.

They scored once in the second to tie the game and then added three more in the third and another trio in the fifth to clinch the verdict in the fracas. Goldies scored one in each of the first and fourth.

Duff Follwell was the winning pitcher while Ken Hall and Ruthledge son in the initial frame. Latchford and Lewis worked for Lakefront hill for the Shellers with Latchford the loser.

J. Keller had a trio of hits for the winners with two each for E. Kering, Glover and Ruthledge. Irvin and Rushlow banged out a brace of hits to pace the Shellers.

Deacon's also won their game last Saturday over Point Anne, 14-12.

Red Sox Release Hurler

BRANTFORD (CP)—Lefthander Bob Conlon has been released by Brantford Red Sox of the senior Intercounty Baseball League, it was announced Monday.

A native of Wilkesburg, Conlon has been plagued by wildness this year.

The Sox also said that catcher Dick Anderson, released earlier this season, will rejoin the team. Anderson can also play the outfield and third and first base.

PARNELL OUT

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Red Sox announced Monday that lefty Mel Parnell, whose pitching arm was broken by a team-mate's pitch earlier in the season, has a sprained muscle in his left forearm and won't be able to throw for another week.

Landy's Mother 'Thrilled With Superb Run'

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Australian morning papers rewrade their front pages today to report in late editions John Landy's record-smashing 3:58 mile at Turku, Finland.

"Landy does it," said the Sun in its top story.

"Another miracle" said the Daily Mirror in letters 1½ inches high.

For more than a year Australians had been expecting Landy to break the four-minute barrier. They were surprised when Roger Bannister beat him to it, but remained confident that their boy also would turn in the miracle mile.

Landy's mother, Mrs. C. G. Landy, was awakened at 5:30 a.m. by Melbourne newspapers telling her of John's feat. She promptly cabled him: "Thrilled with superb run. Love, mother."

Marlene Readies To Defend British Crown

LONDON (CP) — Marlene Stewart, the Foothill golfing lass who specializes in championships, is back in Britain to defend her amateur crown but expects "it's different this time," she said Monday.

The bronze-haired 20 - year - old, dubbed "Little Miss Maple Leaf" last year by British sports writers on her first appearance here, arrived Sunday by air to defend her title. She talked today about how it feels to be defending champion.

"Confidence? I guess I have it. It just seems different this year." Her spiritual — in her Stewart plaid suit—was a front-page item in Monday's newspapers. She immediately joined up with her mother and younger sister Dolly who crossed earlier by ship.

The Stewart trio left Monday for Gaston, a few miles inland from the Yorkshire coastal town of Scarborough, where Marlene anticipates six rounds of stiff practice. She doesn't plan to concentrate on any one part of her game.

Durette Wins Over Kerwick

TORONTO (CP)—Gerry Durette, 20-year-old Toronto fighter punched his way to a unanimous five-round decision over Johnny Kerwick of St. Catharines in the main bout of the weekly amateur boxing show Monday night. Both boys are welterweights.

The bout was closer than the decision suggested. The loss for Kerwick, a native of Ireland, was his first in Canada. In his seven months in the country he had won six successive bouts.

Other results included:

145 pounds—Joe Hogan of Hamilton and Bobby Davis of Toronto fought to a draw. Referee halted fight at the start of the fifth round because of a cut over Davis' left eye.

126 pounds—Larry Young of St. Catharines awarded a unanimous three-round decision over Tony Formica of Toronto.

147 pounds—Frank Louch of Hamilton awarded a unanimous three-round decision over George Nickerson of Toronto.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

The baseball season is in full swing on all fronts. A thousand wordy battles have already fought with umpires on diamonds the width of the continent. For, as in all sports where the decisions are close and split seconds divide the loser from the winner, no two persons ever seen a close play alike.

Baseball hasn't made many changes of playing rules in half a century. But in one respect the game has, since 1912, undergone some notable improvements. That's in its umpiring.

Fancy, in these days of from two to four umpires per game, the job of the single umpire in 1912. The hardy official of that era began his arduous day's toil by buying a dozen baseballs and strikes. But when men were on base, he hurried out from behind the bat and took his stand behind the pitcher, calling the strikes and balls from distances of nearly 60 feet.

For, he also had to decide the plays at all bases. Not having eyes in the rear of his cranium, he had to turn when a fly ball was hit, so that he could watch the fielder, the ball, the men running around the bases, and then perhaps turn to call a slide ball or no slide.

He had to run out to the foul lines to watch whether a fly ball was fair or foul. And he had to make a long range judgment as to what happened to the batted ball when it was out of sight because of various ground rules.

In some games decisions were so many and so difficult that it was certain he could make only snap judgment decisions, then hope for the best. Nobody ever tried to be fair.

After it was all over, the umpire made his troubled way to the dressing-room. En route, the players abused him, the crowds hailed him and quite often attacked him. He didn't have anything like the supreme authority of today's umpires.

For all his troubles he received around $3,000, and expenses per year. Times have changed for umpires and umpiring, and all for the better.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Director of the Brooklyn Dodgers Baseball School

Hack Wilson was playing right field for the Dodgers some years ago against the Philadelphia Phillies at their old home field—the "bandbox" Baker Bowl. "Boom Boom" Beck was the pitcher on this occasion, and it wasn't one of his good days. Right or ten drives rebounded off the fence, and Wilson had fielded each one with his customary skill, whirled and thrown them to second base.

Finally, the Dodger manager, Casey Stengel, decided it was time for a change of pitchers. While the transfer was being made, Wilson turned himself around and chided and baited his head from the heat with his glove. Meanwhile, Beck turned in disgust and threw the ball hard against the right field wall upon being informed that his pitching duties were done for the day. When Wilson heard the ball hit the wall, his years of training made his reaction automatic and immediate. He retrieved the ball and made a perfect throw to second base, thinking that the game had been resumed.

While this was an amusing incident, it could be a lesson. Always be alert and always make the play go through. World Series games have been lost because players assumed that no more could be made when one was possible. The safe way is to make the play.

The bidding went like this:

South	North
Pass (1)	1 S (2)
2 C (3)	2 NT (4)
4 C (5)	4 NT (6)
5 H (7)	6 C (8)

This is what the bidding says:

1. (Pass) My hand does not contain the requirements for a true opening bid of one or more. Of course, I may have enough for a later bid.

2. (1 S) My hand has better than average in all essential items. Specifically I have at least five tricks, four high cards, two sure tricks, and a spade suit that is at least biddable.

3. (2 C) Count on me for more than two tricks inclusive of two high cards and a club suit that is at least biddable.

4. (2 NT) None of my other suits is biddable. My spade suit is not rebiddable. I lack adequate support for a club suit that you have bid only one. Your takeout to a new suit forces me to keep the bidding open.

5. (4 C) My rebid of the same suit tells you it is rebiddable. My jump indicates that I see tricks enough for a game in something.

6. (4 NT) I know now what will be trumps; I have discovered at least 12 tricks in our pair; my hand contains two aces and a king; tell-me how many aces and kings you have.

7. (5 H) In answer to your convention signal of four no-trump, I am giving you the signal that says I have one ace and one king.

8. (6 C) Let's try it in small slam in your suit.

West led heart queen and six clubs made. Bring it in.

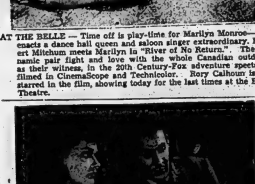
JANE RUSSELL IN 'FRENCH LINE' IS TRUE ESCAPIST ENTERTAINMENT

If it's true that today's entertainment seekers prefer "escapist" film fare above that of any other kind, then "The French Line" should keep the seats at the McCarthy Theatre constantly filled during the engagement of this lush Technicolor screen musical. For this is not only one of the season's gayest movies, but Jane Russell in Third-Dimension photography for the first time is guaranteed to give you thrills and those household bills, car payments, the high cost of living and any other major or minor worries.



In "The French Line," the ravishing Miss Russell takes off from where she wound up in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." If this new RKO Radio offering doesn't set her up as the queen of the song-and-dance films, it will do until something better comes along. She puts over three song numbers in great style and in "Lookin' For Trouble" presents the sort of spicy entertainment that fits in perfectly with the Gay Paree atmosphere of the story's climax.

As the richest gal in Texas en route to Paris to forget an unhappy love affair, Jane runs headon into a shipboard romance with Gilbert Roland, a dashing French musical comedy star. For Roland, this is his first screen role in years and he makes the debonair Frenchman a fascinating figure from every standpoint. Arthur Hunnicutt fills the humor quotient competently and his portrayal of Jane's oil-wealthy guardian, and Mary McCarty, nightclub singing comedienne, adds zest and sparkle in the role of Jane's fashion-designer friend with a French name and Texas background. Dave MacKenzie, Paula Corday, Scott Elliott, Craig Stevens and Laura Elliot are prominent in an excellent cast.

"The French Line" was produced by Edmund Grainger and directed by Lloyd Bacon. They deserve their share of orchids, too.

AT THE BELLE — Time off is play-time for Marilyn Monroe—who enacts a dance hall queen and saloon singer extraordinary, for Robert Mitchum meets Marilyn in "River of No Return." The dynamic pair fight and love with the whole Canadian outdoors as their witness, in the 20th Century-Fox adventure spectacle filmed in CinemaScope and Technicolor. Rory Calhoun is costarred in the film, showing today for the last times at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL — Gene Barry and Ann Robinson examine the grotesque head of a Martian invader in this spine-tingling scene from Paramount's new Technicolor thriller, "The War of the Worlds," Academy Award winner for special effects which is now having its first showing today at the Capitol Theatre. Produced by George Pal, this sensational film describes an invasion of Earth by murderous marauders from another planets. On the same program, William Holden, Academy Award winner Best Actor in "Stalag 17", the picture that won him the Oscar. See both on our giant panoramic screen.

Sacrifice Fly Proving Boon To Batters

NEW YORK (AP)—The sacrifice fly, revived after 14 years to help baseball's batting averages, is doing its job in a big way.

An Associated Press survey disclosed today that the restored rule generally has increased hitting percentages but not to the extent what they would have been without the regulation.

A total of 314 sacrifice flies have been hit in the majors, listing the all-star averages in both circuits from .257 to .260. The National League has accounted for 160 SFs and the American 154.

Three players—Gil Hodges of Brooklyn, Andy Pafko of Milwaukee and Mickey Vernon of Washington—have more than 10 because of the sacrifice fly.

LEADS LEAGUES

Hodges has hit the most sacrifice flies in the major leagues—eight—and is 11 points to the good with a current mark of .306. He would be batting .296 under last year's rules.

The revived regulation gives a sacrifice, instead of a time at bat, to a player who scores another with a fair fly ball. It was written into the rules last November after having been dropped prior to the 1940 season.

When the rule was revived, experts said long-ball hitters would benefit the most from it. Yet Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, Ralph Kiner of the Cubs and Ray Boone of the Tigers have still to hit their first.

Unbeaten Ryff Wins Easily Over Kelly

BROOKLYN (AP)—Frankie Ryff unbeaten New York prospect, easily outclassed Brian Kelly of Niagara Falls, Ont., in a 10-round televised bout at Eastern Parkway Arena Monday night. Kelly weighed 140¾, Ryff 139.

In scoring his 12th victory, the 22-year-old New Yorker scored cuts over both of his opponent's eyes and floored the Canadian in the eighth round with a right to the chin. Kelly was up at two and shook his head disgustedly while taking the mandatory eight-count.

The votes, all for Ryff, were: referee Mark Conn and judges Ameerico Chiavone, 9-1 each, and Judge Joe Eppy, 8-2. The AP card had Ryff the winner, 9-1.

A crowd of 1,500 paid $2,450 to see the local youngster give the 21-year-old invader a pasting.

RYFF ALSO CUT

Landing consistently with left hooks and left-right combinations to the jaw, Ryff opened a gash over Kelly's left eye in the second round and over the right in the fourth. Ryff was cut over the left eye in the seventh.

A 1-to-3 favorite, Ryff was every bit as good as the odds made him. He was in control all through the scrap, connected with more punches and appeared to have the better blows.

All three officials gave Kelly the fourth round. Eppy also gave him the seventh.

It was Kelly's 14th defeat against 38 victories.

Canadian Filly Wins Second Trotting Stake

VERNON, N.Y. (CP) — Magda Hanover, one of the leading two-year-old trotting fillies ever to come out of Canada, took her second straight stake event Monday night as she won the featured Hamilton event by 2:08 for over a half French of Vernon Downs.

Reined by veteran Delvin Miller, the filly owned by the Armstrong brothers of Brampton, had the race all her own and was never in serious trouble. Miller took the daughter of Hoot Mon away from the pack at the post p-1110 and grabbed the lead right away and stayed there to the wire distance to win by more than two lengths over Fred Egan's Miss Brewster with Jim Pickup of Lisbette third.

Last Tuesday night Magda Hanover set a record of 2:09 flat over the fast three-quarter-mile Vernon track.

The Armstrong brothers are the owners of Hollycrest, winner of last year's Hambletonian.

Anne Sharp Leads Pack In Ladies' Open

TORONTO (CP) — Defending champion Anne Sharp of Lookout Point Golf Club, Hamilton, loomed as a strong threat to repeat her 1953 performance as she shot a three-over-par 80 in the qualifying round of medal play in the Ontario ladies' open golf championship Monday.

Marion Walker of Toronto, Mississagua was only one stroke off Miss Sharp's pace with an 81.

Of the 154 entrants competing in the medal play Monday 110 are from Toronto and suburbs and 24 from out of town. They go into match play today.

Secret Probe Reveals Fraud In Basketball

NEW YORK (AP)—The president of City College of New York tonight verified a "substantially accurate" published reports that his secret two-year probe had revealed more than a dozen basketball players on coach Nat Holman's CCNY teams were admitted to the school by fraud.

"The story is substantially accurate in its facts," said Dr. Buell G. Gallagher in commenting on a New York World-Telegram and Sun story. "But most of the facts have been known for some time.

"All of the information given was released by the college itself on previous occasions, some of it as far back as three years ago."

The newspaper reported high school records were forged deliberately to allow unqualified athletes to enroll and one academic official received $1,000 a year to "meet the needs of boys with plenty of basketball talent but with a minimum of brains."

Select Canada's Cricket Team

TORONTO (CP)—Final selection of the team to represent Canada in the United Kingdom this summer was made Monday by the Canadian Cricket Association board of control. Fifteen players will make the trip.

The names of 12 players had been announced previously, but Leslie Wight, Trinidad, West Indies test player,was unable to accept and the team will be skippered by Ken Trestrail of Toronto. The fifteen were considered by the naming of two others, Harold Padmore, captain of the Verdun, Que., club, and E. H. M. Burn of St. Catharines.

Padmore, a fast bowler, played against the touring Maryiebone Cricket Club in 1951 and Burn, Ridley College master, is a former captain of Manitoba. He is a good opening batsman.

Terriers Sign Quebec Hurler

GALT (CP)—Righthander Marshall O'Cone of Montreal has arrived here to join the pitching staff of Galt Terriers of the senior intermediate baseball League.

He has played with Rochester in the Southern Minnesota League; St. Petersburg and Palm Beach of the Florida-International League and with Thibodeaux of the Evangeline League. With Thibodeaux in 1953 he won 20, lost 13 and struck out 250 batters.

He will replace pitcher Bill Hanrahan who left for Waycross, Ga., Sunday to serve a 90-day stint in the Georgia State League.

It was also announced that outfielder Eddie Burr, conditionally purchased when Hanrahan joined the Terriers, will rejoin the team this week.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 23, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Encouraging indications now. Artistic professions, domestic and personal affairs sponsored; also any trades; honest labor. A fine day for advancing, improving one's security.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Ideal planetary setup. You can gain in your occupation, perhaps in new ventures, in fields apart from your usual daily routine. Go forth to win but do not be reckless or overconfident.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You should be mentally keen, creative, ingenious (but don't forsake the everyday and productive routines just for the sake of change); aims to improve the quality of your effort; be sincere.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — You, too, have a bright outlook for today. Be your usual clever self and, if you will take care of essentials first, you will be happy at results. Avoid sudden, unprecedented changes, but be progressive.

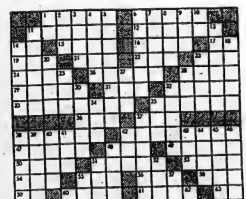
July 23 to August 22 (Leo) — Within, be ambitious, tackle even the most difficult propositions or customers. You can make high grades when you use your finest qualities and powers. Today is your day for achievement.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Complete unfinished matters; they start new undertakings or better already planned. This day was just made for your special talents and capabilities. Avoid worry.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Similar rays to Taurus. New opportunities, fresh leads to future gains. Don't be too arbitrary about methods, procedure; we are advancing in many ways, so keep abreast of situations if you would progress.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Difficult matters, problems and situations which are hard to solve can be handled cleverly now if you use your natural gifts thoroughfully. Have patience with those less clever than yourself.

November 22 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — New transactions, co-operating with new clients, customers, business associates can be advantageous to you—and to them. Keep turned to important details and present demands.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Industry, trades, skilled and unskilled labor have fresh advantages now. Domestic issues, government and civic affairs also highly sponsored. Don't turn down any promising proposition that time permits.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—While your planetary influences are not auspicious for making sudden changes or indulging in harmful restlessness, you have benefic influences for all honest efforts.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Your specific interests, activities for which you have talent and training highly sponsored now. However, don't be reckless or overdo. Good chances for gain. Go forward.

YOU BORN TODAY have a rather adventurous disposition and a bright mind, but are inclined occasionally to be egotistical, self-satisfied. Be sure you recognize your faults and set about correcting them before they harm you. Cultivate your inborn pleasant personality. You appreciate gentleness and humbleness; can really make a profitable go of any job you seriously undertake and wish to succeed in. Pray always for fortitude, patience, tolerance and God's guidance. Physical labor, mental work, religion, artistry are strong in your natal chart. Birthdate: Josephine, Fr. empress; Edward, Duke of Windsor.
